PREFACE

The extension of safety, health and welfare legislation into wide fields of non-industrial employment, as recommended in 1949 by the Gowers Committee (Cmd. 7664), made necessary either a very considerable increase in the size and scope of Redgrave's Factories Acts or the publication of a separate book. This book is the result of a decision to follow the latter course and in it we have included all the current statutes and regulations governing working conditions in employment outside factories, mines and quarries. We have, in general, adhered to the plan of Redgrave's Factories Acts, and the title of the present work acknowledges our debt to Alexander Redgrave, C.B., and the distinguished editors of the first nineteen editions of that work.

The principal Acts are the Offices, Shops and Railway Premises Act 1963, the Agriculture (Safety, Health and Welfare Provisions) Act 1956 and the Shops Acts 1950 and 1962, but also included are the Agriculture (Poisonous Substances) Act 1952 and the veteran Railway Employment (Prevention of Accidents) Act 1900.

In a General Introduction to the book the doctrines applicable to actions for breach of statutory duty and other matters of common interest are discussed, and the annotated text of each Act, or group of Acts, and its related subordinate legislation is preceded by a short Introduction.

The law, as we believe it to be, is stated as at 1st January 1965, but it has been possible to include two more recent statutory instruments in the Addenda at the end of the book. These are the Agriculture (Poisonous Substances) (Amendment) Regulations 1965 and the Information for Employees Regulations 1965 (made under the Offices, Shops and Railway Premises Act 1963).

Mr. G. W. Cheyne, of Gray's Inn and the Western Circuit, Barrister-at-Law, has been largely responsible for editing that part of the book which deals with the Shops Acts 1950 and 1962 and the regulations thereunder; we are most grateful to him for so lightening our task and to the publishers' staff for much valuable assistance.

GENERAL INTRODUCTION

This General Introduction deals with some of the general principles common to the interpretation and application of the safety, health and welfare legislation expounded in this volume. These general principles have been evolved, for the most part, in the context of the factory legislation, which is fully considered in Redgrave's Factories Acts. It is therefore logical to consider first the extent to which the factory legislation is authoritative in the interpretation of the safety legislation dealt with here.

Statutes in Pari Materia.—When there are different statutes in pari materia, though made at different times, or even expired and not referring to each other, they are to be taken and construed together as one system and as explanatory of each other (R. v. Loxdale (1758), 1 Burr. 445; Goldsmiths' Company v. Wyatt, [1907] 1 K. B. 95, C. A.). It is submitted that the Agriculture (Poisonous Substances) Act 1952, the Agriculture (Safety, Health and Welfare Provisions) Act 1956 and the Offices, Shops and Railway Premises Act 1963 are in pari materia with the Factories Act 1961 and its predecessors, since the desire to protect employed persons against the risks inherent in their work is the mainspring of each. In these circumstances, unless the context requires to the contrary, expressions in the Agriculture and Offices Acts which are clearly modelled upon corresponding expressions in the Factories Acts, and which have there received an authoritative judicial interpretation, ought, it is submitted, to be construed in the same way as in the factory legislation (Webb v. Outtrim, [1907] A. C. 81, 89, P. C.; Barras v. Aberdeen Steam Trawling and Fishing Co., Ltd., [1933] A. C. 402). For example, the provisions of the Offices, Shops and Railway Premises Act 1963 relating to the fencing of dangerous machinery (ibid., s. 17) are plainly framed by reference to the cognate provisions of ss. 14 to 16 of the Factories Act 1961. Many of the expressions to be found in ss. 14 to 16 of that Act have been the subject of authoritative interpretation, and Parliament must be assumed to have enacted the Offices Act with that interpretation in mind. However, when the earlier Act has been the subject of conflicting judicial decision, or of decision which is in fact shown to be erroneous, there is no rule of law to prevent a different construction being placed upon the later Act (Royal Crown Derby Porcelain Co., Ltd. v. Russell, [1949] 2 K. B. 417, C. A.).

Interpretation.—The Railway Employment (Prevention of Accidents) Act 1900, the Agriculture (Poisonous Substances) Act 1952, the Agriculture (Safety, Health and Welfare Provisions) Act 1956 and the Offices, Shops and Railway Premises Act 1963, and subordinate legislation, impose penalties for infringement of their provisions, and must, therefore, be strictly construed (Franklin v. Gramophone Co., Ltd., [1948] 1 K. B. 542, C. A., per SOMERVELL, L.J., at p. 557, a case under the Factories Act 1937; see, also, London and North Eastern Rail. Co. v. Berriman, [1946] A. C. 278, H. L., a case under the Prevention of Accidents Rules 1902). Since, however, such legislation is also a remedial measure passed for the protection of workmen, it must be read so as to effect its object so far as the wording fairly and reasonably permits (Harrison v. National Coal Board, [1951] 1 All E. R. 1102, H. L., per Lord PORTER, at p. 1107). See, further, Thurogood v. Van den Berghs and Jurgens, Ltd., [1951] 2 K. B. 537, at p. 548; McCarthy v. Coldair, [1951] 2 T. L. R. 1226, and Norris v. Syndic Manufacturing Co., [1952] 2 Q. B. 135, at p. 142.

Many of the regulations made under the statutes considered in this volume include a regulation which specifically defines terms used therein. Where, however, the regulations themselves do not so define a term, and that term is one which appears in a like context in the enabling Act itself, it should receive the same meaning in the regulations as it bears in the Act (Potts (or Riddell) v. Reid, [1943] A. C. 1; [1942] 2 All E. R. 161, H. L., and Blashill v. Chambers (1884), 14 Q. B. 479, per GROVE, J., at p. 485).

Civil liability for breach of statutory duty.—It is well settled that in certain circumstances a breach of statutory duty which results in injury to a person of a class which the statute was designed to protect gives rise to a cause of action on the part of that injured person. The requirements which have to be satisfied before such a cause of action arises are, first, that the statute, properly construed, was intended to grant a right of action to a class of persons of whom the plaintiff was one; secondly, that the statute has been broken; thirdly, that the plaintiff has suffered damage of a kind against which the statute was designed to give protection and, lastly, that the damage was caused by the breach. The general principles relating to this type of liability are discussed in 36 Halsbury's Laws (3rd Edn.) pp. 449 et seq., and an illuminating discussion of the decided cases is to be found in the judgments delivered in Solomons v. R. Gertzenstein, Ltd., [1954] 2 Q. B. 243; [1954] 2 All E. R. 625, C. A. The purpose of the present section of this Introduction is not to set out such general principles as may be said to exist in this branch of the law, but to discuss the narrower question, how far the legislation dealt with in this volume may be said to give rise to a cause of action in a person injured by a breach of its provisions.

In the case of the general safety provisions of that legislation, and cognate provisions of subordinate legislation, it is beyond doubt that a civil right of action is provided (see, for example, Groves v. Lord Wimborne, [1898] 2 Q. B. 402), and the courts clearly lean in favour of conferring on workmen a right to claim damages for breaches of statutory duty imposed on their employers or on the occupiers of premises in which they work (per SOMERVELL, L.J., in Solomons v. Gertzenstein, Ltd., supra, at p. 631). It is not so clear, however, to what extent provisions of that legislation other than safety provisions, such as "health" and "welfare" provisions, fall to be similarly interpreted.

The cases in which these matters have fallen for decision are cases upon the provisions of the Factories Act 1937; but they are valid for the provisions of the Factories Act 1961, a consolidating statute, which replace them. The remainder of this section of the General Introduction is devoted to an examination of the factory legislation which, in accordance with the principles discussed under the heading "Statutes in Pari Materia", supra, may be a guide to the construction of the cognate provisions of the statutes dealt with in this volume.

With regard to the health provisions of the Factories Acts, in Ebbs v. James Whitson & Co., Ltd., [1952] 2 Q. B. 877; [1952] 2 All E. R. 192, C. A., the plaintiff claimed under s. 4 (1) of the 1937 Act (now s. 4 (1) of the 1961 Act), which deals with the provision of ventilation (compare s. 7 of the Offices, Shops and Railway Premises Act 1963). DENNING, L.J. (at p. 195) expressly reserved the question whether the provisions of s. 4 and of the other sections of Part I of the Act gave rise to a civil action, and he pointed out that the enforcement of Part I was expressly provided for in ss. 8 and 9. It is, however, to be noted that McCarthy v. Daily Mirror Newspapers, Ltd., [1949] 1 All E. R. 801, in which the Court of Appeal accepted without discussion that an action lay for breach of s. 43 (1) of the 1937 Act (now s. 59 (1) of the 1961 Act), a welfare provision, was not cited to the Court in Ebbs v. James Whitson & Co., Ltd., supra. Despite the reservation of DENNING, L.J., in this case there have since been several decisions in favour of granting a right of action for breach of a health provision, although in one case alone (Carroll v. North British Locomotive Co., Ltd., 1957 S. L. T. (Sh. Ct.) 2) was the question expressly discussed. Thus, in Nicholson v. Atlas Steel Foundry and Engineering Co., Ltd., [1957] 1 All E. R. 776, H. L., an action was brought for, inter alia, breach of s. 4 (1) of the 1937 Act (now s. 4 (1) of the 1961 Act). The House of Lords held that the respondents were liable to the appellant for breach of this section, although no mention of the problem appears in the argument or the speeches. Nor, it appears, was the question raised in the courts below (see the judgment of the Lord Ordinary at 1957 S. C. (H. L.) 45 and of the First Division of the Court of Session at 1957 S. C. (H. L.) 59). Section 4 (1) was also the subject of Clarkson v. Modern Foundries, Ltd., [1958] 1 All E. R. 33, in which DONOVAN, J., appears to have awarded damages for a breach of the section. It seems from the report at [1957] 1 W. L. R. 1210, 1212 that Nicholson v. Atlas Steel Foundry and Engineering Co. was cited to the court; but this is the only indication that the point under discussion was made patent. In Murray v. Walnut Cabinet Works, Ltd. (1954), Times, October 19th, CASSELS, J., found for the plaintiff on the ground both, it seems, of breach of common law duty and of breach of s. 3 of the 1937 Act (now s. 3 of the 1961 Act), which deals with the securing of a reasonable temperature, but on appeal (105 L. J. 41) the Court of Appeal expressed no view on the point under discussion. Finally, in Carroll v. North British Locomotive Co., Ltd., supra, an action for breach (inter alia) of s. 1 (b) of the 1937 Act (now s. 1 (2) (b) of the 1961 Act) Sheriff-Substitute WALKER, after full consideration, doubted the correctness of the reservation of DENNING, L.J., in Ebbs v. James Whitson & Co., Ltd., supra, and held, on a preliminary plea-in-law, that s. 1 (b)

(which deals with the cleanliness of floors) gave rise to a claim in damages. The preponderance of authority is thus now strongly in favour of allowing a civil right of action for breach of a health provision of the Factories Acts.

In considering the welfare provisions of the Factories Acts it is not safe to assume that all the sections which fall under the rubric "Welfare (General Provisions)" (ss. 57 to 62 of the 1961 Act) should receive a similar interpretation so far as civil rights of action are concerned. Thus, in Reid v. Westfield Paper Co., Ltd., 1957 S. C. 218, the First Division of the Court of Session considered the effect of s. 42 (1) of the 1937 Act (now s. 58 (1) of the 1961 Act) and Lord President CLYDE said (p. 225):

"Some of the welfare provisions, such as s. 44, which deals with facilities for sitting, seem to have a purely welfare outlook; others, such as s. 45, which deals with first aid, seem to impinge substantially on matters of health or safety. In the present case I find it unnecessary to decide whether a purely welfare provision could, if breached, involve a claim for damages by a person injured by its breach. In my opinion, s. 42 (1), although primarily directed to protecting welfare, does also involve considerations of health and safety, which this Act is mainly devoted to protecting. If so, its breach could involve civil liability. . . ."

Lord SORN, at p. 228, referring to ss. 41 and 45 (now ss. 57 and 61 of the 1961 Act), said that they seemed to demonstrate that the heading "Welfare" was not used in an exclusive and restricted sense, and that it was capable of covering provisions in which the element of protection of health was present, whilst s. 42 disclosed a purpose beyond that of promoting welfare in the narrow sense. Accordingly, the court held that s. 42 (1) (now s. 58 (1) of the 1961 Act) gave a civil right of action. It is therefore incorrect to generalise upon the welfare provisions. The only other decisions upon them are McCarthy v. Daily Mirror Newspapers, Ltd., supra, in which the Court of Appeal accepted without discussion that an action lay for breach of s. 43 (1) of the 1937 Act (now s. 59 (1) of the 1961 Act) and Barr v. Cruickshank & Co., Ltd. 1958, 74 Sh. Ct. Rep. 218, in which Sheriff-Substitute MURRAY held expressly that a breach of s. 43 (1) of the 1937 Act gave rise to a cause of action. It is thus possible to say that of the welfare sections of the 1961 Act, which are for this purpose ss. 57 to 61

(s. 62 provides for the making of regulations), ss. 58 (1) and 59 (1) give rise to civil liability, whilst the interpretation of the remaining provisions is uncertain. When subordinate legislation contains like provisions these must in this respect, it is submitted, be interpreted in the same sense as those of the Act itself.

With regard to the protective legislation dealt with in this volume, it is submitted that the Agriculture (Poisonous Substances) Act 1952, and subordinate legislation, is wholly "safety" legislation, since its expressed purpose is to protect employees against risks of poisoning. The principle of Groves v. Lord Wimborne, supra, therefore applies. The Agriculture (Safety, Health and Welfare Provisions) Act 1956, and the Offices, Shops and Railway Premises Act 1963, and subordinate legislation, contain provisions, some of which are directed to considerations of safety, some to those of health, and some to those of welfare. In the case of these two statutes the character of each provision is not (as in the case of the Factories Act 1961) indicated by the division of the Act into parts headed "health", "safety" and "welfare", but a comparison with the cognate provisions of the Factories Act 1961 will assist in the formation of a judgment upon the character of any particular provision. The Railway Employment (Prevention of Accidents) Act 1900 and the Rules made thereunder are, it is submitted, "safety" legislation.

Causation.—It has already been said that in an action for breach of statutory duty the plaintiff must prove that the damage of which he complains was caused by the breach. This general proposition must yield to the words of the statutory provision if that provision in terms places the onus of disproving the causal connection upon the person on whom the duty lies. Apart, however, from cases where the onus is expressly so placed, the plaintiff must prove his case by the ordinary standard of proof in civil actions: he must make it appear at least that on a balance of probabilities the breach of duty caused or materially contributed to his injury (Bonnington Castings, Ltd. v. Wardlaw, [1956] A. C. 613; [1956] 1 All E. R. 615, H. L.). The application of this principle has given rise to difficulty in cases where the plaintiff's claim is based upon a failure to provide a protective device. In Cummings (or McWilliams) v. Sir William Arrol & Co., Ltd., [1962] 1 All E. R. 623, H. L., the widow of a steel erector who had been killed by a fall at a shipbuilding yard, sued, inter alia, the occupiers of the yard alleging a breach of s. 26 (2) of the Factories Act 1937, in that the occupiers had failed to provide the deceased with a safety belt. The occupiers admitted that no belt had been provided, but alleged that had a belt been provided the deceased would not have worn it, and, therefore, that the failure to provide the belt did not cause the death. This contention was upheld by the House of Lords. The Lord Chancellor, Lord KILMUIR, stated (at p. 627) that there were four steps of causation: (1) a duty to supply a safety belt; (2) a breach; (3) that if there had been a safety belt the deceased would have used it and (4) that if there had been a safety belt the deceased would not have been killed. If the irresistible inference was that the deceased would not have worn a safety belt had it been available, the first two steps in the chain of causation ceased to operate. This case was followed in Wigley v. British Vinegars, Ltd., [1962] 3 All E. R. 161, H. L. Similarly, in Corn v. Weir's Glass (Hanley), Ltd., [1960] 2 All E. R. 300, the Court of Appeal held that a plaintiff who, in suing for breach of reg. 27 (1) of the Building (Safety, Health and Welfare) Regulations 1948, alleged a failure to provide a hand-rail on a flight of stairs, failed if he could not prove that the presence of a hand-rail would in fact have protected him from injury. In this case DEVLIN, L.J. (at p. 306), considered the position which arose when there were two or more ways in which the occupier might comply with his statutory duty, one of which would, and the others of which would not, have protected the plaintiff. In those circumstances, he said, the occupier could not rely upon a method which he was unlikely to have used simply because it was within the letter of the regulation. On the other hand, if it could not be said that any one way was more likely to have been chosen than the others, then the plaintiff as a matter of probability failed.

The question of causation is not to be decided by any logical or scientific theory, but by applying common sense to the facts of the particular case (Stapley v. Gypsum Mines, Ltd., [1953] A. C. 663, H. L., per Lord REID, at p. 681), and the onus resting upon the plaintiff to prove the necessary causal connection is not discharged merely because there was a breach of duty and it is shown to be possible that his injury may have been caused by it (Bonnington Castings v. Wardlaw, supra, per Lord REID at p. 618). When, however, a breach of duty is proved, that may be said to constitute some prima facie evidence of causal connection between the breach and the subsequent damage (Cummings (or McWilliams) v. Sir William Arrol & Co., Ltd., supra, per Viscount SIMMONDS at p. 628).

Breach of Statutory Duty and Negligence.—Many of the statutory provisions with which this volume is concerned are absolute in character; that is to say, negligence is not a necessary ingredient of liability. In such circumstances a consideration is invited of the relationship between liability under such a provision and liability for negligence at common law. Thus, the imposition of a statutory duty does not of itself relieve an employer of his ordinary duty of care in relation to the same subject-matter (Franklin v. Gramophone Co., Ltd., [1948] 1 K. B. 542, C. A.); although, in very many cases, it would be difficult, if not impossible, to maintain that an employer who had complied with regulations had been negligent at common law (ibid., per SOMERVELL, L.J., at p. 360). On the other hand, in some cases the very existence of the statutory provision may be relied on by the plaintiff as showing that a reasonable man would have foreseen a particular risk, which the statutory provision is designed to eliminate, and may, therefore, be relied on to help establish a duty of care on the part of the employer (Franklin v. Gramophone Co., Ltd., supra, per SOMERVELL, L.J., at p. 360; National Coal Board v. England, [1954] A. C. 403; [1954] 1 All E. R. 546, H. L.). However, where the circumstances of the case, although they nearly approach those to which the statutory provision applies, are in fact outside them, the question of common law negligence must be considered without regard to the statutory provision (Chipchase v. British Titan Products Co., Ltd., [1956] 1 Q. B. 545; [1956] 1 All E. R. 613, C. A.). The courts must be vigilant to see that the common law duty owed by a master to his servants should not be gradually enlarged until it is barely distinguishable from his absolute statutory obligations (Latimer v. A.E.C., Ltd., [1953] A. C. 643, H. L., per Lord TUCKER at p. 658; Kimpton v. The Steel Company of Wales, Ltd., [1960] 2 All E. R. 274, C. A.).

Persons protected by Safety Legislation.—Subject to the construction of any particular section, the general provisions of the Factories Acts apply to protect all persons working in the factory, whether employed by the occupier or not (Summers (John) & Sons, Ltd. v. Frost, [1955] A. C. 740; [1955] 1 All E. R. 870, H. L.; Wigley v. British Vinegars, Ltd., [1964] A. C. 307; [1962] 3 All E. R. 161, H. L.), but in many instances special regulations under those Acts, either expressly or by implication, apply to protect only a more restricted class of persons. As a general rule, however, where special regulations are expressed to be for the safety of "persons employed" they apply to protect any person employed in the factory, whether employed by the occupier or not (Massey-Harris-Ferguson (Manufacturing) Ltd. v. Piper, [1956] 2 All E. R. 722); but a fireman called in to deal with a fire at the factory is not a "person employed" (Hartley v. Mayoh & Co., [1954] 1 Q. B. 383; [1954] 1 All E. R. 375, C. A.). In the case of the protective legislation dealt with in this volume, the persons protected are in many cases expressly specified. For example, the provisions of the Offices, Shops and Railway Premises Act 1963, which relate to the fencing of exposed parts of machinery, safeguard "every person working in those premises" (ibid., s. 17 (1)). Independent contractors and their servants thus fall within the protection of this section. Where, however, the persons protected are designated with less certainty (as, for example, by the phrase, "persons employed") decisions upon the Factories Acts will, it is submitted, afford guidance in construing the provision in question, in accordance with the principles discussed earlier, in the section, "Statutes in Pari Materia".

Delegation of Statutory Duty.—Where an employer delegates the performance of a duty laid upon him by protective legislation he remains civilly liable to a person injured by breach of that duty (Lochgelly Iron and Coal Co., Ltd. v. M'Mullan, [1934] A. C. 1), but where the person injured is himself the person to whom the duty was delegated he may, where there has been a definite delegation, be disentitled to recover (Smith v. A. Baveystock & Co. Ltd., [1945] 1 All E. R. 531; Vyner v. Waldenberg Brothers Ltd., [1946] K. B. 50; [1945] 2 All E. R. 547, C. A.). However, whether the breach by the injured person is of a duty delegated to him by his employer or of a duty imposed upon him by the Act or regulations "the important and fundamental question . . . is not whether there was a delegation, but simply the usual question: Whose fault was it?" (per PEARSON, J., in Ginty v. Belmont Building Supplies, Ltd., [1959] 1 All E. R. 414). If, however, the question is put in this way one must remember that fault is not necessarily equivalent in this context to blameworthiness. The question really is, whose conduct caused the accident (per Lord REID in Ross v. Associated Portland Cement Manufacturers, Ltd., [1964] 2 All E. R. 451, H. L., at p. 455). See also at p. 458, per Lord GUEST, at p. 460, per Lord UPJOHN and at p. 462, per Lord DONOVAN. This principle was approved and applied by the Court of Appeal in McMath v. Rimmer Brothers (Liverpool), Ltd., [1961] 3 All E. R. 1154, C. A., and it can now be stated that delegation will only afford a defence to an employer where the breach of the duty delegated is the sole cause, and not merely the immediate and direct cause, of the accident. If there is some additional and independent fault on the part of the employer, so that his breach of duty does not consist of, and is not co-extensive with, the plaintiff's breach of duty, there must be an apportionment of responsibility.

The Offices, Shops and Railway Premises Act 1963	5

INTRODUCTION TO THE OFFICES, SHOPS AND RAILWAY PREMISES ACT 1963

With the passing of this Act statutory control of the conditions of work, which began with the early nineteenth century regulation of the textile industry, receives a wide extension estimated to cover the employment of eight million people in the non-industrial field. It follows—after some fourteen years—the recommendations of the Gowers Committee (which reported in March 1949 (Cmd. 7664)) with regard to shops and offices, but the recommendations concerning the railway industry are given but limited effect and those concerning theatres still await legislation. The present Act supersedes the Offices Act 1960, introduced by Mr. Richard Marsh, M.P., as a Private Member's Bill, which enabled the Secretary of State to make regulations for securing the health, safety and welfare of persons employed in offices, but since no regulations were made under that Act its repeal has solely formal effect. The present Act follows the general pattern of the Factories Act 1961, in that it contains both a number of important substantive provisions and extensive powers to make regulations governing matters of detail, and the wording of the Factories Act has been deliberately adhered to where it is relevant to the scope of this Act—not, perhaps, with altogether satisfactory results. This Act, like the Factories Act, although enforceable by criminal process, will, no doubt, give rise to a civil action for breach of statutory duty where the breach is of a provision designed to promote safety (see Groves v. Wimborne (Lord), [1898] 2 Q.B. 402; Britannic Merthyr Coal Co., Ltd. v. David, [1910] A.C. 74 and Black v. Fife Coal Co., Ltd., [1912] A.C. 149), but as to whether a civil action will lie for breach of those provisions which appear to be designed to promote health or welfare, see the General Introduction, ante.

The Offices, Shops and Railway Premises Act 1963, at the date of going to press, has been almost wholly brought into force by commencement orders made under ibid., s. 91 (2), the effect of which is set out in the notes to each section. Subordinate legislation has already to some extent implemented the purpose of the Act, and such statutory instruments as have so far been made are set out in the following pages. Further subordinate legislation is yet to come.

An Act to make fresh provision for securing the health, safety and welfare of persons employed to work in office or shop premises and provision for securing the health, safety and welfare of persons employed to work in certain railway premises; to amend certain provisions of the Factories Act 1961; and for purposes connected with the matters aforesaid.

Scope of Act

1. Premises to which this Act applies.—(1) The premises to which this Act applies are office premises (a), shop premises (b) and railway premises (c), being (in each case) premises in the case of which persons (d) are employed (e) to work therein.

(2) In this Act—

- (a) “office premises” means a building (f) or part (f) of a building, being a building or part the sole or principal use of which is as an office or for office purposes (g);
- (b) “office purposes” includes the purposes of administration, clerical work, handling money and telephone and telegraph operating; and

- (c) “clerical work” includes writing, book-keeping, sorting papers, filing, typing, duplicating, machine calculating, drawing and the editorial preparation of matter for publication; and for the purposes of this Act premises occupied together with office premises for the purposes of the activities (h) there carried on shall be treated (i) as forming part of the office premises.

(3) In this Act—

(a) “shop premises” means—

(i) a shop (j);

(ii) a building (f) or part (f) of a building, being a building or part which is not a shop but of which the sole or principal use is the carrying on there of retail trade or business (k);

(iii) a building occupied by a wholesale dealer or merchant where goods are kept for sale wholesale or a part of a building so occupied where goods are so kept, but not including a warehouse (l) belonging to the owners, trustees or conservators of a dock, wharf or quay;

(iv) a building to which members of the public are invited to resort for the purpose of delivering there goods for repair or other treatment or of themselves there carrying out repairs to, or other treatment of, goods, or a part of a building to which members of the public are invited to resort for that purpose;

(v) any premises (in this Act referred to as “fuel storage premises”) occupied for the purpose of a trade or business which consists of, or includes, the sale of solid fuel, being premises used for the storage of such fuel intended to be sold in the course of that trade or business, but not including dock storage premises or colliery storage premises;

(k) “retail trade or business” (k) includes the sale to members of the public of food or drink for immediate consumption, retail sales by auction and the business of lending books or periodicals for the purpose of gain (m);

- (c) “solid fuel” means coal, coke and any solid fuel derived from coal or of which coal or coke is a constituent;
- (d) “dock storage premises” means fuel storage premises which constitute or are comprised in premises to which certain provisions of the Factories Act 1961 apply (n) by virtue of section 125 (1) (docks, etc.) of that Act; and
- (e) “colliery storage premises” means fuel storage premises which form part of premises which, for the purposes of the Mines and Quarries Act 1954 (o), form part of a mine or quarry, other than premises where persons are regularly employed (e) to work by a person other than the owner (as defined by that Act) of the mine or quarry; and for the purposes of this Act premises occupied together with a shop or with a building or part of a building falling within sub-paragraph (ii), (iii) or (iv) of paragraph (a) above for the purposes of the trade or business carried on in the shop or, as the case may be, the building or part of a building, shall be treated as forming part of the shop or, as the case may be, of the building or part of the building, and premises occupied together with fuel storage premises for the purposes of the activities there carried on (not being office premises) shall be treated as forming part of the fuel storage premises, but for the purposes of this Act office premises comprised in fuel storage premises shall be deemed not to form part of the last-mentioned premises.

(4) In this Act “railway premises” (p) means a building (f) occupied by railway undertakers (q) for the purposes of the railway undertaking carried on by them and situate in the immediate vicinity of the permanent way or a part (f) (so occupied) of a building so situate, but does not include—

- (a) office or shop premises (r);
- (b) premises used for the provision of living accommodation for persons employed (e) in the undertaking, or hotels;

or

(c) premises wherein are carried on such processes or operations as are mentioned in section 123 (1) (electrical stations) of the Factories Act 1961 (s) and for such supply as is therein mentioned.

(5) For the purposes of this Act premises maintained in conjunction with office, shop or railway premises for the purpose of the sale or supply for immediate consumption of food or drink wholly or mainly to persons employed (e) to work in the premises in conjunction with which they are maintained shall, if they neither form part of those premises nor are required by the foregoing provisions of this section to be treated as forming part of them, be treated for the purposes of this Act as premises of the class within which fall the premises in conjunction with which they are maintained.

General note. This section came into operation on 1st May 1964 (Offices, Shops and Railway Premises Act 1963 (Commencement No. 1) Order 1964 (S.I. 1964 No. 191)).

Sections 2 and 3 exclude from the application of the Act premises in which only employer's relatives or outworkers work, and premises where only 21 man-hours weekly are normally worked.

Special provisions apply with respect to buildings of which part only fall within the definition in s. 1 (see s. 42), with respect to buildings plurally owned (see s. 43) and with respect to contiguous fuel storage premises in single ownership (see s. 44).

With the exception of s. 25 (2) (which relates to the making of regulations with regard to first-aid requirements) nothing in the Act applies to factory premises within the Factories Act 1961 (see s. 85 (1)).

With the exception of s. 75 (3) (which places a limitation upon the application of the Factories Act 1961 to warehouses) nothing in the Act applies to certain premises used for the sale of fish by wholesale (see s. 85 (2)).

Nothing in the Act applies to underground parts of mines within the Mines and Quarries Act 1954 (see s. 85 (3)).

Special provisions apply to premises used for transitory purposes (see s. 86).

(a) Office premises. See sub-ss. (2) and (5).

(b) Shop premises. See sub-ss. (3) and (5).

(c) Railway premises. See sub-ss. (4) and (5).

(d) Persons. Since, by virtue of the Interpretation Act 1889, s. 1 (1) (b), the plural includes the singular, premises are not outside the Act merely because only one person is employed to work therein (see Griffith v. Ferrier, 1952 S.C. (J.) 56, so interpreting the similar words of what is now s. 175 of the Factories Act 1961).

(e) Employed. For definition, see s. 90 (1). For the exception of premises in which only employer's relatives or outworkers work, see

s. 2; for the exception of premises where only 21 man-hours weekly are worked, see s. 3.

(f) Building. By s. 90 (1) "building", except in s. 1 (4), includes structure; the term is not further defined. The meaning of the term as used in other legislation has been judicially considered; for example, in relation to public health legislation (see Halsbury's Laws of England, 3rd Edn., vol. 31, pp. 270, 271) and in relation to the factory legislation (see Redgrave's Factories Acts, 20th Edn., p. 482, note (c)). It is thought that the principal difficulty in the interpretation of the words "building or part of a building", in s. 1 (2) (a) of the present Act will arise when it becomes necessary to distinguish between a "building", on the one hand, and a "part of a building", on the other hand. It is submitted that a "building" must have its feet upon the ground, so that in the case of a multi-storey building each storey is a part of a building and not a separate building in itself. Where, however, what outwardly appears to be a single building is divided vertically by party walls, and the various divisions are occupied as separate units without inter-communication, it is thought that each such division will constitute a separate "building" for the purpose of the Act. The question is in any event one of fact and degree, to be decided upon an examination of the circumstances of each particular case.

(g) Office purposes. See sub-s. (2) (b).

(h) Activities. It is not enough that the ancillary premises are occupied for the purposes of the office premises if they are not occupied for the purposes of the activities there carried on.

(i) Treated as forming part of the office premises. This deeming provision only operates when the premises in question are neither a "building... the sole or principal use of which is as an office or for office purposes" nor a "part of a building the sole or principal use of which is as an office or for office purposes"; see s. 1 (2) (a).

(j) Shop. This term is not defined in the Act (compare s. 74 (1) of the Shops Act 1950, p. 276, post), which defines "shop" for the purposes of that Act as including "any premises where any retail trade or business is carried on"; by s. 74 (1) of that Act, "retail trade or business" includes "the business of a barber or hairdresser, the sale of refreshments or intoxicating liquors, the business of lending books or periodicals when carried on for purposes of gain, and retail sales by auction, but does not include the sale of programmes and catalogues and other similar sales at theatres and places of amusement"). The definition in the Shops Act 1950 cannot be applied in construing the word "shop" for the purposes of the present Act, and any attempt to make use of it for that purpose would be misleading. In view of the extended definition of "shop premises" contained in s. 1 (3) (a) of the present Act, the difficulties which have arisen in interpreting the statutory definition of "shop" contained in s. 74 (1) of the Shops Act 1950, seem unlikely to arise.

Since a "shop" is a species of the genus "shop premises" for the purpose of s. 1 (3) (a), it seems clear that nothing can be a "shop" unless it is also "premises". Thus, it would seem that a mobile shop is not a "shop" within the Act (compare the similar interpretation accorded to s. 74 (1) of the Shops Act 1950 in Stone v. Boreham, [1959] 1 Q.B. 1; [1958] 2 All E.R. 715, D.C., and see, also, Kahn v. Newberry, [1959] 2 Q.B. 1; [1959] 2 All E.R. 202, D.C.).

In deciding what is a “shop” for the purposes of the Act, it is submitted that once it is clear that there are “premises” the sole remaining question is whether what is being considered is a “shop” in the ordinary and natural sense of the word. “Where words are . . . perfectly familiar, all one can do is to say whether or not one regards them as apt to cover or describe the circumstances in question in any particular case” (per SOMERVELL, L.J., in Bath v. British Transport Commission, [1954] 2 All E.R. 542, at p. 543). It is probably true to say, however, that the carrying on of a retail trade is the hallmark of a “shop” (see per TINDAL, C.J., in R. v. Chapman and Alderman (1843), 7 J.P. 132).

(k) Retail trade or business. See, further, sub-para. (b), infra. “Carrying on” involves a degree of permanency (see Golder v. Thomas Johnston's (Bakers) Ltd., 1950 S.L.T. (Sh. Ct.) 50, decided upon the Tenancy of Shops (Scotland) Act 1949). The definition of “retail trade or business” in s. 1 (3) (b) is plainly not intended to be exhaustive (for a discussion of the meaning of the word “includes” in statutory definitions, see Dilworth v. Commissioner of Stamps, [1899] A.C. 99, P.C.). It is less comprehensive than the corresponding definition in s. 74 (1) of the Shops Act 1950 (see p. 276, post). A retailer is one who deals with customers, as opposed to a wholesaler, who deals only with persons who buy to sell again (per Bacon, V.C., in Treacher & Co., Ltd. v. Treacher, [1874] W.N. 4); and see, further, Staincross Revenue Officer v. Staincross Assessment Committee and Whitehead (1930), 143 L.T. 525 at p. 567 and Phillips v. Parnaby, [1934] 2 K.B. 299. The interpretation of the words, “retail trade or business”, in s. 74 (1) of the Shops Act 1950 has raised the problem whether they are apt to cover the provision of services as well as the supply of goods. In M. & F. Frawley, Ltd. v. Ve-Ri-Best Manufacturing Co. Ltd., [1953] 1 Q.B. 318; [1953] 1 All E.R. 50, C.A., SOMERVELL, L.J., took the view that the word “retail” primarily suggested the selling of goods rather than the selling of services, and whilst both he and JENKINS, L.J., thought that the terms of the definition suggested that a business might be a retail business although it was concerned with matters other than the sale of goods, they also took the view that to satisfy the definition where there was a sale of services the services rendered must be performed in circumstances comparable with those in which a sale of goods is carried on in a retail shop. The Court of Appeal therefore held that the business in issue, which was that of a builder and decorator, fell outside the definition. It will be noted that the expression, “retail trade or business”, in s. 74 (1) of the Shops Act 1950, is used in order to define the word “shop” therein, so that the interpretation of that expression is necessarily coloured by its being linked with the word “shop” (see M. & F. Frawley, Ltd. v. Ve-Ri-Best Manufacturing Co., Ltd., supra, at p. 323; p. 52). In s. 1 (3) (a) (ii) of the present Act the expression, “retail trade or business”, is expressly used in connection with buildings which are not shops, so that there is room for interpreting that expression in a wider sense than it is capable of bearing in the context of the Shops Act 1950.

(l) Warehouse. Such warehouses as are here excepted fall within the provisions of s. 125 of the Factories Act 1961 (see Redgrave's Factories Acts, 20th Edn., pp. 320 et seq.), provided that mechanical power is used in or for the purposes of the warehouse; and by s. 125 thereof certain provisions of the Factories Act 1961, are applied thereto. A transit shed may be a "warehouse" (Fisher v. Port of London Authority, [1962] 1 All E.R. 458).

(m) Gain. The ordinary meaning of "gain" is acquisition. "Gain is something obtained or acquired. It is not limited to pecuniary gain . . . and still less is it limited to commercial profits . . ." (per JESSEL, M.R., in Ex parte Hargrove & Co. (1875), 10 Ch. App. 542 at pp. 546, 547, n, construing the words "not involving the acquisition of gain by the company" in s. 31 of the Companies Act 1862); see, further, on the construction of the word "gain" in this context, Greenberg v. Cooperstein, [1926] Ch. 657. The construction of the phrase, "for purposes of gain", in what is now s. 175 (1) of the Factories Act 1961 was considered by the Court of Appeal in Hendon Corpn. v. Stanger, [1948] 1 All E.R. 377, to include indirect as well as direct gain; see Redgrave's Factories Acts, 20th Edn., p. 412, note (i).

(n) Premises to which . . . Factories Act 1961 apply. The premises referred to in s. 125 (1) are "... every dock, wharf or quay (including any warehouse belonging to the owners, trustees or conservators of the dock, wharf or quay, and any line or siding used in connection with and for the purposes of the dock, wharf or quay and not forming part of a railway or tramway) and every other warehouse (not forming part of a factory) in or for the purposes of which mechanical power is used. . ." For the provisions of this section and notes thereon see Redgrave's Factories Acts, 20th Edn., pp. 320 et seq. See, also, the amendment to s. 125 (1) of the Factories Act 1961, made by s. 75 of the present Act.

(o) Mines and Quarries Act 1954. See Halsbury's Laws of England, 3rd Edn., vol. 26, pp. 559, 560.

(p) Railway premises. It is to be noted that by virtue of s. 85 (1), post, the Act does not, in general, apply to factory premises for the purposes of the Factories Act 1961. By s. 175 (2) of that Act (see Redgrave's Factories Acts, 20th Edn., pp. 399, 400), the expression "factory" includes the following premises in which persons are employed in manual labour:

"(f) except as provided in subsection (10) of this section, any premises in which the construction, reconstruction or repair of locomotives, vehicles or other plant for use for transport purposes is carried on as ancillary to a transport undertaking or other industrial or commercial undertaking".

By s. 175 (10) of that Act:

"Premises used for the purpose of housing locomotives or vehicles where only cleaning, washing, running repairs or minor adjustments are carried out shall not be deemed to be a factory by reason only of paragraph (f) of subsection (2) of this section, unless they are premises used for the purposes of a railway undertaking where running repairs to locomotives are carried out".

The effect of s. 175 (2) (f), (10) of the Factories Act 1961 is that railway running sheds where running repairs to locomotives are carried out are subject to the provisions of that Act and (by virtue of the Railway Running Sheds Order 1961 (S.I. 1961 No. 1250) and the Railway Running Sheds (No. 1) Regulations 1961 (S.I. 1961 No. 1251)) many of the orders and regulations made under the Factories Acts are extended so as to apply to such running sheds. It follows that such running sheds are excepted from the definition of "railway premises" contained in the present Act.

(q) Railway undertakers. For definition, see s. 90 (1).

(r) Office or shop premises. See s. 1 (2), (3).

(s) Factories Act 1961. The processes, operations and supply mentioned in s. 123 (1) of that Act are "the processes or operations of generating, transforming or converting, or of switching, controlling or otherwise regulating, electrical energy for supply by way of trade, or for supply for the purposes of any transport undertaking or other industrial or commercial undertaking or of any public building or public institution, or for supply to streets or other public places. . . .". For the provisions of this section and notes thereon, see Redgrave's Factories Acts, 20th Edn., pp. 315 et seq. See, also, the amendment to s. 123 (1) of the Factories Act 1961, made by s. 74 of the present Act, p. 170, post.

2. Exception for premises in which only employer's relatives or outworkers work.—(1) This Act shall not apply to any premises to which it would, apart from this subsection, apply, if none of the persons employed (a) to work in the premises is other than the husband, wife, parent, grandparent, son, daughter, grandchild, brother or sister of the person by whom they are so employed (a).

(2) A dwelling shall not, for the purposes of this Act, be taken to constitute or comprise premises to which this Act applies by reason only that a person dwelling there who is employed (a) by a person who does not so dwell does there the work that he is employed (a) to do in compliance with a term of his contract of service that he shall do it there.

General note. This section came into operation on 1st May 1964 (Offices, Shops and Railway Premises Act 1963 (Commencement No. 1) Order 1964 (S.I. 1964 No. 191)).

(a) For definition, see s. 90 (1).

3. Exception for premises where only 21 man-hours weekly normally worked.—(1) This Act shall not apply to any premises to which it would, apart from this subsection, apply, if the period of time worked (a) there during each week (b) does not normally exceed twenty-one hours.

(2) For the purposes of this section the period of time worked (a) in any premises shall be deemed to be—

- (a) as regards a week (b) in which one person only is employed (c) to work (a) in the premises, the period of time worked (a) by him there;
- (b) as regards a week (b) in which two persons or more are so employed, the sum of the periods of time for which respectively those persons work (a) there.

(3) The Minister (d) may by regulations (e) direct that, in relation to premises generally, or any class of premises (f), subsection (1) of this section shall have effect with the substitution, for the reference to twenty-one hours, of a reference to such lesser number of hours as may be specified in the regulations.

General note. This section came into operation on 1st May 1964 (Offices, Shops and Railway Premises Act 1963 (Commencement No. 1) Order 1964 (S.I. 1964 No. 191)).

(a) Worked; work. As to when persons employed by railway undertakers shall be deemed to be employed to work in premises to which the Act applies, see s. 90 (3).

(b) Week. For definition, see s. 90 (1).

(c) Employed. For definition, see s. 90 (1) (4).

(d) The Minister. The Minister of Labour (s. 90 (1)).

(e) Regulations. As to the making of regulations, see s. 80. No regulations under this section have yet been made.

(f) Class of premises. See s. 90 (5).

Health, Safety and Welfare of Employees (General Provisions)

4. Cleanliness.—(1) All premises to which this Act applies (a), and all furniture, furnishings and fittings in such premises shall be kept in a clean state.

(2) No dirt or refuse shall be allowed to accumulate in any part of premises to which this Act applies (a) in which work, or through which pass, any of the persons employed (b) to work in the premises; and the floors of, and any steps comprised in, any such part as aforesaid shall be cleaned not less than once a week (c) by washing or, if it is effective and suitable, by sweeping or other method.

(3) The Minister (d) may by regulations (e) made as respects premises to which this Act applies (a), or any class of such premises (f), require that, in addition to the taking of the steps whose taking is requisite to secure compliance with the last foregoing subsection, there shall be taken, for the purpose of securing the cleanliness of premises to which the regulations (e) apply and of the furniture, furnishings and fittings therein, such steps as may be prescribed by the regulations (e).

(4) Neither subsection (2) of this section nor anything in regulations (e) under the last foregoing subsection shall be construed as being in derogation of the general obligation imposed by subsection (1) of this section.

(5) Nothing in this section or in regulations (e) thereunder shall apply to fuel storage premises (g) which are wholly in the open, and, in the case of such premises which are partly in the open, so much of them as is in the open shall, for the purposes of this section and of such regulations (e), be treated as not forming part of the premises.

General note. Except in relation to shop premises which are in a covered market place, as defined by s. 51 (2), this section came into operation on 1st August 1964 (Offices, Shops and Railway Premises Act 1963 (Commencement No. 1) Order 1964 (S.I. 1964 No. 191)). As to whether a breach of the provisions of this section (or of ss. 5 to 9, post) gives rise to civil liability see the General Introduction, ante.

Accumulations of dirt or refuse may also constitute a statutory nuisance; see the Public Health Act, 1936, s. 92 (1), and the Public Health (London) Act 1936, s. 82 (1). The latter Act is repealed as from 1st April 1965 and the Public Health Act 1936 will apply throughout the Greater London Area; see the London Government Act 1963, s. 93 (1), Sch. 18, Part II, and s. 40.

For special provisions as to the cleanliness of the common parts of buildings, part of which consists of premises within the Act, see s. 42 (1), (2), (5) and s. 43 (1), (2). See also s. 8 (3) (cleanliness of windows and skylights), s. 9 (2) (cleanliness of sanitary conveniences) and s. 10 (2) (cleanliness of washing places).

(a) Premises to which this Act applies. See ss. 1 to 3.

(b) Employed. For definition, see s. 90 (1) (4). As to persons employed by railway undertakers, see note (a) to s. 3.

(c) Week. For definition, see s. 90 (1).

(d) The Minister. The Minister of Labour (s. 90 (1)).

(e) Regulations. As to the making of regulations, see s. 80. No regulations under this section have yet been made.

(f) Class of premises. See s. 90 (5).

(g) Fuel storage premises. For definition, see s. 1 (3) (a) (v).

5. Overcrowding.—(1) No room comprised in, or constituting, premises to which this Act applies (a) shall, while work (b) is going on therein, be so overcrowded as to cause risk of injury to the health of persons working therein; and in determining, for the purposes of this subsection, whether any such room is so overcrowded as aforesaid, regard shall be had (amongst other things) not only to the number of persons who may be expected to be working in the room at any time but also to the space in the room occupied by furniture, furnishings, fittings, machinery, plant, equipment, appliances and other things (whether similar to any of those aforesaid or not).

(2) The number of persons habitually employed at a time to work in such a room as aforesaid shall not be such that the quotient derived by dividing by that number the number which expresses in square feet the area of the surface of the floor of the room is less than forty or the quotient derived by dividing by the first-mentioned number the number which expresses in cubic feet the capacity of the room is less than four hundred.

(3) Subsection (2) of this section—

- (a) shall not prejudice the general obligation imposed by subsection (1) thereof;
- (b) shall not apply to a room to which members of the public are invited to resort; and
- (c) shall not, in the case of a room comprised in, or constituting, premises of any class (being a room which at the passing of this Act (c) is comprised in, or constitutes, premises to which this Act applies (a)), have effect until the expiration of the period of three years (d) beginning with the day on which the said subsection (1) comes into force as respects premises of that class.

General note. Except in relation to shop premises which are in a covered market place, as defined by s. 51 (2), this section came into operation on 1st August 1964 (Offices, Shops and Railway Premises Act 1963 (Commencement No. 1) Order 1964 (S.I. 1964 No. 191)).

See the General Introduction, ante, with respect to civil liability.

Overcrowding may constitute a statutory nuisance—see the general note to s. 4.

The Minister has power to exempt premises or rooms of any class from the provisions of sub-s. (2) (s. 45 (1)), and the enforcing authority has power to exempt particular premises or rooms from those provisions (s. 46 (1)).

(a) Premises to which this Act applies. See ss. 1 to 3.

(b) Work. See note (a) to s. 3.

(c) Passing of this Act. I.e. 31st July 1963.

(d) Period of three years . . . In calculating the period of three years the day from which it runs (1st August 1964) must be included; see Hare v. Gocher, [1962] 2 Q.B. 641; [1962] 2 All E.R. 763.

6. Temperature.—(1) Effective provision shall be made for securing and maintaining a reasonable temperature in every room comprised in, or constituting, premises to which this Act applies (a), being a room in which persons are employed (b) to work (c) otherwise than for short periods, but no method shall be used which results in the escape into the air of any such room of any fume (d) of such a character and to such extent as to be likely to be injurious or offensive to persons working therein.

(2) Where a substantial proportion of the work (c) done in a room to which the foregoing subsection applies does not involve severe physical effort, a temperature of less than 16 degrees Centigrade (which is equivalent to 60.8 degrees Fahrenheit) shall not be deemed, after the first hour, to be a reasonable temperature while work (c) is going on.

(3) The foregoing subsections shall not apply—

(a) to a room which comprises, or is comprised in or constitutes, office premises (e), being a room to which members of the public are invited to resort, and in which the maintenance of a reasonable temperature is not reasonably practicable (f); or

(b) to a room which comprises, or is comprised in or constitutes, shop (g) or railway premises (h), being a room in which the maintenance of a reasonable temperature is not reasonably practicable (f) or would cause deterioration of goods;

but there shall be provided for persons who are employed (b) to work (c) in a room to which, but for the foregoing provisions of this subsection, subsection (1) of this section would apply, conveniently accessible and effective means of enabling them to warm themselves.

(4) In premises to which this Act applies (g) there shall, on each floor on which there is a room to which subsection (1) of this section applies, be provided in a conspicuous place and in such a position as to be easily seen by the persons employed (b) to work (c) in the premises on that floor a thermometer of a kind suitable for enabling the temperature in any such room on that floor to be readily determined; and a thermometer provided in pursuance of this subsection shall be kept available for use by those persons for that purpose.

(5) The Minister (i) may, by regulations (k) for premises to which this Act applies (a), or for any class of such premises (l), prescribe a standard of reasonable temperature (which may vary the standard prescribed by subsection (2) of this section and to which conformity shall be obligatory and a sufficient compliance with subsection (1) of this section so far as it relates to temperature) and prohibit the use of any methods of maintaining a reasonable temperature which, in his opinion (m), are likely to be injurious to the persons employed (b), and direct that thermometers shall be provided and maintained in specified places and positions in addition to any required by subsection (4) of this section to be provided.

(6) It shall be the duty of the employer of persons for whom means of enabling them to warm themselves are provided in pursuance of subsection (3) of this section to afford them reasonable opportunities for using those means, and if he fails so to do he shall be guilty of an offence (n).

(7) In this section "fume" includes gas or vapour.

General note. Except in relation to shop premises which are in a covered market place, as defined by s. 51 (2), this section came into operation on 1st August 1964 (Offices, Shops and Railway Premises Act 1963 (Commencement No. 1) Order 1964 (S.I. 1964 No. 191)), and replaces s. 38 (1) (b) of the Shops Act 1950, repealed by this Act (s. 91 and Sch. 2, post). With respect to civil liability, see the General Introduction, ante, and, in particular, Murray v. Walnut Cabinet Works, Ltd. (1954), 105 L. Jo. 41, in which CASSELS, J., held (it appears) that a breach of the corresponding provision of the Factories Act 1937 gave rise to civil liability. On appeal, the Court of Appeal expressed no view on the matter (see 105 L. Jo. 41).

The Minister has power to exempt premises or rooms of any class from the provisions of this section (s. 45 (1)), and the enforcing authority has power to exempt particular premises or rooms from those provisions (s. 46 (1)).

(a) Premises to which this Act applies. See ss. 1 to 3.

(b) Employed. For definition see s. 90 (1) (4).

(c) Work; working. See note (a) to s. 3.

(d) Fume. See sub-s. (7).

(e) Office premises. See s. 1 (2), (5).

(f) Reasonably practicable. In the present Act, as in the Factories Act, 1961 and other protective legislation, an obligation is frequently qualified by the phrase, "so far as reasonably practicable", or by the phrase, "so far as practicable". Each of these phrases affects in a different manner the obligation which it qualifies. "Reasonably practicable" is a narrower term than "physically possible", and implies that a computation must be made in which the quantum of risk is placed in one scale and the sacrifice involved in the measures necessary for averting the risk (whether in money, time or trouble) is placed in the other, and that, if it be shown that there is a gross disproportion between them—the risk being insignificant in relation to the sacrifice—the defendants discharge the onus on them. Moreover, this computation falls to be made by the owner at a point of time anterior to the accident (see per ASQUITH, L.J., in Edwards v. National Coal Board, [1949] 1 K.B. 704; [1949] 1 All E.R. 743, C.A., at p. 747, a case upon the interpretation of s. 102 (8) of the Coal Mines Act 1911). This construction of "reasonably practicable" was followed in McCarthy v. Coldair, Ltd., [1951] 2 T.L.R. 1226, C.A., and was approved in Marshall v. Gotham Co., Ltd., [1954] A.C. 360; [1954] 1 All E.R. 937, H.L., per Lord REID at p. 373; p. 942 and, semble, per Lord OAKSEY at p. 370; p. 939.

Where the statutory obligation is qualified solely by the word "practicable" a stricter standard is imposed. Measures may be "practicable" which are not "reasonably practicable" (per Lord REID in Marshall v. Gotham Co., Ltd., supra, at 373; p. 942), but, none the less, "practicable" means something more than physically possible. The measures must be possible in the light of current knowledge and invention (see per PARKER, J., in Adsett v. K. & L. Steelfounders and Engineers, Ltd., [1953] 1 All E.R. 97, n., approved by the Court of Appeal at [1953] 2 All E.R. 320). See also per PARKER, L.C.J., in Moorcroft v. Thomas Powles & Sons, Ltd., [1962] 3 All E.R. 741, D.C., at p. 746. In Jayne v. National Coal Board, [1963] 2 All E.R. 220 (decided upon s. 157 of the Mines & Quarries Act 1954) VEALE, J., held that "impracticability" was a conception different from that of impossibility: "the latter is absolute, the former introduces at all events some degree of reason and involves at all events some regard for practice".

It is not clear upon whom lies the onus of proving that compliance with the statutory obligation was not "reasonably practicable", or was not "practicable", as the case may be. In Marshall v. Gotham Co., Ltd., supra, (a case upon the interpretation of the Metalliferous Mines General Regulations 1938), Lord TUCKER (at p. 374; p. 943) and Lord KEITH (at p. 377; p. 945) thought that the onus lay upon the defendants; but it is to be noted that in that case the words "reasonably practicable" qualified the Metalliferous Mines General Regulations 1938, generally, by reason of their presence in the enabling statute. It may not, therefore, be legitimate to deduce from Marshall v. Gotham Co., Ltd., supra, that in a case where the qualifying words are embodied in the statutory provision itself the onus is similarly placed. In Callaghan v. Kidd & Son (Engineers), Ltd., [1944] K.B. 560; [1944] 1 All E.R. 525 (a Factories Act case), the Court of Appeal found it unnecessary to decide the point, but were disposed to the view (at p. 565; p. 527) that since the difficulty or ease of doing what is necessary to maintain safety is so much more within the knowledge of the management than of their workpeople it was for the defence to establish that the qualification applied. This dictum was followed by DENNING and HODSON, L.JJ., in McCarthy v. Coldair, Ltd., [1951] 2 T.L.R. 1226, but its reasoning was not approved by Lord TUCKER in Marshall v. Gotham Co., Ltd., supra, at p. 374; p. 943. In Walter Wilson & Son, Ltd. v. Summerfield, [1956] 3 All E.R. 550, D.C. (a criminal case decided upon reg. 9 of the Docks Regulations 1934), it was held that the onus lay upon the persons charged with the duty to prove that it was not reasonably practicable for them to provide a gangway, but HALLETT, J., while concurring in the decision, considered (at p. 554) that the dicta of the Court of Appeal in Callaghan's case, supra, were not to be applied generally, and preferred merely to construe the regulations before him. In Jayne v. National Coal Board, [1963] 2 All E.R. 220 (a case upon s. 157 of the Mines and Quarries Act 1954, which provides that it is a defence to prove that it is impracticable to avoid or prevent a contravention of safety provisions) VEALE, J., apparently treated it as established that it was for the defendants to negative reasonable practicability under s. 102 (8) of the Coal Mines Act 1911 and to negative practicability under its successor, s. 157 of the Mines and Quarries Act 1954. In Fairfield Shipbuilding and Engineering Co., Ltd. v. Hall, 1964 S.L.T. 97, Lord REID expressly reserved the question upon whom lay the burden of proving that it was or was not reasonably practicable to keep a floor free from any obstruction as provided by s. 28 (1) of the Factories Act 1961.

In these circumstances all that can safely be said is that while no general rule can be laid down, so that the statutory provision in question must receive its own interpretation, there is a tendency to interpret such provisions so as to throw upon the defendant the burden of bringing himself within the excepting words.

(h) Railway premises. See s. 1 (4), (5).

(i) The Minister. The Minister of Labour (s. 90 (1)).

(k) Regulations. As to the making of regulations, see s. 80. No regulations under this section have yet been made.

(l) Class of premises. See s. 90 (5).

(m) Opinion. The Minister, acting in good faith, is the sole judge of the matter in question; cf. Allcroft v. London (Lord Bishop), [1891] A.C. 666 and Re City of Plymouth (City Centre) Declaratory Order, 1946, Robinson v. Minister of Town and Country Planning; [1947] K.B. 702; [1947] 1 All E.R. 851; C.A. See, however, in particular, Ross-Clunis v. Papadopoulos, [1958] 2 All E.R. 23, P.C. and Customs and Excise Comrs. v. Cure and Deeley, Ltd., [1962] 1 Q.B. 340; [1961] 3 All E.R. 641; and note s. 80 (2).

(n) Offence. For offences, see ss. 63 et seq., 70, 86 (1); and note sub-s. (6) of this section.

7. Ventilation.—(1) Effective and suitable provision shall be made for securing and maintaining, by the circulation of adequate supplies of fresh or artificially purified air, the ventilation of every room comprised in, or constituting, premises to which this Act applies (a), being a room in which persons are employed (b) to work (c).

(2) The Minister (d) may by regulations (e) prescribe, for premises to which this Act applies (a) or for any class of such premises (f), a standard of adequate ventilation conformity to which shall be obligatory and a sufficient compliance with the foregoing subsection.

General note. Except in relation to shop premises which are in a covered market place, as defined by s. 51 (2), this section came into operation on 1st August 1964 (Offices, Shops and Railway Premises Act 1963 (Commencement No. 1) Order 1964 (S.I. 1964 No. 191)). It replaces s. 38 (1) (a) of the Shops Act 1950, repealed by this Act (s. 91 and Sch. 2).

With respect to civil liability, see the General Introduction, ante. It is established that the ventilation provisions of the Factories Act 1961 give rise to such liability (Nicholson v. Atlas Steel Foundry and Engineering Co., Ltd., [1957] 1 All E.R. 776).

Lack of ventilation may constitute a statutory nuisance; see the general note to s. 4.

See also s. 9 (2) (ventilation of sanitary conveniences).

(a) Premises to which this Act applies. See ss. 1 to 3.

(b) Employed. For definition, see s. 90 (1), (4).

(e) Regulations. As to the making of regulations, see s. 80. No regulations under this section have yet been made.

(f) Class of premises. See s. 90 (5).

8. Lighting.—(1) Effective provision shall be made for securing and maintaining, in every part of premises to which this Act applies (a) in which persons are working (b) or passing, sufficient and suitable lighting, whether natural or artificial.

(2) The Minister (c) may by regulations (d) made as respects premises to which this Act applies (a), or any class of such premises (e), prescribe a standard of lighting conformity to which shall be obligatory and a sufficient compliance with the foregoing subsection.

(3) All glazed windows and skylights used for the lighting of any part of premises to which this Act applies (a), in which work (b), or through which pass, any of the persons employed (f) to work (b) in the premises shall, so far as reasonably practicable (g), be kept clean on both the inner and outer surfaces and free from obstruction; but this subsection shall not affect the white-washing or shading of windows or skylights for the purpose of mitigating heat or glare.

(4) All apparatus installed at premises to which this Act applies (a) for producing artificial lighting thereat in parts in which the securing of lighting is required by this section to be provided for shall be properly maintained (h).

With respect to civil liability, see the General Introduction, ante.

See also, s. 9 (2) (lighting of sanitary conveniences) and s. 10 (2) (lighting of washing places).

(e) Class of premises. See s. 90 (5).

(f) Employed. For definition, see s. 90 (1), (4).

(g) Reasonably practicable. See note (f) to s. 6.

(h) Properly maintained. In s. 22 (1) of the Factories Act 1937 (now s. 22 (1) of the Factories Act 1961) this expression imposes an absolute obligation to "maintain in an efficient state, in efficient working order and in good repair"; see Galashiels Gas Co., Ltd. v. O'Donnell (or Millar), [1949] A.C. 275; [1949] 1 All E.R. 319, H.L. Although this decision is based upon the definition of "maintained" in s. 152 (1) of the Factories Act 1937 (now s. 176 (1) of the Factories Act 1961) and this Act contains no similar definition, it is submitted that the obligation properly to maintain is here also an absolute one and "describes a result to be achieved rather than the means of achieving it" (per Lord MACDERMOTT in Galashiels Gas Co., Ltd. v. O'Donnell (or Millar), supra, at pp. 287; p. 324).

9. Sanitary conveniences.—(1) There shall, in the case of premises to which this Act applies (a) be provided, at places conveniently accessible to the persons employed (b) to work (c) in the premises, suitable and sufficient sanitary conveniences for their use.

(2) Conveniences provided in pursuance of the foregoing subsection shall be kept clean and properly maintained (d) and effective provision shall be made for lighting and ventilating them.

(3) The Minister may make regulations determining for premises to which this Act applies (a), or for any class of such premises (e), what is suitable and sufficient provision for the purposes of subsection (1) of this section.

(4) Regulations (f) under this section may provide that, where persons of both sexes are employed (b) to work (c) in premises to which the regulations apply, provision shall be deemed not to be suitable for the purposes of subsection (1) of this section unless it affords proper separate accommodation for persons of each sex.

(5) Subsection (1) of this section shall be deemed to be complied with in relation to any premises as regards any period during which there are in operation arrangements for enabling the persons employed (b) to work (c) in the premises to have the use of sanitary conveniences provided for the use of others, being conveniences whose provision would have constituted compliance with that subsection had they been provided in pursuance thereof for the first-mentioned persons and with respect to which the requirements of subsection (2) of this section are satisfied.

(6) Neither sections 44 to 46 of the Public Health Act 1936 nor section 29 of the Public Health (Scotland) Act 1897 nor section 106 of the Public Health (London) Act 1936 (which relate to the provision and repair of sanitary conveniences for factories, &c.) shall apply to premises to which this Act applies.

General note. Except in relation to shop premises which are in a covered market place, as defined by s. 51 (2), this section came into operation on 1st August 1964 (Offices, Shops and Railway Premises Act 1963 (Commencement No. 1) Order 1964 (S.I. 1964 No. 191)). It replaces s. 38 (2) of the Shops Act 1950, repealed by this Act (s. 91 and Sch. 2).

The words in italics in sub. s. (6) are repealed as from 1st April 1965 by the London Government Act 1963, s. 93 (1), Sch. 18, Part II.

With respect to civil liability, see the General Introduction, ante.

The Minister has power to exempt premises of any class from the provisions of this section (s. 45 (1)), and the enforcing authority has power to exempt particular premises from those provisions (s. 46 (1)).

THE SANITARY CONVENIENCES REGULATIONS 1964

(S.I. 1964 No. 966)

Dated 25th June 1964.

The Minister of Labour by virtue of the powers conferred on him by sections 9 and 80 (3) of the Offices, Shops and Railway Premises Act 1963 (hereafter in these Regulations referred to as “the Act”) and of all other powers enabling him in that behalf, hereby makes the following Regulations:—

Citation, commencement and interpretation

1.—(1) These Regulations may be cited as the Sanitary Conveniences Regulations 1964 and shall come into operation on 1st January 1966.

(2) The Interpretation Act 1889 shall apply to the interpretation of these Regulations as it applies to the interpretation of an Act of Parliament.

(3) In these Regulations, unless the context otherwise requires, the following expressions have the meanings hereby assigned to them respectively, that is to say:—

“chemical closet” means a closet having a receptacle for the reception of faecal matter and its deodorisation by the use of suitable chemicals;

“drainage system” means a drainage system connected to a sewer, to a cesspool or to a settlement tank or other tank for the reception or disposal of foul matter;

“urinal” means a urinal which is connected to a drainage system and which has provision for flushing from a supply of clean water either by the operation of mechanism or by automatic action; and “watercloset” means a closet which has a separate fixed receptacle connected to a drainage system and separate provision for flushing from a supply of clean water either by the operation of mechanism or by automatic action.

Application of Regulations

2.—(1) Subject to paragraph (2) of this Regulation, these Regulations shall apply to all office premises, shop premises and railway premises to which the Act applies.

(2) Nothing in these Regulations shall apply to any premises to which the Act applies which are aggregated in a market, being either—

- (a) a market held by virtue of a grant from the Crown or of prescription or under statutory authority and which is maintained or regulated by a local or other authority;
- (b) any market (other than as aforesaid) held in a market place of which the sole or principal use is for and in connection with the sale of horticultural produce by wholesale; or
- (c) any market (other than a market specified in sub-paragraph (a) or (b) of this paragraph) which is a covered market place to which section 51 (power to adapt Act in relation to covered markets) of the Act relates.

Provision of sanitary conveniences.

3.—(1) Except as otherwise provided in these Regulations, in the case of premises to which these Regulations apply the provision of sanitary conveniences for the use of persons employed to work therein shall not be suitable and sufficient provision for the purposes of section 9 (1) of the Act—

(a) unless provision is made—

- (i) in the case of premises other than those to which sub-paragraph (ii) of this paragraph applies, in accordance with the appropriate provisions of Part I of the Schedule to these Regulations (which relates to the provision of waterclosets and urinals); or

Provision of washing facilities

3.—(1) Except as otherwise provided in these Regulations, in the case of premises to which these Regulations apply the provision of washing facilities for the use of persons employed to work therein shall not be suitable and sufficient provision for the purposes of section 10 (1) of the Act—

- (a) unless, in addition to the provision of the facilities specified in the said section 10 (1), provision is made—
 - (i) in the case of premises other than those to which sub-paragraph (ii) of this paragraph applies, in accordance with the appropriate provisions of Part I of the Schedule to these Regulations (which relates to the provision of wash-basins, troughs and washing fountains); or
 - (ii) in the case of premises to which Part II of the said Schedule applies, in accordance with the appropriate provisions of that Part of the said Schedule (which relates to the provision of fixed or portable wash-bowls); and
 - (b) unless the following provisions of these Regulations are observed.
- (2) The premises to which Part II of the said Schedule applies are—
- (a) premises of a class which by virtue of an order of the Minister of Labour pursuant to section 45 of the Act is for the time being exempted from so much of section 10 (1) of the Act as requires the water supplied to be running water; and then in either of such cases, in determining the number of wash-basins, wash-bowls or units of trough or washing fountain accommodation (as the case may be) required by these Regulations to be provided in the case of the said premises for the said employed persons, the total number of persons for whose regular use the said washing facilities are made available during the periods during which persons are employed to work in the said premises shall be treated as if that were the number of persons regularly employed to work in the said premises at any one time.

(2) Where in any of the following cases, that is to say—

- (a) in the case of a building to which section 42 of the Act applies containing two sets or more of premises to which the Act applies;

Washing facilities used by the public

5. Where in the case of any premises to which these Regulations apply in which the number of persons employed to work therein at any one time regularly exceeds ten, the washing facilities provided for the use of, or used by arrangements by, all or any of such persons are also ordinarily made available for general use by members of the public resorting to the premises, the total number of wash-basins, wash-bowls and units of trough and washing fountain accommodation (as the case may be) required by the other provisions of these Regulations to be provided, or to be provided separately according to their sex (as the case may be), for the use of those persons shall in every case be increased by one.

Protection of washing facilities

As to civil liability, see the General Introduction, ante.

(a) Premises to which this Act applies. See ss. 1 to 3.

(b) Employed. For definition, see s. 90 (1), (4).

(c) Work. See note (a) to s. 3.

(d) All practicable steps. For a discussion of the meaning of, and the distinction between, “reasonably practicable” and “practicable” see note (f) to s. 6, and, in particular, Adsett v. K. and L. Steelfounders and Engineers, Ltd., [1953] 1 All E.R. 97, n.

12. Accommodation for clothing.—(1) There shall, in the case of premises to which this Act applies (a),—

(a) be made, at suitable places, suitable and sufficient (b) provision for enabling such of the clothing of the persons employed (c) to work (d) in the premises as is not worn by them during working hours to be hung up or otherwise accommodated; and

(b) be made, for drying that clothing, such arrangements as are reasonably practicable (e) or, if a standard of arrangements for drying that clothing is prescribed (f), such arrangements as conform to that standard.

(2) Where persons are employed (c) to do such work (d) in premises to which this Act applies (a) as necessitates the wearing of special clothing, and they do not take that clothing home, there shall, in the case of those premises,—

(a) be made, at suitable places, suitable and sufficient provision for enabling that clothing to be hung up or otherwise accommodated; and

(b) be made, for drying that clothing, such arrangements as are reasonably practicable (e) or, if a standard of arrangements for drying that clothing is prescribed (f), such arrangements as conform to that standard.

(3) The Minister may make regulations (g)—

General note. Except in relation to shop premises which are in a covered market place, as defined by s. 51 (2), this section came into operation on 1st August 1964 (Offices, Shops and Railway Premises Act 1963 (Commencement No. 1) Order 1964 (S.I. 1964 No. 191)).

With respect to civil liability see the General Introduction, ante. In McCarthy v. Daily Mirror Newspapers, Ltd., [1949] 1 All E.R. 801, the Court of Appeal accepted without discussion that an action lay for a breach of the similar provisions of s. 43 (1) of the Factories Act 1937 (now s. 59 (1) of the Factories Act 1961), and it has been expressly so held in Scotland (Barr v. Cruickshank & Co., Ltd. (1958), 74 Sh. Ct. Rep. 218).

(a) Premises to which this Act applies. See ss. 1 to 3.

(b) Suitable and sufficient. Whether the provision is suitable and sufficient is, it is submitted, a question of fact in the circumstances of each case. In McCarthy v. Daily Mirror Newspapers, Ltd., supra, and Barr v. Cruickshank & Co., Ltd., supra, it was held that the obligation under the corresponding provision of the Factories Act 1937, to provide "adequate and suitable accommodation for clothing not worn during working hours" did not include a duty to keep the clothing safe, but that nevertheless the risk of theft was an element to be taken into consideration in deciding whether the accommodation was suitable.

(c) Employed. For definition, see s. 90 (1), (4).

(d) Work. See note (a) to s. 3.

(e) Reasonably practicable. See note (f) to s. 6, ante.

(f) Prescribed. See sub-s. (3) (b).

(g) Regulations. As to the making of regulations, see s. 80. No regulations under this section have yet been made.

(h) Class of premises. See s. 90 (5).

13. Sitting facilities.—(1) Where persons who are employed (a) to work (b) in office (c), shop (d) or railway premises (e) have, in the course of their work (b), reasonable opportunities for sitting without detriment to it, there shall be provided for their use, at suitable places conveniently accessible to them, suitable facilities for sitting sufficient to enable them to take advantage of those opportunities.

(2) Where persons are employed (a) to work (b) in a room which comprises, or is comprised in or constitutes, shop premises (d), being a room whereto customers are invited to resort, and have in the course of their work, reasonable opportunities for sitting without detriment to it, facilities provided for their use in pursuance of subsection (1) of this section shall be deemed not to be sufficient if the number of seats provided and the number of the persons employed are in less ratio than 1 to 3.

(3) It shall be the duty of the employer of persons for whose use facilities are provided in pursuance of the foregoing provisions of this section to permit them to use them whenever the use thereof does not interfere with their work, and if he fails so to do he shall be guilty of an offence (f).

General note. Except in relation to shop premises which are in a covered market place as defined by s. 51 (2), this section came into operation on 1st August 1964 (Offices, Shops and Railway Premises Act 1963 (Commencement No. 1) Order 1964 (S.I. 1964 No. 191)), and replaces s. 37 of the Shops Act 1950, repealed by this Act (s. 91 and Sch. 2).

Requirements as to the seating to be provided for sedentary work are contained in s. 14, infra.

As to civil liability, see the General Introduction, ante.

(f) Offence. For offences, see ss. 63 et seq., 70, 86 (1).

14. Seats for sedentary work.—(1) Without prejudice to the general obligation imposed by the last foregoing section, where any work done in any premises to which this Act applies (a) is of such a kind that it (or a substantial part of it) can, or must, be done sitting, there shall be provided for each person employed (b) to do it there (c) a seat of a design, construction and dimensions suitable for him and it, together with a foot-rest on which he can readily and comfortably support his feet if he cannot do so without one.

(2) A seat provided in pursuance of the foregoing subsection, and a foot-rest so provided that does not form part of a seat, must be adequately and properly supported while in use for the purpose for which it is provided.

(3) For the purpose of subsection (1) of this section, the dimensions of an adjustable seat shall be taken to be its dimensions as for the time being adjusted.

General note. Except in relation to shop premises which are in a covered market place, as defined by s. 51 (2), this section came into operation on 1st August 1964 (Offices, Shops and Railway Premises Act 1963 (Commencement No. 1) Order 1964 (S.I. 1964 No. 191)).

As to civil liability, see the General Introduction, ante.

- (a) Premises to which this Act applies. See ss. 1 to 3.
- (b) Employed. For definition, see s. 90 (1), (4).
- (c) To do it there. See note (a) "worked; work" to s. 3.

15. Eating facilities.—Where persons employed (a) to work (b) in shop premises (c) eat meals there, suitable and sufficient facilities for eating them shall be provided.

General note. Except in relation to shop premises which are in a covered market place, as defined by s. 51 (2), this section came into operation on 1st August 1964 (Offices, Shops and Railway Premises Act 1963 (Commencement No. 1) Order 1964 (S.I. 1964 No. 191)). It replaces s. 38 (5) of the Shops Act 1950, repealed by this Act (s. 91 and Sch. 2).

As to civil liability, see the General Introduction, ante.

- (a) Employed. For definition, see s. 90 (1), (4).
- (b) Work. See note (a) to s. 3.
- (c) Shop premises. See s. 1 (3), (5).

16. Floors, passages and stairs.—(1) All floors (a), stairs, steps, passages and gangways (b) comprised in premises to which this Act applies (c) shall be of sound construction and properly maintained (d) and shall, so far as is reasonably practicable (e), be kept free (f) from obstruction (g) and from any substance (h) likely to cause persons to slip (i).

(2) For every staircase (k) comprised in such premises as aforesaid, a substantial hand-rail (l) or hand-hold (m) shall be provided and maintained, which, if the staircase (k) has an open side, shall be on that side; and in the case of a staircase (k) having two open sides or of a staircase (k) which, owing to the nature of its construction or the condition of the surface of the steps or other special circumstances (n), is specially liable to cause accidents (n), such a hand-rail (l) or hand-hold (m) shall be provided and maintained on both sides.

(3) Any open side of a staircase (k) to which the last foregoing subsection applies, shall also be guarded by the provision and maintenance of efficient means of preventing any person from accidentally falling through the space between the hand-rail (l) or hand-hold (m) and the steps of the staircase (k).

(4) All openings (o) in floors (a) comprised in premises to which this Act applies (c) shall be securely fenced (p) except in so far as the nature of the work renders such fencing impracticable (e).

(5) The foregoing provisions of this section shall not apply to any such part of any fuel storage premises (q) as is in the open, but in relation to any such part the following provisions shall have effect, namely,—

- (a) the surface of the ground shall be kept in good repair;
- (b) all steps and platforms shall be of sound construction and properly maintained (d);
- (c) all openings in platforms shall be securely fenced (p), except in so far as the nature of the work renders such fencing impracticable (e).

As to civil liability, see the General Introduction, ante.

Sub-ss. (1) to (4) of this section substantially reproduce s. 28 (1) to (4) of the Factories Act 1961, the provisions of which were formerly contained in s. 25 of the Factories Act 1937 and s. 4 of the Factories Act 1959; see Redgrave's Factories Acts, 20th Edn., pp. 85 et seq. In the notes which follow, the cases cited are, unless otherwise stated, decisions upon the provisions of those Acts. As to the interpretation of statutes in pari materia see the General Introduction, ante.

(a) Floors, etc. These terms are not defined in the Act, and “where words are . . . perfectly familiar all one can do is to say whether or not one regards them as apt to cover or describe the circumstances in question in any particular case” (per SOMERVELL, L.J., in Bath v. British Transport Commission, [1954] 2 All E.R. 542, C.A.). Thus, “mother earth” has been held not to be a “floor”, “passage” or “gangway” (Newberry v. Joseph Westwood & Co., Ltd., [1960] 2 Lloyd's Rep. 37, and in Tate v. Swan Hunter & Wigham Richardson, Ltd., [1958] 1 All E.R. 150, C.A., Lord DENNING (at p. 152) said that the ordinary and natural meaning of a floor is something within walls, indoors, on which people walk or stand). In the latter case the Court of Appeal held that a staging of planks on a crane gantry, the purpose of which was to allow workmen to get from one part of the gantry to another, was not a “floor”. With this case may be compared Morris v. P.L.A. (1950), 84 Lloyd, L.R. 564 (floor of gantry held to be a floor), Taylor v. R. and H. Green and Silley Weir, Ltd. (1950), 84 Lloyd, L.R. 570 (affirmed by the C.A. (1951), 1 Lloyd, L.R. 345) (sill around inside of dry dock held to be a floor), Harrison v. Metropolitan Vickers Electrical Co., Ltd., [1954] 1 All E.R. 404 (sand bed of foundry held to be a floor) and Sullivan v. Hall Russell & Co., 1964, S.L.T. 192, Ct. of Session (unmade earthen surface of woodyard held not to be a floor). In Pengelly v. Bellpunch Co., Ltd., [1964] 2 All E.R. 945, C.A., DIPLOCK, L.J., held that, in relation to the obligation to keep floors free from obstruction, “floors” were limited to those parts of the factory floor on which workmen were intended or likely to pass and repass.

(b) Gangway. In Hosking v. De Havilland Aircraft Co., Ltd., [1949] 1 All E.R. 540, a plank laid across a duct was held to be a gangway.

(c) Premises to which this Act applies. See ss. 1 to 3.

(d) Of sound construction and properly maintained. It is submitted that these words should receive the same interpretation as in s. 28 (1) of the Factories Act 1961. There, it has been held that the duty flowing from the use of these words is absolute and applies primarily to the structural condition of floors, etc., but it may also apply to something put upon a floor, if it can be regarded as part of the floor although not incorporated in it (Latimer v. A.E.C., Ltd., [1953] A.C. 643; [1953] 2 All E.R. 449, H.L.). Where, therefore, a floor, etc., is in some transient and exceptional condition, or there is temporarily something upon it which gives rise to danger, there has been no breach of this obligation if the floor, etc., is otherwise sound. In determining whether a floor is “of sound construction and properly maintained” regard must be had to the purpose for which it is intended to be used (Mayne v. Johnstone and Cumbers, Ltd., [1947] 2 All E.R. 159). In each case the criterion is safety, which is a question of degree dependent upon the particular facts (Payne v. Weldless Steel Tube Co., Ltd., [1956] 1 Q.B.; 196; [1956] 3 All E.R. 612, C.A.). As to “properly maintained” in other contexts, see note (h) to s. 8.

(e) Reasonably practicable; impracticable. See note (f) to s. 6. In Braham v. J. Lyons & Co., Ltd., [1962] 3 All E.R. 281, C.A., Lord DENNING, M.R., said obiter (at p. 283) that the effect of the qualification “so far as is reasonably practicable” was that all reasonable measures must be taken to keep the floor free from slippery substances, and that the employer is liable for a failure both on the part of his servants and on the part of his independent contractors. DONOVAN, L.J. (at p. 284), thought that a momentary lapse on the part of a minor employee would enable the employer to be acquitted of an offence under s. 25 (1) of the Factories Act 1937, by virtue of the provisions of s. 137 of that Act, but he expressed no view upon the effect of such a lapse in the context of civil liability.

(f) Kept free. In Fairfield Shipbuilding and Engineering Co., Ltd. v. Hall, 1964 S.L.T. 97, the House of Lords held that the duty to keep a floor free from obstruction and from any substance likely to cause persons to slip requires the occupier, so far as reasonably practicable, both to prevent things from getting on to the floor and to remove things which have got on to it.

(g) Obstruction. In Drummond v. Harland Engineering Co., 1963 S.L.T. 115, the Outer House of the Court of Session held that a vertical angle iron projecting half an inch above the floor of a foundry and situated at the corner of a plate supporting a moulding machine was not an “obstruction” but was part of a machine which was a fixture on the premises. An obstruction must be something which has no business to be there and which is a source of risk to persons ordinarily using the floor; Pengelly v. Bell Punch Co., Ltd., [1964] 2 All E.R. 945, C.A.; Churchill v. Louis Marx & Co., Ltd. (1964), 108 Sol. Jo. 334, C.A.; Marshall v. Ericsson Telephones Ltd., [1964] 3 All E.R. 609, C.A.

(h) Substance. In Hall v. Fairfield Shipbuilding & Engineering Co., 1963 S.L.T. 37, affirmed by the House of Lords, 1964 S.L.T. 97, the Court of Session held that a short length of metal rod of unspecified dimensions which had fallen from a bench was a “substance” likely to cause persons to slip. They held, further, that the words "likely to cause persons to slip" qualify only the word "substance", and do not limit the area to be kept free. In Dorman Long (Steel) Ltd. v. Bell, [1964] 1 All E.R. 617, H.L., the plaintiff fell when walking on some metal plates which were themselves "obstructions" and he fell because of the slope of the plates and a slippery film on them. Lord REID (at p. 618) expressed the opinion that the obligation was to keep the floor free from slippery substances on which anyone on the floor was likely to slip and that it was immaterial whether or not the slippery substance was entirely in contact with the floor.

(i) Likely to cause persons to slip. It is submitted that in determining what is "likely" to cause persons to slip similar considerations apply as are applied to the question of whether a part of a machine is a "dangerous part" within the meaning of s. 17 (1), infra, for which see the General Note to s. 17 at pp. 46 et seq.

(k) Staircase. See the general remarks on interpretation in the note, "Floors . . . gangways", to sub-s. (1), ante. See, also Kimpton v. Steel Company of Wales, [1960] 2 All E.R. 274 (three steps from floor to part of a machine in factory held not to be a "staircase").

(l) Hand-rail. A hand-rail is a rail that can be gripped by the hand; it need not necessarily act as a physical barrier; it need only be such a rail as to enable any person, by gripping it, to steady himself against falling (Corn v. Weir's Glass (Hanley), Ltd., [1960] 2 All E.R. 300, C.A., so interpreting reg. 27 (1) of the Building (Safety, Health and Welfare Regulations) 1948 (S.I. 1948 No. 1145)). Note, however, sub-s. (3) of this section.

(m) Hand-hold. A hand-hold is something which a man can hold or grab from time to time as and when he wishes to do so; see Wigley v. British Vinegars, Ltd., [1961] 3 All E.R. 418, C.A., affirmed (without touching the point) [1962] 3 All E.R. 161, H.L.

(n) Special circumstances; specially liable to cause accidents. See the discussion of these words, in the context of s. 28 (2) of the Factories Act 1961, in Harris v. Rugby Portland Cement Co., Ltd., [1955] 2 All E.R. 500. See also Luttman v. Imperial Chemical Industries, Ltd., [1955] 3 All E.R. 481.

(o) Openings in floors. In certain circumstances an excavation may constitute an "opening" in a floor (Harrison v. Metropolitan-Vickers Electrical Co., Ltd., [1954] 1 All E.R. 404). Compare Tate v. Swan Hunter and Wigham Richardson, Ltd., [1958] 1 All E.R. 150, C.A. (Quaere, whether space at edge of floor could be an "opening") and Moorcroft v. Thomas Powles & Sons, Ltd., [1962] 3 All E.R. 741, D.C. (opening in roof).

(p) Securely fenced. It is submitted that "securely fenced" in this context has the same meaning as in the context of fencing dangerous parts of machinery, as to which see the General Note to s. 17, post.

(q) Fuel storage premises. See s. 1 (3) (a) (i), (5).

17. Fencing of exposed parts of machinery.—(1) Every dangerous part (a) of any machinery (a) used as, or forming, part of the equipment (a) of premises to which this Act applies (b) shall be securely fenced (a) unless it is in such a position or of such construction as to be as safe to every person working in the premises as it would be if securely fenced (a).

(2) In so far as the safety of a dangerous part of any machinery cannot, by reason of the nature of the operation effected by means of the machinery, be secured by means of a fixed guard, the requirements of the foregoing subsection shall be deemed to be complied with if a device (c) is provided that automatically prevents the operator from coming into contact with that part.

(3) In determining, for the purposes of subsection (1) of this section, whether a moving part of any machinery is in such a position or of such construction as is therein mentioned, no account shall be taken of any person carrying out while the part is in motion (d) an examination thereof or any lubrication or adjustment shown by the examination to be immediately necessary, if the examination, lubrication or adjustment can only be carried out while the part is in motion.

(4) Fencing provided in pursuance of the foregoing provisions of this section shall be of substantial construction, be properly maintained (e) and be kept in position while the parts required to be fenced are in motion or use (f), except when any such parts are necessarily exposed (g) for examination and for any lubrication or adjustment (h) shown by the examination to be immediately necessary.

(5) Subsection (3) of this section, and so much of subsection (4) thereof as relates to the exception from the requirement thereby imposed, shall only apply where the examination, lubrication or adjustment in question is carried out by such persons who have attained the age (i) of eighteen as may be specified in regulations (j) made by the Minister (k) and all other such conditions as may be so specified are complied with.

General note. Except in relation to shop premises which are in a covered market place, as defined by s. 51 (2), this section came into operation on 1st August 1964 (Offices, Shops and Railway Premises Act 1963 (Commencement No. 1) Order, 1964 (S.I. 1964 No. 191)).

This section may be compared with the provisions of ss. 14 to 16 of the Factories Act 1961, for which see Redgrave's Factories Acts, 20th Edn., pp. 46 et seq., and the "Introductory Note to Sections 12-16" at pp. 35 et seq. thereof. The wording of s. 17 of the present Act is plainly modelled upon that of ss. 14 to 16 of the Factories Act 1961, and where the phraseology is identical it should, it is submitted, bear the same interpretation as has been accorded to the cognate provisions of the Factories Act 1961. (As to the judicial interpretation of statutes in pari materia, see the General Introduction and 36 Halsbury's Laws (3rd Edn.) 403, 404). The language of ss. 14 to 16 of the Factories Act 1961 (and that of the corresponding provisions of the Factories Act 1937, which were replaced by those of the later Act) has been the subject of extensive judicial interpretation. In the notes which follow an attempt is made to provide a short exegesis of the case law relating to the factories legislation; in accordance with the principle cited earlier in this note, that case law is authoritative upon the interpretation of s. 17 of the present Act, save where the context may indicate that a departure from the meaning of the factories legislation is intended.

Machinery. The machinery dealt with by ss. 12 to 16 of the Factories Act 1961 is prime movers (s. 12), transmission machinery (s. 13) and any other machinery (s. 14), and includes machinery not driven by mechanical power (Richard Thomas & Baldwins, Ltd. v. Cummings, [1955] A.C. 321; [1955] 1 All E.R. 285, H.L.). The Offices, Shops and Railway Premises Act 1963 contains no provisions expressly regulating the fencing of prime movers and transmission machinery which fall, therefore, within the term "any machinery" in ibid., s. 17 (1). The wording of ibid., s. 17 makes it plain that the obligation imposed relates only to machinery "used as, or forming, part of the equipment of premises" to which the Act applies, thereby expressly introducing a qualification which, in the case of s. 14 of the Factories Act 1961, has been effected by judicial interpretation (see Parvin v. Morton Machine Co., Ltd., [1952] 1 All E.R. 670, H.L., Cherry v. International Alloys, Ltd., [1960] 3 All E.R. 264, Thurogood v. Van Den Berghs & Jurgens, Ltd., [1951] 2 K.B. 537, C.A., Quintas v. National Smelting Co., Ltd., [1961] 1 All E.R. 630, C.A., and Irwin v. White, Tomkins and Courage, Ltd., [1964] 1 All E.R. 545, H.L.). The mere fact that apparatus moves about in a factory does not, it seems, prevent it being "machinery", as where a coke-distributing machine travels on rails (see Dobson v. Colvilles, 1958 S.L.T. (Notes) 30), and compare Quintas v. National Smelting Co., Ltd., supra, per SELLERS, L.J., at p. 635).

The part required to be fenced. Sections 12 and 13 of the Factories Act 1961 specify those parts of prime movers and transmission machinery which must be fenced. Other machinery is dealt with in s. 14, which requires (subject to exceptions) the fencing of "every dangerous part of any machinery, other than prime movers and transmission machinery." The test of what is a "dangerous part" has been the subject of extended judicial decision, beginning with Hindle v. Birtwistle, [1897] 1 Q.B. 192, and (for the present) ending with Midland & Low Moor Iron & Steel Co., Ltd. v. Cross, [1964] 3 All E.R. 752, H.L. The authoritative exposition to be found in Close v. Steel Company of Wales, Ltd., [1962] A.C. 367; [1961] 2 All E.R. 953, H.L. stamps the imprimatur of the House of Lords upon the proposition that the test of danger depends here (as in certain other parts of the factory legislation and the regulations made thereunder) upon what is reasonably foreseeable. In Close v. Steel Company of Wales, Ltd., supra, Lord GUEST said (at p. 412; p. 975):—

dictum of DU PARCQ, J., in Walker v. Bletchley Flettons, Ltd., [1937] 1 All E.R. 170, at p. 175, as qualified by Lord REID in John Summers & Sons, Ltd. v. Frost, [1955] A.C. 740; [1955] 1 All E.R. 870; at p. 766; p. 882, whether it might be "... a reasonably foreseeable cause of injury to anybody acting in a way in which a human being may be reasonably expected to act in circumstances which may be reasonably expected to occur".

This test was supported by the remaining Law Lords (see per Lord DENNING, at p. 381; pp. 955-956; per Lord GODDARD, at p. 389; p. 960; per Lord MORTON, at p. 398; p. 966; and per Lord MORRIS of BORTH-Y-GEST, at p. 398; p. 967). See also Irwin v. White, Tomkins and Courage, Ltd., [1964] 1 All E.R. 545, H.L. It follows that the facts that the machine is capable of causing injury and that injury has happened to the operator are not conclusive that the part concerned is a dangerous part (Carr v. Mercantile Produce Co., Ltd., [1949] 2 K.B. 601; [1949] 2 All E.R. 531, D.C.).

On the question of what is reasonably foreseeable, it is submitted that the same considerations apply as when the question of foresight is in issue in cases of common law negligence; and, indeed, in Eaves v. Morris Motors, Ltd., [1961] 2 Q.B. 385; [1961] 3 All E.R. 233, C.A., a decision upon s. 14 (1), PEARSON, L.J. (at p. 401; p. 242), referred to the speech of Lord PORTER in Bolton v. Stone, [1951] A.C. 850; [1951] 1 All E.R. 1078 (a negligence case) where he said:

"Nor is the remote possibility of injury occurring enough. There must be sufficient probability to lead a reasonable man to anticipate it. The existence of some risk is an ordinary incident of life, even when all due care has been, as it must be, taken".

In deciding what is reasonably foreseeable it is material to consider both the behaviour of operators or persons employed and the behaviour of the machine. The behaviour of persons which is thus material is such behaviour as is reasonably foreseeable, which is not necessarily confined to such behaviour as is reasonable behaviour (Uddin v. Associated Portland Cement Mfrs. Ltd., [1965] 1 All E.R. 347). Merely because a workman does something stupid whereby he is injured upon a part of a machine it cannot be concluded that the part is not a dangerous part. Some kinds of stupid behaviour are foreseeable; other kinds of stupid behaviour are egregious and unforeseeable. Only the former kinds are relevant to the enquiry, whether the part was a dangerous part. In Mitchell v. North British Rubber Co., Ltd., 1945 S.C. (J) 69, Lord COOPER, L.J.-C., said (at p. 73) that a machine is dangerous if

"... in the ordinary course of human affairs danger may reasonably be anticipated from its use unfenced, not only to the prudent, alert and skilled operative intent upon his task, but also to the careless and inattentive worker whose inadvertent or indolent conduct may expose him to risk of injury or death from the unguarded part".

This passage was approved in John Summers & Sons, Ltd. v. Frost, [1955] A.C. 740; [1955] 1 All E.R. 870, H.L. See, also, Woodley v. Meason Freer & Co., Ltd., [1963] 3 All E.R. 636, D.C.

The behaviour of the machine which is material to the issue of foreseeability is its normal behaviour in the ordinary course of working, and not aberrant behaviour which cannot be foreseen (Eaves v. Morris Motors Ltd., [1961] 2 Q.B. 385; [1961] 3 All E.R. 233, C.A.). It is submitted that if the machine has behaved abnormally in the past to such an extent that a reasonable man would anticipate abnormal behaviour in the future then such behaviour, even though abnormal, must be taken into account in deciding whether a part is a dangerous part.

Close v. Steel Company of Wales, Ltd., supra, decided that the obligation imposed by s. 14 (1) of the Factories Act 1961 to fence securely does not require the dangerous part to be fenced for the purpose of preventing fragments of it, if shattered, from flying out of the machine. This aspect of the decision is considered later in this note. It was, however, accepted by two of their Lordships that a part of machinery was a "dangerous part" if it is likely in the ordinary course of working to throw off flying bits (see per Lord DENNING at pp. 382-3; pp. 956-957, and per Lord MORRIS OF BORTH-Y-GEIST at pp. 398-9; p. 967). In Carroll v. Andrew Barclay & Sons, Ltd., [1948] A.C. 477, Lord DU PARCQ (at pp. 486-487) and it appears, Lord PORTER (at p. 485) took the same view, but Viscount JOWITT (at p. 482) and Lord NORMAND (at p. 490) expressly reserved the question. In view, however, of the ratio of Close v. Steel Company of Wales, supra, the point is now of academic interest only.

In order that s. 14 of the Factories Act 1961 may apply, the dangerous part must be part of "machinery". For this purpose a distinction must be drawn between material which is being worked upon in a machine, and which is dangerous when in motion, and parts of the machinery itself which are dangerous when in motion. It is only in the latter case that the obligation to fence arises (Eaves v. Morris Motors, Ltd., [1961] 2 Q.B. 385; [1961] 3 All E.R. 233, C.A.). Thus, in Bullock v. G. John Power (Agencies), Ltd., [1956] 1 All E.R. 498, C.A., it was held that a loose end of wire which was being wound upon an electric drum was not part of the machinery; and in Eaves v. Morris Motors, Ltd., supra, sharp bolts undergoing a milling operation while being held in a moving vice were similarly regarded. A more difficult problem arises where the material being worked upon is not itself dangerous, but becomes so by reason of its juxtaposition with part of the machine itself. Differing views were expressed in Lewis v. High Duty Alloys, Ltd., [1957] 1 All E.R. 740, Lenthall v. Gimson & Co. (Leicester), Ltd. (unreported, but see [1961] 3 All E.R. at p. 238) and Hoare v. M. & W. Grazebrook, Ltd. [1957] 1 All E.R. 470, but in Eaves v. Morris Motors, Ltd., supra, HOLROYD PEARCE, L.J., said (at p. 396; p. 238):

"If a moving arm of the machine does not project, and is, therefore, safe when the machine is empty, but projects dangerously when the machine is supplied with its proper material, it can obviously be labelled as dangerous machinery. And if it creates a dangerous nip when supplied with its normal material and when working normally (or in a favourable manner) I see no reason in principle why the court cannot consider the machinery dangerous, even if that nip is only created by the juxtaposition of material and machinery. For in that case it is not the nature of the material and it is not the material itself which causes the danger. The danger is caused by the design of the machine itself working normally with harmless material."

The view of HOLROYD PEARCE, L.J., has now been approved by the House of Lords in Midland & Low Moor Iron & Steel Co., Ltd., v. Cross, [1964] 3 All E.R. 752. Their Lordships there held that whether a part of machinery was a dangerous part had to be determined on consideration of the machine when in normal operation doing the work which it was ordinarily designed to do and that if the juxtaposition of a moving part and a workpiece resulted in a dangerous nip, then the moving part was not the less a dangerous part because in the absence of the workpiece there was no danger. Their lordships expressly reserved the question, whether a stationary part of a machine could constitute a dangerous part by reason of the fact that danger was created when a moving workpiece came close to it, as had been held or suggested in certain unreported decisions at first instance which are cited in the speech of Lord REID at p. 754; cf. the contrary decision of ASHWORTH, J., in Lewis v. High Duty Alloys, Ltd., [1957] 1 All E.R. 740.

The duty to fence securely is subject to the exception that fencing is not required where the part of the machine concerned is "in such a position or of such construction as to be as safe to every person employed or working on the premises as it would be if securely fenced." The mere fact that unfenced machinery is inaccessible save by a ladder is not enough to bring it within the exception (Butler v. Glacier Metal Co. (1924) (D.C. unreported, but see [1926], 1 K.B. at p. 317); Atkinson v. London & N. E. Rail. Co., [1926] 1 K.B. 313, D.C.); Hodkinson v. Henry Wallwork & Co., Ltd., [1955] 3 All E.R. 236, C.A.). It is submitted that the words "dangerous" and "safe" in s. 17 (1) of the Offices, Shops and Railway Premises Act, 1963 are intended to be mutually exclusive, and that therefore the same test of reasonable foresight which is applied as the criterion of danger must logically be applied also, in a reverse sense, as the criterion of safety. In determining whether any part of machinery is in such a position or of such construction as to be safe within the intendment of the excepting words, no account must be taken of the matters specified in ibid., s. 17 (3).

The dangers against which fencing is required. The obligation to "fence securely" which may arise under s. 14 (1) of the Factories Act 1961 and under s. 17 (1) of the Offices, Shops and Railway Premises Act 1963 is not unlimited in scope, but is restricted to fencing against certain hazards only. It is now settled by the House of Lords that the obligation to fence requires that the dangerous part be fenced securely for the purpose of preventing the body of the operator from coming into contact with it, but that the obligation does not extend to require that the dangerous part be fenced securely for the purpose of preventing fragments of the dangerous part from flying out of the machine (Close v. Steel Company of Wales, Ltd., [1962] A.C. 367, [1961] 2 All E.R. 953, so interpreting Nicholls v. Austin (Leyton), Ltd., [1946] A.C. 493; [1946] 2 All E.R. 92, H.L., and Carroll v. Andrew Barclay & Sons, Ltd., [1948] A.C. 477; [1948] 2 All E.R. 386, H.L., and overruling on this point three decisions of the Court of Appeal: Dickson v. Flack, [1953] 2 Q.B. 464; [1953] 2 All E.R. 840; Newnham v. Taggart Morgan & Coles, Ltd. (July 19th, 1956, unreported); and Rutherford v. R. E. Glanville & Sons (Bovey Tracey), Ltd., [1958] 1 All E.R. 532). The decision in Close v. Steel Company of Wales, Ltd., supra, was a majority decision from which Lord DENNING vigorously dissented and with which Lord MORRIS OF

BORTH-Y-GEST did not agree. Of the majority, Lord GODDARD's opinion was expressed with reluctance (at p. 389; p. 961), and Lord GUEST (at p. 409; p. 974) appeared to consider the decision in Nicholls v. Austin (Leyton), Ltd., supra, by which he held himself bound, to be based upon an illogical distinction. In Eaves v. Morris Motors, Ltd., [1961] 2 Q.B. 385; [1961] 3 All E.R. 233, C.A., HOLROYD PEARCE, L.J., having considered the effect of Close v. Steel Company of Wales, supra, expressed himself in these terms:

"The argument (of Counsel for the Plaintiff) has shown how technical and artificial the question of protection under s. 14 has become and how illusory in certain respects the words "Every dangerous part of any machinery . . . shall be securely fenced" have now become. One may venture, perhaps, to express regret that an important part of the protection accorded to the workman by the Factory and Workshops Acts 1878 and 1891 has been destroyed by the wording of the Factories Act 1937 and the authorities based on that wording . . . There is no protection under s. 14 against a class of obvious perils caused by dangerous machinery, namely, perils which arise from a dangerous machine ejecting at the worker pieces of the material or even pieces of the machinery itself. Thus, there is now left a gap which neither logic nor common sense appears to justify."

This gap has not been closed by the Factories Act 1961 or by the Offices, Shops and Railway Premises Act 1963. Although in such circumstances a plaintiff cannot avail himself of s. 14 (1) of the Factories Act 1961 or of s. 17 (1) of the Offices, Shops and Railway Premises Act 1963, yet if on the premises there is a machine which it is known from experience has a tendency to throw out parts of the machine itself or of the material on which it is working, so as to be a danger to the operator, the absence of a shield to protect him may well afford him a cause of action at common law (per Lord GODDARD in Close v. Steel Company of Wales, [1962] A.C. 367 at p. 390;; [1961] 2 All E.R. 953 at p. 961). For an example, see Kilgollan v. W. Cooke & Co., Ltd., [1956] 2 All E.R. 294, C.A.

Since the obligation to fence in the sections under consideration is one to fence machinery, it follows that there is no obligation to fence against articles not part of the machinery (such as material being worked upon) being ejected (Nicholls v. Austin (Leyton), Ltd., [1946] A.C. 493; [1946] 2 All E.R. 92, H.L.; Close v. Steel Company of Wales Ltd., [1962] A.C. 367; [1961] 2 All E.R. 953, H.L.). Nor is there any obligation so to fence that a tool being held by an operator does not come into contact with the dangerous part (Sparrow v. Fairey Aviation Co., Ltd., [1962] 3 All E.R. 706, H.L., overruling Johnson v. J. Stone & Co. (Charlton), Ltd., [1961] 1 All E.R. 869). It is less certain whether there is an obligation to fence against clothing worn by a person employed which may foul the dangerous part. In John Summers & Sons, Ltd. v. Frost, [1955] A.C. 740; [1955] 1 All E.R. 870, Lord MORTON (at p. 756; p. 875) thought that the dangerous part had to be fenced against clothing coming into contact with it; and in Sparrow v. Fairey Aviation Co., Ltd., supra, Lord REID (at p. 709), Lord MACDERMOTT (at p. 713), who dissented, and Lord MORRIS OF BORTH-Y-GEST (at p. 720) appear to have taken the same view. Lord MORRIS OF BORTH-Y-GEST (at p. 720) reserved the question, whether in particular circumstances some equipment or apparatus could be so attached to an operator that, in his capacity as an operator, such equipment or apparatus could rationally be regarded as being a part of him.

The absolute nature of the duty. The duty to fence securely is an absolute one (John Summers & Sons, Ltd. v. Frost, [1955] 1 All E.R. 870, H.L., affirming Davies v. Thomas Owen & Co., [1919] 2 K.B. 39, a decision upon the comparable provision of s. 10 of the Factory and Workshop Act 1901). The duty is not to be qualified by such words as "so far as practicable" or "so long as it can be fenced consistently with its being used for the purpose for which it was intended", and if the result of a machine being securely fenced is that it does not remain commercially practicable or mechanically possible, that does not affect the obligation (per Viscount SIMONDS in John Summers & Sons, Ltd. v. Frost, [1955] 1 All E.R. 870 at p. 872). The courts have not shrunk from the conclusion that the absolute nature of the obligation may, in effect, prohibit the use of the machine altogether, and this result has been reached in the case of a calendering machine (Davies v. Thomas Owen & Co., [1919] 2 K.B. 39); a power press (Sowter v. Steel Barrel Co., Ltd., (1935), 154 L.T. 85); a cutting machine (Dennistoun v. Charles E. Greenhill, Ltd., [1944] 2 All E.R. 434); a drilling machine (Mackay v. Ailsa Shipbuilding Co., Ltd., 1945 S.C. 414) and a grinding wheel (John Summers & Sons, Ltd. v. Frost, [1955] A.C. 740; [1955] 1 All E.R. 870). In John Summers & Sons, Ltd. v. Frost, supra, it was pointed out that the apparent harshness of thus construing the duty to fence is mitigated in so far as the Minister has power by s. 76 of the Factories Act 1961 to modify by special regulations its absolute character and has, indeed, done so in the case of certain woodworking machinery (see the Woodworking Machinery Regulations 1922 and Miller v. Boothman (William) and Sons, Ltd., [1944] K.B. 337; [1944] 1 All E.R. 333). By s. 20 (3) (b) of the Offices, Shops and Railway Premises Act 1963 the Minister may by special regulation impose requirements with respect (inter alia) to the safeguarding of dangerous parts of machinery, and, by ibid., s. 20 (9), such a requirement may be expressed to take effect in addition to, or in lieu of, a requirement imposed by ibid., s. 17. Furthermore, by ibid., s. 67, it is a defence to a charge of a contravention of a provision of the Act to prove that the person charged used all diligence to secure compliance with it; see the notes to s. 67, post.

The standard of secure fencing. The extent of this duty is to fence securely. "Somewhat" secure fencing is not enough (Sowter v. Steel Barrel Co., Ltd. (1935), 154 L.T. 85, decided upon the similar provisions of s. 10 of the Factory and Workshop Act 1901). Nor is it enough that the dangerous part was provided with a means of achieving security; the sections under consideration require the result to be achieved (Charles v. S. Smith & Sons (England), Ltd., [1954] 1 All E.R. 499). Fencing is secure which effectively protects the workman from the danger of contact with the exposed part of the machine (John Summers & Sons, Ltd. v. Frost, [1955] A.C. 740; [1955] 1 All E.R. 870, per Viscount SIMONDS at p. 752; p. 873; per Lord MORTON at p. 756; p. 875; per Lord REID at p. 764; p. 882, and per Lord KEITH OF AVONHOLM at p. 774; p. 888). In considering whether secure fencing has been achieved the behaviour of persons employed is material, and the same criterion of reasonable foreseeability, discussed earlier in this note, must be used for this purpose as it must for the purpose of deciding whether a part of a machine is a dangerous part (John Summers & Sons, Ltd. v. Frost, supra; Burns v. Joseph Terry & Sons, Ltd., [1951] 1 K.B. 454; [1950] 2 All E.R. 987, C.A.).

In the case of the Factories Act 1961 the fence supplied must comply with the provisions of s. 16 of that Act, which indicates how and when the duty imposed under ss. 12, 13 and 14 is to be carried out (Smith v. Morris Motors, Ltd., [1949] 2 All E.R. 715, D.C.). Similarly, in the case of the Offices, Shops and Railway Premises Act 1963, s. 17 (4) indicates how and when the duty imposed under s. 17 (1) is to be carried out. The fence need not, however, be so constructed that it cannot be climbed over, or broken down, by an employee who is determined to get at the machinery, for that would be demanding the impossible of the employers (per Lord MORTON in John Summers & Sons, Ltd. v. Frost, [1951] A.C. 740 at p. 758; [1955] 1 All E.R. 870, at p. 876; and see Carr v. Mercantile Produce Co., Ltd., [1949] 2 All E.R. 531, D.C.).

The behaviour of persons employed. The foreseeable behaviour of persons employed, whether they are operating the machine in question or whether they are employed elsewhere in the factory, is, as already discussed, relevant in the following respects:

- (i) It is relevant in considering whether the part of the machine is a dangerous part within s. 14 (1).
- (ii) It is relevant in considering whether the part of the machine is "securely fenced".
- (iii) It is relevant in considering whether the part of the machine is in such position or of such construction as to be as safe to every person working in the premises as it would be if securely fenced.

The actual behaviour of a person employed who has been injured by the machine is irrelevant to the foregoing heads of enquiry, which are concerned not with actual, but with foreseeable, behaviour, and which are concerned with the foreseeable behaviour, not only of the person who has been injured, but of any person employed or working on the premises. It follows that it must not be concluded from the facts that the operator or person employed has been careless, and that his carelessness was the proximate cause of the accident, that there has been no breach of the statute (Blenkinsop v. Ogden, [1898] 1 Q.B. 783; Atkinson v. London & North Eastern Rail Co., [1926] 1 K.B. 313; Dunn v. Birds Eye Foods, Ltd., [1959] 2 Q.B. 265; [1959] 2 All E.R. 403, D.C.). The behaviour of the person injured may, however, be very relevant to the issue of contributory negligence in any civil proceedings he may bring based upon a breach of the statute.

(a) Dangerous part; machinery; equipment; securely fenced. See the general note, supra.

(b) Premises to which this Act applies. See ss. 1 to 3.

(c) Device. Compare the provisions of s. 14 (2) of the Factories Act 1961, as to which see Redgrave's Factories Acts, 20th Edn., pp. 46 et seq.

(d) In motion. Compare the provisions of s. 15 (1) (a) of the Factories

Act 1961, as to which see Redgrave's Factories Acts, 20th Edn., pp. 48 et seq. The application of s. 17 (3) of the present Act is not limited, as is that of s. 15 of the Factories Act, 1961, to operations carried out by such male persons over 18 as are specified by regulations; the limitation imposed by s. 17 (5) of the present Act enables the Minister to specify persons of either sex.

It is submitted that the words "in motion" in sub-s. (3) bear the same meaning as they do in sub-s. (4); see note (f), infra.

(e) Properly maintained. Compare the cognate provisions of s. 16 of the Factories Act 1961, as to which see Redgrave's Factories Acts, 20th Edn., pp. 58 et seq. It is submitted that "properly maintained" in s. 17 (4) of the present Act bears the same meaning as in s. 8 (4), ante; see note (h) to that section.

(f) Motion or use. The interpretation of these words in s. 16 of the Factories Act 1961 has given rise to difficulty. In Richard Thomas & Baldwins, Ltd. v. Cummings, [1955] A.C. 321; [1955] 1 All E.R. 285, H.L., a grinding machine, normally driven by a motor through belts and pulleys, required repair. The cover enclosing the belts and pulleys having been removed, and the power having been cut off, the respondent, a fitter engaged in repairing the machine, pulled on a belt by hand in order to revolve the mechanism. In doing so he injured his finger between the belt and a pulley. All their Lordships were agreed that, unless s. 16 applied, the belts and pulleys should have been securely fenced, either as transmission machinery under s. 13 (1), or as other machinery under s. 14 (1). In contending that s. 16 did not apply the respondent did not argue that the machine or its parts were "in use" at the material time, but only that they were "in motion", and the decision is therefore limited to the meaning of the latter phrase. It was held that the machine was not in motion at the material time. "In motion" (it was said) is not the same thing as "in movement". This conclusion was strengthened by the consideration, that since the Act contains no provision enabling fencing to be removed for the purpose of repair, a contrary interpretation would permit the repair of such machinery only while it was motionless, Lord PORTER alone (at p. 332; p. 289) discussed the meaning of the words "in use", and said:

"'In use' would certainly mean running as it was meant to run and doing the work it was meant to do. But provision is required for cases where it was running as it was meant to run but not doing the work it was meant to do. In such a case it would, in my view, be in motion but not in use".

It will be noted that the only situation to which Lord PORTER adverted was one in which the machine was in motion but not in use. He did not express any view whether or in what circumstances a machine might be in use but not in motion. It is submitted that the latter state of affairs is as possible as the former, as, for example, where in the course of a continuous operation the machine is switched off for the removal of the product. This submission is supported by DONOVAN, L.J., in Knight v. Leamington Spa Courier, Ltd., [1961] 2 Q.B. 253 at p. 265; [1961] 2 All E.R. 666 at p. 671. In this case the Court of Appeal, following Richard Thomas & Baldwins, Ltd. v. Cummings, supra, held that the slow sporadic rotation or intermittent movement of machinery intended to place it more advantageously for cleaning or repair did not constitute its being "in motion or in use" within s. 16 of the Factories Act, 1937. In Knight v. Leamington Spa Courier, Ltd., supra, the machine (a printing press) was not being used for printing at the material time; it was being cleaned. For this reason it would seem that the only question before the Court, as in Richard Thomas & Baldwins, Ltd. v. Cummings, supra, was whether the machine was "in motion" (see per UPJOHN, L.J., at p. 264; p. 670). On this matter DONOVAN, L.J., said (at p. 265; p. 671):

"One can say that 'in motion' means something more than merely in movement; that a machine may be put 'in motion' manually as well as by power; and that a machine may be 'in use' notwithstanding some temporary halt in the running of it. Beyond this, general guidance is difficult to give, and any attempt at it might be misconceived. In particular, I do not think that it would be right to say that a machine is 'in motion' when it is being run for the industrial purpose for which it was installed to achieve, but not 'in motion' when being run for some preparatory purpose. Some such preparatory work might involve running at high speeds, and fitters and others would be without protection if the dangerous parts of the machine were left unfenced during this operation. Parliament could not have intended that".

The Court of Appeal emphasised the difficulty of giving any general ruling on the meaning of the words "in motion or in use", and stated that the question was largely one of fact and degree having regard to the circumstances of the particular case.

In Conboy v. King and Hutchings (1963), 61 L.G.R. 516, PAULL, J., held that a machine being rotated by an inching device was "in motion or in use" so long as the device was being used as part of the ordinary use of the machine rather than for repair. In Kelly v. John Dale, Ltd., [1964] 2 All E.R. 497, WINN, J., following Knight's case, supra, held that although the machine in question, which the plaintiff had been cleaning with the assistance of an inching device, was cleaned at periods more frequent than that in Knights' case, when the plaintiff had been taking advantage of a slack period, it was none the less neither "in motion" nor "in use" at the material time. However, when a machine is being moved at speed, for however short a time, then even though it may not be "in use", it is nevertheless "in motion" (Stanbrook v. Waterlow & Sons, Ltd., [1964] 2 All E.R. 506, C.A.). Similarly, in Irwin v. White Tomkins & Courage, Ltd., [1964] 1 All E.R. 545, H.L., Lord GUEST (at p. 551) said that he thought that Richard Thomas and Baldwins, Ltd. v. Cummings and Knights' case, supra, had no application to a case where the motion was at speed and in the manner to be expected when the machine was in normal operation, and Lord DEVLIN (at pp. 553-554) and Lord PEARCE (p. 555) thought that those cases did not support the view that machinery is not in motion or in use when it is not actually engaged in the manufacturing process.

(g) Necessarily exposed. The burden of proving that the excepting words apply lies upon the employer, who must prove that the parts required to be fenced were necessarily exposed for the operation actually being done at the material time (Nash v. High Duty Alloys, Ltd., [1947] 1 K.B. 377; [1947] 1 All E.R. 363, C.A.).

(h) For examination . . . lubrication or adjustment. These words do not include repair (Richard Thomas & Baldwins, Ltd. v. Cummings, [1955] A.C. 321; [1955] 1 All E.R. 285, H.L.) or cleaning (Knight v. Leamington Spa Courier, Ltd., [1961] 2 Q.B. 253; [1961] 2 All E.R. 666, C.A.).

(i) Age. A person attains a given age on the first moment of the day preceding the corresponding anniversary of his birth; see Re Shurey, Savory v. Shurey, [1918] 1 Ch. 263; and cf. R. v. Scoffin, [1930] 1 K.B. 741, at p. 743.

(j) Regulations. As to the making of regulations, see s. 80. No regulations under this section have yet been made.

(k) The Minister. The Minister of Labour (s. 90 (1), post). No such regulations have yet been made.

18. Avoidance of exposure of young persons to danger in cleaning machinery.—(1) No young person (a) employed (b) to work (c) in premises to which this Act applies (d) shall clean (e) any machinery (f) used as, or forming part of the equipment (g) of the premises if doing so exposes him to risk of injury from a moving part of that or any adjacent machinery.

(2) In this section “young person” means a person who has not attained the age of eighteen.

General note. Except in relation to shop premises which are in a covered market place, as defined by s. 51 (2), this section came into operation on 1st August 1964 (Offices, Shops and Railway Premises Act 1963 (Commencement No. 1) Order 1964 (S.I. 1964 No. 191)).

As to civil liability see the General Introduction, ante.

(a) Young person. See sub-s. (2).

(b) Employed. For definition, see s. 90 (1), (4).

(c) Work. See note (a) to s. 3.

(d) Premises to which this Act applies. See ss. 1 to 3.

(e) Clean. In Taylor v. Dawson (Mark) & Son, Ltd., [1911] 1 K.B. 145, a child was removing fluff from the rollers of a machine in motion. The fluff would have clogged the machine had it not been removed, but it had a commercial value, and was in fact sold. It was held that the child was “cleaning” the machine.

(f) Machinery. See the General Note to s. 17.

(g) Equipment. See the General Note to s. 17.

19. Training and supervision of persons working at dangerous machines.—(1) No person employed (a) to work (b) in premises to which this Act applies (c) shall work (b) there at any machine to which this section applies unless he has been fully instructed as to the dangers arising in connection with it and the precautions to be observed, and—

(a) has received a sufficient training in work at the machine;

(b) is under adequate supervision by a person who has a thorough knowledge and experience of the machine.

(2) This section applies to such machines as may be prescribed by order (d) of the Minister (e), being machines which in his opinion (f) are of such a dangerous character that persons ought not to work at them unless the foregoing requirements are complied with.

General note. Except in relation to shop premises which are in a covered market place, as defined by s. 51 (2), this section came into operation on 1st August 1964 (Offices, Shops and Railway Premises Act 1963 (Commencement No. 1) Order 1964 (S.I. 1964 No. 191)).

As to civil liability, see the General Introduction, ante.

In M'Cafferty v. Brown, 1950 S.C. 300, it was held that the cognate provisions of s. 21 of the Factories Act 1937 imposed no obligation on the person employed.

(a) Employed. For definition, see s. 90 (1), (4).

(b) Work. See note (a) to s. 3.

(c) Premises to which this Act applies. See ss. 1 to 3.

(d) Order. As to the making of orders, see s. 80. The Prescribed Dangerous Machines Order 1964 has been made under this section and is printed below.

(e) Minister. The Minister of Labour (s. 90 (1)).

(f) Opinion. See note (m) to s. 6.

THE PRESCRIBED DANGEROUS MACHINES ORDER 1964 (S.I. 1964 No. 971)

Dated 25th June 1964

The Minister of Labour by virtue of the powers conferred on him by section 19 of the Offices, Shops and Railway Premises Act 1963 (hereafter in this Order referred to as "the Act") and of all other powers enabling him in that behalf, hereby makes the following Order:—

1.—(1) This Order may be cited as the Prescribed Dangerous Machines Order 1964 and shall come into operation on 1st August 1964.

(2) The Interpretation Act 1889 shall apply to the interpretation of this Order as it applies to the interpretation of an Act of Parliament.

2. The machines specified in the Schedule to this Order are hereby prescribed as being machines which in the opinion of the Minister of Labour are of such a dangerous character that persons ought not to work at them unless the requirements of section 19 (1) of the Act are complied with.

(3) Without prejudice to the generality of the last foregoing subsection, regulations (d) under this section may provide for—

- (a) regulating or prohibiting the use of any machinery, plant, equipment, appliance (g) or substance, the carrying on of any operation or the use of any process;

- (d) any incidental, supplementary or consequential matters for which it appears (h) to the Minister (i) requisite or expedient to provide for the purposes of the regulations.

(4) A person who contravenes (n) a provision of regulations under this section (other than a provision having effect by virtue of paragraph (c) of the last foregoing subsection) shall be guilty of an offence (o).

(5) A person who contravenes (n) a provision of regulations having effect by virtue of paragraph (c) of subsection (3) of this section or, as agent of the seller or hirer, causes or procures (p) any machinery, plant, equipment or appliance (g) to be sold or let on hire in contravention (n) of any such provision, shall be guilty of an offence (o) and liable to a fine not exceeding two hundred pounds.

(6) An offence (o) under the last foregoing subsection shall, where necessary for conferring jurisdiction on a court to entertain proceedings for the offence (o), be deemed to have been committed in the place where the machinery, plant, equipment or appliance (g) in question is for the time being.

(7) Proceedings for an offence under subsection (5) of this section may be commenced (q) at any time within twelve months (r) from the time when the offence was committed.

(8) Where a contravention (n) of a provision of regulations under this section consists in a failure to do anything at or within a time specified in the regulations, and the regulations provide that this subsection shall apply to a failure so to do it, the contravention (n) shall be deemed to continue until that thing is done.

(9) A requirement imposed by virtue of subsection (3)(b) of this section with respect to the safeguarding of dangerous parts (l) of machinery may be expressed to take effect in addition to, or in lieu of, a requirement imposed by section 17 of this Act.

(10) So far as regards machinery, plant, equipment or appliances (g), nothing in this section shall be construed as restricting the exercise of the powers thereby conferred to the making of provision with respect to machinery, plant, equipment or appliances (g) wholly situate in premises to which this Act applies.

General note. Except in relation to shop premises which are in a covered market place, as defined by s. 51 (2), this section came into operation on 1st August 1964 (Offices, Shops and Railway Premises Act 1963 (Commencement No. 1) Order 1964 (S.I. 1964 No. 191)).

(o) Offence. For provisions as to offences, see ss. 63 et seq., 70, 86 (1); and note sub-ss. (6) to (8) of this section.

(p) Causes or procures. In McLeod (or Houston) v. Buchanan, [1940] 2 All E.R. 179, H.L., at p. 187, Lord WRIGHT, said: "To 'cause' the user involves some express or positive mandate from the person 'causing' to the other person, or some authority from the former to the latter, arising in the circumstances of the case". See also, in particular, Kirkheaton District Local Board v. Ainely, Sons & Co., [1892] 2 Q.B. 274, C.A.; Shave v. Rosner, [1954] 2 Q.B. 113; [1954] 2 All E.R. 280, Lovelace v. Director of Public Prosecutions, [1954] 3 All E.R. 481; and Ellis v. Smith, [1962] 3 All E.R. 954.

"Procure" has been defined as "obtain by care or effort" and can be more simply paraphrased as "see to it"; see Re Royal Victoria Pavilion, Ramsgate, Whelan v. F.T.S. (Great Britain), Ltd., [1961] Ch. 581 at p. 587; [1961] 3 All E.R. 83 at p. 86. It would, therefore, seem that the word "procures" adds nothing to the scope of the phrase "causes or procures"; see also R. v. Mackenzie and Higginson (1910), 75 J.P. 159, and R. v. Christian (1913), 78 J.P. 112.

Bagshaw*, [1904] 2 K.B. 798; cf. also the Magistrates' Courts Act 1952, s. 104. A prosecution for aiding and abetting falls within the time-limit just as do proceedings against a principal; see Gould & Co. v. Houghton, [1921] 1 K.B. 509.

(r) Within twelve months. The normal time-limit is only six months; see the Magistrates' Courts Act 1952, s. 104.

The day on which the offence was committed is not to be included in calculating the period of twelve months; see, in particular, Goldsmiths' Co. v. West Metropolitan Rail. Co., [1904] 1 K.B. 1, C.A., and Stewart v. Chapman, [1951] 2 K.B. 792; [1951] 2 All E.R. 613.

21. Regulations for controlling noise and vibrations.—

(1) The Minister (a) may make special regulations (b) for protecting persons employed (c) to work (d) in premises to which this Act applies (e), or any class of such premises (f), from risks of bodily injury or injury to health arising from noise or vibrations and for preventing the welfare of persons so employed (c) from being adversely affected by noise or vibrations.

(2) Regulations under this section may make any such provision for the purpose aforesaid as appears (g) to the Minister (a) to meet the necessity of the case so far as is reasonably practicable (h), and may impose obligations, restrictions and prohibitions on those who employ persons to work (d) as aforesaid, on persons employed (c) so to work (d), and on others.

(3) A person who contravenes (i) a provision of regulations under this section shall be guilty of an offence (k).

General note. Except in relation to shop premises which are in a covered market place, as defined by s. 51 (2), this section came into operation on 1st August 1964 (Offices, Shops and Railway Premises Act 1963 (Commencement No. 1) Order 1964 (S.I. 1964 No. 191)).

For noise and vibration as a statutory nuisance, see the Noise Abatement Act 1960. In London, the provisions as to noise in the London County Council (General Powers) Act 1937, s. 66, apply until 1st April 1965 when that section is repealed by the London Government Act 1963, s. 93 (1), Sch. 18, Part II.

(a) The Minister. The Minister of Labour (s. 90 (1)).

(b) Special regulations. As to the making of special regulations, see s. 80 (8) and Sch. 1, post. No special regulations under this section have yet been made.

(c) Employed. For definition, see s. 90 (1).

(d) Work. See note (a) to s. 3.

(e) Premises to which this Act applies. See ss. 1 to 3.

(f) Class of premises. See s. 90 (5).

(g) As appears. See note (h) to s. 20.

(h) Reasonably practicable. See note (f) to s. 6.

(i) Contravenes. For definition, see s. 90 (1).

(k) Offence. For provisions as to offences, see ss. 63 et seq., 70, 86 (1).

22. Power of magistrates' courts and sheriffs to make orders for putting down dangerous conditions and practices.—(1) Where, in the case of premises to which this Act applies (a), an appropriate court (b) is satisfied, on a complaint (c) (or, in Scotland, a summary application) made by or on behalf of an authority or person having power to enforce (d), with respect to the premises any of the foregoing provisions of this Act—

- (a) that any part of the premises is in such a condition or is so constructed that it cannot be used without risk of bodily injury or injury to health; or
- (b) that any machinery, plant, equipment or appliance (e) used in the premises is in such a condition, is so constructed or is so placed that it cannot be used without such risk; or
- (c) that an operation carried on in the premises, or a process used therein, is so carried on or used in such a manner as to cause such risk;

the following provisions shall have effect:—

- (i) if the case falls within paragraph (a) of this subsection, the court may by order prohibit (f) the use of the part in question absolutely, unless it is satisfied that it can be so repaired or altered as to permit of its being used without such risk as aforesaid, in which case it may prohibit its use until it has been so repaired or altered;
- (ii) if the case falls within paragraph (b) of this subsection, the court may by order prohibit (f) the use of the machinery, plant, equipment or appliance (e) in question absolutely, unless it is satisfied that it can be so repaired, altered or moved as to permit of its being used as aforesaid, in which case it may prohibit (f) its use until it has been so repaired, altered or moved;
- (iii) if the case falls within paragraph (c) of this subsection, the court may by order prohibit (f) the carrying on or use of the operation or process in question absolutely, unless it is satisfied that there can be taken such steps as will enable it to be carried on or used otherwise than in such a manner as to cause such risk as aforesaid, in which case it may, as the circumstances require, prohibit (f) the carrying on or use of it unless such steps as aforesaid are taken in the course of the carrying on or use of it.

(2) Where a complaint (c) or summary application is, or has been, made under the foregoing subsection, the court—

- (a) if satisfied on evidence tendered upon an application made by or on behalf of the authority or person by whom or on whose behalf the complaint (c) or summary application is, or was, made, that the use of the part of the premises or the thing, or, as the case may be, the carrying on or use of the operation or process, that is the subject of the complaint or summary application involves imminent risk of bodily injury or injury to health; and

- (b) if satisfied also that three clear days' notice (g) of intention to make an application under this subsection (stating the time at which it would be made) has been given to the occupier (h) of the premises; and after affording to the occupier (h) (if he appears) an opportunity to be heard, may make an interim order prohibiting, either absolutely or subject to conditions, the use of the part or thing or, as the case may be, the carrying on or use of the operation or process until the earliest opportunity for hearing and determining the complaint or summary application.

(3) In this section "appropriate court" means, as regards premises in England or Wales, a magistrates' court (i) acting for the petty sessions area (k) in which the premises are situate and, as regards premises in Scotland, the sheriff within whose jurisdiction the premises are situate; and, in exercising its powers under the last foregoing subsection, a magistrates' court (i) may be composed of a single justice.

General note. Except in relation to shop premises which are in a covered market place, as defined in s. 51 (2), this section came into operation on 1st August 1964 (Offices, Shops and Railway Premises Act 1963 (Commencement No. 1) Order 1964 (S.I. 1964 No. 191)).

For the application of this section to the common parts of buildings, part of which consists of premises within this Act and to machinery etc. used in such parts, see s. 42 (1), (8), (9), where the building is in single ownership, and s. 43 (1), (6), (7), where the building is plurally owned.

Persons aggrieved by an order made under this section may appeal to Quarter Sessions; see s. 72.

(a) Premises to which this Act applies. See ss. 1 to 3.

(b) Appropriate court. See sub-s. (3), infra.

(c) Complaint. The procedure for the making and hearing of complaints is contained in ss. 43 to 49 of the Magistrates' Courts Act 1952.

(d) Authority or person having authority to enforce. See ss. 52, 83 (5).

(e) Machinery, plant, equipment or appliance. In relation to the cognate provisions of the Factories Acts it has been held that the careless packing of goods on a proper trolley is not a defect in plant

(Corcoran v. East Surrey Ironworks Co. (1888), 58 L.J. Q.B. 145). Unfenced machinery may be defective plant (Iles v. Abercarn Welsh Flannel Co. (1886), 2 T.L.R. 547, D.C.); but machinery properly constructed, but dangerous if improperly used, is not, and does not become so because a young and experienced workman is not instructed in its use, or warned of the danger (Greenwood v. Greenwood (1907), 97 L.T. 771). See also Watts v. Enfield Rolling Mills, [1952] 1 All E.R. 1013, C.A., for a discussion of what may constitute plant. See also s. 90 (2).

(f) Prohibit. Disobedience to such an order is punishable under s. 54 (3) of the Magistrates' Courts Act 1952.

(g) Three clear days' notice. The notice must be in writing (s. 90 (1)) and in calculating the three days both the day of the notice and the day of the hearing are to be excluded; see, e.g., R. v. Herefordshire JJ. (1820), 3 B. & Ald. 581; and compare Thompson v. Stimpson, [1961] 1 Q.B. 195; [1960] 3 All E.R. 500, C.A.

(h) Occupier. This term is not defined. It seems clear, however, that the occupier within the meaning of the Act is the person who runs the premises in question and who regulates and controls the work that is done there; cf. Ramsay v. Mackie (1904), 7 F. (Ct. of Sess.) 106, at p. 109, per Lord MACLAREN; Smith v. Cammell Laird & Co., Ltd., [1940] A.C. 242 at p. 250; [1939] 4 All E.R. 381, at p. 384, per Viscount MAUGHAM; and Cox v. Cutler & Sons. Ltd. and Hampton Court Gas Co., [1948] 2 All E.R. 665, C.A. That person may be a limited company; compare Evans & Co., Ltd. v. London County Council, [1914] 3 K.B. 315 and Smith v. Cammell Laird & Co., Ltd., supra. He may be a receiver and manager appointed by a debenture holder; see Meigh v. Wickenden, [1942] 2 K.B. 160; [1942] 2 All E.R. 68. See also Turner v. Courtaulds, Ltd., [1937] 1 All E.R. 467, and Rippon v. Port of London Authority & Russell & Co., [1940] 1 K.B. 858; [1940] 1 All E.R. 637.

(i) Magistrates' Court. For definition, see s. 90 (1).

(k) Petty sessions area. For definition, see s. 90 (1).

23. Prohibition of heavy work.—(1) No person shall, in the course of his work (a) in premises to which this Act applies (b), be required to lift, carry or move a load so heavy as to be likely to cause injury to him.

(2) The Minister (c) may make regulations (d) prescribing the maximum weights which persons employed (e) to work (a) in premises to which this Act applies (b) may lift, carry or move in the course of their work (a) there; and any such regulations (d) may relate either generally to such persons as aforesaid or to any class of such persons (f).

General note. Except in relation to shop premises which are in a covered market place, as defined in s. 51 (2), this section came into operation on 1st August 1964 (Offices, Shops and Railway Premises Act 1964 (Commencement No. 1) Order 1964 (S.I. 1964 No. 191)).

(a) Work. See note (a) to s. 3, ante.

(b) Premises to which this Act applies. See ss. 1 to 3. ante.

(c) The Minister. The Minister of Labour (s. 90 (1)).

(d) Regulations. As to the making of regulations, see s. 80. No regulations under this section have yet been made.

(e) Employed. For definition, see s. 90 (1), (4).

(f) Class of persons. See s. 90 (5).

24. First aid: general provisions.—(1) In the case of all premises to which this Act applies (a) there shall be provided so as to be readily accessible a first-aid box complying with the requirements of the next following subsection or a first-aid cupboard so complying, and, where the number of persons employed (b) to work (c) in the premises exceeds one hundred and fifty at any one time, an additional such box or cupboard for each unit of one hundred and fifty persons comprised in the excess (any fraction of a unit being treated as one).

(2) The said requirements are that the box or cupboard—

(a) contains first-aid requisites and appliances of such descriptions and in such quantities as may be prescribed by order (d) made by the Minister (e); and

(b) contains no articles other than first-aid requisites or appliances.

(3) A first-aid box or cupboard provided in the case of any premises in pursuance of the foregoing provisions of this section must be in the charge of a responsible person, and no box or cupboard so provided must be in the charge of a person who has charge of another box or cupboard provided in those premises in pursuance of the said provisions.

(4) Where persons to a number exceeding the relevant number are employed (b) to work (c) at any one time in premises to which this Act applies (a), then—

(a) if no more than one first-aid box or cupboard is required by this section to be provided in the case of the premises, the person in charge of it must be trained in first-aid treatment and always available during working hours;

(b) if two or more boxes or cupboards are so required to be so provided, one of the persons in charge of the respective boxes or cupboards must be so trained and available.

In this subsection "relevant number", in relation to any premises, means one hundred and fifty, or such less number as may by regulations (f) be prescribed by the Minister (e) in relation either to premises generally or to premises of a class (g) within which the first-mentioned premises fall.

(5) Where paragraph (a) of the last foregoing subsection applies to any premises, there must be displayed therein, at such place, in such a position, and in such characters, as to be easily seen and read by the persons employed (b) to work (c) in the premises, a notice (h) stating the name of the person in charge of the box or cupboard and the fact of his being in charge of it; and where paragraph (b) of that subsection applies to any premises, there must be displayed therein, at such place, in such a position, and in such characters, as aforesaid, a notice (h) stating—

(a) in a case where the availability of a single person is relied on to secure compliance with that paragraph, his name, the fact of his being in charge of a first-aid box or cupboard and that he is always available during working hours;

(b) in a case where the availability of one or other of two or more persons is so relied on, the names of each of them, the fact of their each being in charge of a first-aid box or cupboard, and that one or other of them is always so available.

(6) For the purposes of this section a person shall be deemed not to be trained in first-aid treatment unless he satisfies such conditions as may be prescribed by order (d) made by the Minister (e).

(7) Where a first-aid room is maintained at, or in conjunction with, premises to which this Act applies (a), and arrangements exist for securing the immediate treatment in that room of persons who, while in the premises, suffer bodily injury or become ill, the authority (i) having power to enforce compliance, in the case of those premises, with the foregoing provisions of this section, may by instrument in writing served (k) on the occupier (l) of the premises, exempt the premises, so long as the arrangements continue in force, from the requirements of the said provisions to such extent and subject to such conditions as may be specified in the instrument.

(8) Subsection (5) of this section shall not apply to fuel storage premises (m) which are wholly in the open, but in the case of such premises which are wholly in the open there must be given (k) to each person employed (b) to work (c) there a notice (h) stating the like particulars as would be stated in such a notice (h) as for the time being would, by virtue of that subsection, be required to be displayed in the premises if that subsection applied to them.

(9) This section shall not apply to premises which, for the purposes of the Mines and Quarries Act 1954, form part of a mine or quarry or which are comprised in an institution which provides medical or surgical treatment for in-patients or an institution which, not being such an one as aforesaid, is carried on by a person registered under Part VI of the Public Health Act 1936, the Nursing Homes Registration (Scotland) Act 1938 or Part XI of the Public Health (London) Act 1936.

General note. Except in relation to shop premises which are in a covered market place, as defined in s. 51 (2), this section comes into operation as follows—

3. All materials for dressings required by this Order to be contained in first-aid boxes and cupboards shall be those designated in, and of a grade or quality not lower than the standard specified by, the British Pharmaceutical Codex and any supplement thereto, being the British Pharmaceutical Codex and any supplement current at the date of this Order or approved for the purposes of this Order.

PART II

Description of adhesive wound dressing

An adhesive wound dressing shall consist of a pad fixed to a piece of plaster, waterproof or otherwise, as centrally as possible so as to leave an adequate margin of adhesive surface all round. The pad and the margin of adhesive surface shall be protected by muslin or other suitable material for removal before use. The pad shall be a piece of absorbent lint or other suitable material which, in either case, shall either be un-medicated or contain a medication specified for surgical dressings in the British Pharmaceutical Codex and any supplement thereto, being the British Pharmaceutical Codex and any supplement current at the date of this Order or approved for the purposes of this Order. Each dressing shall be put up in an individual sealed pack marked clearly to indicate its content.

25. First aid: premises inside, but for purposes of Factories Act 1961 not forming part of, factory.—(1) The Minister (a) may by special regulations (b) provide that premises to which this Act applies (c) which are not, for the purposes of the Factories Act 1961, a factory but which, but for the operation of section 175 (6) of that Act, would, for the purposes of that Act, form part of a factory, or such premises as aforesaid of a class (d) specified in the regulations,—

(a) shall be excepted from the operation of the last foregoing section; and

(b) shall, notwithstanding the said subsection (6), be deemed for the purposes of section 61 (first aid) of that Act to form part of the factory of which, but for that subsection, they would, for the purposes of that Act, form part.

(2) Regulations (b) under this section may provide that, for the purposes of the application to a factory of subsection (4) of the said section 61 (which, amongst other things, requires that the person under whose charge is placed a first-aid box or cupboard provided in a factory in pursuance of that section must, where more than fifty or other a lower prescribed number of persons are employed (e), be trained in first-aid treatment), persons employed (e) to work (f) in premises which, by virtue of the regulations (b), are deemed, for the purposes of that section, to form part of the factory shall (according as may be specified in the regulations) be left out of account or be taken into account to a number (ascertained in accordance with the regulations) less than the full number thereof.

General note. Except in relation to shop premises which are in a covered market place, as defined in s. 51 (2), this section came into operation on 1st December 1964 (Offices, Shops and Railway Premises Act 1963 (Commencement No. 2) Order 1964 (S.I. 1964 No. 1045)).

S. 175 (6) of the Factories Act 1961 provides that "where a place situate within the close, curtilage or precincts forming a factory is solely used for some purpose other than the processes carried on in the factory, that place shall not be deemed to form part of the factory for the purposes of this Act . . ." These words are to be construed as though they read "for some purpose other than the processes for or incidental to the main purpose of the factory"; Thurogood v. Van den Berghs and Jurgens Ltd., [1951] 2 K.B. 537 at p. 545; [1951] 1 All E.R. 682 at p. 686 (a construction approved by the House of Lords in Longhurst v. Guildford, Godalming and District Water Board, [1963] A.C. 265; [1961] 3 All E.R. 545). Thus, in Luttman v. Imperial Chemical Industries, Ltd., [1955] 3 All E.R. 481, a canteen for the use of the factory work people was held not to be excluded since its purpose was incidental to the main purpose of the factory, and in Newton v. John Stanning & Son, Ltd., [1962] 1 All E.R. 78, D.C. a pump house containing machinery used to pump water under pressure into the mill in a textile bleaching and finishing factory was held not to be excluded since the pumping process was a process for and incidental to the main purpose of the factory. In Thomas v. British Thomson-Houston Co., Ltd., [1953] 1 All E.R. 29, however, a canteen for the exclusive use of the executive and administrative staff, though part was used occasionally for conferences between management and shop stewards and another part was a games room for apprentices, was held not to form part of the factory. This section relates to premises within this Act which are physically within the close, etc. of a factory but which, for the reasons given above, are deemed not to form part of the factory.

THE OFFICES AND SHOPS IN FACTORIES (FIRST AID) REGULATIONS 1964

(S.I. 1964 No. 321)

Dated 17th August 1964

The Minister of Labour—

(a) by virtue of the powers conferred on him by section 25 of the Offices, Shops and Railway Premises Act 1963 (hereafter in these Regulations referred to as "the Act of 1963") and of all other powers enabling him in that behalf; and

- (b) after publishing, pursuant to Schedule 1 to the Act of 1963, notice of the proposal to make the Regulations and not having received any objection to the draft in regard to which he is required by the said Schedule to direct an inquiry to be held, hereby makes the following special Regulations:—

1.—(1) These Regulations may be cited as the Offices and Shops in Factories (First Aid) Regulations 1964 and shall come into operation on 1st December 1964.

(2) The Interpretation Act 1889 shall apply to the interpretation of these Regulations as it applies to the interpretation of an Act of Parliament.

2. Premises to which the Act of 1963 applies which are not, for the purposes of the Factories Act 1961 (hereafter in these Regulations referred to as “the Act of 1961”), a factory but which, but for the operation of section 175 (6) of the Act of 1961, would, for the purposes of the Act of 1961, form part of a factory—

- (a) shall be excepted from the operation of section 24 (which contains general provisions relating to first aid) of the Act of 1963; and
- (b) shall, notwithstanding the said subsection (6), be deemed for the purposes of section 61 (first aid) of the Act of 1961 to form part of the factory of which, but for that subsection, they would, for the purposes of that Act, form part.

3. For the purposes of the application to a factory of subsection (4) of the said section 61 (which, amongst other things, requires that the person under whose charge is placed a first-aid box or cupboard provided in a factory in pursuance of that section must, where more than fifty or other a lower prescribed number of persons are employed, be trained in first-aid treatment), persons employed to work in premises which, by virtue of these Regulations, are deemed, for the purposes of that section, to form part of the factory shall be taken into account to a number less than the full number thereof, that is to say, of the persons employed to work at any one time in any such premises as aforesaid—

- (a) of every unit of 3 persons, 1 person shall be taken into account; and
- (b) of any fraction of a unit of 3 persons, where the fraction consists of 2 persons 1 person shall be taken into account and where the fraction consists of 1 person that person shall be left out of account.

26. First aid: office premises erected for the purposes of building operations, &c.—(1) This section applies to office premises (a) to which this Act applies, being premises erected—

- (a) at, or adjacent to (b), a place where there are carried on operations (c) to which section 127(1) (building operations and works of engineering construction) of the

Factories Act 1961 applies or works (c) to which that section applies; and

(b) for the purpose of, or in connection with, the operations or works (c).

(2) The Minister (d) may by special regulations (c) provide that premises to which this section applies, or such premises as aforesaid of a class (f) specified in the regulations,—

(a) shall be excepted from the operation of section 24 of this Act; and

(b) shall be deemed, for the purposes of any regulation as to first aid made by virtue of section 127 (2) of the said Act of 1961 which is applicable to the place where there are carried on the operations or works for the purpose of which, or in connection with which, the premises were erected, to form part of that place.

General note. Except in relation to shop premises which are in a covered market place, as defined in s. 51 (2), this section came into operation on 1st December 1964 (Offices, Shops and Railway Premises Act 1963 (Commencement No. 2) Order 1964 (S.I. 1964 No. 1045)).

(a) Office premises. See s. 1 (2), (5), ante.

(b) Adjacent to. This expression has in ordinary usage no precise and uniform meaning, but is not confined to places adjoining and includes places close to or near; see Wellington Corporation v. Lower Hutt Corporation, [1904] A.C. 773, P.C.; and cf. Re Ecclesiastical Comrs. for England's Conveyance, [1936] Ch. 430 at p. 441.

(c) Operations . . . or works to which s. 127 (1) of the Factories Act 1961 applies. Section 127 (1) of the Factories Act 1961 applies to building operations and to works of engineering construction “undertaken by way of trade or business, or for the purpose of any industrial or commercial undertaking”, and by s. 176 (1) of that Act, ‘building operation’ means the construction, structural alteration, repair or maintenance of a building (including re-pointing, re-decoration and external cleaning of the structure), the demolition of a building, and the preparation for, and laying the foundation of, an intended building, but does not include any operation which is a work of engineering construction within the meaning of this Act”; and, “‘work of engineering construction’ means the construction of any railway line or siding otherwise than upon an existing railway, and the construction, structural alteration or repair (including re-pointing and re-painting) or the demolition of any dock, harbour, inland navigation, tunnel, bridge, viaduct, waterworks, reservoir, pipeline, aqueduct, sewer, sewage works, or gasholder, except where carried on upon a railway or tramway, and includes such other works as may be specified by regulations of the Minister”. By the Engineering Construction (Extension of Definition) Regulations 1960 (S.I. 1960 No. 421) the latter definition is extended to include the construction etc. of the following (except where carried on in a factory or upon a railway or tramway)—“any steel or reinforced concrete structure other than a building, any road, airfield, sea defence works or river works, and any other civil or constructional engineering works of a similar nature to any of the foregoing works.”

Much judicial energy has been expended upon the question whether a particular operation is a building operation, principally by reason of the fact that the Act contains no definition of building. The term “building” is used in a wide sense (per ROMER, L.J., in Elms v. Foster Wheeler, Ltd., [1957] 2 All E.R. 714 at p. 718) and it is possible for a structure to be a building within the meaning of the Act notwithstanding that it is not enclosed by walls and a roof and is not one of the more ordinary forms of buildings; see McGuire v. Power Gas Corp., Ltd., [1961] 2 All E.R. 544 n. (catalytic oil plant held to be a building). See also, Wood v. Cooper, [1894] 3 Ch. 671; Paddington Corporation v. Att.-Gen., [1906] A.C. 1. Each case must depend on its own facts, bearing in mind the objects of the Act; see Knight v. Demolition and Construction Co., Ltd., [1953] 2 All E.R. 508, at p. 511 (gas retort works in a retort house held to be buildings). Whether the installation of plant in a building constitutes the construction of a building is also a question which depends upon the circumstances of each case. In Elms v. Foster Wheeler, Ltd., supra, the defendants were under contract to erect four steam generating plants at a power station. On the evidence, they were contributing to the construction of the power station inasmuch as they were installing the essential apparatus which it was the object of the walls and roof to house and which was to be united with the structure; accordingly the Court of Appeal held that the defendants were engaged in a building operation. Similarly, in Hughes v. McGoff and Vickers, Ltd., [1955] 2 All E.R. 291 and Simmons v. Bovis, Ltd., [1956] 1 All E.R. 736, the installation of electric conduits and the preparation of a lift shaft in buildings under construction were respectively held to be building operations, as was the installation of a pulverising fuel mill in a power station under construction in Baxter v. Central Electricity Generating Board, [1964] 2 All E.R. 815. On the other hand, in Hutchison v. Cocksedge & Co., Ltd., [1952] 1 All E.R. 696, the erection of pulp bagging plant in a sugar beet factory was held to be merely the provision of plant for a building and not a building operation. The scientific complexity of the operation is inconclusive upon, if not immaterial to, the question whether that operation is a building operation; see Byers v. Head Wrightson & Co., Ltd., [1961] 2 All E.R. 538 (work in Sealed Reactor building). Work which is preparatory to the repair or maintenance of a building such, for example, as the making of a wire profile of a gutter as a pattern for making a new gutter, is not a building operation; Sumner v. Robert L. Priestly, Ltd., [1955] 3 All E.R. 445, C.A.

(d) The Minister. The Minister of Labour (s. 90 (1)).

(e) Special regulations. As to the making of special regulations, see s. 80 (8) and Sch. 2, post. The Offices at Building Operations etc. (First Aid) Regulations 1964 have been made under this section and are printed below.

(f) Class of premises. See s. 90 (5).

THE OFFICES AT BUILDING OPERATIONS &c.
(FIRST AID) REGULATIONS 1964
(S.I. 1964 No. 1322)

Dated 17th August 1964

The Minister of Labour—

- (a) by virtue of the powers conferred on him by section 26 of the Offices, Shops and Railway Premises Act 1963 (hereafter in these Regulations referred to as “the Act of 1963”) and of all other powers enabling him in that behalf; and
- (b) after publishing, pursuant to Schedule 1 to the Act of 1963, notice of the proposal to make the Regulations and not having received any objection to the draft in regard to which he is required by the said Schedule to direct an inquiry to be held.

hereby makes the following special Regulations:—

1.—(1) These Regulations may be cited as the Offices at Building Operations &c. (First Aid) Regulations 1964 and shall come into operation on 1st December 1964.

(2) The Interpretation Act 1889 shall apply to the interpretation of these Regulations as it applies to the interpretation of an Act of Parliament.

2. These Regulations shall apply to office premises to which the Act of 1963 applies, being premises erected—

- (a) at, or adjacent to, a place where there are carried on operations to which section 127 (1) (building operations and works of engineering construction) of the Factories Act 1961 (hereafter in these Regulations referred to as “the Act of 1961”) applies or works to which that section applies; and
- (b) for the purpose of, or in connection with, the operations or works.

3. Office premises to which these Regulations apply—

- (a) shall be excepted from the operation of section 24 (which contains general provisions relating to first aid) of the Act of 1963; and
- (b) shall be deemed, for the purposes of any regulation as to first aid* made by virtue of section 127 (2) of the Act of 1961 which is applicable to the place where there are carried on the operations or works for the purpose of which, or in connection with which, the premises were erected, to form part of that place.

* The regulation as to first aid applicable to building operations is reg. 80 of the Building (Safety, Health & Welfare) Regulations 1948. No such regulation applicable to works of engineering construction has been made.

27. Penalization of dangerous acts and interference with equipment, &c.—(1) A person (a) who, in premises to which this Act applies (b), wilfully and without reasonable cause (c) does anything likely to endanger the health or safety of persons employed (d) to work (e) therein shall be guilty of an offence (f).

(2) A person (a) who, in premises to which this Act applies (b), wilfully interferes with, wilfully misuses (g) or without reasonable excuse (c) removes any equipment, appliance, facilities or other thing provided there in pursuance of this Act or regulations thereunder shall be guilty of an offence (f).

(3) Nothing in this section shall be taken as limiting the power conferred by section 20 or 21 of this Act (h) to make by regulations any such provision as is mentioned in, as the case may be, the one section or the other, including further provision as to matters which are the subject of this section.

General note. Except in relation to shop premises which are in a covered market place, as defined in s. 51 (2), this section came into operation on 1st August 1964 (Offices, Shops and Railway Premises Act 1963 (Commencement No. 1) Order 1964 (S.I. 1964 No. 191)).

A contravention of this section by any person, whether or not employed to work in the premises, is an offence by him. For the effect of such a contravention upon the question whether the occupier or other person responsible for compliance with the Act or regulations is also guilty of an offence, see s. 67, post, and the notes thereto.

In a civil action for breach of statutory duty against the occupier or other person responsible for compliance with the Act or regulations, proof that the person injured was in breach of this section may be relevant to a defence of contributory negligence, but it cannot be relied upon as showing that the person injured voluntarily assumed the risk, since the principle volenti non fit injuria affords no defence to an action for breach of statutory duty—Wheeler v. New Merton Board Mills, Ltd., [1933] 2 K.B. 669, C.A.; I.C.I., Ltd. v. Shutwell, [1964] 2 All E.R. 999, H.L.

For a discussion of the general principles governing the defence of contributory negligence, see 28 Halsbury's Laws (3rd Edn.) pp. 87 et seq. For the application of these principles to actions between master and servant, see 28 Halsbury's Laws, pp. 515, 516 and, where it is the plaintiff's own act which constitutes the breach for which the master is liable, Ginty v. Belmont Building Supplies, Ltd., [1959] 1 All E.R. 414. In that case, the plaintiff, an asbestos sheeter, had to do work on a roof for which the defendant, his employer, provided crawling boards as required by the relevant regulations, but the plaintiff deliberately chose not to use them. PEARSON, J. held that in so doing the plaintiff was in breach of his duty under the Factories Act 1937 and the regulations and that, since crawling boards were not used, as the regulations required, the defendants were also in breach of duty. The actual wrongful act was the plaintiffs' wrongful act, but in one aspect it constituted a breach by him and in another aspect a breach by his employer. PEARSON, J. held that in such a case the question was not whether the employer had delegated his statutory duty to the plaintiff, but simply—whose fault was it? The fact that the immediate and direct cause of the accident was the wrongful act of the plaintiff was not decisive. There must be an inquiry whether the fault of the employer under the statutory obligation consists of, and is co-extensive with, the wrongful act of the employee. If there is some fault on the part of the employer which goes beyond, or is independent of, the wrongful act of the employee and which was a cause of the accident, the employer has some liability. This statement of principle was approved by the Court of Appeal in McMath v. Rimmer Brothers (Liverpool), Ltd., [1961] 3 All E.R. 1154, but in Ross v. Associated Portland Cement Manufacturers, Ltd., [1964] 2 All E.R. 452, H.L., Lord REID said that if the question "Whose fault was it?" is put it must be remembered that fault is not necessarily equivalent in this context to blameworthiness and that the question really is—whose conduct caused the accident? In Ross v. Associated Portland Cement Manufacturers, Ltd., supra, the deceased workman had to repair a woven safety net 22 feet above the ground but he was given neither any instructions nor the proper equipment, a moveable platform, for the work and used a ladder resting against the netting and it was held that, although the deceased was himself negligent, the employers were in breach of their duty under what is now s. 29 (1) of the Factories Act 1961 to provide a safe place of work for the deceased and that, since the deceased had no such duty, there was a fault which went beyond and was independent of the wrongful act of the deceased so that the employers were two-thirds to blame. Once the employee has proved a breach of statutory duty the onus is upon the employer to prove that the employee's fault was co-extensive with the breach; Boden v. Moore (1961), 105 Sol. Jo. 510, C.A.

(a) A person. Note that any person, whether or not employed or working on the premises, may contravene this section.

(b) Premises to which this Act applies. See ss. 1 to 3, ante.

(c) Wilfully and without reasonable cause. See note (g), infra.

(d) Employed. For definition, see s. 90 (1), (4).

(e) Work. See note (a) to s. 3, ante.

(f) Offence. For offences, see ss. 63 et seq. 70, 86 (1), post.

(g) Wilfully interferes with, wilfully misuses. In Charles v. S. Smith & Sons (England), Ltd., [1954] 1 All E.R. 499, HILBERY, J., in discussing the meaning of s. 19 of the Factories Act 1937, held that the words "wilfully interfere with or misuse any . . . appliance" required not merely an intentional touching or misplacement, but something in the nature of a perverse intermeddling with the appliance. However, in so holding HILBERY, J. construed the word "or" as conjunctive not disjunctive, so that there could be no interference without misuse, and it may be that in this section, the wording of which draws a clear distinction between wilful interference and wilful misuse, wilful interference alone does not require such a degree of perverse conduct. In the same case, HILBERY, J. also discussed the meaning of "wilfully and without reasonable cause do anything likely to endanger himself or others" in s. 119 (2) of the Factories Act 1937. He held that since the workman in that case did not foresee, and was not negligent in not foreseeing that his act might endanger him he had not "wilfully and without reasonable cause" done anything to endanger himself. HILBERY, J. did not state affirmatively, however, that negligent and percient conduct alone would suffice to constitute wilfulness and it is submitted that in both the phrases under consideration in this note the word "wilfully" connotes an element of perversity of conduct. In the context of the criminal law, mens rea must be proved; Younghusband v. Luftig, [1949] 2 K.B. 354; [1949] 2 All E.R. 72; Wilson v. Inyang, [1951] 2 K.B. 799; [1951] 2 All E.R. 237; Bullock v. Turnbull, [1952] 2 Lloyd's Rep. 303.

(h) Power conferred by s. 20 or 21. I.e. the power to make special regulations for securing health and safety and for controlling noise and vibrations.

Fire Precautions

28. Provision of means of escape in case of fire.—

(1) All premises to which this Act applies (a) shall be provided with such means of escape in case of fire for the persons employed (b) to work (c) therein as may reasonably be required in the circumstances of the case.

(2) In determining, for the purposes of this section, what means of escape may reasonably be required in the case of any premises, regard shall be had (amongst other things) not only to the number of persons who may be expected to be working (c) in the premises at any time but also to the number of persons (other than those employed (b) to work (c) therein) who may reasonably be expected to be resorting to the premises at that time.

General note. Except in relation to shop premises which are in a covered market place, as defined in s. 51 (2), this section came into operation on 1st August 1964 (Offices, Shops and Railway Premises Act 1963 (Commencement No. 1) Order 1964 (S.I. 1964 No. 191)).

This section does not apply to fuel storage premises which are wholly in the open or, where they are partly in the open, to such parts as are in the open; see s. 40.

(a) Premises to which this Act applies. See ss. 1 to 3.

(b) Employed. For definition, see s. 90 (1), (4).

(c) Work; Working. See note (a) to s. 3.

29. Certification of premises by appropriate authority.

—(1) Subject to the provisions of subsection (8) of this section and of regulations made under subsection (9) thereof and to the following provisions of this Act (a), it shall not be lawful—

- (a) for more than twenty persons to be employed (b) to work (c) at any one time in any premises to which this Act applies (d);
- (b) for more than ten persons to be so employed (b) elsewhere than on the ground floor of any such premises; or
- (c) for any person to be employed (b) to work (c) in any such premises in or underneath which explosive or highly flammable materials of a kind prescribed by regulations (e) made by the Minister (f) are used or are stored in a quantity not less than such as may be so prescribed;

unless there is in force with respect to the premises a certificate (hereafter in this Act referred to as a "fire certificate") issued under the following provisions of this section by the appropriate authority (g) (as hereafter in this Act defined) that the premises are provided with such means of escape in case of fire for the persons employed (b) to work (c) therein, or proposed to be so employed (b), as may reasonably be required in the circumstances of the case (h), nor, where a building contains two sets or more of premises to which this Act applies, shall the employment (b) of a person to work (c) in either (or any) of them be lawful without a fire certificate's being in force with respect to the set in which he is so employed (b) if—

- (i) the aggregate of persons employed (b) to work (c) at any one time in both (or all) of the sets of premises exceeds twenty; or
- (ii) more than ten persons are employed (b) at any one time to work (c) in one of them elsewhere than on the ground floor of the building, or, of the aggregate of the persons employed (b) to work (c) at any one time in both (or all) of them, more than ten are employed (b) to work (c) at that time elsewhere than as aforesaid.

(2) An application for the issue of a fire certificate with respect to any premises must be made to the appropriate authority (g) in such form as may be prescribed by order (i) made by the Minister (f) and state the greatest number of persons employed (b) to work (c) at any one time in the premises or proposed to be so employed (b) and such other (if any) particulars as may be so prescribed, and, if regulations (e) made by the Minister (f) so require, must be accompanied by such plans of the premises as may be specified in the regulations (e).

(3) Where such an application is duly made with respect to any premises, and (if that is required by virtue of the last foregoing subsection) is accompanied by the specified plans, it shall be the duty (k) of the appropriate authority (g) to cause an inspection to be carried out of the premises and the means of escape therefrom in case of fire for the persons employed (b) to work (c) therein, or proposed to be so employed (b), with which the premises are provided and, if satisfied that the means with which the premises are provided are such as may reasonably be required in the circumstances of the case (h), to issue a certificate to that effect.

(4) Where the appropriate authority (g), after causing, in pursuance of the last foregoing subsection, an inspection to be carried out of any premises, inform the applicant that they will not issue a fire certificate with respect to the premises unless specified alterations (l) are made thereto, they shall specify the time within which the alterations are to be carried out and, if the certificate is not issued, it shall be deemed to have been refused (m) at the expiration of the time so specified or such further time as the authority may have allowed.

(5) A fire certificate issued with respect to any premises shall—

- (a) specify the greatest number of persons who, in the opinion of the appropriate authority, can safely be employed (b) to work (c) at any one time in the premises;

(MODIFICATION OF SECTION 29) REGULATIONS 1964

(S.I. 1964 No. 761)

Dated 26th May 1964

The Minister of Labour—

- (a) by virtue of the powers conferred on him by section 29 (9) of the Offices, Shops and Railway Premises Act 1963 (hereafter in these Regulations referred to as “the Act”) and of all other powers enabling him in that behalf; and
- (b) after publishing, pursuant to Schedule 1 to the Act, notice of the proposal to make the Regulations and not having received any objection to the draft in regard to which he is required by the said Schedule to direct an inquiry to be held,
- hereby makes the following special Regulations:—

1.—(1) These Regulations may be cited as the Offices, Shops and Railway Premises Act 1963 (Modification of Section 29) Regulations 1964 and shall come into operation on 1st August 1964.

(2) The Interpretation Act 1889 shall apply to the interpretation of these Regulations as it applies to the interpretation of an Act of Parliament.

2. The provisions of section 29 (1) of the Act shall, in the case of any set of premises to which the Act applies comprised in a building in which is also comprised any factory within the meaning of the Factories Act 1961 (c) (hereafter in these Regulations referred to as a “factory”) or any part of a factory, be modified to the extent and in the manner specified in Regulations 3 and 4.

3. The employment of a person to work in any set of premises to which the Act applies of the kind specified in Regulation 2 shall not be lawful unless there is a fire certificate in force with respect to the premises if—

- (a) an aggregate of more than 20 persons at any one time is, in the building in which the said set of premises is situate, employed to work in premises to which the Act applies and in any factory or any part of a factory (as the case may be); or
- (b) an aggregate of more than 10 persons at any one time is, in the building in which the said set of premises is situate, employed to work elsewhere than on the ground floor in premises to which the Act applies and in any factory or any part of a factory (as the case may be).

4. Nothing in that part of section 29 (1) of the Act which provides for the case where a building contains two sets or more of premises to which the Act applies shall apply in the case of any premises to which the Act applies of the kind specified in Regulation 2.

30. Maintenance of means of escape in case of fire, and inspection by appropriate authority.—(1) All means of escape specified in a fire certificate (a) shall be properly maintained (b) and kept free from obstruction.

(2) So long as a fire certificate (a) is in force with respect to any premises, the appropriate authority (c) may at any time cause the premises to be inspected for the purpose of ascertaining whether there has been a change of conditions by reason of which the existing means of escape in case of fire have become insufficient.

(3) If, while a fire certificate (a) is in force with respect to any premises, it is proposed to make a material extension to, or material structural alteration of, the premises, to increase the number of persons employed (d) to work (e) therein at any one time above that stated in the certificate, to begin to use therein materials of a kind prescribed by virtue of section 29 (1) (c) of this Act or to begin to store therein such materials in a quantity not less than that so prescribed, the occupier (f) shall, before effect is begun to be given to the proposals, give to the appropriate authority (c) notice (g) of the proposals.

(4) If—

(a) the appropriate authority (c) are satisfied, with respect to any premises with respect to which a fire certificate (a) is in force (whether as a result of an inspection caused by them to be carried out under subsection (2) of this section or otherwise), that the existing means of escape from the premises in case of fire have, in consequence of a change of conditions, become insufficient; or

(b) the appropriate authority (c) are satisfied, with respect to any premises with respect to which a notice under the last foregoing subsection has been given to them, that the giving of effect to the proposals notified will result in the means of escape from the premises in case of fire becoming insufficient;

they may, in a case falling within paragraph (a) above, by notice (g) served on the occupier (f) of the premises, require him to make to the premises, within such period as may be specified in the notice, such alterations (h) as may be so specified, or, in a case falling within paragraph (b) above, by notice (g) so served prohibit effect's being given to the proposals till the occupier (f) shall have made to the premises such alterations (h) as may be so specified, and, in either case, they shall, upon the alterations (h) being made, amend the certificate or issue a new one.

(5) In the event of a contravention (i) of a requirement or prohibition imposed by a notice (g) served under the last foregoing subsection with respect to any premises, the occupier (f) of the premises shall be guilty of an offence (k), and upon his conviction thereof the appropriate authority (c) shall cancel the fire certificate (a) issued with respect to the premises; and the appropriate authority (c) may cancel the fire certificate (a) issued with respect to any premises if they are satisfied that there has been such a contravention (c) as aforesaid with respect to the premises (whether or not proceedings are brought in respect of the contravention (i)).

(6) Where the appropriate authority (c) are satisfied, with respect to any premises with respect to which a notice (g) under subsection (3) of this section has been given to them, that the giving of effect to the proposals notified will not result in the means of escape from the premises in case of fire becoming insufficient, they shall, upon production of the fire certificate (a) in force with respect to the premises, cause to be written on the certificate a statement that they are so satisfied.

General note. Except in relation to shop premises which are in a covered market place, as defined in s. 51 (2), this section came into operation on 1st August 1964 (Offices, Shops and Railway Premises Act 1963 (Commencement No. 1) Order 1964 (S.I. 1964 No. 191)).

This section does not apply to fuel storage premises which are wholly in the open or, where they are partly in the open, to such parts as are in the open; see s. 40.

(a) Fire certificate. See s. 29 (1).

(b) Properly maintained. See note (h) to s. 8.

(c) Appropriate authority. See s. 39.

(d) Employed. For definition, see s. 90 (1), (4).

(e) Work. See note (a) to s. 3.

(f) Occupier. See note (h) to s. 22.

(g) Notice. For the service of notices, see s. 81.

(h) Alterations. See s. 41 as to consultation in certain cases.

(i) Contravention. For definition, see s. 90 (1).

(k) Offence. For offences, see ss. 63 et seq., 70, 86 (1).

31. Right of appeal against matters arising out of sections 29 and 30.—(1) A person who is aggrieved (a)—

- (a) by the refusal (b) of the appropriate authority (c) to issue a fire certificate (d) with respect to any premises;
- (b) by the refusal (b) of the appropriate authority (c) to amend a fire certificate (d) issued with respect to any premises;
- (c) by being required under the last foregoing section by the appropriate authority (c) to make any alterations to any premises or by the period within which he is so required to make any such alterations;
- (d) by the prohibition under the last foregoing section by the appropriate authority (c) of effect's being given to proposals till alterations shall have been made to any premises; or
- (e) by the cancellation, in pursuance of subsection (5) of the last foregoing section, of a fire certificate (d) issued with respect to any premises;

may, within twenty-one days (e) of the refusal (b) notice of requirement or prohibition or cancellation, appeal, (f) if the premises are situate in England or Wales, to a magistrates' court (g) acting for the petty sessions area (h) in which they are situate or, if they are situate in Scotland, to the sheriff within whose jurisdiction they are situate, and on any such appeal (f) the court may make such order (i) as it, or, as the case may be, the sheriff may make such order as he, thinks fit, and an order so made shall be binding on the appropriate authority (c).

(2) Where an appeal (f) is brought under this section against the refusal (b) of the appropriate authority (c) to issue a fire certificate (d) with respect to any premises or the cancellation in pursuance of subsection (5) of the last foregoing section of a fire certificate (d) issued with respect to any premises, section 29 (1) of this Act shall not render unlawful the employment (k) of persons to work (l) in the premises until the appeal (f) is finally determined.

General note. Except in relation to shop premises which are in a covered market, as defined in s. 51 (2), this section came into operation on 1st August 1964 (Offices, Shops and Railway Premises Act 1963 (Commencement No. 1) Order 1964 (S.I. 1964 No. 191)).

This section does not apply to fuel storage premises which are wholly in the open or, where they are partly in the open, to such parts as are in the open—see s. 40.

(a) Person . . . aggrieved. The interpretation of this phrase involves a consideration of what is meant, in the context in which the phrase is used, both by the word "person" and by the word "aggrieved". Where, as in the present context, no contrary intention appears, the word "person" includes any body of persons corporate or unincorporate; Interpretation Act 1889, s. 19. As to the meaning of the word "aggrieved", see note (o) to s. 3 of the Agriculture (Safety, Health and Welfare Provisions) Act 1956, p. 399.

(b) Refusal. The time runs from the date of the refusal, not from the date when the aggrieved person has notice of the refusal. As to the time of refusal when the authority require alterations under s. 29 (4), see that subsection.

(c) Appropriate authority. See s. 39.

(d) Fire certificate. See s. 29 (1).

(e) Within 21 days. It is a rule of general application that where a period of time from or after a specified event or date is prescribed by a statute or any instrument for the performance of any act, the day so specified is to be excluded from the computation of the period of time. Thus, in the present context, if a fire certificate was, for example, refused on the 10th July, an appeal entered on the 31st would be in time (Pugh v. Duke of Leeds (1777), 2 Cowp. 714).

(f) Appeal. The appeal is by way of complaint for an order; see the Magistrates' Courts Rules 1952 (S.I. 1952 No. 2190), r. 30. See also note (c) to s. 22.

Quaere whether a further appeal lies to a court of quarter sessions under s. 72, post. See also, as to suspension or rescission of the order on further complaint, the Magistrates' Courts Act 1952, s. 54 (2).

(g) Magistrates' court. For definition, see s. 90 (1).

(h) Petty sessions area. For definition, see s. 90 (1).

(12) A copy of any fire certificate issued with respect to any premises which, at the time of the issue of the certificate, are comprised in a building to which this section applies, shall be sent (n) to the occupier of the premises by the authority who

(15) If, on a complaint (or, in Scotland, a summary application) made by the owner (b) of a building to which this section applies to an appropriate court, the court is satisfied that the occupier of any part of the building prevents the owner from making, to premises to which this Act applies which are comprised in the building, any alterations the making of which is requisite in order to permit of a fire certificate's being issued with respect to the premises or any alterations specified in a notice served on him under section 30 (4) or 35 (2) of this Act, or prevents the carrying out, in pursuance of, or of a requirement imposed under, section 34 (2) of this Act, of a test or examination of means of giving warning in case of fire, the court may order that occupier to permit the making of the alterations or, as the case may be, the carrying out of the test or examination.

In this subsection "appropriate court" means, as regards a building in England or Wales, a magistrates' court (o) acting for the petty sessions area (p) in which the building is situate and, as regards a building in Scotland, the sheriff within whose jurisdiction it is situate.

(16) The occupier of any premises to which this Act applies which are comprised in a building to which this section applies shall furnish to the owner (b) of the building any information in the possession of the occupier the possession of which by the owner is requisite to enable him to comply, in the case of the premises, with section 30 (3) of this Act, and if the occupier fails so to do he shall be guilty of an offence (k).

General note. Different parts of this section came into operation on different dates. Sub-ss. (1) and (11), except in relation to premises which are in a covered market place to which s. 51 applies, came into operation on 1st May 1964. The remainder of the section, except in relation to premises which are in a covered market place to which s. 51 applies, came into operation on 1st August 1964 (see the Commencement No. 1 Order (S.I. 1964 No. 191)).

This and the following section of the Act are of great importance in regulating the incidence of liability to comply with the provisions of the Act in cases where part of a building in single ownership is let off, or where a building is in plural ownership. Section 42 only applies when all parts of the building in question are "in the same ownership" (see s. 42 (1)); s. 43 only applies when the building is one of which "different parts are owned by different persons" (see s. 43 (1)). The two sections are, thus, mutually exclusive, and their application depends, inter alia, upon an investigation of who "owns" the building, in whole or in part. "Owner" is defined in s. 90 (1), post, and its meaning is discussed in note (h) to that section.

43. Provisions with respect to buildings plurally owned.—(1) A building (a) to which this section applies is one of which different parts are owned (b) by different persons and of which a part consists of premises to which this Act applies (c); and in this section a reference to a common part of a building to which this section applies shall be taken to refer to a part of the building that is used for the purposes of, but is not comprised in, a part of the building that consists of premises to which this Act applies.

(2) Subsections (2) and (3) of the last foregoing section shall, with the substitution, for references to buildings to which that section applies and to common parts (d) thereof, of references respectively to buildings to which this section applies and to common parts thereof, have effect for securing the cleanliness and illumination of common parts of buildings to which this section applies as they have effect for securing the cleanliness and illumination of common parts of buildings to which that section applies; and in the event of a contravention (e), in relation to a common part (d) of a building to which this section applies, of either of those subsections or of regulations under either of them, the owner (b) of the part (or, if there are more owners than one of the part, each of them) shall be guilty of an offence (f).

(3) Section 16 (1) of this Act shall apply to floors, stairs, steps, passages and gangways comprised in, or constituting, a common part (d) of a building to which this section applies as it applies to floor, stairs, steps, passages and gangways in premises to which this Act applies, section 16 (2) of this Act shall apply to a staircase comprised in, or constituting, a common part of such a building as it applies to such a staircase as is mentioned in that subsection, and section 16 (3) of this Act shall apply to an open side of such a staircase as is first-mentioned in this subsection as it applies to an open side of such a staircase as is mentioned in the said subsection (2); and in the event of a contravention (e), in relation to any thing constituting, or comprised in, any such common part, of section 16 of this Act as applied by this subsection, the owner (b) of the part (or if there are more owners than one of the part, each of them) shall be guilty of an offence (f).

(4) For a contravention (e), in relation to premises consisting of part of any such part of a building to which this section applies as is owned (b) by one of the persons who between them own the building (being premises held under a lease or an agreement for a lease or under a licence), of section 9 of this Act (other than a contravention consisting in a failure to keep clean conveniences provided in pursuance of that section, not being conveniences provided for use jointly by the persons employed to work in the premises and by other persons), the first-mentioned person shall be responsible instead of the occupier of the premises.

(5) For a contravention (e), in relation to premises consisting of part of any such part of a building to which this section applies as is owned (b) by one of the persons who between them own the building (being premises held under a lease or an agreement for a lease or under a licence), of section 10 of this Act (other than a contravention consisting in a failure to provide means of cleaning or drying or a failure to keep clean and in orderly condition the place where facilities are provided in pursuance of that section, not being facilities provided for use jointly by the persons employed to work in the premises and by other persons) the first-mentioned person shall be responsible instead of the occupier of the premises.

(6) Section 22 of this Act (except so far as relating to operations or processes) shall, with the substitution, for references to the occupier of the premises, of references to the persons who between them own the building, have effect in relation to a common part (d) of a building to which this section applies, and to machinery, plant, equipment and appliances used in such a part, as it has effect in relation to premises to which this Act applies, and to machinery, plant, equipment and appliances used in such premises.

(7) Where the occupier of premises comprised in a building in England or Wales to which this section applies is the defendant to a complaint made under section 22 of this Act with respect to the premises on the ground specified in subsection (1) (a) or (b) of that section a copy of the summons issued in consequence of the making of the complaint together with a notice stating that he will be entitled to appear at the hearing of the complaint shall be served on each of the persons who between them own (b) the building in like manner (g) as a summons falling to be served on him is required to be served and he shall, if he appears at the hearing, be deemed to be a defendant to the complaint; and the powers of the court under section 55 (1) of the Magistrates' Courts Act 1952 shall be deemed to include power, whatever adjudication the court makes on the complaint, to order any of the parties to pay the whole or part of the costs of all or any of the others.

(8) Where the occupier of premises comprised in a building in Scotland to which this section applies is a defender in a summary application made under section 22 of this Act in respect of the premises on the ground specified in subsection (1) (a) or (b) of that section, a copy of the application together with notice of the place, date and time fixed for the hearing of it shall be served on each of the persons who between them own the building and they shall thereafter be parties to the proceedings.

(9) In the application, to premises comprised in a building to which this section applies, of the provisions of this Act with respect to fire precautions—

- (a) references to the premises shall be construed as including references to any part of the building used for the purposes of, but not comprised in, the premises;
- (b) for references to the occupier of the premises (except the reference in section 29 (5)) there shall be substituted references to the persons who between them own the building; and
- (c) for the reference in the said section 29 (5) to the occupier of the premises there shall be substituted a reference to the person who owns the part of the building of which the premises consist.

(10) A copy of any fire certificate issued with respect to any premises which, at the time of the issue of the certificate, are comprised in a building to which this section applies, shall be sent (i) to the occupier of the premises by the authority who issued it, and section 29 (6) of this Act shall apply to the copy instead of to the certificate.

(11) For a contravention (e), in relation to premises comprised in a building to which this section applies; of section 28 of this Act, for a contravention, in relation to such premises, of section 30 (1) of this Act (other than a contravention consisting in a failure to keep means of escape free from obstruction, being a failure caused by the use of the premises), and for a contravention, in relation to such premises, of section 33 (3) of this Act or of regulations under section 35 (1) thereof, each of the persons who between them own (b) the building shall be responsible instead of the occupier of the premises.

(12) Section 34 (1) of this Act shall, in its application to premises comprised in a building to which this section applies, have effect as if it required the warning referred to therein to be perceptible in every part of the building used for the purposes of, but not comprised in, the premises, in every other set of premises comprised in the building which are premises to which this Act applies, and in every part of the building used for the purposes of, but not comprised in, any other such set of premises as aforesaid; and for a contravention (e), in relation to premises comprised in such a building, of that section, each of the persons who between them own (b) the building shall be responsible instead of the occupier of the premises.

(13) If, on a complaint (or, in Scotland, a summary application) made to an appropriate court by one of the persons who, between them, own a building to which this section applies, the court is satisfied that another of those persons or any other person having an estate or interest in the building prevents the making, to premises to which this Act applies which are comprised in the building, of any alterations the making of which is requisite in order to permit of a fire certificate's being issued with respect to the premises or of any alterations specified in a notice served on those persons under section 30 (4) or 35 (2) of this Act, or prevents the carrying out in pursuance of, or of a requirement imposed under, section 34 (2) of this Act, of a test or examination of means of giving warning in case of fire, the court may order that other person to permit the making of the alterations or, as the case may be, the carrying out of the test or examination.

In this subsection "appropriate court" means, as regards a building in England or Wales, a magistrates' court (j) acting for the petty sessions area (k) in which the building is situate and, as regards a building in Scotland, the sheriff within whose jurisdiction it is situate.

(14) The occupier of any premises to which this Act applies which are comprised in a building to which this section applies shall furnish to each of the persons who between them own the building any information in the possession of the occupier the possession of which by the persons aforesaid is requisite to enable them to comply, in the case of the premises, with section 30 (3) of this Act, and if the occupier fails so to do he shall be guilty of an offence (f).

General note. Different parts of this section came into operation at different dates. Sub-sections (1) and 9 (a), except in relation to premises which are in a covered market place to which s. 51 applies, came into operation on 1st May 1964. - (a) railway signal boxes the construction of which was completed before 1st August 1964 and which are so situated that there is no piped water supply available within a distance of 200 yards from them, from so much of section 10 (1) (which relates to washing facilities) of the Act as requires water supplied to be running water;
- (b) railway signal boxes the construction of which was completed before 1st August 1964 and in the case of which on that date—
 - (i) there is a piped water supply available within a distance of 200 yards from them; but
 - (ii) there are no effective means of heating running water; from so much of the said section 10 (1) as requires washing facilities provided thereunder to include a supply of clean, running hot and cold or warm water, subject to the conditions specified in Article 3 of this Order.

3. The conditions referred to in Article 2 (b) of this Order are that in the case of premises of the class to which the said Article 2 (b) applies washing facilities provided shall include—

46. Power of authorities who enforce Act to grant exemptions from certain requirements thereof.—(1) The authority having power to enforce (a), with respect to any premises, the following provisions of this Act, namely, section 5 (2) and sections 6 and 9, may—

- (a) exempt the premises or any room therein from all or any of the requirements imposed by the said sections 5 (2) and 6;
- (b) exempt the premises from all or any of the requirements imposed by the said section 9;

if satisfied that, in the circumstances affecting the subject of the exemption, compliance with the requirements or requirement from which exemption is granted is not reasonably practicable (b).

(2) The authority having power to enforce (a) section 10 (1) of this Act with respect to any premises may, if satisfied that it is not reasonably practicable (b) for running water to be supplied there or for running water so supplied to be heated, exempt the premises from so much of that subsection as requires the water supplied to be running water.

(3) An exemption under subsection (1) of this section of, or of a room in, any premises from a requirement of a provision of this Act may be granted for a period not exceeding two years, but may from time to time be extended for a further such period beyond the expiration of the period at the expiration of which it would otherwise expire if the authority having power to enforce (a) that provision with respect to the premises are satisfied as mentioned in subsection (1) of this section and are further satisfied that the person who, if the exemption were not in force, would be responsible (c) for a contravention (d) in relation to the premises of that provision (being a contravention (d) consisting in a failure to comply with that requirement) has not failed to do anything the doing of which might have rendered compliance with that requirement reasonably practicable (b).

(4) An exemption under subsection (2) of this section may be granted without limit of time or for a specified period; but the grant of such an exemption for a specified period shall not preclude the grant of the like exemption for further periods.

(5) An exemption of, or of a room in, any premises from a requirement imposed by a provision of this Act shall not be granted or extended under this section—

(a) except upon application made to the appropriate authority, in such form as may be prescribed by order (e) made by the Minister (f)—

(i) in a case where the grant of an exemption is sought, by the person who would be responsible (c) for a contravention (d) in relation to the premises of that provision (being a contravention (d) consisting in a failure to comply with that requirement);

- (ii) in a case where the extension of an exemption is sought, by the person who, if the exemption were not in force, would be responsible (c) as aforesaid;
- (b) unless the application is accompanied by a certificate in such form as may be so prescribed, that the obligation to which the applicant is subject by virtue of subsection (6) (a) below has been complied with; and
- (c) until the expiration of the period of fourteen days beginning (g) with the day next following that on which the application is made.

(6) In relation to an application for the grant or extension of an exemption under this section of, or of a room in, any premises, compliance by the applicant with the following requirements shall be requisite, namely,—

- (a) he must, immediately before the application is made, post in the premises, in such a position, and in such characters, as to be easily seen and read by the persons employed (h) to work (i) in the premises, a notice—

- (i) stating that such an application is being made;

- (ii) specifying the requirement from which exemption or, as the case may be, further exemption, is being sought;

- (iii) specifying the period for which the grant or, as the case may be, the extension, is being sought (or if, where a grant of exemption is being sought under subsection (2) of this section, it be the case that the grant thereof without limit of time is being sought, specifying that fact);

- (iv) specifying the name and address of the authority to whom the application is being made and notifying the persons aforesaid that written representations with respect to the application may be made by any of them to that authority before the expiration of the period of fourteen days beginning (g) with the day next following that on which the notice is posted in compliance with this paragraph;

- (b) he must keep the said notice posted as aforesaid throughout the last-mentioned period; and a person making an application under this section who fails to comply with an obligation to which he is, in relation to the application, subject by virtue of this subsection shall be guilty of an offence (k) and liable to a fine not exceeding twenty pounds.

(7) An exemption under this section of, or of a room in, any premises from a requirement imposed by a provision of this Act may, if the authority having power to enforce (a) that provision with respect to the premises cease to be satisfied with respect to the matters with respect to which they were satisfied when the exemption was granted or, if the exemption has been extended under subsection (3) of this section, when it was extended, be withdrawn by that authority provided that three months' notice (l) of intention to withdraw it has been given (m) to the person who, if the exemption were not in force, would be responsible (c) for a contravention (d) in relation to the premises of that provision (being a contravention (d) consisting in a failure to comply with that requirement).

(8) Where an exemption of, or of a room in, any premises from a requirement imposed by a provision of this Act or an extension of such an exemption is granted under this section by an authority, a certificate of the grant or extension shall be sent by the authority to the person who, if the exemption were not in force, would be responsible (c) for a contravention (d) in relation to the premises of that provision (being a contravention (d) consisting in a failure to comply with that requirement).

(9) A certificate such as is mentioned in the last foregoing subsection shall, so long as the exemption whose grant or extension is certified thereby continues in force, be kept posted in the premises to which the exemption relates in such a position as to be easily seen and read by the persons employed (h) to work (i) in the premises.

(10) Notice of the refusal by an authority to grant or extend an exemption under this section shall be given (n) by them to the applicant for the grant or extension and also (if it be the case that representations with respect to the application were duly made by the persons employed (h) to work (i) in the premises to which the application related or any of those persons), either individually to such of those persons as duly made representations or to a person appearing (n) to the authority to be representative of such of those persons as duly made representations or to each of a number of persons who appear (n) to the authority to be representative between them of such of those persons as duly made representations.

(11) A person who is aggrieved (o)—

(a) by the refusal of an authority to grant or extend an exemption under this section of, or of a room in, any premises; or

(b) by a notice of intention to withdraw such an exemption; may, within twenty-one days (p) of the refusal or, as the case may be, service of the notice (m), appeal (q), if the premises are situate in England or Wales, to a magistrates' court (r) acting for the petty sessions area (s) in which they are situate, or, if they are situate in Scotland, to the sheriff within whose jurisdiction they are situate, and on any such appeal (q)—

(i) in a case falling within paragraph (a) above, the court or sheriff, if satisfied with respect to the matters with respect to which the authority would have to have been satisfied as a condition of their granting or extending the exemption, may order (t) the authority to grant or extend it, in the case of an exemption under subsection (1) of this section, for such period not exceeding two years as may be specified in the order, and, in the case of an exemption under subsection (2) of this section, either without limit of time or for such period as may be so specified;

(ii) in a case falling within paragraph (b) above, the court or sheriff, if satisfied with respect to the matters with respect to which the authority were satisfied when the exemption was granted or, if it has been extended, when it was extended, may order (t) the authority to cancel the notice of intention to withdraw the exemption.

(12) An application for the grant under this section of an exemption of, or of a room in, any premises from a requirement imposed by section 5 (2), 6, 9 or 10 (1) of this Act may be made, and such an exemption may be granted, despite the fact that the provision imposing the requirement is not in force in relation to the premises, but such an application shall not be entertained unless an order has been made under the following provisions of this Act appointing (u) either in relation to all premises to which this Act applies or in relation to premises of a class (v) within which fall the premises in question, a day for the coming into operation of that provision; and for the purposes of the application of the foregoing provisions of this section to an application made by virtue of this subsection—

- (a) references to the authority having power to enforce (a) with respect to the premises the provision imposing the requirement from which exemption is sought shall be construed as referring to the authority who would have power so to enforce that provision if it were in force; and

(7) Nothing in the provisions of this section charging any authority in Scotland with the enforcement of this Act or regulations thereunder shall be construed as authorising that authority to institute proceedings for any offence.

General note. This section came into operation, in relation to all premises within the Act, on 1st May 1964 (Offices, Shops and Railway Premises Act 1963 (Commencement No. 1) Order 1964 (S.I. 1964 No. 191)).

As from 1st April 1965, in sub-s. (3) (a) after the word "county" are inserted the words "or Greater London Council" and in sub-s. (5) for the words "administrative county of London" are substituted the words "Greater London" by the London Government Act 1963, s. 51 (2); and by ibid., s. 51 (1) in sub-s. (5) for the words "London County Council" are substituted the words "Greater London Council".

(a) It shall be the duty. The Public Health Act 1936, ss. 322–325 (19 Halsbury's Statutes (2nd Edn.) 483 et seq.) (which relate to default powers), and the Local Government Act 1933, s. 290 (2)–(5) (14 Halsbury's Statutes (2nd Edn.) 503, 504) (which relate to inquiries), are, subject to modifications, deemed to be incorporated or are applied, so far as England and Wales are concerned, by s. 61, post. As s. 322 (1) of the Act of 1936, as so incorporated and modified, provides for a complaint to the Minister, no mandamus will issue at the instance of a private person to compel an authority to fulfil their duties under the present section; cf. Pasmore v. Oswaldtwistle Urban District Council, [1898] A.C. 387. Yet, where the authority do not comply with an order under s. 322 (2) of the Act of 1936, as so incorporated and modified, mandamus will certainly lie at the instance of the Minister; see s. 322 (3) of that Act, as so incorporated and modified. Moreover, there is authority for saying that mandamus will be granted at the instance of the Minister in every case where the authority are in default; see R. v. Leicester Union, [1899] 2 Q.B. 632.

(b) Local authority. For definition, see s. 90 (1).

(c) Inspectors. For the powers of inspectors, see s. 53; see also s. 55.

(d) Sections 28 to 38. I.e. the sections relating to fire precautions.

(e) Fire authority. See note (a) to s. 39.

(f) Police authority. For definition, see s. 90 (1).

(g) Factory inspector. For definition, see s. 90 (1).

(h) The Minister. The Minister of Labour (s. 90 (1)).

(i) Premises which . . . would form part of a factory. See the general note to s. 25.

(k) Office premises. See s. 1 (2), (5).

(l) Shop premises. See s. 1 (3), (5).

(m) Premises to which s. 26 applies. I.e. office premises erected for purposes of building operations, etc.

(n) Following provisions. See ss. 74, 75.

(o) Premises which . . . would . . . form part of premises to which s. 123 (1) . . . applies. But for the provisions of s. 74 (1), post, office premises comprised in an electrical station would form part of that electrical station for the purposes of s. 123 (1) of the Factories Act, 1961.

(p) Premises which . . . would . . . form part of premises to which . . . s. 124 (1) . . . applies. But for the provisions of s. 74 (1), (4), office premises comprised in an institution would form part of that institution for the purposes of s. 124 (1) of the Factories Act 1961.

(q) Premises which . . . would . . . form part of premises to which . . . s. 125 (1) . . . applies, but not including, etc. But for the provisions of s. 75 (1) office premises comprised in any dock, wharf or quay (including any warehouse belonging to the owners, trustees or conservators of the dock, wharf or quay) or any other warehouse in or for the purposes of which mechanical power is used, would form part of such dock, wharf, quay or warehouse for the purposes of s. 125 (1) of the Factories Act 1961. By s. 75 (3) the reference to a warehouse in or for the purposes of which mechanical power is used in s. 125 (1) of the Factories Act 1961 is to be construed as not including a building or part of a building occupied by a wholesale dealer or merchant where goods are kept for sale wholesale. The latter is a shop within the meaning of s. 1 (3) (a) (iii) of this Act and is excluded from the provisions of sub-s. (4) of this section.

(r) Railway premises. See s. 1 (4), (5).

(s) Railway undertakers. For definition, see s. 90 (1).

(t) Fuel storage premises. See s. 1 (3) (a) (v).

(u) Place of public entertainment. For definition, see s. 90 (1).

(v) Premises which . . . form part of a mine etc. By s. 180 (3) (a) of the Mines and Quarries Act 1954, buildings on the surface surrounding or adjacent to the shafts or outlets, occupied together with the mine for the purpose of, or in connection with, the working of the mine or the disposal of its products or its refuse are deemed to form part of the mine. By s. 180 (3) (b) of that Act, buildings surrounding or adjacent to the quarry, occupied together with the quarry for the purpose of, or in connection with the working of the quarry or the disposal of its products or its refuse are deemed to form part of the quarry.

(w) Mine and quarry inspectors. For definition, see s. 90 (1).

53. Powers of local authorities' and Minister's inspectors.—(1) Any such person as follows (hereafter in this section referred to as an “inspector”), namely, an inspector appointed under subsection (1), (2) or (5) of the last foregoing section, a factory inspector (a) and a person authorised by the Minister (b) under subsection (3) of that section, shall, for the purpose of the execution of this Act, have power to do all or any of the following things, namely,—

(a) at any reasonable time to enter (c) any such premises as the following, and to inspect the whole or any part thereof and anything therein, that is to say:—

(i) any premises to which this Act applies (d);

(ii) any premises (other than as aforesaid) in which any conveniences, facilities or other thing are or is provided in pursuance of this Act or regulations thereunder;

(iii) any premises which, for the purposes of section 42 or 43 of this Act constitute a common part of a building to which the said section 42 or, as the case may be, the said section 43, applies;

(iv) any premises falling within section 51 of this Act (e);

(v) any premises which he has reasonable cause to believe (f) to be premises falling within any of the foregoing sub-paragraphs; and

(vi) any premises with respect to which he has reasonable cause to believe (f) that materials of a kind (g) prescribed by virtue of section 29 (1) (c) of this Act are therein used or are therein stored in a quantity not less than that so prescribed, being premises situate underneath premises to which this Act applies (d);

(b) to make such examination and inquiry as may be necessary—

(i) to ascertain whether, so far as regards any such premises as aforesaid or conveniences, facilities or other things therein provided, the provisions of this Act and regulations thereunder are complied with; or

(ii) to verify any belief that he has formed that any premises fall within sub-paragraph (i), (ii), (iii) or (iv) of paragraph (a) above or that, in premises situate as mentioned in sub-paragraph (vi) of that paragraph, materials of a kind (g) therein mentioned are used or are stored as so mentioned; or

(iii) to identify the owner (h) or occupier (i) of any premises falling within sub-paragraph (i), (ii), (iii) or (iv) of paragraph (a) above;

(c) on entering any premises to take with him a constable if he has reasonable cause to apprehend (k) any serious obstruction in the exercise of the powers conferred on him by this subsection;

(d) for the purpose of any examination or inquiry under the foregoing provisions of this subsection to require any person whom he finds in any such premises as are mentioned in paragraph (a) above or whom he has reasonable cause to believe (f) to be, or to have within the preceding two months been, employed (l) to work (m) in any such premises, to answer (in the absence of persons other than any whom the inspector may allow to be present) such questions as the inspector thinks fit to ask and to sign a declaration of the truth of his answers, so, however, that no answer given by a person in pursuance of a requirement imposed under this paragraph shall be admissible in evidence against him in any proceedings;

(e) to require the production of, and to inspect, any fire certificate (n) in force with respect to any premises to which this Act applies (d);

(f) to require any person having responsibilities in relation to any such premises as are mentioned in paragraph (a) above (whether or not the owner (h) or occupier (i) of the premises or a person employed (l) to work (m) therein) to give him such facilities and assistance with respect to any matters or things to which the responsibilities of that person extends as are necessary for the purpose of enabling the inspector to exercise any of the powers conferred on him by this subsection;

(g) to exercise such other powers as may be necessary for carrying this Act into effect.

(2) A person who—

(a) fails to comply with any requirement imposed by an inspector under the foregoing subsection; or

(b) prevents, or attempts (p) to prevent, any other person from appearing before an inspector or from answering any question to which an inspector may, by virtue of the foregoing subsection, require an answer; or

(c) obstructs an inspector in the exercise or performance of his powers or duties (q), shall be guilty of an offence (r) and liable to a fine not exceeding twenty pounds.

General note. This section came into operation, in relation to all premises within the Act, on 1st May 1964 (Offices, Shops and Railway Premises Act 1963 (Commencement No. 1) Order 1964 (S.I. 1964 No. 191)).

(a) Factory inspector. For definition, see s. 90 (1).

(b) The Minister. The Minister of Labour (s. 90 (1)).

(c) To enter . . . premises. Prima facie, a statutory power of entry is a power, if necessary, of forcible entry (Grove v. Eastern Gas Board, [1952] 1 K.B. 77; [1951] 2 All E.R. 1051).

(d) Premises to which this Act applies. See ss. 1 to 3.

(e) Premises within s. 51. I.e. a covered market place.

(f) Reasonable cause to believe. The meaning of these words in any enactment is a matter of construction in each case but “however read, they must be intended to serve in some sense as a condition limiting the exercise of an otherwise arbitrary power” (Nakkuda Ali v. Jayaratne (M. F. de S.), [1951] A.C. 66, P.C.). In the present context no doubt there must be both a belief and facts known to the inspector upon which that belief is reasonably founded; see R. v. Banks, [1916] 2 K.B. 621, C.C.A.; Nakkuda Ali v. Jayaratne (M. F. de S.), supra. The question whether the facts proved amount to reasonable cause for the belief is a matter of law (Lister v. Perryman (1870), L.R. 4 H.L. 521).

(g) Materials . . . prescribed by virtue of s. 29 (1) (c). I.e. explosive or highly flammable materials of a kind prescribed by regulations made under that subsection.

(h) Owner. For definition, see s. 90 (1).

(i) Occupier. See note (h) to s. 22.

(k) Reasonable cause to apprehend. See note (f), supra.

(l) Employed. For definition, see s. 90 (1), (4).

(m) Work. See note (a) to s. 3.

(n) Fire certificate. See s. 29 (1).

(p) Attempts. On what constitutes an attempt, see Halsbury's Laws of England, 3rd Edn., Vol. 10, pp. 306 et seq.

(q) Exercise or performance of powers or duties. The inspector must be exercising or performing the powers or duties which the Act in fact confers on him; the exercise or performance of purported powers or duties is not sufficient, even if honestly believed in; cf. Davis v. Lisle, [1936] 2 K.B. 434; [1936] 2 All E.R. 213; but see s. 58 (1).

(r) Offence. For offences, see ss. 63 et seq., 70, 86 (1).

54. Powers of Minister of Power's inspectors.—(1) Section 145 of the Mines and Quarries Act 1954 (a) shall have effect as if references therein to that Act included references to the foregoing provisions of this Act.

(2) A person authorised under section 52 (6) of this Act by the Minister of Power shall, for the purpose of the enforcement, with respect to such office (b) or shop premises (c) as are mentioned in that subsection, of this Act and regulations thereunder have the like powers as are conferred on mine and quarry inspectors (d) by the provisions of section 145 (1) of the Mines and Quarries Act 1954 as extended by the foregoing subsection (other than the provisions of sub-paragraphs (b) (ii) and (d) (ii) and (iii) and paragraph (f)); and section 145 (2) of that Act (obstruction, &c., of inspectors) shall, with requisite modifications, apply accordingly.

General note. This section came into operation, in relation to all premises within the Act, on 1st May 1964 (Offices, Shops and Railway Premises Act 1963 (Commencement No. 1) Order 1964 (S.I. 1964 No. 191)).

(a) Section 145 of the Mines and Quarries Act 1954. This section confers powers of entry, examination and inquiry upon mine and quarry inspectors.

(b) Office premises. See s. 1 (2), (5).

(c) Shop premises. See s. 1 (3), (5).

(d) Mine and quarry inspector. For definition, see s. 90 (1).

55. Production by local authorities' and Minister's inspectors of evidence of authority.—A person who is an inspector within the meaning of section 53 of this Act shall, if so required (a) when visiting any premises in exercise of powers conferred by that section, produce to the occupier (b) of the premises—

- (a) if he is a factory inspector (c), the certificate of appointment issued to him under section 150 of the Factories Act 1961;
- (b) if he is a person appointed under section 52 (1), (2) or (5) of this Act, some duly authenticated document showing that he is so appointed;
- (c) if he is a person authorised under section 52 (3) of this Act by the Minister (d), some duly authenticated document showing that he is so authorised.

General note. This section came into operation, in relation to all premises within the Act, on 1st May 1964 (Offices, Shops and Railway Premises Act 1963 (Commencement No. 1) Order 1964 (S.I. 1964 No. 191)).

(a) If so required. The right of entry may be exercised even though there is nobody on the premises to whom the document can be produced; cf. Grove v. Eastern Gas Board, [1952] 1 K.B. 77; [1951] 2 All E.R. 1051, C.A.

(b) Occupier. See note (h) to s. 22.

(c) Factory inspector. For definition, see s. 90 (1).

(d) The Minister. The Minister of Labour (s. 90 (1)).

56. Exercise, on behalf of factory and mine and quarry inspectors, of their powers by officers of fire brigades.—

(1) The like powers as are conferred by section 53 of this Act on a factory inspector (a) shall be exercisable, in relation to any premises, by an officer of the appropriate fire brigade (b) when authorised in writing by such an inspector for the purpose of reporting to the inspector on any such matter falling within the inspector's duties under this Act with respect to the premises as relates to fire; and subsection (2) of that section shall, with requisite modifications, apply accordingly.

(2) The like powers as are conferred by section 54 (2) of this Act on a person authorised under section 52 (6) thereof shall be exercisable, in relation to any premises, by such an officer as aforesaid when authorised in writing by a mine and quarry inspector (c) for the purpose of reporting to the inspector on any such matter falling within the inspector's duties under this Act with respect to the premises as relates to fire; and section 145 (2) of the Mines and Quarries Act 1954 shall, with requisite modifications, apply accordingly.

(3) An officer exercising any power conferred by this section shall, if asked so to do, produce his authority.

(4) Neither a factory inspector (a) nor a mine and quarry inspector (c) shall authorise an officer of a fire brigade to enter and inspect any premises except with the consent of the authority maintaining the brigade.

(5) In this section "appropriate fire brigade" means, in relation to any premises, the fire brigade maintained by the authority discharging in the area in which the premises are situate the functions of fire authority under the Fire Services Act 1947.

General note. This section came into operation, in relation to all premises within the Act, on 1st May 1964 (Offices, Shops and Railway Premises Act 1963 (Commencement No. 1) Order 1964 (S.I. 1964 No. 191)).

(a) Factory inspector. For definition, see s. 90 (1).

(b) Appropriate fire brigade. See sub-s. (5), infra.

(c) Mine and quarry inspector. For definition, see s. 90 (1).

57. Provisions for securing discharge of local authorities' duties in uniform manner.—(1) For the purpose of securing that the duties under this Act of local authorities (a) and the London County Council with respect to the enforcement of the foregoing provisions of this Act and regulations thereunder (except sections 28 to 38 (b) and regulations under any of them) are discharged in uniform manner, the Minister (c)—

(a) may make regulations (d) with respect to the manner of the discharge of those duties and of the exercise of the powers conferred by this Act on inspectors appointed by local authorities (a) and the London County Council respectively;

(b) may, with the approval of the Treasury as to numbers and salaries, appoint officers to be charged with the duty of securing that he is at all material times in possession of all information requisite to enable him to determine whether those duties are being so discharged and of advising local authorities (a) and the London County Council on matters concerning the discharge by them of those duties.

(2) An officer appointed under this section may inquire into the manner in which the duties aforesaid are for the time being discharged by a local authority (a) or the London County Council and, for that purpose, may—

- (a) examine any records kept in connection with the discharge of those duties by the authority or Council;
- (b) require the authority or Council or an inspector appointed by them in pursuance of this Act to give such assistance and information as the officer may reasonably specify; and
- (c) make inquiries of any person who appears to the officer likely to be able to give him information with respect to the manner in which the duties aforesaid are for the time being discharged by the authority or Council.

(3) The results of an inquiry under the last foregoing subsection shall, if the Minister (c) so directs, be reported to him in writing by the officer by whom it was carried out; and where that is done, the Minister (c) shall send a copy of the report to the local authority (a) in question (or to the London County Council, in a case where the subject of the inquiry was the manner in which their duties were for the time being discharged) and may, if he thinks fit, publish it in whole or in part.

(4) The like powers as, by section 53 of this Act, are conferred on an inspector within the meaning of that section shall be exercisable by an officer appointed under this section; and subsection (2) of that section shall, with requisite modifications, apply accordingly.

(5) An officer appointed under this section shall, if so required when visiting any premises in exercise of powers conferred by the foregoing subsections, produce to the occupier (e) of the premises some duly authenticated document showing that he is so appointed.

General note. Except in relation to shop premises which are in a covered market place, as defined by s. 51 (2), this section came into operation as follows:

sub-s. (1) on 18th February 1964; remainder of section on 1st May 1964.

In relation to shop premises which are in such a covered market place the whole section came into operation on 1st May 1964 (Offices, Shops and Railway Premises Act 1963 (Commencement No. 1) Order 1964 (S.I. 1964 No. 191)).

As from 1st April 1965, for the words "London County Council" are substituted the words "Greater London Council" by the London Government Act 1963, s. 51 (1).

(a) Local authority. For definition, see s. 90 (1).

(b) Sections 28 to 38. I.e. the sections relating to fire precautions.

(c) The Minister. The Minister of Labour (s. 90 (1)).

(d) Regulations. As to the making of regulations, see s. 80. No regulations under this section have yet been made.

(e) Occupier. See note (h) to s. 22.

58. Power of local authorities to indemnify their inspectors.—Where an action has been brought against an inspector appointed under section 52 (1) or (5) of this Act in respect of an act done (a) by him in the execution or purported execution of this Act and the circumstances are such that he is not legally entitled to require the authority by whom he was appointed to indemnify him, the authority may, nevertheless, indemnify him against the whole or part of any damages and costs or expenses which he may have been ordered to pay or may have incurred, if they are satisfied that he honestly believed that the act complained of had been within the scope of his employment and that his duty under this Act required or entitled him to do it.

General note. This section came into operation, in relation to all premises within the Act, on 1st May 1964 (Offices, Shops and Railway Premises Act 1963 (Commencement No. 1) Order 1964 (S.I. 1964 No. 191)).

(a) Act done. There is ample authority for saying that this covers an omission; see, in particular, Wilson v. Halifax Corpn. (1868), L.R. 3 Exch. 114; Jolliffe v. Wallasey Local Board (1873), L.R. 9 C.P. 62; and Holland v. Northwich Highway Board (1876), 34 L.T. 137. See also Graigola Merthyr Co. v. Swansea Corpn., [1929] A.C. 344, H.L. (quia timet action).

59. Restriction of disclosure of information.—If a person discloses (otherwise than in the performance of his duty or for the purposes of any legal proceedings, including arbitrations, or for the purposes of a report of any such proceedings as aforesaid) any information obtained by him in any premises entered by him in exercise of powers conferred by or by virtue of this Act, he shall be guilty of an offence (a) and liable to a fine not exceeding one hundred pounds or to imprisonment for a term not exceeding three months or to both such fine and such imprisonment.

General note. This section came into operation, in relation to all premises within the Act, on 1st May 1964 (Offices, Shops and Railway Premises Act 1963 (Commencement No. 1) Order 1964 (S.I. 1964 No. 191)).

60. (2) A copy of every report made in pursuance of the foregoing subsection by an authority shall be kept at the authority's offices, shall be open to inspection by any person at all reasonable hours free of charge and shall be supplied to any person on payment of a reasonable charge therefor.

General note. This section came into operation, in relation to all premises within the Act, on 1st May 1964 (Offices, Shops and Railway Premises Act 1963 (Commencement No. 1) Order 1964 (S.I. 1964 No. 191)).

As from 1st April 1965 for the words "London County Council" in sub-s. (1) are substituted the words "Greater London Council" by the London Government Act 1963, s. 51 (1).

- (a) Local authority. For definition, see s. 90 (1).
- (b) Fire authority. See note (a) to s. 39.
- (c) Year ... operation. I.e. 1964.

- (e) Day ... operation. I.e. 1st May 1964.
- (f) Order. As to the making of orders, see s. 80. The following order has been made under this section:

In this Schedule “railway offices” means office premises occupied by railway undertakers for the purposes of the railway undertaking carried on by them and situate in the immediate vicinity of the permanent way (not being office premises comprised in hotels).

61. Transfer of powers and duties of English or Welsh local authorities in default.—(1) Sections 322 to 325 (transfer of powers and duties of authorities in default) of the Public Health Act 1936 shall, subject to the modifications mentioned in the next following subsection, be deemed to be incorporated in this Act.

(2) The modifications referred to in the foregoing subsection are the following:—

- (a) references to the Minister shall be construed as referring to the Minister of Labour;
- (b) for the words “council, port health authority or joint board” (wherever occurring) and the words “council, authority or board” (wherever occurring) there shall be substituted the words “local authority” (a);
- (c) in section 322 (3) (i), for the words from “the council of a county district” to “one county” (where secondly occurring) there shall be substituted the words “a local authority other than the council of a county borough”;
- (d) in section 323, for the words “the council of a county district, a port health authority or a joint board”, there shall be substituted the words “a local authority” (a), and in paragraph (a) of that section for the word “grant” there shall be substituted the word “contribution”;

- (e) in section 324 (2) the words “port health authority or joint board” and the words “or board” shall be omitted.

(3) Subsections (2) to (5) of section 290 of the Local Government Act 1933 (which provides for the holding of inquiries for the purposes of that Act) shall, with the substitution, for references to a department, of references to the Minister (b), apply to an inquiry held under the said section 322 by virtue of subsection (1) of this section as they apply to an inquiry held under the said section 290.

- (4) This section extends to England and Wales only.

General note. This section came into operation, in relation to all premises within the Act, on 1st May 1964 (Offices, Shops and Railway Premises Act 1963 (Commencement No. 1) Order 1964 (S.I. 1964 No. 191)).

(a) Local authority. For definition, see s. 90 (1).

(b) The Minister. The Minister of Labour (s. 90 (1)).

62. Exercise and performance by Minister of powers of Scottish local authorities in default.—(1) If the Minister (a) is of opinion that an investigation should be made as to whether a local authority (b) have failed to discharge any of their functions under this Act, he may cause a local inquiry to be held, and if, after the inquiry has been held, he is satisfied that there has been such a failure on the part of the local authority, he may by order empower an officer of his department to discharge or procure the discharge of any such function.

(2) The amount (as certified by the Minister (a)) of any expenses incurred in pursuance of the foregoing subsection shall, on demand, be paid to him by the local authority (b) and shall be recoverable by him from them as a debt due to the Crown, and the authority shall have the like power of raising the money required as they have of raising money for defraying expenses incurred directly by them as a local authority (b).

(3) In relation to a local inquiry held under subsection (1) above, the provisions of subsection (3) to (9) of section 355 of the Local Government (Scotland) Act 1947 (which relate to local inquiries) shall apply as they apply in relation to local inquiries under that section.

(4) Nothing in this section shall affect any other power exercisable by the Minister (a) with respect to defaults of local authorities (b).

(5) This section extends to Scotland only.

General note. This section came into operation, in relation to all premises within the Act, on 1st May 1964 (Offices, Shops and Railway Premises Act 1963 (Commencement No. 1) Order 1964 (S.I. 1964 No. 191)).

(a) The Minister. The Minister of Labour (s. 90 (1)).

(b) Local authority. For definition, see s. 90 (1).

Offences, Penalties and legal Proceedings

63. Offences.—(1) In the event of a contravention (a), in relation to any premises to which this Act applies (b), of any such provisions of this Act as are mentioned in subsection (2) of this section or of regulations made under any such provisions, then—

(a) except in a case falling within either of the two following paragraphs, the occupier (c) of the premises shall be guilty of an offence;

(b) in a case where the contravention (a) is one for which, by or by virtue of this Act, some other person or persons is or are made responsible as well as (d) the occupier (c) of the premises, that other person or those other persons and the occupier (c) shall each be guilty of an offence;

(c) in a case where the contravention is one for which, by or by virtue of this Act, some other person or persons is or are made responsible instead of (e) the occupier (c) of the premises, that other person or each of those other persons shall be guilty of an offence.

(2) The provisions of this Act referred to in the foregoing subsection are sections 4, 5, 6 (1) to (5), 7 to 12, 13 (1), 14 to 19, 23, 24, 28, 29 (6), 30 (1), 33 to 38, 46 (9) and 48 (1) and (2).

General note. Except in relation to shop premises which are in a covered market place, as defined in s. 51 (2), this section came into operation on 1st May 1964 (Offices, Shops and Railway Premises Act 1963 (Commencement No. 1) Order 1964 (S.I. 1964 No. 191)).

(a) Contravention. For definition, see s. 90 (1).

(b) Premises to which this Act applies. See ss. 1 to 3.

(c) Occupier. See note (h) to s. 22, ante.

(d) Other person responsible as well as the occupier. The provisions which may impose responsibility on other persons as well as the occupier are regulations under ss. 37 (2), 38 (2).

(e) Other person responsible instead of the occupier. The provisions which impose responsibility on other persons instead of the occupier are s. 42 (6), (7), (13), (14); s. 43 (4), (5), (11), (12); s. 44. Regulations under ss. 37 (2), 38 (2), may do so.

64. Penalty for offences for which no express penalty is provided.—(1) A person guilty of an offence under this Act for which no express penalty is provided shall be liable to a fine not exceeding sixty pounds and, if the contravention (a) constituting the offence of which he is guilty is continued after his conviction of the offence, he shall be guilty of a further offence (b) and liable, in respect thereof, to a fine not exceeding fifteen pounds for each day on which the contravention (a) is so continued.

(2) The foregoing subsection shall, in a case where the court by which a person is convicted of any such offence as aforesaid is satisfied that the contravention (a) constituting the offence was likely to cause the death of, or serious bodily injury (c) to, any person, have effect as if, for the reference to sixty pounds, there were substituted a reference to three hundred pounds.

General note. Except in relation to shop premises which are in a covered market place, as defined in s. 51 (2), this section came into operation on 1st May 1964 (Offices, Shops and Railway Premises Act 1963 (Commencement No. 1) Order 1964 (S.I. 1964 No. 191)).

(a) Contravention. For definition, see s. 90 (1).

(b) Further offence. All offences under this Act are triable summarily (s. 70 (1)) so that, in the case of a continuing offence, no fine may be imposed in respect of the day earlier than six months before the date on which the information was laid; see R. v. Chertsey Justices, Ex parte Franks, [1961] 2 Q.B. 152; [1961] 1 All E.R. 825.

(c) Bodily injury. Since this Act distinguishes between “bodily injury” and “injury to health” (see ss. 20 (1), 21 (1), 22 (1) (a)), it appears that the heavier penalty cannot be imposed where the contravention was likely to cause serious injury to health unless it was also likely to cause death.

65. Offences by bodies corporate.—(1) Where an offence under this Act which has been committed by a body corporate is proved to have been committed with the consent (a) or connivance (b) of, or to be attributable to any neglect on the part of, any director, manager, secretary or other similar officer of the body corporate, or any person purporting to act in any such capacity, he as well as the body corporate shall be deemed to be guilty of that offence and shall be liable to be proceeded against and punished accordingly.

(2) In the foregoing subsection, the expression "director", in relation to any body corporate which is established by or under any enactment for the purpose of carrying on under national ownership any industry or part of an industry or undertaking and whose affairs are managed by the members thereof, means a member of that body.

General note. This section came into operation, in relation to all premises within the Act, on 1st May 1964 (Offices, Shops and Railway Premises Act 1963 (Commencement No. 1) Order 1964 (S.I. 1964 No. 191)).

(a) Consent. In this context "consent" would seem to mean true consent with knowledge (see Lamb v. Wright & Co., [1924] 1 K.B. 857; [1924] All E.R. Rep. 220—"a man cannot consent to what he does not know").

(b) Connivance. See note (f) to s. 4 of the Agriculture (Poisonous Substances) Act 1952, p. 359, post.

66. Penalty on persons actually committing offences for which others are liable.—Where a contravention (a) of a provision of this Act or of regulations thereunder for which a person is, by virtue of the foregoing provisions of this Act, liable on conviction to a penalty was due to an act or default (b) of another person, then, whether proceedings are or are not taken against the first-mentioned person, that other person may be charged with, and convicted of, the offence constituted by the contravention (a) and shall, on conviction, be liable to the same punishment as that to which the first-mentioned person is, on conviction, liable.

General note. This section came into operation, in relation to all premises within the Act, on 1st May 1964 (Offices, Shops and Railway Premises Act 1963 (Commencement No. 1) Order 1964 (S.I. 1964 No. 191)).

(a) Contravention. For definition, see s. 90 (1).

(b) Act or default. This means wrongful act or default; see Noss Farm Products, Ltd. v. Lilico, [1945] 2 All E. R. 609 and Lamb v. Sunderland and District Creamery, Ltd., [1951] 1 All E.R. 923. Accordingly, the fact that the act or default subsequently became unlawful is not sufficient to bring the section into operation; see Noss Farm Products, Ltd. v. Lilico, supra. Mens rea or negligence need not be proved if the original offence is constituted without proof of mens rea or negligence, as the case may be; see Lindley v. George W. Horner & Co., Ltd., [1950] 1 All E.R. 234; Lamb v. Sunderland and District Creamery, Ltd., supra; and Lester v. Balfour Williamson Merchant Shippers, Ltd., [1953] 1 All E.R. 1146; also Fisher v. Barrett and Pomeroy (Bakers), Ltd., [1954] 1 All E.R. 249.

67. Defence available to persons charged with offences.

—It shall be a defence (a) for a person charged with a contravention (b) of a provision of this Act or of regulations thereunder to prove that he used all due diligence (c) to secure compliance with that provision.

General note. This section came into operation, in relation to all premises within the Act, on 1st May 1964 (Offices, Shops and Railway Premises Act 1963 (Commencement No. 1) Order 1964 (S.I. 1964 No. 191)).

The wording of this section makes it clear that it is only concerned with criminal liability and does not provide a defence to a civil action; cf. Yelland v. Powell Duffryn Associated Collieries, Ltd., [1941] 1 K.B. 154; [1941] 1 All E.R. 278, C.A.; Potts (or Riddell) v. Reid, [1943] A.C. 1; [1942] 2 All E.R. 161; and Gallagher v. Dorman, Long & Co., Ltd., [1947] 2 All E.R. 38, C.A.

(a) Defence. The burden of proof laid on the defendant is less onerous than that resting on the prosecutor as regards proving the offence, and may be discharged by satisfying the court of the probability of what the defendant is called on to prove; see R. v. Carr-Briant, [1943] K.B. 607; [1943] 2 All E.R. 156, C.C.A., and R. v. Dunbar, [1958] 1 Q.B. 1; [1957] 3 All E.R. 737, C.C.A.

(b) Contravention. For definition, see s. 90 (1).

(c) All due diligence. Whether the defendant has or has not used all due diligence is a question of fact; but in a case stated the High Court will interfere if there was no evidence to support a finding on this point; see R. C. Hammett, Ltd. v. Crabb (1931), 145 L.T. 638. See also Rogers v. Barlow & Son (1906), 94 L.T. 519; R. C. Hammett, Ltd. v. London County Council (1933), 97 J.P. 105, and Pearce v. Cullen (1952), 96 Sol. Jo. 132.

68. Falsification of documents, false statements, &c.

—(1) If a person—

(a) with intent to deceive (a), forges (b)—

(i) a fire certificate (c) or a certificate such as is mentioned in section 46 (8) of this Act; or

(ii) an instrument issued under regulations under this Act whereby exemption is granted from any provision of the regulations; or makes or has in his possession a document so closely resembling any such certificate or instrument as aforesaid as to be calculated (d) to deceive; or

(b) for the purpose of procuring the issue of a fire certificate (c) or the grant or extension of an exemption under section 46 of this Act or the issue under regulations under this Act of an instrument whereby exemption is granted from any provision of the regulations, makes a statement which he knows to be false (e) in a material particular or recklessly (f) makes a statement which is so false (e), or produces, furnishes, sends or otherwise makes use of a document which he knows to be so false (e) or recklessly (f) produces, furnishes, sends or otherwise makes use of a document which is so false (e); or

(c) wilfully (g) makes a false (e) entry in any register, book, notice or other document required by or by virtue of this Act to be kept, served or given;

he shall be guilty of an offence and liable to a fine not exceeding one hundred pounds or to imprisonment for a term not exceeding three months or to both such fine and such imprisonment.

(2) If a person falsely pretends to be an inspector appointed under section 52 (1), (2) or (5) of this Act, a person authorised under subsection (3) of that section by the Minister (h), a person authorised under subsection (6) of that section by the Minister of Power or an officer appointed under section 57 of this Act by the Minister (h), he shall be guilty of an offence and liable to a fine not exceeding ten pounds.

(3) In this section, the expression "forges" has, in the application thereof to England and Wales, the same meaning as in the Forgery Act 1913 (i).

General note. Except in relation to shop premises which are in a covered market place, as defined by s. 51 (2), this section came into operation on 1st May 1964.

In relation to shop premises which are in such a covered market place sub-ss. (1) (c) and (2) only came into operation on 1st May 1964 (Offices, Shops and Railway Premises Act 1963 (Commencement No. 1) Order 1964 (S.I. 1964 No. 191)).

(a) Intent to deceive. "To deceive is to induce a man to believe that a thing is true which is false and which the person practising the deceit knows or believes to be false"; see Re London and Globe Finance Corpn., Ltd., [1903] 1 Ch. 728; per BUCKLEY J.; at p. 732, as explained and approved in Welham v. D.P.P., [1961] A.C. 103, [1960] 1 All E.R. 805, H.L. It is sufficient for the prosecution to prove an intent to deceive generally without proving an intent to deceive a particular person; see R. v. Greenberg, [1942] 2 All E.R. 344; see also R. v. Clark (1918), 82 J.P. 295 and Brend v. Wood (1946), 175 L.T. 306.

(b) Forges. For the meaning of the expression, see sub-s. (3) and note (i), infra.

(c) Fire certificate. See s. 29 (1).

(d) Calculated. This word is not free from ambiguity, for it may mean either "likely" or "intended"; cf. 82 J.P. Jo. 447 and 103 J.P. Jo. 734. Yet, as intent to deceive is already an essential ingredient of the offence by virtue of the words "with intent to deceive", it seems that "calculated" here means "likely"; cf. also, in particular Eno v. Dunn (1890), 15 App. Cas. 252, H.L.; Re McGlennon's Application for Registration of Shamrock (1908), 25 T.L.R. 23; and Re Royal Worcester Corset Co.'s Application, [1909] 1 Ch. 459.

(e) False. A statement, etc., may be false on account of what it omits even though it is literally true; see R. v. Lord Kylsant, [1932] 1 K.B. 442; and R. v. Bishirgian, [1936] 1 All E. R. 586.

(f) Recklessly. On the meaning of this expression, see, in particular, Derry v. Peek (1889), 14 App. Cas. 337; Williams Brothers Direct Supply Stores, Ltd. v. Cloote (1944), 60 T.L.R. 270; R. v. Bates, [1952] 2 All E.R. 842; affirmed sub nom. R. v. Russell, [1953] 1 W.L.R. 77; 97 Sol. Jo. 12; R. v. Mackinnon, [1959] 1 Q.B. 150; [1958] 3 All E.R. 657; and R. v. Grunwald, [1963] 1 Q.B. 935; [1960] 3 All E.R. 380.

(g) Wilfully. This expression, in the words of Lord RUSSEL OF KILLOWEN, C.J., in R. v. Senior, [1899] 1 Q.B. 283, at pp. 290, 291; "means that the act is done deliberately and intentionally, not by accident or inadvertence, but so that the mind of the person who does the act goes with it"; see also R. v. Walker (1934), 24 Cr. App. Rep. 117; Eaton v. Cobb, [1950] 1 All E.R. 1016 and Arrowsmith v. Jenkins, [1963] 2 Q.B. 561; [1963] 2 All E.R. 210.

(h) The Minister. The Minister of Labour (s. 90 (1)).

(i) Forgery Act 1913. The definition of forgery in s. 1 (1) of the Forgery Act 1913 is "forgery is the making of a false document in order that it may be used as genuine . . .", and sub-ss. (2) and (3) of that section define a false document for the purposes of that Act.

69. Removal or defacement of documents posted in pursuance of Act or regulations under it.—If, without reasonable excuse, a person removes, injures or defaces a notice or other document which is for the time being posted or displayed in any premises in pursuance of a provision of this Act or of regulations thereunder, he shall be guilty of an offence and liable to a fine not exceeding ten pounds.

General note. Except in relation to shop premises which are in a covered market place, as defined in s. 51 (2), this section came into operation on 1st May 1964 (Offices, Shops and Railway Premises Act 1963 (Commencement No. 1) Order 1964 (S.I. 1964 No. 191)).

70. Prosecution of offences.—(1) All offences under this Act shall be triable summarily (a).

(2) A magistrates' court (b) or sheriff shall, in any proceedings for an offence under this Act, if required by either party, cause a note of the evidence to be taken and preserved.

(3) A factory inspector (c), if authorised in that behalf by the Minister (a), may, although not of counsel or a solicitor, prosecute or conduct (e) before a magistrates' court (b) or before a sheriff proceedings for an offence under this Act.

(4) Notwithstanding any rule of law in Scotland, it shall not be an objection to the competence of a factory inspector to give evidence as a witness in any prosecution for an offence under this Act that the prosecution is brought at his instance or conducted by him.

General note. This section came into operation in relation to all premises within the Act, on 1st May 1964 (Offices, Shops and Railways Premises Act 1963 (Commencement No. 1) Order 1964 (S.I. 1964 No. 191)).

(a) Triable summarily. See the Magistrates' Courts Act 1952, ss. 13-17 and, further, the Magistrates' Courts Act 1957.

(b) Magistrates' court. For definition, see s. 90 (1).

(c) Factory inspector. For definition, see s. 90 (1).

(d) The Minister. The Minister of Labour (s. 90 (1)).

(e) Prosecute or conduct. Cf. on the question of proof of authority, Ross v. Helm, [1913] 3 K.B. 462.

71. Local authorities' inspectors in Scotland to have power to institute proceedings in certain cases.—(1) An inspector appointed under this Act by a local authority (a) may, if duly authorised in that behalf by a general resolution of the authority, make a summary application under section 22 of this Act with respect to any premises with respect to which the authority have power to enforce any of the provisions of sections 4 to 21 of this Act; and for the purposes of this subsection the expression "premises" includes a common part of a building to which section 42 or section 43 of this Act applies.

(2) An inspector appointed under this Act by the authority discharging in any area the functions of fire authority (b) under the Fire Services Act 1947 may, if duly authorised as aforesaid by the authority, make a summary application under section 32 of this Act with respect to any premises in that area with respect to which they are the appropriate authority for the purposes of that section.

General note. Except in relation to shop premises which are in a covered market place, as defined in s. 51 (2), this section came into operation on 1st May 1964 (Offices, Shops and Railway Premises Act 1963 (Commencement No. 1) Order 1964 (S.I. 1964 No. 191)).

(a) Local authority. For definition, see s. 90 (1).

(b) Fire authority. See note (a) to s. 39.

72. Appeal from orders made on complaint.—A person aggrieved (a) by an order made by a magistrates' court (b) on determining a complaint under this Act may appeal (c) therefrom to a court of quarter sessions.

General note. Except in relation to shop premises which are in a covered market place, as defined in s. 51 (2), this section came into operation on 1st May 1964 (Offices, Shops and Railway Premises Act 1963 (Commencement No. 1) Order 1964 (S.I. 1964 No. 191)).

(a) Person aggrieved. The interpretation of this phrase involves a consideration of what is meant, in the context in which the phrase is used, both by the word "person" and by the word "aggrieved". Where, as in the present context, no contrary intention appears, the word "person" includes any body of persons corporate or incorporate: Interpretation Act 1889, s. 19. As to the meaning of the word "aggrieved", see note (c) to s. 3 of the Agriculture (Safety, Health and Welfare Provisions) Act 1956, p. 399, post.

(b) Magistrates' court. For definition, see s. 90 (1).

(c) Appeal. The appeal is governed by the Summary Jurisdiction Act 1879, as amended, and the Magistrates' Courts Act 1952, s. 84, as amended. See also the Magistrates' Courts Rules 1952 (S.I. 1952 No. 190), r. 59.

Following an appeal under this section quarter sessions cannot be compelled by mandamus to state a case for the opinion of the High Court; see R. v. Somerset Justices, Ex parte Ernest J. Cole & Partners, Ltd., [1950] 1 K.B. 519; [1950] 1 All E.R. 264. See also, generally, as to the statement of a case by quarter sessions, 25 Halsbury's Laws (3rd Edn.) 312 et seq.

73. Power of county court and sheriff to modify agreements and apportion expenses.—(1) A person who, by reason of the terms of an agreement or lease relating to any premises, is prevented from therein carrying out or doing any structural or other alterations or other thing whose carrying out or doing is requisite in order to secure compliance with a provision of this Act or of regulations thereunder which is, or will become, applicable to the premises, in order to comply with a requirement imposed by a notice (a) served under section 30 (4) (b) or 35 (2) (c) of this Act or in order to enable effect to be given to proposals without contravention of a prohibition imposed by a notice served under the said section 30 (4) (b), may apply to the county court (d) within whose jurisdiction the premises are situate, and the court may make such an order setting aside or modifying any terms of the agreement or lease as the court considers just and equitable in the circumstances of the case (e).

(2) Where the carrying out or doing in any premises of any structural or other alterations or other thing whose carrying out or doing is requisite as mentioned in the foregoing subsection involves a person having an interest in the premises in expense or in increased expense, and he alleges that the whole or part of the expense or, as the case may be, the increase ought to be borne by some other person having an interest in the premises, the first-mentioned person may apply to the county court (d) within whose jurisdiction the premises are situate, and the court, having regard to the terms of any agreement or lease relating to the premises, may by order give such directions with respect to the persons by whom the expense or increase is to be borne, and in what proportions it is to be borne by them and, if need be, for modification of the terms of any such agreement or lease so far as concerns rent payable in respect of the premises as the court considers just and equitable in the circumstances of the case (e).

(3) In the application of this section to Scotland, for references to a county court there shall be substituted references to the sheriff.

General note. Except in relation to shop premises which are in a covered market place, as defined in s. 51 (2), this section came into operation on 1st May 1964 (Offices, Shops and Railway Premises Act 1963 (Commencement No. 1) Order 1964 (S.I. 1964 No. 191)).

(a) Notice. As to the service of notices, see s. 81.

(b) Notice . . . under s. 30 (4). Where the means of escape in case of fire have become insufficient due to changed conditions, or will become so owing to proposed alterations, the appropriate authority may serve a notice on the occupier requiring such alterations as will render the means of escape sufficient.

(a) Structure. In Hobday v. Nicol, [1944] 1 All E.R. 302 (where the meaning of "structure" in a bye-law under the Land Drainage Act 1930 was in issue), HUMPHREYS, J. (with whom the other members of the Court agreed) said: "Structure, as I understand it, is anything which is constructed; and it involves the notion of something which is put together, consisting of a number of different things which are so put together or built, constructed as to make one whole which is then called a structure". See also, in particular, Mills and Rockleys, Ltd. v. Leicester City Council, [1946] K.B. 315; [1946] 1 All E.R. 424; *Cardiff Rating Authority and Cardiff Assessment Committee v. (c) Factories Act 1961, s. 145. See Redgrave's Factories Act, 20th Edn., pp. 365-366.

(d) Fuel storage premises. See also s. 1 (5).

(e) Local authority. By s. 51 (1) (a) the London Government Act 1963, as from April 1st 1965, for the words "or a county district, the council of a metropolitan borough" there must be substituted the words "a London borough or a county district".

(f) Magistrates' Courts Act 1952. See ibid., s. 124 (1).

(g) Office premises. See also s. 1 (5).

(h) Owner. This definition, so far as it relates to England and Wales, may be compared with that contained in s. 176 (1) of the Factories Act 1961 (for which see Redgrave's Factories Acts, 20th Edn., p. 421), in s. 119 (1) of the Town and Country Planning Act 1947 (for which see Halsbury's Laws of England, 3rd Edn., Vol. 37, p. 234 note (g)) or in

s. 343 (1) of the Public Health Act 1936 (for which see Halsbury's Laws of England, 3rd Edn., Vol. 31, pp. 51, 52).

A "rackrent" is "a rent of the full value of the tenement, or near it" (Blackstone, in Comm. 43), and see London Corporation v. Cusack-Smith, [1955] A.C. 337; [1955] 1 All E.R. 302, H.L. The date at which the question, whether premises are let at a rackrent, is to be investigated, is the date of the lease, and later changes of circumstance are irrelevant (ibid., and see also Borthwick-Norton v. Collier, [1950] 2 K.B. 594; [1950] 2 All E.R. 204, C.A.). There is no statutory definition of "rackrent" in the Offices, Shops and Railway Premises Act 1963 (compare the Public Health Act 1936, s. 343 (1)). The question, whether the tenant is paying the full, or nearly the full, economic rent of the premises is thus one of fact and degree in the circumstances of any particular case. If the lease contains covenants restricting the use of the premises, these must be taken into account (Borthwick-Norton v. Collier, supra), and the payment of a premium for the lease is usually conclusive that the rent received is not a rackrent (Ex parte Connolly to Sheridan and Russell, [1900] 1 I.R. 1, C.A.). Other factors which tend to indicate that the rent is not a rackrent are, for example, the surrender by the tenant of an existing lease of the premises at less than the current rent in consideration of the grant of the lease under examination, or the existence of a covenant by the tenant to do extensive repairs immediately upon the grant of the lease.

If premises are let to a tenant at a rackrent, then the landlord is plainly the "owner" within the definition under consideration. If premises are let to a tenant at less than a rackrent, the first limb of the definition does not apply, and the person who "would so receive the rackrent if the premises . . . were let at a rackrent" is the tenant, for he alone is entitled to make a new lease at a rackrent (London Corporation v. Cusack-Smith, supra, per Lord OAKSEY (at p. 348; p. 306), per Lord REID (at p. 358; p. 313), per Lord TUCKER (at p. 366; p. 318) and per Lord KEITH of AVONHOLM (at p. 367; p. 319)). If premises are both let and sub-let at rackrents, the head-landlord is undoubtedly an "owner", and, according to some of the opinions expressed in London Corporation v. Cusack-Smith, supra, the intermediate tenant may also be an "owner" (see ibid., per Lord PORTER (at pp. 353-356; pp. 307-310), per Lord REID (at pp. 358-359; pp. 312-313) and per Lord TUCKER (at p. 366; p. 318)). The opinions thus last expressed turned to some extent upon the presence of the phrase, "any owner", in s. 19 (1) of the Town and Country Planning Act 1947, so that it does not necessarily follow from them that a similar construction would be placed upon the wording of the definition now under examination. If premises are let at a rackrent and sub-let at less than a rackrent the head-landlord is the "owner"; if premises are let at less than a rackrent and sub-let at a rackrent the intermediate tenant is the owner; and if premises are both let and sub-let at less than rackrents the sub-tenant is the "owner".

2. Every objection must be in writing and state—

- (a) the specific grounds of objection; and
- (b) the omissions, additions, or modifications asked for.

3. The Minister (a) shall consider any objection made by or on behalf of any persons appearing to him (b) to be affected which is sent to him within the required time, and he may, if he thinks fit, amend the draft regulations, and, after doing so, he shall, unless an inquiry has been held under this Schedule, cause the amended draft to be dealt with in like manner as an original draft.

4. If after the publication of the notice with respect to any draft regulations (whether an original or amended draft) any general objection (as defined in paragraph 6 of this Schedule) is made within the required time with respect to the draft and not withdrawn, then, unless a previous inquiry under this Schedule has been held with respect to the draft or some previous draft of the regulations, he shall before making the regulations direct an inquiry to be held in the manner hereinafter provided and he may, if he thinks fit, also direct such an inquiry to be held in regard to any objection, notwithstanding that no such general objection has been made or that such a previous inquiry has been held as aforesaid.

5. Where any such inquiry is to be held as to any draft regulations, the following provisions shall have effect with respect to the inquiry—

- (a) the Minister (a) shall appoint a competent person or competent persons to hold the inquiry, and to report to him thereon;
- (b) the inquiry shall be held in public, and the chief factory inspector (c), a deputy chief factory inspector, any objector and any other person who, in the opinion of the person holding the inquiry or, if there is more than one such person, of the person presiding over the inquiry, is affected by the draft regulations, may appear at the inquiry either in person or by counsel, solicitor or agent;
- (c) the witnesses may, if the person holding or presiding over the inquiry thinks fit, be examined on oath;
- (d) subject as aforesaid, the inquiry and all proceedings preliminary and incidental thereto shall be conducted in accordance with regulations (d) made by the Minister (a) and the regulations may make provision as to the costs of the inquiry and other proceedings, including the remuneration of the person or persons holding the inquiry.

6. In this Schedule the expression "general objection" means, as respects any draft regulations, an objection made—

- (a) by or on behalf of the majority of the occupiers (e) of the premises affected by the draft regulations or by or on behalf of the occupier (e) or occupiers (e) employing a majority of the persons employed (f) to work (g) in those premises, or by any person who satisfies the Minister that he or an association on behalf of which he acts represents a majority of the persons so employed (f); or
- (b) by or on behalf of the majority of the occupiers (e) of any class of premises affected as respects which it appears to the Minister (a) that, by reason of special conditions existing in connection therewith, there is reason to believe that any of the requirements of the draft regulations may be unnecessary or inappropriate in the case of premises of that class, or by or on behalf of the occupier (e) or occupiers (e) employing a majority of the persons employed (f) to work (g) in any such class of premises as aforesaid or by any person who satisfies the Minister that he or an association on behalf of which he acts represents a majority of the persons so employed (f).

Except in relation to shop premises which are in a covered market place, as defined by s. 51 (2), this schedule came into operation on 18th February 1964; in relation to such shop premises it came into operation on 1st May 1964 (Offices, Shops and Railway Premises Act 1963 (Commencement No. 1) Order 1964 (S.I. 1964 No. 191)).

INTRODUCTION TO THE SHOPS ACT 1950

Although Parliament began to regulate the hours to be worked and the conditions of employment in certain factories, with particular reference to children and young persons in 1802, the first Act regulating employment in shops was not passed until 1886. That Act, the Shop Hours Regulation Act 1886, laid down that young persons under the age of 18 should not work more than 74 hours a week. This Act was, however, ineffective and Inspectors were appointed by the Shop Hours Act 1892. A similar attempt to regulate the employment of women was not successful.

By the Shop Hours Act 1904, local authorities were given the powers (long demanded by the Early Closing Association) to make orders enforcing the closing of shops not earlier than 7 p.m., with one day in the week on which it could be not earlier than 1 p.m. This depended, however, partly on the willingness of the local authority to act and partly on the approval of two-thirds of the local shopkeepers.

The Shops Act 1911 laid down that all employees must have a half holiday each week and that all shops (with certain specified exceptions) must have an early closing day. All these Acts were consolidated by the Shops Act 1912.

The Shops Act 1950, which came into operation on 1st October 1950, is a consolidating measure which repeals and re-enacts the provisions of the Shops Acts of 1912, 1913, 1934 and 1936, the Shops (Hours of Closing) Act 1928, the Hair-dressers and Barbers' Shops (Sunday Closing) Act 1930, the Retail Meat Dealers' Shops (Sunday Closing) Act 1936 and the Shops (Sunday Trading Restriction) Act 1936. It also repeals the Factories Act 1937, s. 98 (6), the Young Persons (Employment) Act 1938, ss. 8, 11, 12 and 13, that part of the Tenth Schedule of the National Health Service Act 1946 which relates to the amendment of the Shops (Sunday Trading Restriction) Act 1936 and the Defence (General) Regulations 1939, Regulation 60AB.

By virtue of s. 76 (2) of the Shops Act 1950, the Shops Regulations 1912, 1913, 1937 and 1939 and the Shops (Procedure for Jewish Tribunals) Regulations 1937 are continued in force and have effect as if they had been made under that Act.

The Shops Act 1950 and the Shops (Airports) Act 1962 may be cited together as the Shops Acts 1950 and 1962.

PART I

HOURS OF CLOSING

Early Closing Days

1. Closing of shops on weekly half-holiday.—(1) Every shop (a) shall be closed (b) for the serving of customers not later than one o'clock in the afternoon on one week day in every week (c).

(2) The local authority (d) may, by order (e), fix the day on which a shop (a) is to be so closed (b) (in this Act referred to as “the weekly half-holiday”), and any such order may either fix the same day for all shops (a), or may fix—

- (a) different days for different classes (f) of shops; or
- (b) different days for different parts of the district; or
- (c) different days for different periods of the year:

Provided that—

- (i) where the day fixed is a day other than Saturday, the order (e) shall provide for enabling Saturday to be substituted for such other day as respects any shop in which notice (g) to that effect is affixed by the occupier;

(ii) where the day fixed is Saturday, the order (e) shall provide for enabling some other day specified in the order (e) to be substituted for Saturday as respects any shop (a) in which notice (g) to that effect is affixed by the occupier;

(iii) no order (e) shall be made under this section unless the local authority (d), after making such inquiry as may be prescribed (h), are satisfied that the occupiers of a majority of each of the several classes (f) of shops affected by the order approve the order.

(3) Unless and until an order (e) is made under this section affecting a shop (a), the weekly half-holiday as respects the shop (a) shall be such day as the occupier may specify in a notice affixed in the shop (a), but it shall not be lawful for the occupier of the shop (a) to change the day oftener than once in any period of three months.

(4) Where the local authority (d) have reason to believe that a majority of the occupiers of shops (a) of any particular class in any area are in favour of being exempted from the provisions of this section, either wholly or by fixing as the closing hour instead of one o'clock some other hour not later than two o'clock, the local authority (d), unless they consider that the area in question is unreasonably small, shall take steps to ascertain the wishes of such occupiers.

If the local authority (d) are satisfied that a majority of the occupiers of such shops (a) are in favour of the exemption, or, in the case of a vote being taken, that at least one half of the votes recorded by the occupiers of shops (a) within the area of the class in question are in favour of the exemption, the local authority (d) shall make an order exempting the shops (a) of that class within the area from the provisions of this section either wholly or to such extent as aforesaid.

(5) Where a shop (a) is closed during the whole day on the occasion of a bank holiday (i), and that day is not the day fixed for the weekly half-holiday, it shall be lawful for the occupier of the shop to keep the shop open for the serving of customers after the hour at which it is required under this section to be closed either on the half-holiday immediately preceding, or on the half-holiday immediately succeeding, the bank holiday.

(6) This section shall not apply to any shop (a) in which the only trade or business carried on is trade or business of any of the classes mentioned in the First Schedule to this Act, but the local authority (d) may, by order made and revocable in the manner hereinafter provided with respect to closing orders (k), extend the provisions of this section to shops (a) of any class exempted under this subsection if satisfied that the occupiers of at least two-thirds of the shops (a) of that class approve the order.

(7) Nothing in this section shall prevent the serving of a customer at any time at which the shop (a) is required to be closed under this section if it is proved either that the customer was in the shop before (l) the time when the shop was required to be closed, or that there was reasonable ground for believing that the article supplied to the customer was required in the case of illness.

(8) Nothing in this section shall prevent customers from being served at a time when the shop (a) in which they are served is required to be closed with victuals, stores, or other necessaries for a ship, on her arrival at, or immediately before her departure from, a port.

(a) Shop. For definition, see s. 74.

(b) Closing of shop. This part of the Act does not apply to shops at designated airports, see the Shops (Airports) Act 1962, p. 342, post. In Willesden Urban District Council v. Morgan, [1915] 1 K.B. 349, a dairyman locked up his shop at closing time but placed inside it a reservoir of milk connected with an automatic machine outside the shop in such a way that a customer, by putting a coin into the machine, could obtain a supply of milk. It was held (AVORY, J., doubting but not dissenting) that the shop was closed for the serving of customers. This case was followed in Ilford Corporation v. Betterclean (Seven Kings) Ltd., [1965] 1 All E.R. 900. Note that shop assistants may be employed after closing time for any purpose except the actual serving of customers. As to carrying on business elsewhere when the shop is closed, see s. 12.

(c) Week. For definition, see s. 74, post.

(d) Local authority. For definition, see s. 73, post.

(e) Order. For provisions as to the making and revocation of orders, see ss. 52, 70.

(f) Different classes of shops. In Fine-Fare, Ltd. v. Brighton County Borough Council, [1959] 1 All E.R. 476, the appellants occupied premises in which they carried on several retail trades. For some of these trades the local authority had fixed Wednesday as early closing day, but the appellants remained open on Wednesday all day, closing instead on Thursday. It was held that they might do this as the order did not apply to mixed shops which could thus choose their own early closing day. The argument that there were a number of different shops (a grocer, a greengrocer, a butcher) under the same roof each having to close on the appropriate day was rejected. A difficulty sometimes arises where a particular article is sold by shops of different classes. Thus in Schuck v. Banks, [1914] 2 K.B. 491, the half-holiday for butchers was on Monday and for grocers on Thursday. Dripping is sold by both butchers and grocers. It was held that a butcher might lawfully sell dripping on Thursday afternoons provided that he duly closed on Mondays. Since it was a normal incident of a butcher's business to sell dripping the butcher by selling it did not carry on the business of grocer or provision dealer. Had it not been a normal incident of a butcher's business to sell dripping an offence would have been committed. See also s. 13 and the notes thereto, p. 213, post.

(g) Notice. No special form of notice is prescribed. As to Jewish shops, see Miller's Cash Stores, Ltd. v. West Ham Corporation, [1955] 3 All E.R. 282.

(h) Inquiries by local authority. See Regulation 4 of the Shops Regulations 1912, p. 290, post.

(i) Bank holiday. For definition, see s. 74. If two bank holidays come into the same week it is submitted that no half holiday need be given in either the preceding or the subsequent week (Todd, Burns & Co., Ltd. v. Dublin Corporation, [1913] 2 I.R. 397).

(k) Closing order. For definition, see s. 8 (1). For provisions as to the making and revocation of closing orders, see ss. 8-11 and the Shops Regulations 1912, pp. 289 et seq.

(l) Customer in shop before closing hour. This subsection does not protect a seller who invites customers to come in before closing time in order to make purchases after that time; see Salford Cattle Market Salerooms, Ltd. v. Osborne (1923), 92 L.J.K.B. 1018, in which it was held to be illegal for an auctioneer to put up, after closing time, further articles to auction among persons already admitted. See also Gordon v. Somerville, 1928 S.C.(J) 45; Moore v. Tweedale, [1935] 2 K.B. 163.

General Closing Hours

2. General closing hours.—(1) Every shop (a) shall be closed (b) for the serving of customers—

(a) [Revoked (c)].

(b) where the foregoing paragraph does not apply (c), not later than nine o'clock in the evening on the late day (d) and eight o'clock in the evening on any other day of the week:

(2) [Revoked (c)].

(3) Nothing in this section shall prevent—

(a) the serving of a customer where it is proved that the customer was in the shop before the closing hour (e), or that reasonable grounds existed for believing that the article supplied after the closing hour to a customer was required in the case of illness; or

(b) any transaction mentioned in the Second Schedule to this Act.

(4) [Revoked (c)].

(a) Shop. For definition, see s. 74, post.

(4) which dealt with earlier hours of closing in the winter months were revoked as from 1st November 1952 by the Shops (Revocation of Winter Closing Provisions) Order 1952 (S.I. 1952 No. 1862); accordingly the general closing hours as set out in s. 2 (1) (b) apply throughout the year.

The words in italics in s. 2 (1) (b) no longer have effect, owing to the revocation of s. 2 (1) (a).

(d) Late day. See s. 3, infra.

(e) Before the closing hour. See note (k) to s. 1.

3. The late day.—The late day referred to in the last foregoing section shall be Saturday unless the local authority (a) by order (b) fix some other day as the late day, and any such order may fix the same day for all shops or may fix—

(a) different days for different classes (c) of shops;

(b) different days for different parts of their area; or

(c) different days for different periods of the year:

Provided that where the local authority (a) have under this Act fixed any day as the weekly half-holiday (d) for any class of shop, or for any part of their area, or for any period of the year, they shall, as respects that class, part or period, fix some other day as the late day.

(a) Local authority. For definition, see s. 73, post.

(b) Order. See note (e) to s. 1, ante.

(c) Different classes of shops. See note (f) to s. 1, ante.

4. Special provision for tobacco and smokers' requisites.—As respects the trade or business of selling tobacco and smokers' requisites—

- (a) paragraph (a) of, and the proviso to, subsection (1) of section two of this Act and subsection (2) of that section shall not apply; and
- (b) a local authority (a) may, in their area, or in any part thereof, by order (b) substitute for the hours fixed by paragraph (b) of the said subsection (1) later hours, not being later than ten o'clock in the evening on the late day (c) or half-past nine o'clock in the evening on any other day, if they are satisfied that such an order is desired by the occupiers of at least two-thirds in number of the shops (d) to be affected by the order.

General note. Paragraph (a) of this section no longer has effect owing to the revocation of the provisions of s. 2 to which it referred; see note (c) to that section.

- (a) Local authority. For definition, see s. 73, post.
- (b) Order. See note (e) to s. 1, p. 204, ante.
- (c) Late day. See s. 3, ante.
- (d) Shop. For definition, see s. 74, post.

5. Special provision for newspapers and periodicals.
—As respects the trade or business of selling newspapers and periodicals, paragraph (a) of, and the proviso to, subsection (1) of section two of this Act and subsection (2) of that section shall not apply.

This section no longer has effect owing to the revocation of the provisions of s. 2 to which it referred; see note (c) to that section.

6. Special provision for confectionery.—As respects the trade or business of selling table waters, sweets, chocolates or other sugar confectionery or ice cream, the following hours shall be substituted for those set out in subsection (1) of section two of this Act, that is to say—

- (a) [Revoked (a)].

- (b) where the foregoing paragraph does not apply (a), ten o'clock in the evening on the late day (b) and half-past nine o'clock in the evening of any other day:

Provided that a local authority (c) may in their area or any part thereof by order (d) substitute for either of the hours mentioned in paragraph (b) of this subsection an earlier hour, not being earlier than eight o'clock in the evening, if they are satisfied that such an order (d) is desired by the occupiers of a majority of the shops to be affected by the order (d).

(a) Revocation. Paragraph (a) (which dealt with hours of closing in winter months) was revoked as from 1st November 1952 by the Shops (Revocation of Winter Closing Provisions) Order 1952 (S.I. 1952, No. 1862).

The words in italics in para. (b) no longer have effect in consequence of the revocation of para. (a).

(b) Late day. See s. 3, ante.

(c) Local authority. For definition, see s. 73, post.

(d) Order. See note (e) to s. 1, ante.

7. Certain provisions as to general closing hours to be temporary [Revoked by S.I. 1952 No. 1862].

Closing Orders

8. Closing Orders.—(1) An order (in this Act referred to as “a closing order” (a)) made by a local authority (b), and confirmed by the Secretary of State in manner provided by this Act, may fix the hours on the several days of the week at which, either throughout the area of the local authority (b) or in any specified part thereof, all shops (c) or shops of any specified class (d) are to be closed (e) for serving customers.

(2) The hour fixed by a closing order (a) shall not be earlier than seven o'clock in the evening on any day of the week.

(3) The order (a) may—

(a) define the shops (c) and trades to which the order (a) applies; and

(b) authorise sales after the closing hour fixed by the order (a) in cases of emergency and in such other circumstances as may be specified or indicated in the order (a); and

(c) contain any incidental, supplemental, or consequential provisions which may appear necessary or proper.

(4) Nothing in the foregoing provisions of this Act relating to general closing hours (f) shall effect the power of a local authority (b) by a closing order (a) under this section to fix closing hours earlier than the general closing hours fixed by or under this Act:

Provided that any closing order (a) shall be of no effect in so far as it authorises sales after the general closing hours (f) fixed by or under this Act or contains provisions inconsistent with the provisions of this Act relating to general closing hours (f).

(5) Nothing in any closing order (a) shall prevent—

(a) the serving of a customer where it is proved that the customer was in the shop before the closing hour (g) fixed by the order, or that reasonable grounds existed for believing that the article supplied after that hour was required in the case of illness; or

(b) any transaction mentioned in the Second Schedule to this Act.

(6) In the case of a shop as respects which a closing order is in force on the first Sunday in November in any year, the foregoing provisions of this Act as to general closing hours in the winter months shall not be construed as making later the hours at which the shop is required to be closed while the order remains in force (h).

(a) Order. For procedure as to the making of closing orders, see s. 9, infra, and for procedure as to revocation, see s. 11, post.

(b) Local authority. For definition, see s. 73, post.

(c) Shop. For definition, see s. 74, post.

(d) Specified class. Where a number of businesses are carried on under one roof, as in a supermarket the closing order has to be for the whole premises, and there can only be one closing hour for these premises; s. 13 (3) does not apply; Fine Fare Ltd. v. Aberdare U.D.C. (1965), 109 Sol. Jo. 90.

(e) Closed. See note (b) to s. 1, post.

(f) General closing hours. For definition, see s. 74 (1), post.

(g) Customer in shop before closing hour. See note (l) to s. 1, ante.

(h) Subsection (6). This subsection no longer has effect owing to the revocation by S.I. 1952 No. 1862, of the provisions of the Act dealing with general closing hours in the winter.

9. Procedure for making closing orders.—(1) Whenever a local authority (a) are satisfied that a prima facie case is made out for making a closing order (b), the authority (a) shall give public notice in the prescribed manner and in the prescribed form (c) of their intention to make an order, specifying therein a period (not being less than the prescribed period) within which objections may be made to the making of the proposed order, and, if after taking into consideration any objections they may have received the local authority are satisfied that it is expedient to make the order and that the occupiers of at least two-thirds in number of the shops to be affected (d) by the order approve the order, they may make the order.

(2) Notice of the provisions of the order shall be given, and copies thereof shall be supplied, in the prescribed manner (c) and the order shall be submitted to the Secretary of State, and the Secretary of State shall consider any objections to the order, and may either disallow the order or confirm the order with or without amendments.

His power of confirmation shall be exercisable by statutory instrument.

(3) As soon as the Secretary of State has confirmed any order, the order shall become final (e) and have the effect of an Act of Parliament:

Provided that every statutory instrument confirming a closing order shall be subject to annulment in pursuance of a resolution of either House of Parliament.

(a) Local authority. For definition, see s. 73, post.

(b) Closing order. For definition, see s. 8 (1), ante.

(c) Prescribed manner and prescribed form. See the Shops Regulations 1912, regs. 6-22, pp. 291 et seq.

(d) Two-thirds of shops affected. As to shops in which several trades or businesses are carried on, see s. 13 (4), post.

(e) Order shall become final. When once an order has been confirmed it cannot be invalidated on account of any defect in the preliminary proceedings; see the Shops Regulations, 1912, reg. 21, p. 295, post, and Hamilton v. Fyfe, 1907 S.C. (J.) 79; Patent Agents Institute v. Lockwood, [1894] A.C. 347. It may, however, be objected that an order is ultra vires (Mackey v. Monks (James Henry) Preston, Ltd., [1918] A.C. 59; Minister of Health v. R., Ex parte Yaffe, [1931] A.C. 494).

10. Local inquiries for the purpose of promoting and facilitating early closing.—(1) Where it appears to the Secretary of State, on the representation of the local authority (a) or a joint representation from a substantial number of occupiers of shops (b) and shop assistants (d) in the area of the local authority (a), that it is expedient to ascertain the extent to which there is a demand for early closing in any locality, and to promote and facilitate the making of a closing order therein, the Secretary of State may appoint a competent person to hold a local inquiry.

(2) If, after holding such an inquiry and conferring with the local authority (a), it appears to the person holding the inquiry that it is expedient that a closing order (c) should be made, he shall prepare a draft order and submit it to the Secretary of State together with his report thereon.

(3) If the Secretary of State, after considering the draft order and report, and any representations which the local authority (a) may have made in respect thereof, is of opinion that it is desirable that a closing order (c) should be made, he may communicate his decision to the local authority, and thereupon there shall be deemed to be a prima facie case for making a closing order in accordance with the terms of the draft order, subject to such modifications (if any) as the Secretary of State may think fit.

(4) The person who held the inquiry shall, if so directed by the Secretary of State on the application of the local authority (a), assist and co-operate with the local authority in taking the steps preliminary to making the order.

(a) Local authority. For definition, see s. 73, post.

(b) Shop. For definition, see s. 74, post.

(c) Closing order. For definition, see s. 8 (1).

(d) Shop assistant. For definition, see s. 74 (1), post.

11. Revocation of closing orders.—The Secretary of State may, at any time on the application of the local authority (a), revoke a closing order (b) either absolutely or so far as it affects any particular class of shops (c), and, if at any time it is made to appear to the satisfaction of the local authority (a) that the occupiers of a majority (d) of any class of shops (c) to which a closing order (b) applies are opposed to the continuance of the order, the local authority (a) shall apply to the Secretary of State to revoke the order in so far as it affects that class of shops (c), but any such revocation shall be without prejudice to the making of any new closing order (b).

The power of the Secretary of State to revoke a closing order (b) shall be exercisable by statutory instrument (e).

(a) Local authority. For definition, see s. 73, post.

(b) Closing order. For definition, see s. 8 (1).

(c) Shop. For definition, see s. 74, post.

(d) Majority. As to shops in which several trades or businesses are carried on, see s. 13 (4), post.

(e) Statutory instrument. See the Statutory Instruments Act 1946.

Trading outside Shops and Shops with Several Trades

12. Trading elsewhere than in shops.—It shall not be lawful in any locality to carry on in any place not being a shop (a) retail trade or business (b) of any class at any time when it would be unlawful in that locality to keep a shop (c) open for the purposes of retail trade or business (b) of that class, and, if any person carries on any trade or business (b) in contravention of this section, this Part of this Act and the provisions in Part V for the enforcement (d) of this Act shall apply as if he were the occupier of a shop and the shop were being kept open in contravention of this Part of this Act:

Provided that—

- (a) the prohibition imposed by this section shall, as respects any day other than the weekly half-holiday (e), be subject, in so far as the prohibition is affected by any closing order (f), to such exemptions and conditions, if any, as may be contained in the order; and
- (b) nothing in this section shall be construed as preventing a barber or hairdresser from attending a customer in the customer's residence, or the holding of an auction sale of private effects in a private dwelling-house; and
- (c) nothing in this section shall apply to the sale of newspapers.

(a) Place not being a shop. In Cowden v. McEvoy, [1914] 3 K.B. 108, the respondent's mother carried on a grocer's business in a shop which was duly closed on the half-holiday afternoons (Wednesday).

On those afternoons and on no other day the respondent sold groceries at her private house. These groceries were supplied to the respondent by her mother. No notice under s. 4 (2) (i) of the Shops Act 1912 was exhibited in the house substituting Saturday for Wednesday. It was held that she had committed an offence under s. 9 of the 1912 Act, the terms of which are in all material respects the same as those of s. 12 of the present Act.

In Willesden Urban District Council v. Morgan, [1915] 1 K.B. 349, a dairyman locked up his shop at closing time, but placed inside it a reservoir of milk connected with an automatic machine outside the shop in such a manner that a customer, by putting money into the machine, could obtain a supply of milk. It was held that this was not trading in a place not being a shop.

In Stone v. Boreham, [1959] 1 Q.B. 1; [1958] 2 All E.R. 715, a mobile shop was held not to be a shop, nor to be a place where retail trade was carried on. This was a decision under s. 47 and s. 58 of the Act, but in Kahn v. Newberry, [1959] 2 Q.B. 1; [1959] 2 All E.R. 202, the Court held that a costermonger's barrow, which was frequently moved about, was not within s. 12, as it was a mobile counter only and so not a place where a retail trade was carried on. Quaere, whether a stall or barrow which is regularly set up on the same spot would be a place within s. 12. See also the Scottish cases of Nixon v. Capaldi, 1949 S.C.(J.) 155 and Cowlairs Co-operative Society Ltd. v. Glasgow Corporation, 1957 S.C.(J.) 51.

(b) Retail trade or business. For definition, see s. 74, post.

(c) Shop. For definition, see s. 74, post.

(d) Enforcement. For provisions as to enforcement, see s. 71. For penalties, see s. 14, post.

(e) Weekly half-holiday. See s. 1 (2), ante.

(f) Closing order. See note (k) to s. 1.

13. Shops where more than one trade or business is carried on.—(1) Where several trades or businesses are carried on in the same shop (a), and any of those trades or businesses is of such a nature that, if it were the only trade or business carried on in the shop (a), the shop would be exempt from the obligation to be closed on the weekly half-holiday (b), the exemption shall apply to the shop (a) so far as the carrying on of that trade or business is concerned, subject, however, to such conditions (c) as may be prescribed.

(2) Where several trades or businesses are carried on in the same shop (a) and any of those trades or businesses consists only of transactions carried on in the shop (a), the provisions of this Act relating to general closing hours would not apply to the shop, the shop may be kept open after the general closing hours for the purposes of those transactions alone, subject, however, to such conditions (c) as may be prescribed.

(3) Where several trades or businesses are carried on in the same shop (a) and any of those trades or businesses is of such a nature that if it were the only trade or business carried on in the shop a closing order (d) would not apply to the shop, the shop may be kept open for the purposes of that trade and business alone after the closing hour fixed by the closing order (d), but on such terms and under such conditions as may be specified in the order.

(4) Where several trades or businesses are carried on in the same shop (a), the local authority (e) may require the occupier of the shop to specify which trade or business he considers to be his principal trade or business, and no trade or business other than that so specified shall for the purpose of determining a majority (f) or any proportion or number of occupiers or of shops for the purposes of this Part of this Act, be considered as carried on in the shop (a) unless the occupier of the shop satisfies the local authority (e) that it forms a substantial part of the business carried on in the shop.

(a) Shop. For definition, see s. 74, post.

(b) Exemption from half-holiday. In Margerison v. Wilson (1914), 112 L.T. 76, where there was a weekly half-holiday for pork butchers but not for confectioners, a confectioner and refreshment-room proprietor sold on the half-holiday pork sausages for consumption off the premises. This was incidental to his main business. It was held that he had committed no offence.

Similar decisions have been given in two Scottish cases. In Thomson v. Somerville, 1917 S.C. (J.) 3, a company carried on a number of businesses in one set of premises including drapery, ironmongery, upholstery and china, and also had a small hairdressing department for the convenience of their customers; the whole premises was closed on Tuesday afternoons. The local authority fixed Wednesday as the early closing day for hairdressers' shops, but the company did not close the hairdressing department on that afternoon. It was held that they had committed no offence. In MacDonald v. Groundland, 1923 S.C. (J.) 28, a jewellery and tobacco business was carried on in the front part of a shop, and hairdressing in the back part. The whole shop was closed on Tuesday afternoons. The local authority fixed Thursday or Saturday as the closing day for hairdressers' shops. It was held that the hairdressing part need not be closed on Thursday or Saturday.

These cases were followed in Fine-Fare, Ltd. v. Brighton County Borough Council, [1959] 1 All E.R. 476, where the company carried on several businesses under one roof. The local authority had fixed Wednesday as early closing day for certain of those businesses but the company closed the whole shop only on Thursday. It was held they had committed no offence and did not need to close various parts of the shop on different days of the week. See also note (d) to s. 8.

Any sums so certified shall be a debt to the Crown from the local authority.

PART II

CONDITIONS OF EMPLOYMENT

Statutory Half-holiday and Meal Times

17. Statutory half-holiday for shop assistants.—(1) Subject to the provisions of this Part of this Act, on at least one week day in each week a shop assistant (a) shall not be employed about the business (b) of a shop (c) after half-past one o'clock in the afternoon:

Provided that this provision shall not apply to the week preceding a bank holiday (d) if the shop assistant (a) is not employed on the bank holiday (d), and if on one week day in the following week in addition to the bank holiday (d) the employment of the shop assistant (a) ceases not later than half-past one o'clock in the afternoon.

(2) The occupier of a shop shall fix, and shall specify in a notice in the prescribed (e) form, which must be affixed in the shop in such manner and at such time as may be prescribed (e), the day of the week on which his shop assistants (a) are not employed after half-past one o'clock and may fix different days for different shop assistants (a).

(3) In the case of any contravention (f) of this section, the occupier of the shop shall be liable to a fine not exceeding—

- (a) in the case of a first offence, one pound;
- (b) in the case of a second offence (g), five pounds; and
- (c) in the case of a third or subsequent offence (g), ten pounds—

unless, in the case of a shop assistant (a) employed after half-past one o'clock in contravention of this section, he proves that the shop assistant (a) was employed merely for the purpose of serving a customer whom he was serving at that time, or, where the time for closing the shop was also half-past one o'clock, that the shop assistant (a) was employed merely for the purpose of serving customers who were in the shop at that time (h).

In considering for the purposes of this subsection whether an offence is a first, second or subsequent offence, any offence under subsection (2) of section nineteen of this Act shall be treated as if it were an offence under this subsection.

(a) Shop assistant. See ss. 74 and 21 (8), post.

(b) Employed about the business of a shop. In George v. James, [1914] 1 K.B. 278, the manager of one of Messrs. Lipton's shops, which was duly closed on half-holidays, employed some of the assistants to distribute in the streets "in their spare time" handbills advertising Lipton's Margarine, but without giving the address of the shop. The assistants in fact distributed them on the half-holiday afternoon. It was held that in so doing the assistants were employed about the business of the shop on the half-holiday and that Lipton, Ltd., had been properly found guilty of an offence.

The principle of that case was followed in London County Council v. Wettman, [1922] 1 K.B. 153, where a retail confectioner had two shops in London, one in district A and the other in district B. Different early closing days were fixed by the local authorities in the two districts. An assistant belonging to the A shop was found to be working in the B shop on the afternoon of the A early closing day. It was held that an offence had been committed, as the two shops were one business, and the assistant was being employed at the time "about the business" of the A shop.

An assistant who works without the knowledge or consent of his employer is none the less employed about his business, and the latter can only escape the penalty by taking proceedings under s. 71 (6) (Ward v. Smith (W. H.) & Son, [1913] 3 K.B. 154).

(c) Shop. For definition, see s. 74, post.

(d) Bank holiday. For definition, see s. 74, post. If two bank holidays come in the same week, the assistants need not have a half-holiday either in that week or the preceding one (Todd, Burns & Co., Ltd. v. Dublin Corporation, [1913] 2 I.R. 397).

(e) Prescribed. See the Shops Regulations, 1912, regs. 1–3, p. 289, post.

(f) Contravention. For definition, see s. 74, post.

(g) Second or third offence, etc. See note (d) to s. 14, ante.

(h) Customers in shop at time. See note (l) to s. 1, ante.

18. Modifications in application of s. 17 to young persons.—(1) For the purposes of the last foregoing section every young person (a) who is wholly or mainly employed about the business of a shop (b) shall be deemed to be a “shop assistant” (c);

Provided that this subsection shall not apply to any person employed in a residential hotel.

(3) If in any proceedings against any person in respect of a contravention (e) of the last foregoing section in relation to any young person (a) it is shown that the young person was not so employed by him in the week (d) in which the contravention (e) occurred so as to render that section applicable to the young person, it shall be a defence to prove that he did not know, and could not with reasonable diligence have ascertained, that the young person (a) was also employed in that week (d), as a shop assistant (c), by some other employer.

(4) For the purposes of the last foregoing section, every young person (a) who is wholly or mainly employed in connection with any retail trade or business carried on in any place not being a shop (f) shall be deemed to be a “shop assistant” (c) and in the application of that section to persons employed in connection with such a retail trade or business—

(6) For the purposes of this section, a person who works about the business of a shop (b) for the occupier thereof or in connection with any retail trade or business for the person by whom it is carried on shall be deemed to be employed, notwithstanding that he receives no reward for his labour.

(7) In the application of the last foregoing section to young persons (a), and in this section, the expression “shop” includes any wholesale shop and any warehouse (i) occupied for the purposes of his trade by any person carrying on any retail trade or business or by any wholesale dealer or merchant.

(8) For the purposes of this section, employment in connection with a wholesale shop (b) or a warehouse (i) occupied by a wholesale dealer or merchant which is neither—

- (a) employment within the premises; nor
- (b) employment in the collection or delivery of goods or in attendance upon customers or in carrying messages or running errands, shall not be deemed to be employment about the business of a shop (b); but, save as aforesaid, any employment in the service of the occupier of the shop (b) upon any work, whether within the shop (b) or outside it, which is ancillary to the business carried on at the shop (b) shall be deemed to be employment about the business of the shop (b), and that expression shall be construed accordingly.

19. Meal times.—(1) Intervals for meals shall be allowed to each shop assistant (a) in accordance with Part I of the Third Schedule to this Act:

Provided that this section shall not apply to a shop (b) if the only persons employed as shop assistants (a) are members of the family of the occupier of the shop, maintained by him and dwelling in his house.

(2) In the case of any contravention of the provisions of this section, the occupier of a shop shall be liable to a fine not exceeding—

- (a) in the case of a first offence, one pound;

- (c) in the case of a third or subsequent offence (c), ten pounds.

In considering for the purposes of this subsection whether an offence is a first, second or subsequent offence, any offence under subsection (3) of section seventeen of this Act shall be treated as if it were an offence under this subsection.

and of the Third Schedule to this Act to young persons (a), the provisions of Part I of the said Schedule shall have effect subject to Part II of that Schedule.

(2) For the purposes of the last foregoing section and the said Schedule, every person who is wholly or mainly employed about the business of a shop (b) shall be deemed to be a “shop assistant (c)”.

(3) For the purposes of the last foregoing section and the said Schedule, every young person (a) who is wholly or mainly employed in connection with any retail trade or business carried on in any place not being a shop (d) shall be deemed to be a “shop assistant” (c), and in the application of that section to persons employed in connection with such a retail trade or business—

(a) references to “a shop” shall be deemed to include references to the place in or from which the retail trade or business is carried on; and

(b) references to “the occupier of a shop” shall be deemed to include references to the person by whom the retail trade or business is carried on.

(4) This section shall not apply to any person employed in a residential hotel who is not a shop assistant (c) within the meaning of section seventy-four of this Act, or, in the case of a person employed at premises to which the provisions of the next following section apply, is not wholly or mainly employed there in connection with the business of selling intoxicating liquors or refreshments for consumption on the premises.

(5) Nothing in this section shall apply with respect to the employment of persons whose hours of employment are regulated by or under the Factories Acts 1937 and 1948 (e).

For the purposes of this subsection, employment wholly or mainly outside a factory (f) in collecting, carrying or delivering goods, carrying messages or running errands, being employment for the purposes of retail trade or business carried on from the factory (f), shall be deemed not to be employment in the business of the factory (f).

(6) For the purposes of this section, a person who works about the business of a shop (b) for the occupier thereof or in connection with any retail trade or business for the person by whom it is carried on, shall be deemed to be employed, notwithstanding that he receives no reward for his labour.

(2) The foregoing sections of this Part of this Act shall not apply to shop assistants (a) to whom this section applies if the occupier of the premises in which they are employed, by such a notice as is hereinafter mentioned, signifies that he elects that, instead of those provisions, the following provisions shall apply.

(3) The said provisions are—

(a) that no assistant (a) to whom this section applies shall be employed for more than sixty-five hours in any week exclusive of meal times;

(b) that provision shall be made for securing to every assistant (a) to whom this section applies—

(i) thirty-two whole holidays on a week day in every year of which at least two shall be given within the currency of each month and which shall comprise a holiday on full pay of not less than six consecutive days so, however, that two half-holidays on a week day shall be deemed equivalent to one whole holiday on a week day;

(ii) twenty-six whole holidays on Sunday in every year, so distributed that at least one out of every three consecutive Sundays shall be a whole holiday;

(c) that unless the only persons employed as shop assistants (a) are members of the family of the occupier of the premises maintained by him and dwelling in his house—

22. Sunday employment.—(1) No person shall be employed on Sunday about the business of a shop (a) which is open for the serving of customers on that day unless the following requirements are complied with—

(a) in the case of a person so employed for more than four hours on any Sunday, that person shall—

(i) receive in respect of his employment on that Sunday a whole holiday on a day other than that of his statutory half-holiday, if any, and that whole holiday shall be on a weekday of the week beginning with that Sunday unless he has, in respect of his employment on that Sunday, already received such a holiday on a weekday of the previous week;

(ii) not be employed about the business of a shop (a) on more than two other Sundays in the same month;

(b) in the case of a person not so employed for more than four hours on a Sunday in any month, that person shall receive in respect of his employment on any Sunday in the month a half-holiday in addition to his statutory half-holiday, if any, and that additional half-holiday shall be on a weekday of the week beginning with that Sunday unless he has, in respect of his employment on that Sunday already received such a half-holiday on a weekday of the previous week;

Provided that this subsection shall not apply—

- (i) to any person employed wholly or mainly in connection with the sale of intoxicating liquor; or
- (ii) to any shop assistant (b) employed in any premises for the sale of refreshments to whom the provisions of paragraphs (a), (b), (c) and (d) of subsection (3) of the last foregoing section apply by virtue of an election made under that section by the occupier of the premises; or
- (iii) to any person employed wholly or mainly as a milk roundsman; or
- (iv) to any person wholly employed in the transaction of post office business; or
- (v) to any registered pharmacist within the meaning of the Pharmacy and Poisons Act, 1933, employed in connection with the sale or supply of medicines or medical or surgical appliances in any premises required to be kept open on Sunday for the serving of customers in pursuance of a contract between the occupier of the premises and an Executive Council (c)—

(a) if he is not employed for more than two hours on that Sunday, and has not been employed on the previous Sunday, and

(b) if on a weekday (other than the day of the statutory half-holiday) of the previous week or of the week commencing with the Sunday on which he is so employed, either he has not been, or will not be, employed before half-past ten o'clock in the morning, or has not been, or will not be, employed after six o'clock in the afternoon.

(2) For the purposes of this section—

(a) a person who works about the business of a shop (a) for the occupier thereof shall be deemed to be employed notwithstanding that he receives no reward for his labour;

(b) in relation to any person employed about the business of a shop (a) the following expressions have the meanings hereby respectively assigned to them, that is to say,

“whole holiday” means a day on which that person is not employed about the business of that shop (a);

“statutory half-holiday” means a day on which under section seventeen of this Act he is not employed about the business of that shop (a) after half-past one o'clock in the afternoon;

“half-holiday” means a day on which he is either not employed before, or not employed after, half-past one o'clock in the afternoon of that day about the business of that shop (a).

(3) The occupier of any shop (d) which by virtue of any provision of Part IV of this Act, other than section sixty-two, is open for the serving of customers on Sunday shall keep in the prescribed form (e) and in the prescribed manner a record of the names of and the hours worked by all the persons employed about the business of the shop (a) on Sunday, who are entitled to any holidays prescribed by this section, and of the respective days of the week upon which those persons receive those holidays.

(4) Nothing in this section shall authorise the employment of any person at any time when it would under any other provision of this Act or under the Sunday Entertainments Act, 1932, be unlawful for him to be so employed.

(5) Nothing in this section shall apply to the carrying on on Sunday of the business of a retail dealer in butcher's meat.

(6) In the case of any contravention of this section, the occupier of the shop shall be liable to a fine not exceeding—

(a) in the case of a first offence, five pounds;

(b) in the case of a second or subsequent offence (f), twenty pounds.

In considering for the purposes of this subsection whether an offence is or is not a first offence, any offence under subsection (1) of section fifty-nine of this Act shall be treated as if it were an offence under this subsection.

(7) This section shall not extend to Scotland.

23. Sunday employment in retail trading elsewhere than in shops.—The last foregoing section shall extend to any place (a) outside Scotland where any retail trade or business (b) is carried on as if that place were a shop (c), and as if in relation to any such place (a) the person by whom the retail trade or business (b) is carried on were the occupier of a shop, but as so extended shall apply only to persons wholly or mainly employed in connection with the retail trade or business (b) carried on at that place (a).

(a) Place. For the purposes of this section neither a warehouse nor a box tricycle is a "place": the warehouse is not because it is not open for the service of customers and no retail trade is carried on at it; the tricycle is not because though always at a place it never can be a place; see Eldorado Ice Cream Co., Ltd. v. Clark, [1938] 1 K.B. 715; [1938] 1 All E.R. 330.

This case was followed in Stone v. Boreham, [1959] 1 Q.B. 1; [1958] 2 All E.R. 715, where a mobile shop was held not to be a place where retail trade was carried on. See also Kahn v. Newberry, [1959] 2 Q.B. 1; [1959] 2 All E.R. 202, where the same decision was reached in the case of a costermonger's barrow. But if a stall was regularly set up in the same spot it might be a place within this section even if it was on wheels. See also the Scottish cases of Nixon v. Capaldi, 1949 S.C. (J.) 155 and Cowlairs Co-operative Society Ltd. v. Glasgow Corporation, 1957 S.C. (J.) 51.

(c) Shop. For definition, see s. 74, post.

(b) no young person shall be employed overtime about the business of the shop (b)—

(i) in any year after he has been employed overtime about the business of the shop (b) for fifty working hours in that year;

(ii) in any week after he has been employed overtime about the business of the shop (b) for twelve working hours in that week.

(3) In the case of any contravention (d) of the provisions of this section, the occupier of the shop shall be liable to a fine not exceeding ten pounds for every person in respect of whom the contravention occurs.

- (b) the provisions of the last foregoing section permitting employment overtime shall not apply during the period specified in the notice (b) in relation to young persons whose employment is such as aforesaid:

Provided that, after the provisions of this subsection have been applicable to any shop during twelve such periods beginning in any calendar year, the said provisions shall not again be applicable to the shop in that year.

(2) If the occupier of any shop (a) gives notice (b) that he elects that the provisions of this subsection shall not be applicable to that shop, then, unless and until the notice (b) is withdrawn, the said provisions shall not be applicable thereto, but as respects business carried on at any shop (a) to which the said provisions are not so rendered inapplicable—

- (a) proviso (a) to subsection (2) of the last foregoing section shall not apply to the overtime employment of persons whose employment is wholly or mainly in connection with the business of serving meals, intoxicating liquors, or refreshments to customers for consumption on the premises, and
- (b) if other business is carried on in the shop (a), the overtime employment of persons in relation to whom this subsection applies shall not be taken into account for the purposes of the application of the said proviso in relation to other young persons (e):

with the business aforesaid, have effect as if in proviso (b) to subsection (2) thereof there were inserted the following additional paragraph, that is to say—

(iii) in any period of two consecutive weeks so that he is employed overtime about the business of the shop for more than eight working hours in that period.

(3) A notice (b) given under the last foregoing subsection with respect to any shop, and a notice (b) withdrawing any such notice (b) as aforesaid, shall be given in such form, in such manner, and subject to such conditions as may be prescribed (b), to the local authority (f) whose duty it is to enforce this section within the district in which the shop (a) is situated, and any such notice (b) shall take effect on such date after it is given as may be prescribed.

(1) In determining for the purposes of this Part of this Act the number of working hours (a) for which a young person (b) has in any week (c) or period of two or three consecutive weeks been employed about the business of any shop (d), he shall be deemed to have been also employed about the business thereof during any time during which he was in that week (c) or period employed—

(a) about the business of any other shop;

(b) in a factory (e);

(2) As respects male persons between the ages of sixteen and eighteen (c) years whose employment is wholly or mainly in connection with the business of serving meals to customers for consumption on the premises, the interval of at least eleven consecutive hours required by this section need not include any time between ten o'clock in the evening and midnight during which they are wholly employed in connection with that business.

(a) in those provisions references to employment about the business of a shop (b) shall be deemed to include references to such employment as aforesaid, and

(b) for the purposes of the application of those provisions to such employment, references in this Act to a shop shall be deemed to include references to the place in or from which the retail trade or business is carried on, and references to the occupier of a shop shall be deemed to include references to the person by whom the retail trade or business is carried on.

- (a) any person employed in a residential hotel (a) who is not a shop assistant (b) within the meaning of section seventy-four of this Act, or, in the case of a person employed at premises to which the provisions of section twenty-one of this Act apply, is not wholly or mainly employed there in connection with the business of selling intoxicating liquors or refreshments for consumption on the premises;

For the purposes of this subsection, employment wholly or mainly outside a factory (h) in collecting, carrying or delivering goods, carrying messages or running errands, being employment for the purposes of retail trade or business carried on from the factory, shall be deemed not to be employment in the business of the factory.

(2) This section shall have effect in Scotland as if for references to the Registrar-General and the Births and Deaths Registration Acts 1836 to 1929 there were respectively substituted references to the Registrar-General of Births, Deaths and Marriages in Scotland and the Registration of Births, Deaths and Marriages (Scotland) Acts 1854 to 1938 and as if any reference to a superintendent registrar were omitted.

(a) Directions of Registrar-General. No directions have been given by the Registrar-General under this section, but see s. 76 (2) and (3) of this Act and the Certificates of Births, Deaths and Marriages (Registration) (Registrar-General) Rules 1938 (S.R. & O. 1938 No. 250), the relevant provisions of which have effect as if made under this section.

PART III

MODIFICATIONS OF PARTS I AND II IN SPECIAL CASES

40. Suspension of weekly half-holiday in holiday resorts.—(1) In places frequented as holiday resorts during certain seasons of the year the local authority (a) may by order (b) suspend, for such period or periods as may be specified in the order (b), not exceeding in the aggregate four months in any year, the obligation imposed by this Act to close shops (c) on the weekly half-holiday (d).

(2) Any order (b) made under this section may be made so as to apply to the whole or to any part of the area of the local authority (a), and to all shops (c), or to shops of any class, within that area or part.

(3) Where the occupier of any shop (c) in any place in which any such order of suspension is in force satisfies the local authority (a) that it is the practice to allow all his shop assistants (e) a holiday on full pay of not less than two weeks in every year, and keeps affixed in his shop (c) a notice to that effect, the requirements that on one day in each week a shop assistant (e) shall not be employed after half-past one o'clock shall not apply to the shop (c) during such period or periods as aforesaid.

(a) Local authority. For definition, see ss. 71 and 73, post.

(b) Order. For provisions as to the making and revocation of orders, see ss. 52, 70.

(c) Shop. For definition, see s. 74 (1), post.

(d) Weekly half-holiday. See s. 1, ante.

(e) Shop assistant. For definition, see ss. 74 (1), post, and 21 (8), ante.

41. Alteration of general closing hours in holiday resorts and sea fishing centres.—(1) In places frequented as holiday resorts during certain seasons of the year, and in places where sea fishing is principally carried on during certain seasons of the year, the local authority (a) shall by order, during such period as may be specified in the order, substitute for the general closing hours (b) fixed by or under this Act such later hours as they may think fit if, upon application being made to them for an order under this section, they are satisfied that such an order is desired by the occupiers of a majority of the shops (c) to be affected by the order:

Provided that the local authority (a) shall not in any year by orders under this subsection substitute later hours for the general closing hours fixed by this Act for periods exceeding four months in the aggregate in that year.

(2) Any order under this section—

(a) may be made so as to apply to the whole or to any part of the area of the local authority (a), and to all shops (c), or to shops of any class, within that area or part; and

(b) shall be made subject to such conditions as the local authority (a) may consider necessary for securing that shop assistants (d) affected by the order shall not be employed in or about the business of a shop for more than such number of hours as may be specified by the order; and

(c) may suspend the operation of any closing order (e) which is for the time being in force in the area of the local authority (a).

(3) In the case of any breach of a condition imposed by any order made under this section, the occupier of the shop shall be liable to a fine not exceeding—

(a) in the case of a first offence, five pounds;

(b) in the case of a second or subsequent offence (f), twenty pounds.

In considering for the purposes of this subsection whether an offence is or is not a first offence, any offence under subsection (2) of section fourteen or subsection (3) of section forty-two of this Act shall be treated as if it were an offence under this subsection.

(4) If, while orders made under this section are in force, any shop assistant (d) affected by any order under this section is, in any year, employed on or about the business of a shop (c) for extra hours, he shall, subject to the provisions of the Fourth Schedule to this Act, be entitled to corresponding holidays, calculated in accordance with the provisions of that Schedule, with full wages.

If at the date of the termination of his employment or at the end of the year, whichever first occurs, default has been made in granting to him any holiday or wages to which he is entitled under this subsection, the shop assistant (d) may recover as a debt due from the employer for every day's holiday in respect of which such default has been made a sum equal to one-sixth of the highest weekly rate of wages paid to him in respect of his employment in or about the business of the shop (c) during the year or the part thereof during which he has been employed therein.

(5) For the purpose of this section and the said Fourth Schedule—

“extra hours” means, in relation to any shop assistant (d), hours in excess of the customary working day, being hours after the general closing hours fixed by or under this Act otherwise than by an order made under this section;

“customary working day” means, in relation to any shop assistant (d), the daily number of hours during which shop assistants (d) of his class are, while unaffected by any order made under this section, customarily employed in or about the business of the shop (c) in which he is employed;

“full wages” means, in relation to any holiday granted to a shop assistant (d), wages at a rate equivalent to the rate of wages to which he was entitled immediately before the holiday.

(6) In the case of a shop as respects which an order under this section is in force on the first Sunday in November in any year, the provisions of Part I of this Act as to general closing hours in the winter months shall not be construed as making earlier the hours at which the shop is required to be closed while the order remains in force (g).

42. Alteration of general closing hours and closing orders for exhibitions.—(1) As respects any retail trade or business (a) carried on at an exhibition or show within the area of a local authority (b), the local authority may by order substitute for the general closing hours (c) fixed by or under this Act, or for any closing hour fixed by a closing order (d), later hours, not being later than ten o'clock in the evening, if they are satisfied that the retail trade or business (a) so carried on is subsidiary or ancillary only to the main purpose of the exhibition or show.

(2) Any order under this section shall be made subject to such conditions as the local authority (b) may consider necessary for securing that shop assistants (e) affected by the order shall not be employed in or about the retail trade or business (a) to which the order relates for more than such number of hours as may be specified by the order.

(3) In the case of any breach of a condition imposed by any order made under this section, the occupier of the shop shall be liable to a fine not exceeding—

- (a) in the case of a first offence, five pounds;
- (b) in the case of a second or subsequent offence (f), twenty pounds.

In considering for the purposes of this subsection whether an offence is or is not a first offence, any offence under subsection (2) of section fourteen or subsection (3) of section forty-one of this Act shall be treated as if it were an offence under this subsection.

(4) In the case of a shop as respects which an order under this section is in force on the first Sunday in November in any year, the provisions of Part I of this Act as to general closing hours in

43. Suspension of general closing hours and closing orders on special occasions.—(1) The Secretary of State may by order for such periods as he thinks fit suspend the operation of the provisions of this Act relating to general closing hours (a) during the Christmas season or in connection with any other special occasion, and while any order made under this subsection is in force the provisions of any closing order (b) shall be deemed to be suspended except in so far as may be otherwise directed by the order of the Secretary of State.

The power of making orders under this subsection shall be exercisable by statutory instrument.

(2) A local authority (c) may, in connection with any special occasion, by order suspend the operation of the provisions of this Act relating to general closing hours (a) and the provisions of any closing order (b) made by them for such period as they may think fit:

Provided that a local authority (c) shall not in any year by orders under this subsection suspend the operation of the said provisions for more than seven days in the aggregate in that year.

(a) if the shop (a) is a telegraph office, the obligation to close on the weekly half-holiday (b) shall not apply to the shop (a) so far as relates to the transaction of post office business thereat;

(b) where the Postmaster-General certifies that the exigencies of the postal service requires that post office business should be transacted in any such shop (a) at times when under the provisions of this Act relating to the weekly half-holiday (b) the shop (a) would be required to be closed, or under conditions not authorised by sections seventeen to twenty of this Act, the shop (a) shall, for the purpose of the transaction of post office business, be exempted from the provisions of Part I and sections seventeen to twenty of this Act to such extent as the Postmaster-General may certify to be necessary for the purpose:

Provided that in such cases the Postmaster-General shall make the best arrangements that the exigencies of the postal service allow with a view to the conditions of employment of the persons employed being on the whole not less favourable than those secured by Part I and sections seventeen to twenty of this Act:

(2) Save as aforesaid, nothing in Part I or section seventeen to twenty of this Act shall apply to post office business, or to any premises in which post office business is transacted.

- (a) to any fair lawfully held or any bazaar or sale of work for charitable or other purposes from which no private profit is derived; or
- (b) to any library at which the business of lending books or periodicals is not carried on for purposes of gain other than that of making profits for some philanthropic or charitable object (including any religious or educational object) or for any club or institution which is not itself carried on for purposes of gain.

PART IV

SUNDAY TRADING

General Provisions in England and Wales

47. Closing of shops on Sunday.—Every shop (a) shall, save as otherwise provided by this Part of this Act, be closed for the serving of customers on Sunday:

Provided that a shop (a) may be open (b) for the serving of customers on Sunday for the purposes of any transaction mentioned in the Fifth Schedule to this Act (c).

(a) Shop. For interpretation, see s. 74 (1).

(b) Open. In Waterman v. Wallasey Corporation, Hesketh v. Wallasey Corporation, [1954] 2 All E.R. 187; W allowed prospective customers on a Sunday to inspect a car which was for sale. H also allowed prospective customers to view a car but in addition took one for a demonstration run. There was no sale in either case. In both cases the premises were garages lawfully open for the sale of motor accessories, petrol and oil under the 5th Schedule. It was held that W was not guilty as the mere fact that someone inspected a car did not mean that the shop was open for the serving of customers, but that H was guilty as there was evidence that he went further and his shop was therefore not closed.

In Betta Cars v. Ilford Corporation (1959), 124 J.P. 19, a car dealer opened his doors on Sunday and the cars had prices on them. An employee was present and told an Inspector the premises were open for viewing only. There was no evidence of customers being there or sales taking place. A conviction was upheld, the court saying that the shop was clearly open for the purpose of serving customers.

In Ruffell v. Ilford Corporation (1960), 125 J.P. 104, the Divisional Court upheld the conviction of a salesman who knew that the appropriate notice permitting Sunday trading was not displayed, although he did not know that this constituted an offence.

In Ilford Corporation v. Betterclean (Seven Kings) Ltd., [1965] 1 All E. R. 900, a coin-operated self-service launderette was held not to be open for the serving of customers as there was no personal service despite the fact that someone cleaned the premises and re-stocked the machines.

(b) Fifth Schedule. This is set out on p. 285, post. See also s. 49 as to refreshments for consumption elsewhere than at the shop, and s. 50 as to shops where several trades or businesses are carried on. For provisions as to partial exemption orders, see s. 48, infra.

48. Partial exemption orders.—(1) The local authority (a) may by order (in this Part of this Act referred to as a “partial exemption order”) made in accordance with the provisions of this Part of this Act (b) provide that shops (c) situated in their area or in such part thereof as is specified in the order may for the purpose of such of the transactions mentioned in the Sixth Schedule to this Act as may be so specified be open for the serving of customers on Sunday subject to the limitations hereafter provided.

(2) A partial exemption order shall not authorise a shop (c) to be open for the serving of customers after ten o’clock on Sunday morning:

Provided that an order may authorise the serving of customers after ten o'clock on Sunday morning in shops to which the order applies in cases of emergency and in such other cases as may be specified in the order.

(3) A partial exemption order may contain such incidental, supplemental or consequential provisions as may appear to the local authority (a) necessary or proper.

(a) Local authority. For definition, see s. 73, post.

(b) Provisions of this Part of this Act. See s. 52 and note (b) thereto, post.

(c) Shop. For definition, see s. 74 (1), post.

49. Sale of meals and refreshments off the premises.

—(1) As respects shops (a) which, by virtue of the provisions of this Part of this Act, may be open for the serving of customers on Sunday for the purpose of the sale of meals or refreshments for consumption elsewhere than at the shop (a) at which they are sold, the local authority (b) may by order made in accordance with the provisions of this Part of this Act (c) provide that those shops (a) or any class of those shops specified in the order, being shops (a) situated in their area or in such part thereof as may be so specified, shall cease to be entitled to be open for the serving of customers on Sunday for that purpose:

Provided that no order made under this section shall—

(a) apply to shops (a) in which the sale of meals or refreshments for consumption at the shop (a) forms a substantial part of the business carried on therein; or

(b) prevent the sale on Sunday of meals and refreshments elsewhere than at a shop (a) except to such extent and subject to such conditions as may be specified in the order.

(2) An order under this section may provide for the provisions thereof being in force throughout the year or during such periods as may be specified in the order, and may be made subject to such conditions as may be so specified.

(a) Shop. For definition, see s. 74 (1), post.

(b) Local authority. For definition, see s. 73, post.

(c) Provisions of this Part of this Act. See s. 52 and note (b) thereto, post.

50. Shops where several trades or businesses are carried on.—Where several trades or businesses are carried on in the same shop (a) and any of those trades or businesses consist only of transactions of such a nature that, if they were the only transactions carried on in the shop (a), the provisions of this Part of this Act requiring the shop (a) to be closed for the serving of customers for the whole or any part of Sunday would not apply to the shop (a), the shop (a) may be kept open for the whole or any part of Sunday, as the case may be, for the purposes of those transactions alone, subject, however, to such conditions (b) as may be prescribed.

General note. This section applies to shops but s. 58 extends the foregoing provisions of Part IV of the Act to retail trading elsewhere than in shops. Also, s. 57 requires the display in the shop, of a notice in the prescribed form. This section creates no offence, but if the conditions are not observed an offence is committed against s. 47, ante: Tonkin v. Raven, [1959] 1 Q.B. 177; [1958] 3 All E.R. 374.

(a) Shop. For definition, see s. 74 (1), post.

(b) Conditions. For prescribed conditions, see Shops Regulations 1937, reg. 1, and Schedule, Form I, pp. 303, 306, post.

51. Holiday resorts.—Where the area or any part of the area of a local authority (a) is a district which is frequented as a holiday resort during certain seasons of the year, the local authority (a) may by order (b) provide that on such Sundays as may be specified in the order (b) shops or any class of shops (c), being shops (c) situated in the district or in such part thereof as may be so specified, may, subject to such conditions and during such hours as may be so specified, be open for the serving of customers for the purpose of any of the transactions specified in the Seventh Schedule to this Act or such of them as may be specified in the order:

Provided that the Sundays specified in any such order (b) shall not be more than eighteen in any year.

(a) Local authority. For definition, see s. 73, post.

(b) Order. As to the making of orders, see s. 52 and note (b) thereto, infra. As to the revocation of orders, see s. 70 (2), post.

(c) Shop. For definition, see s. 74 (1), post.

52. Making and revocation of orders.—(1) The local authority (a) shall, before making any order under the foregoing provisions of this Part of this Act, give public notice in the prescribed manner (b) of their intention to make the order, specifying in the notice a period (not being less than the prescribed period (b)) within which objections may be made to the making of the proposed order, and, if after taking into consideration any objections they have received the local authority (a) are satisfied that it is expedient to make the order and that the occupiers of not less than two-thirds in number of the shops (c) or classes of shops (c) to be affected by the order approve the order, they may make the order.

(2) Where several trades or businesses are carried on in the same shop (c), the local authority (a) may require the occupier of the shop (c) to specify which trade or business he considers to be his principal trade or business, and no trade or business other than that so specified shall, for the purpose of determining whether the occupiers of not less than two-thirds in number of the shops (c) to be affected by any order approve the order, be considered as carried on in the shop (c), unless the occupier thereof satisfies the local authority that it forms a substantial part of the business carried on in the shop (c).

(b) Prescribed manner and prescribed period. For the form in which public notice must be given, see the Shops Regulations 1963 and the form there prescribed, pp. 341, 342, post. The period within which objections must be made is still contained in the Shops Regulations 1937, reg. 2 (2), p. 303, post.

(c) Shop. For definition, see s. 74 (1), post.

53. Persons observing the Jewish Sabbath.—(1) Subject to the provisions of this section, the occupier of any shop (a) who is a person of the Jewish religion shall be entitled, upon making to the local authority (b) an application in accordance with the provisions of this section, to have the shop registered (c) under this section by the local authority, and so long as the shop is so registered then—

(a) the shop (a) shall be closed for all purposes connected with trade or business on Saturday; and

(b) the provisions of this Part of this Act requiring the shop (a) to be closed for the serving of customers on Sunday shall not apply until two o'clock in the afternoon; and

(c) there shall be kept conspicuously placed in the shop a notice stating that it will be closed on Saturday and, if the shop will be open for the serving of customers on Sunday after two o'clock in the afternoon for the purposes of any transaction for which it is permitted under this Part of this Act to be so open, specifying the hours during which, and the purposes for which, it will be so open.

(2) Any regulation for the registration (c) of a shop under this section shall be in the prescribed form and shall be accompanied—

(a) by a statutory declaration (d) made by the occupier of the shop in such form as may be prescribed declaring that he conscientiously objects on religious grounds to carrying on trade or business on the Jewish Sabbath; and

(b) by such further statutory or other declarations (d) and certificates, if any, made by such persons, and in such form, as may be prescribed.

(3) For the purposes of this section, a shop (a) occupied by a partnership or company shall be deemed to be occupied by a person of the Jewish religion if the majority of partners or of the directors, as the case may be, are persons of that religion, but not otherwise, and such a shop (a) shall not be registered under this section unless the statutory declaration (d) required by paragraph (a) of the last foregoing subsection is made by the majority of partners or directors and specifies the names and addresses of all the other partners or directors.

(4) If for the purpose of procuring the registration (c) of any shop under this section any person knowingly or recklessly makes an untrue statement or untrue representation, he shall be liable, on summary conviction, to imprisonment for a term not exceeding three months or to a fine not exceeding fifty pounds, or to both such imprisonment and fine.

(5) So long as a shop (a) is registered under this section—

(a) no other shop (a) occupied by the same occupier shall be kept open for any purpose connected with trade or business on Saturday;

(b) no person by whom the statutory declaration (d) aforesaid has been made in connection with the application for the registration (c) of the shop (a) shall be employed or engaged on the Jewish Sabbath about the business of any shop or shall so employ, or be directly concerned in the control or management of any partnership or company which so employs, any person.

(6) Where any person is convicted of a contravention of this section, the court may, in addition to any other penalty, order the registration of any shops occupied by him or by any partnership or company in the control or management of which he is directly concerned to be revoked:

Provided that the court shall not order the registration of any shop not occupied, or not occupied solely, by the person convicted to be revoked except after affording an opportunity to the occupier or to the other occupiers, as the case may be, to appear and be heard.

(7) If upon representations made to them it appears to the local authority (b) that there is reason to believe—

(a) that the occupier of any shop registered under this section is not a person of the Jewish religion; or

(b) that a conscientious objection on religious grounds to carrying on business on the Jewish Sabbath is not genuinely held by the occupier of the shop, or in the case of a shop occupied by a partnership or company by the majority of the partners or of the directors, as the case may be, the local authority (b) may furnish particulars of the case to such tribunal (e) as may, after consultation with the London Committee of Deputies of the British Jews, be prescribed, and if that tribunal (e), after considering the case in accordance with such rules as may be prescribed (f), report to the local authority (b) that in their opinion the occupier of the shop (a) is not a person of the Jewish religion or that such a conscientious objection is not so held as aforesaid, the local authority (b) shall revoke the registration of the shop, and upon the revocation thereof the registration under this section of all other shops occupied by the same occupier, whether in the area of that local authority or elsewhere, shall be deemed to be also revoked.

Provided that, where such a fresh application (c) is made by reason of a change in any partnership or among the directors of any company by which the shop is occupied, the local authority (b) may dispense with the statutory or other declaration (d) or certificates required by paragraph (a) of subsection (2) and by subsection (3) of this section in the case of any person who has made such a declaration (d) in connection with a former application in respect of that shop or any other shop in the area of the local authority.

(9) The registration of any shop under this section shall be cancelled upon application in that behalf being made to the local authority (b) by the occupier of the shop, but shall not be so cancelled during the period of twelve months from the date on which an application for registration (c) of the shop was last made.

(10) Where an application is made to a local authority in accordance with the provisions of this section for the registration (c) of a shop under this section—

(12) This section shall apply to persons who are members of any religious body regularly observing the Jewish Sabbath as it applies to persons of the Jewish religion, and references therein to persons of the Jewish religion shall be construed accordingly as including any person who is a member of such a body, and in the application of this section to such persons this section shall have effect as if for the reference therein to the London Committee of Deputies of the British Jews there were substituted a reference to such body as appears to the Secretary of State to represent such persons.

(13) As respects any shop (a) which is for the time being registered under this section, this Act shall have effect (g) as if—

(a) in subsection (1) of section one and subsection (1) of section seventeen, the references to weekdays were construed as references to weekdays other than Saturdays;

71. Enforcement.—(1) It shall be the duty of every local authority (a) to enforce within their district the provisions of this Act and of the orders made under those provisions, and for that purpose to institute and carry on such proceedings in respect of contraventions (b) of the said provisions and such orders as aforesaid as may be necessary to secure observance thereof.

(2) For the purpose of their duties under the foregoing subsection, it shall be the duty of every local authority (a) to appoint inspectors (c), and an inspector (c) so appointed shall, for the purposes of his powers and duties, have in relation to shops all the powers conferred in relation to factories on inspectors by section one hundred and twenty-three of the Factories Act 1937 (d), and that section and section one hundred and twenty-five of the same Act (d) shall apply accordingly.

An inspector may, if so authorised by the local authority (a), institute and carry on any proceedings under this Act on behalf of the authority.

(3) The following enactments in the Factories Act 1937 (d), that is to say—subsection (1) of section one hundred and forty (which provides for the summary prosecution of offences), subsection (2) of section one hundred and forty (which relates to the terms of an information in proceedings under the Act), subsection (7) of section one hundred and forty (which disqualifies certain interested persons from acting as members of a court trying an offence), section one hundred and forty-one (which provides for an appeal from an order made by a court of summary jurisdiction in England or Wales), subsection (2) of section one hundred and forty-two (which in proceedings with respect to a young person imposes on the defendant the onus of proving that the young person is not below a given age), subsection (7) of section one hundred and fifty-six (which confers on certain courts in Scotland power to deal with minor offences under the Act), subsection (9) of section one hundred and fifty-six (which enables a prosecutor in Scotland to give evidence in the proceedings), and subsection (10) of section one hundred and fifty-six (which renders a person convicted in Scotland of an offence against the Act liable in expenses), shall, so far as they are applicable, have effect as if re-enacted in this Act and in terms made applicable thereto.

(4) All fines imposed in any proceedings instituted by or on behalf of a local authority (a) in pursuance of their powers and duties under this Act shall be paid to the local authority (a):

Provided that in England and Wales this subsection shall cease to have effect upon the coming into operation of section twenty-seven of the Justices of the Peace Act 1949.

(5) Where an offence for which the occupier of a shop (e) is liable (f) under this Act has, in fact, been committed by some manager, agent, servant or other person, the manager, agent, servant or other person shall be liable to the like penalty as if he were the occupier.

(6) Where the occupier of a shop (e) is charged with an offence under this Act, he shall be entitled upon information duly laid by him to have any other person whom he charges as the actual offender brought before the court at the time appointed for hearing the charge; and if, after the commission of the offence has been proved, he proves to the satisfaction of the court that he has used due diligence to enforce the execution of this Act and that the said other person has committed the offence in question without his knowledge, consent or connivance, the said other person shall be summarily convicted of such offence, and the occupier shall be exempt from any fine.

(7) The expression "shop" in this section—

(a) so far as it relates to the enforcement of any other provision of this Act, has the same meaning as in that other provision; and

(b) so far as it relates to the enforcement of any provision in Part II or Part IV of this Act which applies to retail trade or business carried on at any place not being a shop, includes a reference to any such place.

General note. Subsection (6) of this section provides a third-party procedure whereby the occupier of a shop who is charged with an offence under the Act may lay an information against the actual offender and may be exempt from a fine. See the interpretation of the similar provisions of s. 5 of the Agriculture (Poisonous Substances) Act 1952, pp. 359 et seq.

72. Further provision for enforcement.—(1) It shall be the duty of the local authority (a) having power under the Children and Young Persons Act 1933 (b), to enforce the provisions of that Act as to street trading, to enforce as part of their duties under that Act the provisions of Part II of this Act (other than section twenty-two) in their application to street trading, and the last foregoing section shall not apply with respect to the provisions to be enforced under this subsection, except that offences under those provisions shall be punishable on summary conviction.

(2) (3) [These subsections were repealed as from 1st August 1964 by the Offices, Shops and Railway Premises Act 1963, s. 91 and Sched. 2.]

(4) In the application of this section to Scotland—

(a) subsection (1) shall have effect as if for the local authority and the provisions of the Children and Young Persons Act 1933, therein mentioned there were respectively substituted references to the local authority for the purposes of this Act, and the provisions of this Act, and the last foregoing section shall apply accordingly;

(b) [This paragraph was repealed as from 1st August 1964 by the Offices, Shops and Railway Premises Act 1963, s. 91 and Sched. 2.]

(a) Local authority. For definition, see s. 73, infra.

(b) Children and Young Persons Act 1933. See also ss. 35 and 36 of the Children and Young Persons Act 1963.

73. Local authorities.—(1) In this Act the expression “local authority” means—as respects the city of London, the common council;

as respects any municipal borough, the council of the borough;

as respects any urban district with a population according to the returns of the last published census for the time being of twenty thousand or upward, the district council; elsewhere, the county council.

(2) A county council may, with the approval of the Secretary of State, make arrangements with the council of an urban district in the county with a population of less than twenty thousand, or with the council of a rural district, for the exercise by the council of that district as agents for the county council, on such terms and subject to such conditions as may be agreed on, of any powers of the county council under this Act within the district, and the council of the district may, as part of the agreement, undertake to pay the whole or any part of the expenses incurred in connection with the exercise of the powers delegated to them; and the London County Council may, with the like approval, make similar arrangements with the council of any metropolitan borough.

(3) The expenses of a county council under this Act shall be defrayed as expenses for special county purposes.

(4) In Scotland, the foregoing provisions of this section shall not apply; and the expression “local authority” in the application of this Act to Scotland means a county or town council.

General note. The words in italics were repealed from 1st April 1965 by the London Government Act 1963, s. 93 and Sched. 18. After 1st April 1965 the London boroughs are municipal boroughs—see the London Government Act 1963, s. 1 (6) (43 Halsbury’s Statutes (2nd Edn.) 666).

74. Interpretation.—(1) In this Act, save where the context otherwise requires—

“bank holiday” (a) includes any public holiday or day of public rejoicing or mourning;

“butchers’ meat” means beef, mutton, veal, lamb or pork (including livers, heads, feet, hearts, lights, kidneys or sweetbreads), whether fresh, chilled, frozen or salted, and includes Kosher meat;

“Kosher meat” means butchers’ meat killed and prepared by the Jewish ritual method;

“local authority” has the meaning assigned to it by the last foregoing section;

“prescribed” means prescribed by regulations made under section sixty-nine of this Act;

“residential hotel” means premises used for the reception of guests and travellers desirous of dwelling or sleeping therein;

“retail trade or business” (c) includes the business of a barber or hairdresser, the sale of refreshments or intoxicating liquors, the business of lending books or periodicals when carried on for purposes of gain, and retail sales by auction, but does not include the sale of programmes and catalogues and other similar sales at theatres and places of amusement;

“shop” (d) includes any premises where any retail trade or business is carried on;

“young person” does not include a child whose employment is regulated by section eighteen of the Children and Young Persons Act 1933 (f), or section twenty-eight of the Children and Young Persons (Scotland) Act 1937, but save as aforesaid means a person who has not attained the age of eighteen years.

(2) For the purposes of this Act, a person shall be deemed to be between any two ages therein mentioned if he has attained the first-mentioned age but has not attained the second-mentioned age.

(3) Any reference in this Act to any enactment shall, except where the context otherwise requires, be construed as a reference to that enactment as amended by any subsequent enactment.

General note. The definitions of “owner”, “Public Health Acts” and “sanitary authority”, formerly in this subsection, were repealed as from 1st August 1964 by the Offices, Shops and Railway Premises Act 1963, s. 91 and Sched. 2.

(a) Bank holiday. This presumably means the holidays provided by the Bank Holidays Act 1871, and the Holidays Extension Act 1875, as to which see note (e) to s. 94 of the Factories Act 1961 (Redgrave's Factories Acts, 20th Edn., 248).

(b) Factories Act 1937. This Act was repealed and replaced by the Factories Act 1961 (ibid., s. 183 (2) and Sched. 7). The definition of "factory" is now contained in ibid., s. 175, to which reference must now be made (ibid., s. 183 (1) and Sched. 6). Principally, that definition provides that the expression "factory" means any premises in which, or within the close or curtilage or precincts of which, persons are employed in manual labour in any process for or incidental to any of certain specific purposes, of which the most important are (a) the making of any article or of part of any article; (b) the altering, repairing, ornamenting, polishing, cleaning, or washing or the breaking up or demolition of any article and (c) the adapting for sale of any article. By ibid., s. 175 (2) certain specific types of premises are brought within the definition, and by ibid., s. 175 (6) where a place situate within the close, curtilage or precincts forming a factory is solely used for such purpose other than the processes carried on in the factory, that place is not deemed to form part of the factory, but, if otherwise it would be a factory, is deemed to be a separate factory. For the full terms of ibid., s. 175, and for the authorities thereon, see Redgrave's Factories Acts, 20th Edn., pp. 398 et seq.

(c) Retail trade. The ordinary meaning of the term "retail seller" is one who deals with customers, and of "wholesale seller" is one who deals only with persons who buy to sell again (per BACON, V.C., in Treacher & Co., Ltd. v. Treacher, [1874] W.N. 4). The word "trade" has the technical meaning of buying or selling (per WILLES, J., in Harris v. Amery (1865), 35 L.J.C.P. 89, at p. 92).

It was held in the Irish case of Wallace v. Dixon, [1917] 2 I.R. 236, that this definition is not confined to sales across the counter, and that it extends to places where retail orders are received, such as a retail coal-merchant's office.

In W. H. Smith & Son v. Kyle, [1902] 1 K.B. 286; Lord ALVERSTONE, C.J., expressed the opinion that for most purposes of the Shops Acts a temporary bookstall consisting of boards laid upon trestles would be a "shop", even under the much narrower definition in the Shop Hours Act 1892.

In Dennis v. Hutchinson and Trafford v. Hutchinson, [1922] 1 K.B. 693, the appellants kept wooden stalls on the beach at Skegness containing mechanical contrivances by which the public could play games of mixed chance and skill for prizes of chocolates, etc, paying an entrance fee in cash. It was held that these were not "premises where a retail trade was carried on", and were therefore, not "shops".

In Ilford Corporation v. Betterclean (Seven Kings) Ltd., [1965] 1 All E.R. 900 a coin operated launderette with vending machines was held to be a shop where retail trade business was carried on.

In M. & I'. Frawley, Ltd. v. Ve-Ri-Best Manufacturing Co., Ltd., [1953] 1 Q.B. 318; [1953] 1 All E.R. 50. A ran a builder's and decorator's business. Apart from some small sales of materials to the public (which were disregarded) the premises were used as offices and for storing materials. The work was carried out upon the customer's own premises. The court, in considering the words "retail trade or business", said that they primarily suggested the sale of goods rather than services and that although "business" was a slightly wider word than "trade", it could only cover analogous situations, e.g., repairing shoes, cleaning clothes or mending watches. A similar result was reached in Deeble v. Robinson, [1954] 1 Q.B. 77; [1953] 2 All E.R. 1348. There the applicant for a new lease of his premises was a retail milk roundsman; he had sheds where he stored his milk and kept his horse and float; but he sold no milk on the premises. It was held that a shop was a place on which sales are made and it was not enough that the premises are occupied for the purpose of sales made elsewhere.

See also Turpin v. Middlesbrough Assessment Committee, [1931] A.C. 451; Finn v. Kerslake, [1931] A.C. 457; and Ritz Cleaners, Ltd. v. West Middlesex Assessment Committee, [1937] 2 K.B. 642; [1937] 2 All E.R. 368.

(d) Shop. There have to be premises, i.e. some sort of fixed structure, before the definition is satisfied. Thus a mobile shop is not within the definition—see Eldorado Ice Cream Co., Ltd. v. Keating, [1938] 1 K.B. 715; [1938] 1 All E.R. 330; Stone v. Boreham, [1959] 1 Q.B. 1; [1958] 2 All E.R. 715 and Cowlairs Co-operative Society, Ltd. v. Glasgow Corporation, 1957 S.C. (J.) 51.

It is submitted that in spite of the fact that the definition "includes" any premises where retail trade or business is carried on, that this really is equivalent to "means" any premises where retail trade or business is carried on. The word "includes", if used in an interpretation clause, may be used in order to extend the ordinary meaning of the term defined; or it may be used merely in order exhaustively to explain the meaning of the term (see Dilworth v. Stamp Commrs., [1899] A. C. 99 at pp. 105, 106, P.C.). In the present case it would appear that the word "includes" is equivalent to "means and includes", so that no premises other than those specified are to be regarded as within the definition; see per Lord TREVETHIN, C.J., in Dennis v. Hutchinson, [1922] 1 K.B. 693 at p. 697, and per SOMERVELL, L.J., in M. & F. Frawley, Ltd. v. Ve-Ri-Best Co., Ltd., [1953] 1 Q.B. 318, at p. 323; [1953] 1 All E.R. 50 at p. 51.

The ordinary meaning of the word "shop" is a spot where a retail trade is carried on (per TINDAL, C.J., in R. v. Chapman and Alderman (1843), 7 J.P. 132); it may also include places used not only for selling but also for storing goods (per MELLOR, J., in Pope v. Whalley (1865), 6 B. & S. 303 at p. 313).

The mere fact that the premises alleged to be the shop are part of a larger whole which may not be a shop is not conclusive. In George Hotel (Colchester), Ltd. v. Ball, [1938] 3 All E.R. 790 the court held that where the restaurant of a residential hotel did 63% of its trade with non-residents, it could be a shop.

A department store or supermarket, which constituted a single hereditament, has been held to be one shop and not a number of shops collected under one roof—Fine Fare, Ltd. v. Brighton County Borough Council, [1959] 1 All E.R. 476.

(e) Shop assistant. In Melluish v. London County Council, [1914] 3 K.B. 325 it was held that a kitchen maid in a restaurant kitchen, who never went into the room where the customers were served, was within the definition of person "employed in a shop in connection with the serving of customers"; and in Prance v. London County Council, [1915] 1 K.B. 688, it was held that the term included a potman at a public-house who was employed in putting up and taking down tables for customers' dinners, cleaning knives for the dinners, washing pots and glasses and cleaning up the premises, all of which duties were held to be sufficiently proximate to the serving of customers. In George Hotel (Colchester), Ltd. v. Ball, [1938] 3 All E.R. 790, a waiter in a hotel dining-room used mainly for serving meals to non-residents was also held to be a shop assistant.

(f) Children and Young Persons Act 1933. Section 18 of that Act is amended by s. 34 of the Children and Young Persons Act 1963.

75. General application to Scotland.—In the application of this Act to Scotland—for any reference to a county court there shall be substituted a reference to the sheriff; for any reference to intoxicating liquor there shall be substituted a reference to exciseable liquor.

General note. This section is printed as amended by the Offices, Shops and Railway Premises Act 1963, s. 91 and Sch. 2.

76. Repeal.—(1) The enactments set out in the Eighth Schedule to this Act are hereby repealed to the extent specified in the third column of that Schedule.

(2) Nothing in this repeal shall affect any instrument made or other thing whatsoever done under any enactment repealed by this Act or under any enactment repealed by the Shops Act 1912, and every such instrument or other thing shall continue in force and, so far as it could have been made or done under this Act, shall have effect as if made or done under the corresponding provision of this Act (a).

(3) Any document referring to any Act or enactment repealed by this Act shall be construed as referring to this Act or the corresponding enactment in this Act.

(4) Where under any Act passed before this Act there is power to affect Acts passed or in force before a particular time and that power would, but for the passing of this Act, have included power to change the law which is reproduced in this Act, then that power shall include power to make such provision as will secure the like change in the law as reproduced in this Act notwithstanding that this Act is not an Act passed or in force before that time and notwithstanding that the terms of this Act, apart from this subsection, are not such as to render that power applicable.

(5) The mention of particular matters in this section shall not be held to prejudice or affect the general application of section thirty-eight of the Interpretation Act 1889, with regard to the effect of repeals.

(a) Subsection (2). See Miller's Cash Stores, Ltd. v. West Ham Corporation, [1955] 3 All E.R. 282.

77. Short title, extent and commencement.—(1) This Act may be cited as the Shops Act 1950.

(2) This Act shall not extend to Northern Ireland.

(3) This Act shall come into operation on the first day of October, nineteen hundred and fifty.

FIRST SCHEDULE

(Section 1)

TRADES AND BUSINESSES EXEMPTED FROM THE PROVISIONS AS TO WEEKLY HALF-HOLIDAY

The sale by retail of intoxicating liquors.

The sale of refreshments, including the business carried on at a railway refreshment room.

The sale of motor, cycle, and aircraft supplies and accessories (a) to travellers.

The sale of newspapers and periodicals.

The sale of meat, fish, milk, cream, bread, confectionery (b), fruit, vegetables, flowers, and other articles of a perishable nature (c).

The sale of tobacco and smokers' requisites (d).

The business carried on at a railway bookstall (d) on or adjoining a railway platform.

The sale of medicines and medical and surgical appliances.

Retail trade carried on at an exhibition or show, if the local authority (e) certify that such retail trade is subsidiary or ancillary only to the main purpose of the exhibition or show.

(a) Accessories. This means only accessories relating to motors, cycles, and aircraft; not accessories generally (Williams v. Gosden, [1914] 1 K.B. 35).

(b) Confectionery. Run honey is not "confectionery": London County Council v. Welford's Surrey Dairies Co., Ltd., [1913] 2 K.B. 529.

The word includes both sweets and pastry (Gee v. Davies (1916), 85 L.J.K.B. 1431).

(c) Perishable articles. Butter is an "article of a perishable nature" (London County Council v. Welford's Surrey Dairies Co., Ltd., supra).

(d) Sale of tobacco; railway bookstall. An order of a local authority extending (under s. 1 (6)) the early closing day to "the sale of tobacco and smokers requisites" does not apply to a railway bookstall adjoining a platform, at which a substantial part of the business consists of the sale of such articles, since such sales are part of the ordinary business of a railway bookstall (Fyfe v. Menzies (John) & Co., 1920 S.C. (J.) 7).

(e) Local authority. For definition, see s. 73, ante.

SECOND SCHEDULE

(Sections 2 and 8)

TRANSACTIONS NOT AFFECTED BY GENERAL CLOSING HOURS OR BY CLOSING ORDERS

1. The sale of—

- (a) meals or refreshments (including table waters, sweets, chocolates, sugar confectionery, and ice cream), for consumption on the premises, or (in the case of meals or refreshments sold on railway premises) for consumption on the trains:

Provided that—

(i) in the case of canteens attached to and situated within or in the immediate vicinity of any works, if persons are employed at such works after the closing hour, and the canteen is kept open only for the use of such persons, meals or refreshments may be sold after the closing hour for consumption anywhere within the works premises; and

(ii) for the purposes of the foregoing provisions, tobacco supplied at a meal for immediate consumption shall be deemed to form part of the meal;

- (b) newly cooked provisions (a) and cooked or partly cooked tripe to be consumed off the premises;

- (c) intoxicating liquors to be consumed on or off the premises;
- (d) tobacco, table waters or matches on licensed premises during the hours during which intoxicating liquor is permitted by law to be sold on the premises;
- (e) tobacco, matches, table waters, sweets, chocolates, or other sugar confectionery or ice cream at any time during the performance in any theatre, cinema, music hall, or other similar place of entertainment so long as the sale is to a bonâ fide member of the audience and in a part of the building to which no other members of the public have access;
- (f) medicine or medical or surgical appliances, so long as the shop is kept open only for such time as is necessary for serving the customer;
- (g) newspapers, periodicals and books from the bookstalls of such terminal and main line stations as may be approved by the Secretary of State;
- (h) aircraft, motor, or cycle supplies or accessories for immediate use, so long as the shop is kept open only for such time as is necessary for serving the customer;
- (i) victuals, stores, or other necessities required by any naval, military or air force authority for His Majesty's forces or required for any ship on her arrival at or immediately before her departure from a port, so long as the shop is kept open only for such time as is necessary for the serving the customer (b).

2. The transaction of any post office business.

(a) Newly cooked provisions. In London County Council v. Davis, [1938] 2 All E.R. 764, the defendant, a shopkeeper, sold newly baked rolls for consumption off the premises at 9.55 p.m., the closing hour for shops being 8 p.m., but, as it was impossible to exclude newly baked rolls or newly baked bread from the scope of the expression 'newly cooked provisions' within the meaning of the exemption clause in the Act of 1928, no offence had been committed.

In the Magistrates of Alloa v. Dalziel, 1955 S.L.T. (Notes), p. 60, rolls were baked at 7.30 p.m. and sold at 9.5 p.m. The High Court of Justiciary upheld a conviction that they were not newly cooked provisions. But in Lanark County Council v. Dalziel, 1956 S.L.T. (Sh. Ct.) 30 the Sheriff-Substitute held that warm rolls sold half an hour after they had been baked were newly cooked goods.

(b) By the Visiting Forces (Application of Law) Order 1954, Article 11 and Schedule 3, references to His Majesty's forces in this sub-paragraph shall include references to a visiting force.

THIRD SCHEDULE

(Section 19)

INTERVALS FOR MEALS

PART I

Intervals for meals shall be arranged so as to secure that no person shall be employed for more than six hours without an interval of at least twenty minutes being allowed during the course thereof.

Without prejudice to the foregoing provision—

- (1) where the hours of employment include the hours from 11.30 a.m. to 2.30 p.m., an interval of not less than three-quarters of an hour shall be allowed between those hours for dinner (a) and
- (2) where the hours of employment include the hours from 4 p.m. to 7 p.m., an interval of not less than half an hour shall be allowed between those hours for tea.

and the interval for dinner shall be increased to one hour in cases where that meal is not taken in the shop (b), or in a building of which the shop (b) forms part or to which the shop (b) is attached:

Provided that an assistant employed in the sale of refreshments or in the sale by retail of intoxicating liquors need not be allowed the interval for dinner between 11.30 a.m. and 2.30 p.m. if he is allowed the same interval so arranged as either to end not earlier than 11.30 a.m. or to commence not later than 2.30 p.m., and the same exemption shall apply to assistants employed in any shop (b) on the market day in any town in which a market is held not oftener than once a week, or on a day on which an annual fair is held.

PART II

Part I of this Schedule shall, in its application to young persons (c) to whom subsection (1) of section twenty of this Act applies, have effect as if for the words "six hours" there were substituted the words "five hours or, on the day of the week on which he is not to be employed after half-past one o'clock, five and a half hours."

(a) Interval. The whole of the interval must fall within the specified times and a break from 10.45 to 11.45 does not comply with the Act; Hutchinson v. Cumming, 1926 S.C. (J.) 110.

(b) Shop. For definition, see s. 74 (1), ante.

(c) Young person. For definition, see s. 74 (1), ante.

FOURTH SCHEDULE

(Section 41)

METHOD OF CALCULATING THE HOLIDAYS TO WHICH ANY SHOP ASSISTANT IS ENTITLED UNDER SECTION FORTY-ONE OF THIS ACT

1. The number of extra hours (a) for which a shop assistant (b) has been employed in or about the business of the shop (c) while any one or more orders have been in force under section forty-one of this Act shall be added together, any fraction of an hour not exceeding half being treated as half an hour, and any fraction of an hour exceeding half being treated as an hour.

2. For the purposes of this Schedule the number of hours comprised in the customary working day (d) on days other than half-holidays shall be taken as the standard unit.

3. THE SHOPS REGULATIONS 1912

(S.R. & O. 1912 No. 316)

Dated April 1, 1912, made by the Secretary of State under the Shops Act 1912

General note. The Shops Act 1912 has been repealed by and consolidated in the Shops Act 1950, but Regulations made under the consolidated enactments are saved by s. 76 (2) of the 1950 Act. References in these Regulations to the 1912 Act have been correspondingly amended.

Regulations in similar terms were enacted for Scotland—see S.R. & O. 1912 No. 1861, s. 8 (not printed in this book).

As to the interpretation of terms which are defined in the enabling Act, but not in the regulations themselves, see the General Introduction.

In pursuance of the powers conferred on me by the Shops Act 1912 I hereby make the following Regulations:—

I

Notice to be given by occupier as to assistants' weekly half-holiday [1950 Act, s. 17 (2)]

1. The notice required to be affixed in a shop specifying the day or days on which the shop assistants employed therein are not employed after half-past one o'clock shall be in the Form marked I in the Schedule to these Regulations.

2. The notice shall be kept constantly affixed in a position where it may be readily seen and read by any person whom it affects, and shall be renewed whenever it becomes defaced or otherwise ceases to be clearly legible.

If the half-holiday is given on different days to the assistants employed in different rooms or departments of a shop, a separate notice shall be affixed in each such room or department.

3. The notice shall be affixed before the assistants to whom it relates cease work on the Saturday preceding the week (a) during which it is to have effect.

(a) Week. For definition, see s. 74 (1) of the Act of 1950.

Inquiries by Local Authorities as to Orders fixing the day on which shops are to be closed for the weekly half-holiday
[1950 Act, s. 1 (2)]

4. Before the local authority make an Order fixing the day of the weekly half-holiday for any class of shops, they shall take the following steps for ascertaining whether the occupiers of a majority of that class of shops approve the Order:—

- (1) They shall cause a register of the shops of that class to be prepared in the manner hereinafter provided.
- (2) They shall give notice of their intention to make the Order and of the times and place at which the register may be inspected by any shopkeeper affected, in the Form marked II in the Schedule to these Regulations. The notice shall either be advertised in at least two newspapers circulating in the area to which the Order is to apply, or be posted up in streets and public places in the area to which the Order is to apply, in such positions and in such manner that it is likely to be seen and can easily be read by persons interested.
- (3) They shall take a vote of the occupiers of the shops of that class in the manner hereinafter provided, or, if the local authority have received an application in writing purporting to be signed by the occupiers of a majority of the shops of that class, they may in lieu of taking a vote take such steps as they think fit to verify the signatures to the application, and signatures so verified shall, unless reason appear to the contrary, be taken to mean that the occupiers whose signatures they purport to be approve the Order.

Provided that if shops of any class are required under a closing Order in force before the 1st May 1912, to close on a certain day of the week (other than Saturday) at one o'clock in the afternoon, it shall not be necessary to take a vote of the occupiers of those shops in respect of a proposal to make an Order fixing that day as the day of the weekly half-holiday, unless representations are made to the local authority by a substantial proportion of the occupiers in favour of another day being fixed.

Conditions for mixed shops remaining open on weekly half-holiday [1950 Act, s. 13 (1)]

5. Where any trade or business exempted from the provisions of the Act as to closing on the weekly half-holiday (a) is carried on in the same shop with any trade or business not so exempted, the shop shall only be kept open for the purpose of the exempted trade or business on the day fixed for the weekly half-holiday in respect of the trade or business not exempted, on the following conditions:—(a) after the hour of closing on the day of the weekly half-holiday, whether fixed by the occupier or by an Order made by the local authority under the Act, there shall be exhibited in some conspicuous places on the exterior and in the interior of the shop notices in letters of the size of not less than two inches in accordance with the Form marked IV in the Schedule to these Regulations; (b) so far as reasonably practicable no goods in connexion with the trade or business not exempted shall be exhibited either inside or outside the shop.

(a) Exempted trades. See the Shops Act 1950, s. 1 (4) and (6), and Sched., ante.

II

(b) Primâ facie case. See ibid., ss. 9 (1) and 10 (3), ante.

(c) Register. See reg. 19, post.

7.—(1) Notice of the intention of the local authority to make a Closing Order (a) shall be given in the Form marked A in the Schedule to these Regulations, and unless a copy of the proposed Order be annexed to it, it shall specify the area within which and the class or classes of shops to which the Order will apply and the proposed days and hours of closing. The notice shall

(i) be advertised at least twice in a newspaper or newspapers circulating in the area to which the Order is to apply;

- (ii) be posted up in streets and public places in the area to which the Order is to apply, in such positions and in such manner that it is likely to be seen and can easily be read by persons interested; and
- (iii) be given to any ratepayer in the area making reasonable application for it.

If the Order applies to an area with a population of not more than 5000, the local authority may, in lieu of advertising the notice in a newspaper or newspapers, cause a copy to be sent to the occupier of every shop known to be affected by the Order.

(2) If anything in the Order affects Post Office business, a copy of the notice shall be sent to the Postmaster-General.

(a) Closing order. See Shops Act, 1950, ss. 8 and 9, ante.

8. The prescribed period within which objections may be made to the proposed Order shall be four weeks (a).

Ascertaining opinion of occupiers of Shops

9. If the local authority, after considering any objections or suggestions received by them in pursuance of the notice of their intention to make an Order, desire to proceed with the Order, they shall, for the purpose of ascertaining whether the occupiers of at least two-thirds in number of the shops to be affected by the Order approve the Order, either take a vote in the manner hereinafter provided (a) or, if they have received an application in writing for the making of the Order, purporting to be signed by the occupiers of at least two-thirds in number of the shops to be affected by the Order, they may in lieu of taking a vote take such steps as they think fit to verify the signatures to the application, and signatures so verified shall, unless reason appear to the contrary, be taken to mean that the occupiers whose signatures they purport to be approve the Order.

In submitting the Order to the Secretary of State, the local authority shall inform him as to the method adopted by them for ascertaining the opinion of the occupiers of shops, and as to any matters which they think it desirable to bring to his notice, and shall forward to him copies of any notices given by them under these Regulations and other evidence that the Regulations have been duly complied with, verified by a certificate signed by their Clerk.

Local Enquiries (a)

12. When the Secretary of State directs a local enquiry to be held with regard to a closing Order it shall be held at such place as the local authority, with the approval of the Secretary of State, may appoint, and at such time as may be fixed by the person appointed by the Secretary of State to hold the enquiry (hereinafter called "the Commissioner").

(a) Local enquiries. See also Shops Act 1950, ss. 10 and 69, ante.

13. Not less than three weeks before the time of holding the enquiry notice (a) thereof and of the place where the enquiry will be held shall be given in the manner above prescribed for the notice of intention to make an Order.

15. The Commissioner may give such directions as he thinks fit as to the order in which the objections to the Order shall be considered; and, if any person who has not sent objections in writing to the Secretary of State claims to be heard at the enquiry, may require him to state his objections in writing.

16. The Commissioner may adjourn the enquiry from time to time as he thinks desirable.

17. If the objections to the Order made by more than one person appearing at the enquiry seem to the Commissioner to be the same in substance, he may select any person whom he considers representative of the largest number of the persons

In the case of a shop in which several trades or businesses are carried on, the local authority may require the occupier to specify, in pursuance of subsection [(4) of section 13 of the 1950 Act], which trade or business he considers to be his principal trade or business, and the local authority shall not insert the name of the occupier in the register in respect of any other trade or business carried on in the shop unless the occupier satisfies them that it forms a substantial part of the business carried on in the shop.

(2) Every occupier of a shop to be affected shall be entitled to attend within the times and at the place specified in the notices required to be given by these Regulations for the purpose of securing that the entries in the register with regard to his shop are duly made.

(3) Any occupier of a shop to be affected may represent to the local authority any matter, in regard to the register, which seems to him to require to be rectified; and the local authority shall consider all such representations.

The Taking of a Vote

Regulations, as the case may be, shall be sent by post or otherwise delivered to every occupier appearing in the register, at his registered address.

(b) Voting papers shall be returned to the local authority either through the post or by a collector appointed in writing by them for the purpose, and carrying with him at the time of collection his written appointment, which he shall show to any occupier who shall require it to be shown.

(c) A voting paper shall be deemed to be duly signed if signed by the occupier with his full name or with the ordinary signature used for the purpose of his business: Provided that, if any occupier is unable to write, he may, in the presence of some other person, who shall explain the effect of the voting paper, attach his mark thereto, and such mark shall be attested by such other person, who shall append his signature and address.

(d) The local authority shall cause the voting papers, as soon as may be after the last day fixed for their return, to be scrutinised and compared with the register, and the numbers respectively of the votes for and against the Order to be ascertained.

Other provisions as to making of Orders

21. The making of an Order shall not be frustrated nor the Order invalidated by reason merely of any failure in the delivery of a notice or a voting paper to any person or to the local authority or of any other informality in complying with these Regulations.

22. When an Order fixing the day of the weekly half-holiday is made by the local authority, or a closing Order is confirmed by the Secretary of State, the local authority shall forthwith either cause to be advertised once in a newspaper, and to be posted up in streets and public places, in the area to which the Order applies a notice giving the terms of the Order as made or confirmed, or shall send such a notice to the occupier of every shop affected by the Order.

Revocation of Orders

23. Before revoking an Order fixing the day of the weekly half-holiday or applying to the Secretary of State to revoke a closing Order, the local authority shall, for the purpose of ascertaining whether the occupiers of a majority of each of the several classes of shops affected by the revocation approve the revocation, follow, with the necessary modifications, the same procedure as is prescribed in the foregoing Regulations in regard to the making of such Orders.

24. When an Order is revoked in whole or in part by a local authority or by the Secretary of State, as the case may be, the local authority shall forthwith either cause to be advertised once in a newspaper, and to be posted up in streets and public places, in the area to which the Order applied a notice announcing such revocation or shall send such a notice to the occupier of every shop known to be affected by the revocation.

THE SHOPS (PROCEDURE FOR JEWISH TRIBUNALS) REGULATIONS 1937

Dated November 17, 1937, made by the Secretary of State under section 17 of the Shops Act 1912 and the Shops (Sunday Trading Restriction) Act 1936

General note. The Shops Act 1912 and the Shops (Sunday Trading Restriction) Act 1936 have been repealed by and consolidated in the Shops Act 1950, but Regulations made under the consolidated enactments are saved by s. 76 (2) of the 1950 Act. References in these Regulations to the 1936 Act have been correspondingly amended.

In pursuance of the powers conferred on me by Section 17 of the Shops Act 1912, and the Shops (Sunday Trading Restriction) Act 1936, I hereby make the following Regulations:—

Rules of Procedure for Jewish Tribunals in considering cases referred to them by local authorities under [Section 53 (7) of the Shops Act 1950]

1. On receiving particulars of a case from a local authority the Secretary of the Tribunal shall send to the person, partnership or company occupying the shop concerned (hereinafter called "the person affected") a copy of the particulars received from the local authority and shall notify the person affected that any statement it is desired to make on the said particulars should be submitted as soon as possible to the Tribunal. On receipt of any such statement the Secretary of the Tribunal shall forthwith make and send to the said local authority a copy thereof. The particulars above referred to shall contain the name and address of the person affected as given in the application form prescribed by Regulation 3 of, and the Schedule to, the Shops Regulations 1937. If the person affected is a partnership or company, the particulars shall contain the names of all the partners or directors as given in the statutory declaration accompanying the said application form specifying which of the partners or directors of the company are alleged not to hold genuinely a conscientious objection on religious grounds to carrying on business on the Jewish sabbath.

2. Upon the expiration of ten days after the despatch of the particulars to the person affected, the Secretary of the Tribunal shall, by registered letter, notify the person affected and the local authority of the time and place appointed for holding the inquiry.

3. The particulars referred to in Regulation 1 and the notice referred to in Regulation 2 shall be addressed to the person affected at the address specified in the particulars.

4. Notwithstanding anything contained in the Shops Regulations 1937, the Tribunal may sit in more than one Division at the same time. Each Division shall consist of not less than three members of the Tribunal. Each Division shall exercise all or any part of the jurisdiction vested in the Tribunal.

5. The Tribunal may at any time prior to the date of holding the inquiry, serve on the person affected or the local authority a notice in writing asking if either of them are prepared to admit in writing any material fact in order that the expense of calling a witness or witnesses to prove such facts may be obviated.

6. The whole or any part of the inquiry shall be held in private if the Tribunal think fit.

7. The local authority may be represented at the inquiry by Counsel or Solicitor or by any of their officers.

8. The person affected may be represented at the inquiry by Counsel or Solicitor or, in the case of a company, by a director or officer thereof, or in the case of partnership, by a partner, or with the leave of the Tribunal by any other person.

9. The Tribunal shall be at liberty to proceed with the inquiry on the appointed day in the absence of the person affected whether represented or not or in the absence of a representative of the local authority if they are of opinion that it is just and proper so to do.

10. The Tribunal may adjourn the inquiry from time to time as they think fit and may hold adjourned sittings at such time and place as may appear to them to be suitable or necessary for the purpose of the case.

11. The Tribunal may, if they are of opinion in any particular case that no injustice will result, receive such part of the evidence as they may think fit in writing. Provided that the Tribunal may, if at any time after they have admitted evidence in writing they should in their absolute discretion consider that by reason of all or any part of such evidence being tendered in writing instead of orally any injustice is likely to be done, admit such oral evidence as they think desirable to obviate such injustice.

12. All witnesses called before the Tribunal shall be subject to such examination by the members of the Tribunal or by any other person or persons as the Tribunal consider desirable to assist them in the performance of their duties.

13. The Tribunal may, if they think fit, examine or obtain the evidence of such witnesses as appear to them likely to afford evidence relevant and material to the due investigation of the case although not called or tendered by the person affected or by the local authority.

14. Subject to the provisions of the foregoing Regulations the proceedings at the inquiry shall be conducted in such a way as the Tribunal may direct.

15. At the conclusion of the inquiry the Tribunal shall as soon as may be determined whether they are satisfied

(a) that the person affected is not a person of the Jewish religion, or

(b) that a conscientious objection on religious grounds to carrying on business on the Jewish Sabbath is not genuinely held by the occupier of the shop or, in the case of a shop occupied by a partnership or company, by the majority of the partners or of the directors, as the case may be, and shall report accordingly to the local authority.

16. These Regulations may be cited as the Shops (Procedure for Jewish Tribunals) Regulations 1937.

This notice must be exhibited in every retail shop or warehouse occupied by a retail trader, about the business of which young persons are employed (Reg. 6).

ABSTRACT OF PROVISIONS OF THE [SHOPS ACT 1950] RELATING TO THE EMPLOYMENT OF YOUNG PERSONS IN RETAIL SHOPS
AND WAREHOUSES [SHOPS ACT 1950, SECTION 32 (3)]

1. Young persons to whom the Act applies.

The Act applies to young persons under the age of 18 (other than children of school age whose employment is regulated by the Children and Young Persons Act 1933) employed about the business of a shop, whether or not they receive any reward for their labour.

In the application of the Act to retail establishments,

- (a) "Shop" means any premises in which any retail trade is carried on, and includes any warehouse occupied for the purpose of his trade by any person carrying on any retail trade or business;
- (b) "Employment about the business of a shop" includes such employment both inside and outside the shop, and covers also employment by the occupier of a shop upon any work whether within the shop or outside it which is ancillary to the business carried on at the shop.

2. Maximum working hours for young persons under the age of 16.

No young person under the age of 16 may be employed about the business of a shop for more than 44 working hours in any week, except in one week during the Christmas season subject to the conditions described in paragraph 3.

3. Averaging of hours of young persons under the age of 16 during the Christmas season.

When a notice in the prescribed form has been exhibited in a shop, the weekly hours of young persons under the age of 16 may be averaged over a fortnight comprising the week in which Christmas Day falls and either the week before or the week after, subject to the conditions (i) that their working hours must not exceed 48 in either week, and (ii) that their total working hours for the fortnight must not exceed 88.

4. Normal maximum working hours for young persons between the ages of 16 and 18.

Subject to the exceptions described in paragraphs 5, 8 and 9, no young person between the ages of 16 and 18 may be employed about the business of a shop for more than 48 working hours in any week. These are the "normal maximum working hours" for these young persons.

5. Overtime.

On occasions of seasonal or exceptional pressure of work at any shop, young persons between the ages of 16 and 18 may be employed about the business of the shop overtime, i.e. in excess of the normal maximum working hours, subject to the following conditions:

- (a) Overtime may not be worked in any shop in more than six weeks in a year;
- (b) No individual young person may be employed overtime in any year for more than 50 working hours;
- (c) No individual young person may be employed overtime in any week for more than 12 working hours.

Overtime may not be worked by any young person under the age of 16.

6. Mixed employment.

In determining the number of working hours in any week for which a young person has been employed about the business of any shop, any time worked in that week about the business of any other retail or wholesale shop or warehouse, or in a factory or in any of the employments which are regulated by Part I of the Young Persons (Employment) Act 1938, must also be reckoned.

Where a young person has previously been employed in a factory on any day, he must not be employed about the business of a shop on the same day for a longer period than will, together with the hours worked in the factory, complete the daily number of hours permitted by the Factories Act 1937.

But except as above the Act does not apply to the employment in a factory of young persons whose hours of employment are regulated by the Factories Act 1937.

7. Restrictions on night employment.

Every young person employed about the business of a shop must be allowed an interval of at least eleven consecutive hours in every period of twenty-four hours between midday and midday, and this interval must include the hours between 10 p.m. and 6 a.m. (or 5 a.m. in the case of male young persons between the ages of 16 and 18 employed in connection with the collection or delivery of milk or bread or newspapers).

8. Special provisions as to the catering trade.

(1) The two following provisions apply only to young persons between the ages of 16 and 18 wholly or mainly employed in connection with the business of serving meals, intoxicating liquor or refreshments to customers for consumption on the premises.

(a) Averaging of hours over a fortnight.

When a notice in the prescribed form has been exhibited in a shop, the weekly hours of the young persons may be averaged over a fortnight, subject to the conditions (i) that their working hours must not exceed 60 in either week, (ii) that their total working hours for the fortnight must not exceed 96 hours, (iii) that no overtime may be worked during the fortnight, and (iv) that averaging may not take place in more than twelve fortnights beginning in any calendar year.

(b) Special provision for overtime.

The young persons may be employed overtime in any week in the year when an averaging arrangement is not in force, but the overtime in any period of two successive weeks must not exceed 8 working hours. The limitation of the annual amount of overtime to be worked by the individual young person (see paragraph 5 (b)) remains unaffected.

An occupier of a shop may, however, by giving the prescribed notice elect that, in lieu of this provision, the normal overtime provisions set out in paragraph 5 above shall apply to the young persons.

(2) Night employment in connection with the service of meals.

In the case of male young persons between the ages of 16 and 18 employed wholly or mainly in connection with the business of serving meals to customers for consumption on the premises, the restrictions on night employment set out in paragraph 7 are modified so as to permit employment for any period between 10 p.m. and midnight during which they are wholly employed in connection with the business of serving meals.

9. Special provisions as to the sale of supplies or accessories for aircraft, motor vehicles or cycles.

In the case of a shop where the business of selling such supplies or accessories for immediate use is the sole or principal retail business carried on in the shop, the following special provisions apply to young persons between the ages of 16 and 18 employed in connection with that business.

When it is not the principal retail business carried on in the shop, the special provisions apply to young persons between 16 and 18 who are wholly or mainly employed in connection with that business.

(a) Averaging of hours.

Where the prescribed notice has been given to the local authority, the hours of the young persons may be averaged, and the weekly hours specified in the scheme of hours set out in the notice (a copy of which must be exhibited in the shop) become the normal maximum working hours of the young persons, subject to the following conditions:—

- (i) The hours worked in any week, including any overtime worked in excess of the hours specified, must not exceed 54 working hours.
- (ii) The total working hours (excluding overtime) in any period of three consecutive weeks must not exceed 144.
- (iii) No young person may be employed overtime in any period of three consecutive weeks for more than 12 working hours.

(b) Special provision for overtime.

The young persons may be employed overtime in any week in the year, whether or not an averaging system is in force, but no young person may be employed in any period of three consecutive weeks for more than 12 working hours.

The limitation of the annual amount of overtime to be worked by the individual young person (see paragraph 5 above) remains unaffected by either of the special provisions.

An occupier of a shop may by giving the prescribed notice elect that in lieu of the special provision relating to overtime the normal overtime provisions set out in paragraph 5 above shall apply to the young persons (except where an averaging scheme is in force).

10. Weekly half-holidays.

Every young person wholly or mainly employed about the business of a shop for more than 25 hours in any week must be allowed in that week the weekly half-holiday provided for shop assistants by section [17 of the Shops Act 1950], i.e. on at least one week day in each week the young person must not be employed about the business of the shop after 1.30 p.m. (1 p.m. if the [Shops Act 1950 is] applied to employment at the premises by the employer's election under Part I of the Young Persons (Employment) Act 1938).

11. Meal intervals.

Every young person wholly or mainly employed about the business of a shop must be allowed the intervals for meals prescribed for shop assistants by the [Third Schedule to the Shops Act 1950], except that, in the case of young persons, the period which may be worked without an interval is reduced. The intervals are as follows:—

- (1) No young person may be employed for more than 5 hours (or $5\frac{1}{2}$ hours on the day of his weekly half-holiday) without an interval of at least 20 minutes being allowed during the course thereof.
- (2) Where a young person is employed during the hours from 11.30 a.m. to 2.30 p.m., an interval of not less than three-quarters of an hour (or one hour when the meal is not taken in the shop) must be allowed between those hours for dinner. In the case of young persons employed in the sale of refreshments, or the retail sale of intoxicating liquors, or in any shop on a market day, or the day of an annual fair, the dinner interval may end not earlier than 11.30 a.m. or commence not later than 2.30 p.m.
- (3) Where a young person is employed during the hours from 4 p.m. to 7 p.m. an interval of not less than half an hour must be allowed between those hours for tea.

NOTE

The provisions as to meal intervals do not apply to a shop where the only persons employed are members of the occupier's family, maintained by him and dwelling in his house.

12. Records.

Every occupier of a shop who employs young persons about the business of his must

Either (a) keep a record in the prescribed form of the actual hours worked by, and the intervals for rest and meals allowed to, the young persons;

Or (b) exhibit in the shop a notice in the prescribed form specifying the daily hours to be worked by, and the intervals for rest and meals to be allowed to, the young persons. In that case he must record separately on the prescribed form any time worked outside the daily hours or during the intervals specified in the notice.

13. Definitions.

“Working hours” means the time during which the persons employed are at the disposal of the employer, exclusive of any intervals allowed for rest and meals.

“Week” means the period between midnight on Saturday night and midnight on the succeeding Saturday night.

“Year” means the period between midnight on the last Saturday night in the month of December and midnight on the last Saturday night in the next month of December.

14. Administration of the Act.

The provisions of the Act relating to hours of young persons are administered by the local authorities responsible for the enforcement of the [Shops Act 1950]. Enquiries should accordingly be addressed in London before 1st April 1965 to the London County Council and after that date to the London borough, in the City of London to the Common Council, in Boroughs to the Town Council, in Urban or Rural Districts where the District Council is the shops authority, to that Council, and elsewhere to the County Council.

J.

This notice must be exhibited in every wholesale shop or warehouse occupied by any wholesale dealer or merchant, about the business of which young persons are employed.

ABSTRACT OF PROVISIONS OF THE [SHOPS ACT 1950] RELATING TO THE EMPLOYMENT OF YOUNG PERSONS IN WHOLESALE SHOPS AND WAREHOUSES [SHOPS ACT 1950, SECTION 32 (3)] (Reg. 6)

1. Young persons to whom the Act applies.

Children and Young Persons Act 1933) employed about the business of a wholesale shop or warehouse, whether or not they receive any reward for their labour.

In the application of the Act to wholesale establishments,

- (i) a "wholesale shop" means any premises occupied by a wholesale dealer or merchant where goods are kept for sale wholesale to customers resorting to the premises; and a "warehouse" means any warehouse occupied for the purpose of his trade by any wholesale dealer or merchant;
- (ii) "employment about the business of a wholesale shop or warehouse" includes (a) all such employment within the premises of the wholesale shop or warehouse, (b) employment outside the premises in the collection or delivery of goods, or in attendance upon customers or in carrying messages or running errands, (c) employment in the service of the occupier upon any work within the premises which is ancillary to the business carried on at the wholesale shop or warehouse.

2. Maximum working hours for young persons under the age of 16.

3. Averaging of hours of young persons under the age of 16 during the Christmas season.

When a notice in the prescribed form has been exhibited in a wholesale shop or warehouse, the weekly hours of young persons under the age of 16 may be averaged over a fortnight comprising the week in which Christmas Day falls and either the week before or the week after, subject to the conditions (i) that their working hours must not exceed 48 in either week, and (ii) that their total working hours for the fortnight must not exceed 88.

4. Normal maximum working hours for young persons between the ages of 16 and 18.

Subject to the exception described in paragraph 5, no young person between the ages of 16 and 18 may be employed about the business of a wholesale shop or warehouse for more than 48 working hours in any week. These are the "normal maximum working hours" for these young persons.

- (a) Overtime may not be worked in any wholesale shop or warehouse in more than six weeks in a year;
- (b) No individual young person may be employed overtime in any year for more than 50 working hours;
- (c) No individual young person may be employed overtime in any week for more than 12 working hours.

Overtime may not be worked by any young person under the age of 16.

6. Mixed employment.

In determining the number of working hours in any week for which a young person has been employed about the business of any wholesale shop or warehouse, any time worked in that week about the business of any other retail or wholesale shop or warehouse or in a factory or in any of the employments which are regulated by Part I of the Young Persons (Employment) Act 1938, must also be reckoned.

Where a young person has previously been employed in a factory on any day he must not be employed about the business of a wholesale shop or warehouse on the same day for a longer period than will, together with the hours worked in the factory, complete the daily number of hours permitted by the Factories Act 1937.

But except as above the Act does not apply to the employment in a factory of young persons whose hours of employment are regulated by the Factories Act 1937.

7. Restrictions on night employment.

Every young person employed about the business of a wholesale shop or warehouse must be allowed an interval of at least eleven consecutive hours in every period of twenty-four hours between midday and midday, and this interval must include the hours between 10 p.m. and 6 a.m. (or 5 a.m. in the case of male young person between the ages of 16 and 18 employed in connection with the collection or delivery of milk or bread or newspapers).

8. Weekly half-holidays.

Every young person wholly or mainly employed about the business of a wholesale shop or warehouse for more than 25 hours in any week must be allowed in that week the weekly half-holiday provided for shop assistants by section [17 of the Shops Act 1950], i.e. on at least one week day in each week the young person must not be employed about the business of the wholesale shop or warehouse after 1.30 p.m. (1 p.m. if the Shops Acts are applied to employment at the premises by the employer's election under Part I of the Young Persons (Employment) Acts 1938).

9. Meal intervals.

Every young person wholly or mainly employed about the business of a wholesale shop or warehouse must be allowed the intervals for meals prescribed for shop assistants by the [Third Schedule to the Shops Act 1950], except that, in the case of young persons, the period which may be worked without an interval is reduced. The intervals are as follows:—

- (1) No young person may be employed for more than 5 hours (or $5\frac{1}{2}$ hours on the day of his weekly half-holiday) without an interval of at least 20 minutes being allowed during the course thereof.
- (2) Where a young person is employed during the hours from 11.30 a.m. to 2.30 p.m., an interval of not less than three-quarters of an hour (or one hour when the meal is not taken in the shop) must be allowed between those hours for dinner.
- (3) Where a young person is employed during the hours from 4 p.m. to 7 p.m. an interval of not less than half an hour must be allowed between those hours for tea.

The provisions as to meal intervals do not apply where the only persons employed in the wholesale shop or warehouse are members of the occupier's family, maintained by him and dwelling in his house.

10. Records.

Every occupier of a wholesale shop or warehouse who employs young persons about the business of his wholesale shop or warehouse must

Either (a) keep a record in the prescribed form of the actual hours worked by, and the intervals for rest and meals allowed to, the young persons;

Or (b) exhibit in the wholesale shop or warehouse a notice in the prescribed form specifying the daily hours to be worked by, and the intervals for rest and meals to be allowed to, the young persons. In that case he must record separately on the prescribed form any time worked outside the daily hours or during the intervals specified in the notice.

11. Definitions.

“Working hours” means the time during which the persons employed are at the disposal of the employer, exclusive of any intervals allowed for rest and meals.

“Week” means the period between midnight on Saturday night and midnight on the succeeding Saturday night.

“Year” means the period between midnight on the last Saturday night in the month of December and midnight on the last Saturday night in the next month of December.

12. Administration of the Act.

The provisions of the Act relating to hours of young persons are administered by the local authorities responsible for the enforcement of the [Shops Act 1950]. Enquiries should accordingly be addressed in London outside the City to the London County Council, and the City of London to the Common Council, in Boroughs to the Town Council, in Urban or Rural Districts where the District Council is the shops authority, to that Council, and elsewhere to the County Council.

1. Exemption of traders at certain airports from Part I of Shops Act 1950.—(1) The provisions of Part I of the Shops Act 1950 (which relate to hours of closing) shall not apply—

- (a) to any shop (a) at a designated airport which is situated in a part of the airport to which this Act applies, or
- (b) to the sale (otherwise than at a shop) of any goods at a designated airport, where the sale takes place in a part of the airport to which this Act applies, and is effected by or on behalf of a person carrying on a retail trade or business (b) at a shop situated in such a part of the airport.

(2) This Act applies to every part of a designated airport, except any part which is not ordinarily used by persons travelling by air to or from the airport; and in this Act “designated airport” means an airport designated for the purposes of this Act by an order made by the Minister of Aviation, as being an airport at which there appears to him to be a substantial amount of international passenger traffic.

INTRODUCTION TO THE AGRICULTURAL SAFETY LEGISLATION

The two Acts which follow—the Agriculture (Poisonous Substances) Act 1952 and the Agriculture (Safety, Health and Welfare Provisions) Act 1956—stem directly from the Report of the Gowers Committee (Cmd. 7664) and together authorise for the first time a comprehensive safety, health and welfare code for the agricultural industry in England and Scotland. In the field of safety the 1956 Act contemplated the supersession of the only earlier legislation specifically directed towards safety in agriculture, the Threshing Machines Act 1878 and the Chaff-cutting Machines (Accidents) Act 1897, both of which Acts have now been repealed. The Factories Act 1961 does not cover farming (per SOMERVELL, L.J., in Hendon Corporation v. Stanger, [1948] 1 All E.R. 377, at p. 380, so interpreting Nash v. Hollinshead, [1901] 1 K.B. 700, C.A.).

The scheme of the 1952 and 1956 Acts is the same—that is to say, both are primarily enabling Acts under which the Minister of Agriculture, Fisheries and Food and the Secretary of State are empowered to make regulations with regard to the specified purposes of each Act. At the present date this process appears to be more or less complete under both Acts, although some of the subordinate legislation has yet to come into operation (for example, the Agriculture (Lifting of Heavy Weights) Regulations, 1959, do not have effect until 1st July 1965, and the operation of the comprehensive Agriculture (Field Machinery) Regulations 1962 is, as respects certain classes of machine, delayed as specified in ibid., Sch. 2).

The inspectorate provided for under both these Acts has been combined with that provided for under the Agricultural Wages Act 1948, so that there is now one body of inspectors with functions under all three Acts.

The Acts provide only for enforcement by criminal process, but we entertain no doubt that, so far as the whole of the 1952 Act, pp. 348 et seq., post, and ss. 1, 2 and 7 of the 1956 Act, pp. 391, 394, 402, post, are concerned, a breach of these provisions or of the regulations thereunder would enable a worker (or child in the case of a breach of s. 7 of the 1956 Act p. 402, post) injured by the breach to bring a civil action for damages on the grounds of breach of statutory duty. Ample authority for this view is to be found in Groves v. Wimborne (Lord), [1898] 2 Q.B. 402; Britannic Merthyr Coal Co., Ltd. v. David, [1910] A.C. 74; and Black v. Fife Coal Co., Ltd., [1912] A.C. 149, in each of which cases an action for damages was held to lie for breach of statutory obligation where, on a consideration of the whole Act and the circumstances in which, and the purpose for which, it was passed, the obligation can be regarded as imposed for the benefit of a particular class of persons, rather than for the benefit of the public generally.

With regard to the remaining sections of the Agriculture (Safety, Health and Welfare Provisions) Act 1956, post, which impose, or may by regulations impose, obligations upon employers or occupiers, namely, ss. 3, 4, 5 and 6, post, the question of civil liability is not, we think, wholly free from doubt, and a discussion of this topic is to be found in the General Introduction, ante.

An Act to provide for the protection of employees against risks of poisoning by certain substances used in agriculture

[30th October 1952]

1. Protection of employees against risks of poisoning.

—(1) Provision shall be made by regulations under this Act (a) for the purpose of protecting workers (b) against risks of poisoning by substances to which this Act applies (c) arising from their working—

(a) in connection with the use in agriculture (d) of such substances, or

(b) on land on which such substances are being or have been used in agriculture.

(2) Regulations under this Act (which may be either regulations applying to Great Britain (e) and made by the Minister of Agriculture and Fisheries (f) and the Secretary of State (g) jointly, or applying to England and Wales only and made by the said Minister, or applying to Scotland only and made by the Secretary of State) may make any such provision for the purpose mentioned in the preceding subsection as appears to them or him to be reasonably practicable and to meet the necessity of the case (h), and may impose obligations on employers (i) of workers employed to work as mentioned in the preceding subsection, on such workers themselves, and on others.

(3) Without prejudice to the generality of the last preceding subsection, regulations under this Act may provide for—

(a) imposing restrictions or conditions as to the purposes for which, the circumstances in which, or the methods or means by which, a substance may be used (including, in the case of a substance as to which it appears to the authority making the regulations necessary so to provide, restrictions or conditions involving a general prevention of the use thereof in agriculture);

(b) requiring the provision, and keeping available and in good order, of protective clothing and equipment, of facilities for washing and cleaning, and of other things needed for protecting persons, clothing, equipment and appliances from contamination or for removing sources of contamination therefrom;

- (c) requiring the observance of precautions against poisoning, including the use of things provided in pursuance of the regulations, and including abstention from eating, drinking and smoking in circumstances involving risk of poisoning;
- (d) securing intervals between, or limitation of, periods of exposure to risk of poisoning;
- (e) requiring the observance of special precautions in the case of persons who, by reason of their state of health, age or other circumstances, are subject to particular risk of poisoning or of injury therefrom, or imposing in the case of persons so subject prohibitions (whether temporary or permanent), or restrictions, on employment for working as mentioned in subsection (1) of this section;
- (f) measures for detecting and investigating cases in which poisoning has occurred, and cases falling within the preceding paragraph, including medical examinations, making of blood tests, and notification of absences from work in circumstances involving suspicion of poisoning;
- (g) requiring the provision, and keeping available and in good order, and the use, of facilities for preventive and first aid treatment;
- (h) requiring the provision of, and submission to, instruction and training in the use of things provided in pursuance of the regulations and in the observance of precautions;
- (i) the keeping and inspection of records and the furnishing of returns and information.

(4) Regulations under this Act may make different provision to meet different circumstances and, in particular, differences in the composition of the substances dealt with and in their effect under different conditions of use and on different classes of persons.

(5) Regulations under this Act may provide for empowering an inspector (j) appointed under this Act to exempt (k) particular cases or particular persons from the operation of provisions of the regulations.

(6) When the Minister of Agriculture and Fisheries and the Secretary of State, or either of them, propose or proposes to make regulations under this Act, they or he shall before making the regulations consult with such organisations as appear to them or him (l) to represent the interests concerned.

(7) The power of making regulations under this Act shall be exercisable by statutory instrument (m) which shall be subject to annulment in pursuance of a resolution of either House of Parliament.

(a) Regulations under this Act. The Regulations at present in force are the Agriculture (Poisonous Substances) Regulations 1963 and 1964 (S.I. 1963 No. 845 and S.I. 1964 No. 663), as amended by the Agriculture (Poisonous Substances) (Amendment) Regulations 1965 (S.I. 1965 No. 76); see pp. 370 et seq., 389 and the addenda, post.

(b) Worker. For definition, see s. 10 (1), post.

(c) Substances to which this Act applies. For these substances, see s. 9 (1), and subordinate legislation made thereunder.

(d) Agriculture. For definition, see s. 10 (1), post.

(e) Great Britain. That is to say, England and Scotland; see the Union with Scotland Act 1706, art. 1. "England" includes Wales and Berwick-on-Tweed; see the Wales and Berwick Act 1746, s. 3, and see 7 Halsbury's Laws (3rd Edn.) 195.

(f) Minister of Agriculture and Fisheries. The Minister is now, by virtue of the Transfer of Functions (Ministry of Food) Order 1955 (S.I. 1955 No. 554), entitled the Minister of Agriculture, Fisheries and Food.

(g) Secretary of State. That is to say, "one of Her Majesty's Principal Secretaries of State for the time being"; see the Interpretation Act 1889, s. 12 (3), and see 7 Halsbury's Laws (3rd Edn.) 377.

(h) As appears . . . necessity of the case. The courts will not enquire into the questions whether the provisions made are in fact reasonably practicable and whether they in fact meet the necessity of the case, provided the Minister has acted bona fide and within his powers: Robinson v. Sunderland Corporation, [1899] 1 Q.B. 751, per CHANNELL, J., at pp. 756, 757; Point of Ayr Collieries, Ltd. v. Lloyd-George, [1943] 2 All E.R. 546, C.A.; Re City of Plymouth (City Centre) Declaratory Order, 1946, Robinson v. Minister of Town and Country Planning, [1947] K.B. 702; [1947] 1 All E.R. 851, C.A., per SOMERVELL, L.J., at p. 721; pp. 861, 862; Thorneloe and Clarkson, Ltd. v. Board of Trade, [1950] 2 All E.R. 245.

(i) Employer. For definition, see s. 10 (1), post.

(j) Inspector. Provisions for the appointment of inspectors and for their powers are contained in s. 3, post. For provisions as to the taking of samples by inspectors, see s. 6, post.

(k) To exempt . . . regulations. Compare s. 1 (5) of the Agriculture (Safety, Health and Welfare Provisions) Act 1956, post; and for an example of regulations under this Act which confer a power of exemption, see reg. 15 of the Agriculture (Poisonous Substances) Regulations 1963, p. 380, post.

(l) Such . . . appears to them or him. See note (h), ante.

(m) Exercisable by statutory instrument. Where an Act confers power on a Minister of the Crown to make orders or regulations and the power is expressed to be exercisable by statutory instrument, any document by which that power is exercised is known as a "statutory instrument" and the provisions of the Statutory Instruments Act 1946 apply; see s. 1 (1) of that Act. For provisions as to annulment in pursuance of a resolution of either House of Parliament, see ss. 5 (1) and 7 (1) of that Act. See also the Laying of Documents before Parliament (Interpretation) Act 1948.

2. Duties of employees.—(1) No worker employed (a) to work as mentioned in subsection (1) of section one of this Act shall—

(a) wilfully interfere with or misuse any appliance, clothing, equipment, facilities or other thing provided in pursuance of regulations under this Act (b); or

(b) wilfully and without reasonable cause do anything likely to cause risk of poisoning, by a substance to which this Act applies (c), to himself or others.

(2) Nothing in this section shall be taken as limiting the power conferred by section one of this Act to make by regulations any such provision as is therein mentioned, including further provision as to matters which are the subject of this section.

General note. This section may be compared with s. 13 of the Agriculture (Safety, Health and Welfare Provisions) Act 1956, p. 409, post, with s. 27 of the Office, Shops and Railway Premises Act 1963, p. 77, ante, and with s. 143 of the Factories Act 1961, the terms of which are set out below, and as to which see Redgrave's Factories Acts, 20th Edn., at pp. 361 et seq. A contravention of s. 2 of the present Act is an offence; see s. 4, post.

Two matters fall to be discussed upon this section. The first is, what is the scope of the duty thereby imposed upon persons employed, and the second is, what is the effect of a breach of that duty by a person employed, in civil proceedings, when contributory negligence is in issue.

The wording of the first portion of s. 143 (1) of the Factories Act 1961, is similar to that of s. 2 (1) (a) of the present Act, and the wording of s. 143 (2) of the Factories Act 1961 is similar to that of s. 2 (1) (b) of the present Act. In view of this similarity, the construction placed by the courts upon s. 143 of the Factories Act 1961 will, it is submitted, be authoritative upon the construction of s. 2 (1) of the present Act, which may be regarded as in pari materia. The interpretation of statutes in pari materia is discussed in Halsbury's Laws of England, 3rd Edn., Vol. 36, pp. 402 et seq., and in the General Introduction to this book. Similarly, where cognate provisions occur in regulations made under the present Act, the construction placed upon s. 143 of the Factories Act 1961, will also be authoritative. In what follows the terms of s. 143 are set out and the judicial interpretation of that section is discussed.

"143. Duties of persons employed.—(1) No person employed in a factory or in any other place to which any provisions of this Act apply shall wilfully interfere with or misuse any means, appliance, convenience or other thing provided in pursuance of this Act for securing the health, safety or welfare of the persons employed in the factory or place, and where any means or appliance for securing health or safety is provided for the use of any such person under this Act, he shall use the means or appliance.

(2) No person employed in a factory or in any other place to which any provisions of this Act apply shall wilfully and without reasonable cause do anything likely to endanger himself or others."

The scope of the duty.—The duty to use a means or appliance provided for the use of persons employed, imposed by s. 143 (1), is absolute, once the means or appliance is provided (Norris v. Syndi Manufacturing Co., Ltd., [1952] 2 Q.B. 135; [1952] 1 All E.R. 935, C.A.). It is no defence to a person employed to say that the occupier did not insist on his using it (ibid., per DENNING, L.J. at p. 142; p. 939), although in the case of a complicated safeguard provided for use in connection with intricate machinery it might be a defence if the person employed had not been instructed as to the purpose of the safeguard or how to use it (ibid., per ROMER, L.J. at p. 146; p. 941). In this case the Court of Appeal also discussed the meaning of the word "provided".

The words "wilfully interfere with or misuse" in s. 143 (1) require something in the nature of a perverse intermeddling with the appliance. An intentional touching or misplacement is not sufficient if it does not include this element of perversity (Charles v. S. Smith & Sons, Ltd., [1954] 1 All E.R. 499). The words "interfere" and "misuse" in this phrase are used conjunctively and not disjunctively (ibid., at p. 502). In Charles v. S. Smith & Sons, Ltd., supra, HILBERY, J. also discussed the meaning of the words "wilfully and without reasonable cause" in sub-s. (2). He held that since the workman in that case did not foresee, and was not negligent in not foreseeing, that his act might endanger him, he had not "wilfully and without reasonable cause" done anything to endanger himself. HILBERY, J. did not state affirmatively, however, that negligent and percipient conduct by a person employed would suffice to constitute wilfulness, and it is submitted that the use of the word "wilfully" in sub-s. (2) connotes the same perversity of conduct as does its use in sub-s. (1). It has been said that a person employed acts in contravention of sub-s. (2) when he takes a wilful risk, knowing that he is acting in breach of instructions and regulations (Ginty v. Belmont Building Supplies, Ltd., [1959] 1 All E.R. 414), although knowledge that he is acting unlawfully is not, it would seem, an essential ingredient of his liability (Norris v. Syndi Manufacturing Co., Ltd., supra, at p. 142; p. 939, per DENNING, L.J.).

The effect of breach of the duty.—Where a person employed has, by his own carelessness, caused or contributed to his injury, the occupier may, in an action by the person employed based upon breach of statutory duty, set up the defence of contributory negligence in extinction or reduction of the damages: Caswell v. Powell Duffryn Associated Collieries, Ltd., [1940] A.C. 152; [1939] 3 All E.R. 722, H.L. For a discussion of the general principles relating to such a defence reference may be made to Halsbury's Laws of England, 3rd Edn., Vol. 28, pp. 87 et seq. The application of these principles to actions between master and servant is referred to in op. cit., Vol. 25, pp. 515, 516. The present note is limited to the interrelation between the defence of contributory negligence and the provisions of s. 143. In the first place, it is submitted that those parts of s. 143 which require wilfulness are more limited in application than is the defence of contributory negligence. Mere negligence is not wilfulness (see the discussion in Charles v. S. Smith & Sons, Ltd., supra), although conduct which is wilful may none the less be relied upon in support of a plea of contributory negligence. On the other hand, that part of s. 143 which does not require wilfulness ("... where any means or appliance... is provided... he shall use the means or appliance") (sub-s. (1)) is absolute in terms (Norris v. Syndi Manufacturing Co., Ltd., supra), and a contravention does not therefore require proof of negligence.

It follows that the mere fact that a person employed is guilty of a contravention of the latter part of sub-s. (1) does not mean that he is also guilty of contributory negligence, although the case supposed would no doubt be rare. Conversely, the fact that a person employed is not guilty of a contravention of any part of s. 143 is not decisive that he is free from contributory negligence (Gibby v. East Grinstead Gas & Water Co., [1944] 1 All E.R. 358, at p. 363).

In Ginty v. Belmont Building Supplies, Ltd., [1959] 1 All E.R. 414, the plaintiff, an asbestos sheeter, had to work upon a roof. His employers provided crawling boards as required by reg. 31 (3) (a) of the Building (Safety, Health and Welfare) Regulations 1948, but the plaintiff deliberately chose not to use them. PEARSON, J. held that in so acting the plaintiff contravened s. 119 (1) and (2) of the Factories Act 1937 (now s. 143 (1) and (2) of the 1961 Act) and that he was in breach of reg. 4 of the Regulations in that he had failed to comply with a regulation (reg. 31 (3) (a)) which related to the performance of an act by him. PEARSON, J. held further that the plaintiff's breach of reg. 4 also involved his employers in a vicarious breach of the same regulation, since crawling boards were not in fact used. The actual wrongful act was the plaintiff's wrongful act, but in one aspect it constituted a breach by himself and in another aspect it constituted a breach by his employer. In considering the legal consequences of this situation, PEARSON, J. held (at p. 424) that the question was not whether the employer had delegated his statutory duty to the plaintiff, but simply, whose fault was it? The fact that the immediate and direct cause of the accident was some wrongful act of the employee was not decisive. There must be an enquiry whether the fault of the employer under the statutory regulations consists of, and is co-extensive with, the wrongful act of the employee. If there is some fault on the part of the employer which goes beyond or is independent of the wrongful act of the employee, and was a cause of the accident, the employer has some liability. PEARSON, J. (at pp. 424, 425) mentioned three bases of this rule: (i) the common law principle that a person cannot derive any advantage from his own wrong; (ii) the common law principle, not affected by the Law Reform (Contributory Negligence) Act 1945, that, the plaintiff being wholly at fault, he is disentitled to recover and (iii) the need to avoid circuity of action. PEARSON, J. rejected as a basis of the rule the theory of the delegation of the performance of the employer's statutory duty (see the General Introduction to this book, ante) and, possibly, the principle ex turpi causa non oritur actio. The statement of principle in Ginty's case was approved in McMath v. Rimmer Brothers (Liverpool), Ltd., [1961] 3 All E.R. 1154, C.A. See also Boden v. Moore (1961), 105 Sol. Jo. 510, C.A., which decided that once the employee has proved a breach of the statute the onus is on the employer to prove that the employee's fault was co-extensive with the breach.

However deliberate, wilful and percipient may be the conduct of the person employed it can never, in an action by him for breach of statutory duty, be relied upon by the occupier as constituting a voluntary assumption of the risk. The principle volenti non fit injuria is no defence to an action for breach of statutory duty (Wheeler v. New Merton Board Mills, Ltd., [1933] 2 K.B. 669, C.A.).

Fault is not necessarily equivalent in this context to blameworthiness. The question really is, whose conduct caused the accident (per Lord REID in Ross v. Associated Portland Cement Manufacturers, Ltd., [1964] 2 All E.R. 452, at p. 455, H.L., in which Ginty's case, supra, is discussed).

- (a) Worker employed. For definitions, see s. 10 (1).
- (b) Regulations. See the Agriculture (Poisonous Substances) Regulations 1963, p. 370, post.
- (c) Substance to which this Act applies. For these substances, see s. 9 (1) and subordinate legislation made thereunder.

3. Appointment of inspectors and their powers.—(1) The appropriate Minister (a) may, with the approval of the Treasury as to numbers and salaries appoint such inspectors as he thinks necessary for the execution of this Act.

(2) An inspector appointed under this Act, for the purpose of the execution of this Act or of regulations thereunder and on producing, if so required, some duly authenticated document showing his appointment, may enter at all reasonable hours any land or premises—

- (a) on which a substance to which this Act applies (b) is being, or has recently been or is about to be, used in agriculture (c), or
- (b) which is or are being used, or has or have recently been or is or are about to be, used for a purpose connected with the use in agriculture of a substance to which this Act applies, or
- (c) on which things required by regulations under this Act to be provided or done are provided or done, or which he has reasonable cause to believe (d) to be land or premises falling within any of the preceding paragraphs:

Provided that admission shall not be demanded under this subsection to a dwelling house, other than one in which there are, or are reasonably believed by the inspector to be, washing facilities or other things provided for persons not living in the house for whom such things are required by regulations under this Act to be provided, unless twenty-four hours' notice of the intended entry has been given to the occupier of the house.

(3) An inspector appointed under this Act shall have power to do all or any of the following things for the purpose of the execution of this Act or of regulations thereunder, that is to say—

- (a) to require the production of, and to inspect, examine and copy, registers, records or other documents kept in pursuance of regulations under this Act;
- (b) to make such examinations and inquiries as may be necessary to ascertain whether the provisions of this Act and of regulations thereunder are complied with;
- (c) to require any person whom he finds on such land or premises as are mentioned in subsection (2) of this section to give such information as it is in his power to give as to who is the occupier thereof or the employer of workers (e) employed to work thereon;
- (d) to examine, either alone or in the presence of any other person, as the inspector thinks fit, with respect to the observance of provisions of this Act or of regulations thereunder, any person whom he finds on such land or premises as are mentioned in subsection (2) of this section or whom he has reasonable cause to believe (d) to be, or to have been within the preceding two months, employed to work thereon, and to require any such person to be so examined and to sign a declaration (f) of the truth of the matters respecting which he is so examined; so, however, that no one shall be required under this provision to answer any question or to give any evidence, tending to criminate himself (g);
- (e) in the case of an inspector who is a duly qualified medical practitioner, to carry out medical examinations;
- (f) to exercise such other powers as may be necessary for carrying this Act and regulations thereunder into effect.

(4) A person shall be deemed to obstruct (h) an inspector in the execution of his powers under this Act if he wilfully delays an inspector in the exercise of any power under this section, or fails to comply with any requirement of an inspector made in pursuance of this section, or conceals or prevents, or attempts to conceal or prevent, a person from appearing before or being examined by an inspector under this section.

General note. Compare the appointment and powers of inspectors under the Agriculture (Safety, Health and Welfare Provisions) Act 1956, s. 10, at p. 406, post. The inspectorate provided for under both Acts has been combined with that provided for under the Agricultural Wages Act 1948, so that there is now one body of inspectors with functions under all three Acts. The section is modified in its application to Scotland; see s. 11 (2), post.

(a) The appropriate Minister. For definition, see s. 10 (1), post.

(b) Substance to which this Act applies. For these substances, see s. 9 (1), post, and subordinate legislation made thereunder.

(c) Agriculture. For definition, see s. 10 (1), post.

(d) Reasonable cause to believe. It is submitted that since sub-s. (2) trenches on common law rights it will be strictly construed, and that therefore the words under consideration will be construed objectively, i.e., there must be in fact reasonable cause to believe, etc., before the power of entry can lawfully be exercised. See Nakkuda Ali v. Jayaratne, [1951] A.C. 66, P.C., explaining and distinguishing Liversidge v. Anderson, [1941] 3 All E.R. 338; [1942] A.C. 206, H.L. The partial disapproval of Nakkuda Ali v. Jayaratne, supra, by Lord REID in Ridge v. Baldwin, [1964] A.C. 40; [1963] 2 All E.R. 66, H.L., does not touch this point.

(e) Employer of workers. For definitions, see s. 10 (1), post.

(f) Declaration. It is an offence under the Act wilfully to make or sign a false declaration: s. 4 (1) (d).

(g) Tending to criminate himself. As to the privilege against self-crimination, see Phipson on Evidence, 10th Edn., pp. 264 et seq., and Halsbury's Laws of England (3rd Edn.), Vol. 15, pp. 422, 423. It is to be noted that persons other than police officers charged with the duty of investigating offences or charging offenders must, so far as may be practicable, comply with the newly revised Judges' Rules (ibid., Rule 6), which are set out in [1964] 1 All E.R. 237.

(h) Obstruct. By s. 4 (1) (c) it is an offence to obstruct an inspector in the execution of his powers or duties under the Act or regulations.

4. Offences and punishment therefor.—(1) If a person (a)—

(a) contravenes (b) any provision of regulations under this Act;

- (b) contravenes any provision of section two (c) of this Act;
 - (c) obstructs an inspector (d) appointed under this Act in the execution of his powers or duties under this Act or regulations thereunder; or
 - (d) wilfully makes a false entry in a register, record, return or other document kept or furnished in pursuance of regulations under this Act, or wilfully makes use of such a false entry, or wilfully makes or signs as being a declaration (e) required by an inspector in pursuance of this Act a declaration which is false;
- he shall be guilty of an offence against this Act.

(2) A person guilty of an offence against this Act shall be liable on summary conviction to a fine not exceeding fifty pounds, and, if a contravention of a provision of this Act or of regulations thereunder in respect of which a person has been convicted is continued by him after his conviction, he shall be guilty of a further offence and liable in respect thereof to a fine not exceeding ten pounds for each day on which the contravention is so continued.

(3) Where a contravention of a provision of regulations under this Act consists in a failure to do anything at or within a time specified in the regulations, and the regulations provide that this subsection shall apply to a failure so to do it, the contravention shall be deemed to continue until that thing is done.

(4) Where an offence against this Act which has been committed by a body corporate is proved to have been committed with the consent or connivance (f) of, or to be attributable to any neglect on the part of, any director, manager, secretary or other similar officer of the body corporate, or any person purporting to act in any such capacity, he as well as the body corporate shall be deemed to be guilty of that offence and shall be liable to be proceeded against and punished accordingly.

In this subsection, the expression "director", in relation to any body corporate which is established by or under any enactment for the purpose of carrying on under national ownership any industry or part of an industry or undertaking and whose affairs are managed by the members thereof, means a member of that body.

General note. By sub-s. (4), the executives of a body corporate may also be prosecuted in certain circumstances. An identical provision is to be found in s. 14 (3) of the Agriculture (Safety, Health and Welfare Provisions) Act 1956, p. 410, post. See s. 5 of the present Act, post, for the provision of a defence in certain circumstances where another person is responsible for the contravention.

(a) Person. This term includes any body of persons corporate or unincorporate; see the Interpretation Act 1889, s. 19.

(b) Contravenes. By s. 10 (2) "contravention" of any provision includes a failure to comply with that provision.

(c) Section two. This deals with the duties of employees.

(d) Inspector. For the appointment and powers of inspectors, see s. 3, ante. As to what constitutes obstruction, see s. 3 (4), ante.

(e) Declaration. See s. 3 (3) (d).

(f) Connivance. There is no direct authority on the construction of this term as used in the present context and in other similar statutory provisions. It is submitted, however, that the expression "connivance" so used connotes a specific mental state not amounting to actual consent to the act or default in question, concomitant with a failure to prevent that act or default. The mental state referred to is that which is sometimes termed "wilful blindness", that is to say, an intentional shutting of the eyes to events of which in his own interests the percipient would prefer to remain unaware. This construction of the expression "connivance" accords both with its philology (the derivation is from the Latin "connivere", literally "to wink" and figuratively "to wink at") and with the use made of it by the courts in expounding the common law aspects of the concept of mens rea (see Roper v. Taylor's Central Garages (Exeter), [1951] 2 T.L.R. 284, D.C.). It accords also with the construction of the same word in s. 4 (2) (b) of the Matrimonial Causes Act 1950 (see Gipps v. Gipps (1864), 11 H.L.Cas. 1, per Lord WESTBURY at p. 14; Manning v. Manning, [1950] 1 All E.R. 602, C.A.).

5. Defence available in certain circumstances to person charged where some other person is responsible.

—(1) A person (a) against whom proceedings are brought under this Act (b) shall, upon information duly laid by him and on giving to the prosecution not less than three clear days' notice (c) of his intention, be entitled to have brought before the court (d) in the proceedings any person to whose act or default (e) he alleges that the contravention (f) of the provision in question was due, and, if after the contravention has been proved (g) the original defendant proves that the contravention was due to the act or default of that other person, that other person may be convicted of the offence, and, if the original defendant further proves—

(a) that he has used all due diligence (h) to secure that the provision in question was complied with, and
 (b) that the said other person's act or default was without his consent, connivance (i) or wilful default, he shall be acquitted of the offence (j).

(2) Where a defendant seeks to avail himself of the preceding subsection—

- (a) the prosecution, as well as the person whom the defendant charges with the offence, shall have the right to cross-examine the defendant, if he gives evidence, and any witness called by him in support of his pleas, and to call rebutting evidence;
- (b) the court may make such order as it thinks fit for the payment of costs by any party to the proceedings to any other party thereto.

(3) Where it appears to the appropriate Minister (k) that an offence has been committed in respect of which proceedings might be taken under this Act against some person and the said Minister is reasonably satisfied that the offence of which the complaint is made was due to an act or default of some other person and that the first-mentioned person could establish a defence under subsection (1) of this section, he may cause proceedings to be taken (l) against that other person without first causing proceedings to be taken against the first-mentioned person.

In any such proceedings the defendant may be charged with, and, on proof that the contravention was due to his act or default, be convicted of, the offence with which the first-mentioned person might have been charged.

General note. A third party procedure is introduced into the Act by this section. Such a procedure has become a common feature in modern welfare legislation, and similar provisions occur in s. 113 of the Food and Drugs Act 1955 and s. 161 of the Factories Act 1961, for which see Redgrave's Factories Acts, 20th Edn., pp. 383 et seq. The words "any person" clearly include the servants or agents of the person against whom proceedings are brought. The wording of the section makes it clear that it applies only to criminal proceedings; it has no application to civil actions based on breach of statutory duty (Potts (or Riddell) v. Reid, [1943] A.C. 1; [1942] 2 All E.R. 161, H.L.). The section also, in sub-s. (3), supra, enables proceedings to be taken directly against the person really at fault without first taking proceedings against the person or persons who could rely on the defence provided by sub-s. (1), supra.

Where an original defendant lays information against someone else, that does not exhaust the section, for that person may lay an information against yet another person, and so on back to the true offender, and where this is done all the cases may properly come before the court on the same occasion; see British Fermentation Products, Ltd. v. British Italian Trading Co., Ltd., [1942] 2 K.B. 145; [1942] 2 All E.R. 256. There is only one set of proceedings, and, therefore, in the event of an appeal by a second or remoter defendant in the chain, he must give formal notice of appeal to the original prosecutor, although it is doubtful whether he need do so to intervening defendants who have been acquitted; see R. v. Derby Recorder, Ex parte Spalton, [1944] 1 K.B. 611; [1944] 1 All E.R. 721. Where a case is stated against a defendant who has taken advantage of this section, the prosecution must join the third party if the result may be a remission to the justices for re-hearing or with a direction to convict, for otherwise the defendant would lose his right of establishing his defence; see Elkington v. Kesley, [1948] 1 All E.R. 786. Where the proceedings are based upon sampling and analysis, the previous persons in the chain need not have been supplied with a portion of the sample; see Cummings v. British Fermentation Products, Ltd., [1942] 2 K.B. 108; [1942] 2 All E.R. 271. In fact, to do so would prevent compliance with the statutory provisions as to sampling and production of the retained part of the sample at the hearing in accordance with s. 6 (6); see British Fermentation Products, Ltd. v. Teal, [1943] 1 All E.R. 331.

The third party procedure provided by this section applies where proceedings are "brought under this Act." By s. 4 (1) (a), ante, a contravention of any provisions of regulations under this Act is made an offence against the Act. It is therefore submitted that this procedure is open to a person charged with an offence arising out of a contravention of a regulation made under the Act, whether or not the provisions of the section have been specifically applied and incorporated in the subordinate legislation in question. The position under s. 113 of the Food and Drugs Act 1955, is otherwise (see United Dairies (London), Ltd. v. Beckenham Corporation, [1963] 1 Q.B. 434; [1961] 1 All E.R. 579, D.C.).

This section does not apply to Scotland; see s. 11 (3) which substitutes other provisions.

(a) Person. This term includes any body of persons corporate or unincorporate; see the Interpretation Act 1889, s. 19.

(b) Brought under this Act. See the general note, supra.

(c) Information; notice. The information under sub-s. (1), supra, should, as that under sub-s. (3), supra, must, make plain that proceedings are taken under this section, at least by reference to it; see Atterton v. Browne, [1945] K.B. 122. There is authority for saying not only that the notice must be given, but also that the information must be laid, three clear days before the proceedings are heard; see Malcolm v. Cheek, [1947] 2 All E.R. 881, at p. 882, per Lord GODDARD, C.J.

(d) Entitled to have . . . brought before the court. If the original defendant carries out all his obligations under sub-s. (1), supra, he is not deprived of his defence because the person cited by him is not brought before the court owing to the impossibility of serving the summons on him; see Malcolm v. Cheek, [1948] 1 K.B. 400; [1947] 2 All E.R. 881.

(e) Act or default. This means wrongful act or default; see Noss Farm Products, Ltd. v. Lilico, [1945] 2 All E.R. 609, and Lamb v. Sunderland and District Creamery, Ltd., [1951] 1 All E.R. 923. Accordingly, the fact that what the other person did subsequently became unlawful is not sufficient to bring the section into operation; see Noss Farm Products, Ltd. v. Lilico, supra. Mens rea or negligence need not be proved if the original offence is constituted without proof of mens rea or negligence, as the case may be; see Lindley v. George W. Horner & Co., Ltd., [1950] 1 All E.R. 234; Lamb v. Sunderland & District Creamery, Ltd., supra; Lester v. Balfour Williamson Merchant Shippers, Ltd., [1953] 2 Q.B. 168; [1953] 1 All E.R. 1146 and Fisher v. Barrett & Pomeroy (Bakers), Ltd., [1954] 1 All E.R. 249. The original defendant must, to secure an acquittal, prove not only that the contravention was due to the act or default of the other party, but also that he had used due diligence to secure compliance with the provisions of the Act; see Moore v. Ray, [1951] 1 K.B. 58; [1950] 2 All E.R. 561. Moreover, a person who merely sells as agent for a disclosed principal cannot be said to have committed an act or default by selling; see Lester v. Balfour Williamson Merchant Shippers, Ltd., supra.

(f) Contravention. By s. 10 (2), post, "contravention" of any provision includes a failure to comply with that provision.

(g) After . . . proved. These words, and the provisions of sub-s. (2), indicate that the case against the original defendant, and his case against the third party, are separate proceedings, each begun by a separate information, and each requiring a separate adjudication. The third party proceedings only arise "after" the commission of the offence is proved against the original defendant, and this might seem to require that the proceedings be not only juridically, but also chronologically, successive. It is submitted that this is not the case, and that the justices have a discretion to hear the two informations together if they so desire. Often this will effect a saving of time, and will prevent a third party, who wishes to contend that the original defendant was guiltless, from being faced with a fait accompli. No guidance on the proper procedure to be followed in such cases as this has been given by the Divisional Court, which, in United Dairies (London), Ltd. v. Beckenham Corporation, supra, declined an invitation to express an opinion on the matter (see [1961] 1 All E.R. at p. 585).

(h) Used all due diligence. Whether the defendant has or has not used all due diligence is a question of fact, but on a case stated the High Court will interfere if there was no evidence to support a finding on this point; see Hammett (R. C.), Ltd. v. Crabb, [1931] All E.R. Rep. 70. See also Rogers v. Barlow & Son (1906), 94 L.T. 519; Hammett (R. C.), Ltd. v. London County Council (1933), 97 J.P. 105, and Pearce v. Cullen (1952), 96 Sol. Jo. 132.

(i) Connivance. See note (f) to s. 4, ante.

(j) Acquitted of the offence. If the original defendant proves the matters set out in sub-s. (1) (a) and (b) he must be acquitted, despite the fact that, ex hypothesi, the offence has been proved against him. The original defendant has no right of appeal against the acquittal of the other person although his own defence fails unless the latter's guilt is established; see Walkling, Ltd. v. Robinson (1930), 99 L.J.K.B.

171 (criticised on other grounds in Melias, Ltd. v. Preston, [1957] 2 Q.B. 380; [1957] 2 All E.R. 449).

(k) Appropriate Minister. For definition, see s. 10 (1), post.

(l) May cause proceedings to be taken. The discretion to proceed by the shortened procedure of sub-s. (3), supra, belongs solely to the prosecuting authority, and its exercise can neither be demanded by the original defendant, who has his rights under sub-s. (1), supra, nor be questioned by the magistrates' court or the High Court. Proceedings under sub-s. (3), supra, cannot be taken while proceedings against the original defendant are pending; see Fisher v. Santovin, Ltd., [1953] 2 All E.R. 713.

An information under sub-s. (3), supra, which does not refer to this section is bad as misleading; see Atterton v. Browne, [1945] K.B. 122. Moreover, the information, in the words of Lord GODDARD, C.J., in Challand v. Bartlett, [1953] 2 All E.R. 832, at p. 834 "should set out the facts and state that the . . . authority are reasonably satisfied that the offence of which complaint was made was due to the act or default of the person proceeded against . . ." If this is not done, the proceedings are, it appears, not taken in proper form and accordingly are defective.

The date from which the time limit under s. 104 of the Magistrates' Courts Act 1952 runs for any prosecution under sub-s. (3), supra, is the date of the offence with which the person who has been passed over might have been charged, and not the original act or default of the actual defendant; see Concentrated Foods, Ltd. v. Champ, [1944] 1 K.B. 342; [1944] 1 All E.R. 272.

6. Provisions as to samples.—(1) An inspector (a) appointed under this Act may take for analysis a sample of any substance or thing which in his opinion may be or contain a substance to which this Act applies (b), and which he finds on, or has reasonable cause to believe (c) to be in transit to or from, such land or premises as are mentioned in subsection (2) of section three of this Act.

(2) An inspector taking a sample under the preceding subsection with the intention of having it analysed shall, if practicable, forthwith after taking it give information of his intention to the employer (d) of any person then working as mentioned in subsection (1) of section one of this Act on the land or premises in question, and shall then and there divide the sample (e) into parts, each part to be marked, and sealed or fastened up, in such manner as its nature will permit, and shall—

(a) if required so to do by an employer so informed, deliver one part to him;

- (b) retain one part for future comparison; and
- (c) if the inspector thinks fit to have an analysis made, submit one part to an analyst approved by the appropriate Minister for the purposes of this Act.

(3) Where it is not practicable for the inspector to give information of his intention as mentioned in the last preceding subsection to an employer, the inspector shall, if he intends to have the sample analysed and if he can ascertain the name and address of the employer, forward one part of the sample to him by registered post or otherwise, together with a notice informing him that he intends to have the sample analysed.

(4) A document purporting to be a certificate by an analyst approved by the appropriate Minister for the purposes of this Act as to the result of an analysis of a sample shall in proceedings under this Act be admissible as evidence (f) of the matters stated therein, but either party may require the person by whom the analysis was made to be called as a witness.

(5) In any proceedings under this Act in which the prosecutor intends to rely on evidence relating to a sample taken under this section, the summons shall not be made returnable less than fourteen days from the day on which it is served, and a copy of any certificate of analysis obtained on behalf of the prosecutor shall be served with the summons.

(6) In any proceedings under this Act in which the prosecutor relies on evidence relating to a sample taken under this section, the part of the sample retained by the inspector for future comparison shall be produced (g) at the hearing.

(7) The court before which any proceedings are taken under this Act may, if it thinks fit, and upon the request of either party shall, cause the part of any sample produced before the court under the last preceding subsection to be sent to the Government Chemist (h) who shall make an analysis, and transmit to the court a certificate of the result thereof, and the cost of the analysis shall be paid by the prosecutor or the defendant as the court may order.

If, in a case where an appeal is brought, no action has been taken under the preceding provisions of this subsection, those provisions shall apply also in relation to the court by which the appeal is heard.

General note. This section is modified in its application to Scotland; see s. 11 (4), (5).

(a) Inspector. For the appointment and powers of inspectors, see s. 3, ante.

(b) Substance to which this Act applies. For these substances, see s. 9 (1), infra, and subordinate legislation made thereunder.

(c) Reasonable cause to believe. See note (d) to s. 3, ante.

(d) Employer. For definition, see s. 10 (1), post.

(e) Divide the sample. Compare para. 1 of the Seventh Schedule to the Food and Drugs Act 1955, and see 17 Halsbury's Laws (3rd Edn.) 474, 475.

The division must be such that each of the three parts may be sufficient for analysis; see Lowery v. Hallard, [1906] 1 K.B. 398 (a decision on s. 14 of the Food and Drugs Act 1875 (repealed)).

(f) Evidence. Compare s. 110 (1) of the Food and Drugs Act 1955 and s. 2 (2) of the Road Traffic Act 1962, and see 17 Halsbury's Laws (3rd Edn.) 594. The effect of this subsection is to make the contents of the certificate admissible despite the hearsay rule. The subsection does not state that the certificate shall be "sufficient" evidence of its contents (cf. s. 110 (1) of the Food and Drugs Act 1955), but none the less it is conceived that its effect is the same, so that if the certificate is the only evidence tendered on the issue the court is bound to accept it (cf. Preston v. Fennell, [1951] 1 K.B. 16; [1950] 1 All E.R. 1099, decided on s. 81 (1) of the Food and Drugs Act 1938 (repealed)). If evidence is called to rebut the certificate, the court must then weigh the whole evidence in arriving at a conclusion (cf. Hewitt v. Taylor, [1896] 1 Q.B. 287; decided on s. 21 of the Sale of Food and Drugs Act 1875). Sub-s. (4) of the present Act is modified in its application to Scotland; see s. 11 (4), post.

(g) Produced. Compare s. 108 (4) of the Food and Drugs Act 1955, and see 17 Halsbury's Laws (3rd Edn.) 596.

(h) Government Chemist. Compare s. 112 (1), (2) of the Food and Drugs Act 1955 and see 17 Halsbury's Laws (3rd Edn.) 596, 597.

7. Application to the Crown.—This Act and regulations thereunder shall bind the Crown, but regulations under this Act may provide for modifications or exceptions in the application of this Act or such regulations to, or in relation to, the Crown.

General note. The Crown is not amenable to criminal proceedings, but this section, together with the Crown Proceedings Act 1947, s. 2 (2), makes the Crown civilly liable for breach of a duty imposed by the Act or regulations to the same extent as a private individual of full age and capacity. The power to modify this Act in its application to the Crown by regulations has not yet been exercised. Compare s. 22 of the Agriculture (Safety, Health and Welfare Provisions) Act 1956, post. For proceedings against the Crown generally, see Halsbury's Laws of England, 3rd Edn., Vol. 11, pp. 8 et seq.

8. Expenses.—Any expenses incurred by the Minister of Agriculture and Fisheries (a) or the Secretary of State in carrying out this Act shall be paid out of moneys provided by Parliament.

(a) Minister of Agriculture and Fisheries. The style and title of the Minister is now the Minister of Agriculture, Fisheries and Food; see note (f) to s. 1, ante.

9. Substances to which this Act applies.—(1) The substances to which this Act applies are—

- (a) dinitro-phenols and their salts;
- (b) dinitro-substituted phenols and their salts;
- (c) organo-phosphorus compounds;
- (d) preparations or mixtures containing any of the substances mentioned in the preceding paragraphs;
- (e) substances to which this Act for the time being applies by virtue of an exercise of powers conferred by the succeeding provisions of this section.

(2) If the Minister of Agriculture and Fisheries (a) and the Secretary of State (b) are satisfied as to a substance not being one to which this Act for the time being applies that its use in agriculture (c) involves, or that if used in agriculture its use therein would be likely to involve, substantial risk of poisoning to workers (d) employed to work as mentioned in subsection (1) of section one of this Act, the said Minister and the Secretary of State may by order (e) direct that this Act shall apply to that substance.

(3) An order under this section may be varied or revoked by a subsequent order made by the said Minister and the Secretary of State.

(4) The power of making orders under this section shall be exercisable by statutory instrument (f) which shall be subject to annulment in pursuance of a resolution of either House of Parliament.

(a) Minister of Agriculture and Fisheries. The style and title of the Minister is now the Minister of Agriculture, Fisheries and Food; see note (f) to s. 1, ante.

(b) Secretary of State. See note (g) to s. 1.

(c) Agriculture. For definition, see s. 10 (1), post.

(d) Workers. For definition, see s. 10 (1), post.

(e) Order. The order at present in force is the Agriculture (Poisonous Substances) (Extension) Order 1960 (S.I. 1960 No. 398) which is set out below.

(f) Statutory instrument. See note (m) to s. 1, ante.

2. The orders mentioned in the Second Schedule to this Order are hereby revoked.

Direction

3. The Ministers hereby direct that the Act shall apply to the substances mentioned in the First Schedule to this Order.

FIRST SCHEDULE

10. Interpretation.—(1) In this Act the following expressions have the meanings hereby assigned to them respectively, that is to say—

“agriculture” (a) includes dairy-farming, the production of any consumable produce which is grown for sale or for consumption or other use for the purposes of a trade or business or of any other undertaking (whether carried on for profit or not), and the use of land as grazing, meadow or pasture land or orchard or osier land or woodland or for market gardens or nursery grounds;

“consumable produce” (b) means produce grown for consumption or for other use after severance from the land on which it is grown;

“worker” (e) means a person employed under a contract of service or apprenticeship, and “employer” and “employed” have corresponding meanings.

(2) Any references in this Act to a contravention of any provision shall include a reference to a failure to comply with that provision.

(a) Agriculture. This definition differs from that in the Agriculture Act 1947, s. 109 (3) and the Agricultural Holdings Act 1948, s. 94 (1), as to which, see 1 Halsbury’s Laws (3rd Edn.) 253, but is identical with that in the Agriculture (Safety, Health and Welfare Provisions) Act 1956, s. 24 (1), post.

(b) Consumable produce. This definition is identical with that in the Agriculture (Safety, Health and Welfare Provisions) Act 1956, s. 24 (1), post.

(d) Secretary of State. See note (g) to s. 1.

(e) Worker . . . contract of service. See note (h) to s. 24 of the Agriculture (Safety, Health and Welfare Provisions) Act 1956, p. 419, post.

11. Application to Scotland.—(1) The provisions of this section shall have effect for the purposes of the application of this Act to Scotland.

(2) Nothing in section three shall be construed as authorising an inspector to institute proceedings in any court in Scotland for an offence against this Act.

(3) Section five shall not apply, but—

(a) where a contravention (a) of any provision of this Act or of regulations thereunder for which any person on conviction would be liable to a penalty under this Act was due to an act or default of any other person, then, whether proceedings are or are not taken against the first-mentioned person, that other person may be charged with and convicted of the contravention and shall be liable on conviction to the same punishment as might have been inflicted on the first-mentioned person if he had been convicted of the contravention; and

(b) where a person who is charged with a contravention of any provision of this Act or of regulations thereunder proves to the satisfaction of the court that he has used all due diligence to secure that the provision in question was complied with, he shall be acquitted of the contravention.

(4) For the purposes of any proceedings under this Act a certificate which is admitted as evidence under subsection (4) of section six shall be sufficient evidence (b) of the matters stated therein unless a party requires the person by whom the analysis in question was made to be called as a witness, and in the latter event any evidence given by that person as to the result of the analysis shall be sufficient evidence of that result.

(5) In the application of section six the expression “defendant” means accused; the expression “hearing” means trial; any reference to a summons shall be construed as a reference to a complaint; and for references to the day on which a summons is served and to the day on which it is returnable there shall be substituted respectively references to the day on which a complaint is served and to the day on which the prosecution thereon proceeds to trial.

(a) Contravention. By s. 10 (2) “contravention” of any provision includes a failure to comply with that provision.

(b) Sufficient evidence. See the note to s. 6 (4), ante.

12. Short title and extent.—(1) This Act may be cited as the Agriculture (Poisonous Substances) Act 1952.

(2) This Act shall not extend to Northern Ireland (a).

(a) Northern Ireland. The Agriculture (Poisonous Substances) (Northern Ireland) Act 1954 is in similar terms to the Agriculture (Poisonous Substances) Act 1952.

THE AGRICULTURE (POISONOUS SUBSTANCES) REGULATIONS 1963

(S.I. 1963 No. 845)

Dated 23rd April 1963, made by the Minister of Agriculture, Fisheries and Food and the Secretary of State for Scotland under section 1 of the Agriculture (Poisonous Substances) (Extension) Order 1960 and all other enabling powers.

General note. These regulations consolidate and revoke the Agriculture (Poisonous Substances) Regulations 1956 to 1962, with minor amendments. They are themselves amended by the Agriculture (Poisonous Substances) (Amendment) Regulations, 1964 (see p. 389, post).

Citation, extent and commencement

1. These regulations, which may be cited as the Agriculture (Poisonous Substances) Regulations 1963, apply to Great Britain and shall come into operation on 1st May 1963.

Revocation and savings

2.—(1) The regulations mentioned in Schedule 3 to these regulations are hereby revoked.

(2) Nothing in these regulations shall affect any approval or notice given, register kept, certificate granted, or any other thing done under any regulations previously made under the Act, but any such approval, notice, register, certificate, or thing done shall if in force on the coming into operation of these regulations, continue in force as if it had been given, kept, granted, or done under the corresponding provision of these regulations, and in the case of an approval, had been given for the purpose of that provision.

Interpretation

3.—(1) In these regulations, unless the context otherwise requires, the following expressions (a) have the meanings hereby respectively assigned to them:—

“the Act” means the Agriculture (Poisonous Substances) Act 1952;

“aerosol dispenser” means a spraying apparatus so constructed that the majority of the particles of the spray released therefrom are less than 80 microns in diameter (b);

“agriculture” has the meaning assigned to it by section 10 of the Act and “agricultural” shall be construed accordingly;

“agricultural unit” means land which is occupied as a unit for agricultural purposes;

“greenhouse” includes any enclosed building or erection in which plants are grown;

“ground-crop” means any crop grown in the ground and includes the plant on which the crop is grown, but does not include bushes, climbing plants (including hops) or trees, or the crops grown thereon;

“inspector” means an inspector appointed (c) by the Minister for the execution of the Act;

“the Minister” means, as respects England and Wales, the Minister of Agriculture, Fisheries and Food, and as respects Scotland, the Secretary of State;

“plant” includes any form of vegetable life;

“protective clothing” means the clothing and equipment required by these regulations to be worn, and references in these regulations to articles of protective clothing of which there are definitions in paragraph 1 of Part I of Schedule 1 hereto shall be construed as references to the protective clothing so defined;

“scheduled operations” has the meaning assigned to it by regulation 4 of these regulations;

“smoke-generator” includes any device by means of which a specified substance is thermally distributed by a heater composition;

“soil-application” means the process whereby a specified substance is discharged or released in unbroken liquid form directly on to or into the soil for absorption by the roots of plants grown therein, and “soil-application apparatus" includes any apparatus or device through or by means of which soil-application is carried out;

"specified substance" means any substance specified in column 2 of Schedule 2 hereto to which the Act applies, and any preparation or mixture containing such a substance, except a preparation or mixture used exclusively as an insecticide where the only such substance contained in it is not more than 5 per cent. by weight of dinoseb or DNOC (b);

"specified substance in capsule form" means a specified substance prepared in such manner approved by the Minister that it is completely isolated by some substance that is not poisonous from a person handling the capsule;

"spraying" does not include soil-application or the use of a specified substance in capsule form, but saves aforesaid includes any process whereby plants are treated with a specified substance, and "spraying apparatus" includes any apparatus or device, through or by means of which spraying is carried out (b);

"wetter" means a chemical agent which when added to a specified substance promotes on the surface of a solid (including rubber) the formation of a continuous liquid film;

"worker" means a person employed under a contract of service (d) or apprenticeship—

(a) in connection with the use in agriculture of a specified substance; or

(b) on land on which a specified substance is being or has been used in agriculture.

and "employer" means the employer of such a person.

(2) The expression "ground-marker" used in Part II of Schedule 1 to these regulations has the meaning assigned to it by paragraph 2 of Part I thereof.

(3) In these regulations the common name (if any) of a specified substance as mentioned in column 1 of the said Schedule 2 means the specified substance mentioned opposite thereto in column 2 thereof.

(4) References in these regulations to dinoseb or DNOC include references to the respective salts thereof.

(5) The Interpretation Act 1889 applies to the interpretation of these regulations as it applies to the interpretation of an Act of Parliament, and as if these regulations and the regulations hereby revoked were Acts of Parliament.

(a) Expressions. Additional definitions, of "granule placement", "granule placement apparatus" and "specified substance in granular form" are provided by reg. 3 (3) of the Agriculture (Poisonous Substances) Amendment Regulations 1965, Addenda, post.

(b) Revocation. The definitions printed in italics are revoked by S.I. 1965 No. 76; see now ibid., reg. 3, Addenda, post.

(c) Appointed. See s. 3 of the Agriculture (Poisonous Substances) Act 1952, p. 355, ante.

(d) Worker . . . contract of service. See note (h) to s. 24 of the Agriculture (Safety, Health and Welfare) Act 1956, p. 419, post.

Operations prohibited except when protective clothing is worn

4.—(1) A worker shall not and his employer shall not cause or permit him to carry out any such operations as are mentioned in column 1 of Part II of Schedule 1 to these regulations (in these regulations referred to as "scheduled operations") in relation to a substance mentioned in column 2 of the said Part II unless he is wearing the protective clothing respectively set forth opposite the said column 2 in column 3 thereof.

(2) In the foregoing paragraph "operations" includes operations which a worker carries out, either—

(a) as the principal or only worker engaged in carrying them out; or

(b) as a member of a team of persons engaged in carrying them out, if he is in risk of being poisoned by the specified substance that is used.

(3) Nothing in sub-paragraph (b) of the last foregoing paragraph shall operate so as to include a person principally engaged as a tractor-driver in connection with soil-application operations (not being operations carried out with soil-application apparatus mounted on a tractor) so long as such person is engaged exclusively in tractor-driving.

Greenhouses

5.—(1) A worker shall not and his employer shall not cause or permit him to enter or be present in a greenhouse in which a specified substance has been used unless he is wearing the protective clothing required by this regulation to be worn.

(2) Such protective clothing shall where the apparatus used was an aerosol dispenser or a smoke-generator consist of that mentioned opposite item 8 in column 3 of Part II of the said Schedule 1, and in all other cases shall consist of that mentioned opposite item 4 therein as the appropriate protective clothing in relation to the substance that has been used.

(3) The foregoing paragraphs shall not apply where—

- (a) a period of 6 hours has elapsed since the specified substance was used, and a sufficient number of windows in the greenhouse have been open for at least 1 hour after the expiration of that period to ensure ventilation; or
- (b) a period of 12 hours has elapsed since the specified substance was used.

(4) Where a specified substance has been used in a greenhouse and the occupier of the agricultural unit comprising the greenhouse employs persons who work in such unit, the occupier shall immediately after the specified substance has been so used cause notices to be affixed on all doors of the greenhouse warning such persons of the specified substance which has been used in the greenhouse and of the effect of paragraphs (1), (2), and (3) of this regulation.

(5) This regulation shall not apply to the use in a greenhouse of a specified substance in capsule form.

Provision and maintenance of protective clothing

6.—(1) An employer of a worker who carries out scheduled operations shall—

- (a) provide (a) the worker with the protective clothing required by or under these regulations and, where such protective clothing includes a respirator or dust-mask, provide an adequate supply of filters for replacement of those used;
- (b) maintain or cause to be maintained all protective clothing in good and serviceable condition (b); and
- (c) provide accommodation for the keeping of—
 - (i) protective clothing, and
 - (ii) the worker's personal clothing not worn during working hours.

(2) The accommodation provided under paragraph (1) (c) hereof shall be such as to ensure ventilation and that the worker's personal clothing does not become contaminated by a specified substance whether from protective clothing or otherwise.

(a) Provide. The meaning of this term as used in s. 49 of the Factories Act 1937 (now s. 65 of the Factories Act 1961), which deals with the provision of goggles or effective screens where a worker is engaged on processes involving risk to the eyes, was discussed in Finch v. Telegraph Construction and Maintenance Co., Ltd., [1949] 1 All E.R. 452. It was there held by DEVLIN, J., that "in order to 'provide' [the goggles] within the meaning of the Act it would be necessary either that they should be put in a place where they come easily and obviously to the hand of the workman who is about to grind, or, at the very least, that he should be given clear directions where he is to get them" (p. 454). See, further, Nolan v. Dental Manufacturing Co., Ltd., [1958] 2 All E.R. 449. This case also decided that in order to establish that his injury was caused by the failure to use protective clothing the plaintiff must prove not only that no such clothing was provided within the meaning of the statute, but also that had it been provided he would have worn it, and in this respect it has been confirmed by Cummings (or Mc-Williams) v. Sir William Arrol & Co., Ltd., [1962] 1 All E.R. 623, H.L. and Wigley v. British Vinegars, Ltd., [1962] 3 All E.R. 161, H.L. For a case in which the plaintiff succeeded on the issue of causation, see Ross v. Associated Portland Cement Manufacturers, Ltd., [1964] 2 All E.R. 452, H.L. This regulation envisages only the provision, maintenance and accommodation of protective clothing, and not the taking of steps to see that it is worn, once provided (see Norris v. Syndi Manufacturing Co., Ltd., [1952] 2 Q.B. 135; [1952] 1 All E.R. 935, in which the Court of Appeal discussed the meaning of "provided" in what is now s. 143 (1) of the Factories Act 1961). It is submitted that like interpretations apply here. For the master's common law duty to supply protective clothing, see Haynes v. Qualcast (Wolverhampton) Ltd., [1958] 1 All E.R. 441, C.A., and Nolan's Case, supra. In considering reg. 6 it must not of course be forgotten that under reg. 4 (1), ante, an employer is under a duty not to cause or permit a worker to carry out scheduled operations in relation to certain substances unless he is wearing the protective clothing prescribed.

(b) Maintain . . . condition. It is submitted that these words impose an absolute duty; see Cole v. Blackstone, [1943] 1 K.B. 615, approved in Galashiels Gas Co., Ltd. v. O'Donnell, [1949] A.C. 275; [1949] 1 All E.R. 319, H.L.

Miscellaneous obligations relating to employers

7.—(1) The employer of a worker who carries out scheduled operations shall—

- (a) at a place which is conveniently accessible but outside the area in which the worker might be in risk of poisoning by any specified substance that has been used provide adequate and suitable washing facilities including soap and clean towels and either a supply of piped running water or clean water in containers (clearly marked "Personal washing only") for the personal use of the worker;
- (b) provide a supply of wholesome drinking water, clean drinking vessels, and suitable facilities for keeping any food or drink intended for the worker's consumption free from risk of contamination by a specified substance;

- (c) (except where a supply of piped running water is available) provide clean water in a container for the washing or cleaning of the protective clothing (other than overalls, hoods, respirators or dust-masks) which the worker has worn;
- (d) at the end of each day's operations cause to be thoroughly washed with water (or where appropriate with water and a suitable wetter) all protective clothing (other than overalls, hoods, respirators or dust-masks) which the worker has worn during the day's operations in connection with the use of a specified substance, and in the case of—
 - (i) rubber gloves, cause the insides as well as the outsides to be so washed, and
 - (ii) respirators and dust-masks, cause them to be both cleaned and ventilated;
- (e) keep all spraying apparatus, soil-application apparatus and the exterior of all tanks and containers which contain or have contained a specified substance free from contamination by any such substance, so far as it is practicable so to do;
- (f) keep the openings of all tanks and containers in which a specified substance is stored, when not in use, securely closed or covered over; and
- (g) cause every overall and hood which has been worn in connection with the use of a specified substance to be thoroughly washed with soap (or other suitable detergent) and water at least once in every 6 days in which it has been so worn and also whenever by reason of the presence of stains of a specified substance thereon there are reasonable grounds for apprehending that a worker may be in risk of poisoning.

(2) For the purpose of paragraph (1) (a) of this regulation, in considering whether a place is conveniently accessible account may be taken of any transport provided for workers at appropriate times; and in considering whether washing facilities are adequate and suitable at any time and place regard shall be had to the number of workers for whom such facilities are required at that time and place.

Miscellaneous prohibitions and obligations relating to workers

8.—(1) A worker who carries out scheduled operations shall not—

- (a) at any time blow, suck or apply his mouth to any jet, sprinkler, nozzle or other spraying apparatus or soil-application apparatus which contains or has contained a specified substance whether for the purpose of removing any obstruction or otherwise;
- (b) make use of any container marked “Personal washing only” for the washing of protective clothing, or of any container not so marked for personal washing;
- (c) make use of any drinking vessel provided by his employer otherwise than to drink from; or
- (d) eat, drink or smoke unless he has removed all protective clothing (other than any overall or rubber boots), has washed his hands and face, and is outside an area in which he might be poisoned by any specified substance that has been, is being, or is about to be used, or by any protective clothing that has been worn in connection with the use of a specified substance.

(2) A worker who carries out scheduled operations shall—

- (a) deposit his personal clothing not worn during working hours in the accommodation provided by his employer in accordance with regulation 6 hereof; and
- (b) at the end of each day's operations forthwith—
 - (i) remove all protective clothing worn by him and deposit it in such accommodation as aforesaid; and
 - (ii) wash his hands, face and neck.

Repair of apparatus

9.—(1) A worker shall not and his employer shall not cause or permit him to repair (a) any spraying apparatus or soil-application apparatus that has been, is being, or is about to be used for spraying or for soil-application unless such apparatus or so much thereof as requires repair is first thoroughly washed with water (or where appropriate with water and a suitable wetter).

(2) The foregoing paragraph shall not apply to repairs carried out in the course of spraying or soil-application operations if the worker is wearing the protective clothing required by these regulations to be worn when carrying out such operations.

(a) Repair. The meaning of this term, as used in rule 9 of the Prevention of Accidents Rules 1902, is discussed at p. 504, post.

Keeping of a register

10.—(1) Subject to paragraph (3) hereof an employer shall keep a register containing particulars of—

- (a) the name and address of every worker employed by him who carries out scheduled operations;
- (b) the number of hours worked on such operations by any such worker on each day;
- (c) the specified substances in connection with which the worker has worked as aforesaid;
- (d) any matters which the employer is required to notify to an inspector in accordance with regulation 12 hereof; and
- (e) any matters required to be entered in the register as a condition of granting a certificate of exemption under regulation 15 hereof.

(2) An employer shall preserve the register required to be kept by this regulation for at least a year after the date of the last entry therein.

(3) The foregoing paragraphs shall not apply in the case of an employer who is the occupier of an agricultural unit as respects workers employed in that unit, where scheduled operations are carried out—

- (a) on any ground-crops in that unit and the total area of ground-crops in that unit does not exceed 150 acres;
- (b) on any bushes, climbing plants (including hops) or trees in that unit and the total area of any land so cultivated by him in that unit does not exceed 50 acres;
- (c) in a greenhouse in that unit and the aggregate superficial area of all greenhouses in that unit does not exceed 2 acres:

Provided that any exemption created by this paragraph from the obligation to keep a register shall be limited to the operations and conditions in respect of which the exemption applies.

(4) An employer shall give to a worker who ceases to be employed by him a copy of any particulars contained in the register kept by the employer in accordance with this regulation, so far as such particulars relate to that worker during the last 6 months of his employment, and the worker, on entering the employment of any other employer at any time within 6 months of so ceasing to be employed, shall give to that employer any such copy as aforesaid.

Restriction on hours of work

11. A worker shall not work on scheduled operations and his employer shall not cause or permit him so to work, for more than—

- (a) 10 hours on any day;
- (b) 60 hours in any period of 7 consecutive days; or
- (c) 120 hours in any period of 21 consecutive days.

Notification of sickness and of absence

12.—(1) If at any time there are reasonable grounds for an employer to apprehend (a) that a worker may be suffering from poisoning from a specified substance, the employer shall forthwith notify an inspector thereof.

(2) Without prejudice to paragraph (1) hereof, if a worker absents himself from duty for more than 3 days—

- (a) otherwise than for a reason known to his employer not to be caused by poisoning from dinoseb or DNOC, and within 14 days immediately preceding such absence the worker has worked for more than 60 hours in connection with the use in agriculture of dinoseb or DNOC; or
- (b) otherwise than for a reason known to his employer not to be caused by poisoning from any other specified substance, and within 28 days immediately preceding such absence the worker has worked for more than 60 hours in connection with the use in agriculture of any other such specified substance; the employer shall forthwith notify an inspector of such absence.

(a) Reasonable grounds . . . apprehend. The wording makes it clear that whether or not there are reasonable grounds is to be decided independently of the employer's state of mind. However, it is submitted that the duty to notify does not arise until the employer has actual knowledge of the facts constituting reasonable grounds for apprehension. This follows from Harding v. Price, [1948] 1 All E.R. 283;

in which Lord GODDARD, C.J., said, at p. 235, "unless a man knows that the event has happened, how can he carry out the duty imposed? If the duty be to report he cannot report something of which he has no knowledge".

Training and supervision of workers

13.—(1) An employer shall not cause or permit a worker to work on scheduled operations unless the worker has been thoroughly trained in the precautions to be observed, and is under adequate supervision.

(2) Nothing in the foregoing paragraph shall release a worker from any obligation or prohibition imposed on him by the Act or by these regulations.

Prohibition of employment of persons under eighteen years

14. No person under the age of 18 years shall in any circumstances be employed to work on scheduled operations, or on any other operations involving the use in agriculture of a smoke-generator.

Certificates of exemption

15.—(1) If the employer of a worker satisfies an inspector that—

- (a) any of the provisions of these regulations could reasonably be dispensed with if alternative conditions to protect the worker from the risk of poisoning by a specified substance were observed; or
- (b) by reason of exceptional circumstances, or of the small extent of the operations carried out, or for any other reason, any of the provisions of these regulations are unnecessary for the protection of a worker; and the inspector certifies accordingly, then the employer and the worker to whom the certificate applies shall be exempt from such of the provisions of these regulations to which each of them would otherwise respectively be subject as are specified in the certificate.

(2) Any such certificate shall in addition specify the conditions (if any) subject to the observance of which the employer and the worker are to be exempted as aforesaid, and so long as the certificate remains in force the employer and the worker shall comply with those conditions.

(3) Any such certificate may at any time be revoked by notice in writing to the person to whom it was granted.

Regulations 3, 4 and 5 SCHEDULE ONE

PART I

1. In Part II of this Schedule, and also where mentioned elsewhere in these regulations, the following expressions relating to articles of protective clothing have the meanings hereby respectively assigned to them:—

“dust-mask” means a filtering apparatus of a type that—

(a) is so designed as to eliminate so far as practicable the risk of pollution, by liquid and solid particles containing a specified substance, of the air breathed by the person wearing it, and

(b) has been approved for that purpose by the Minister;

“eye-shield” means a shield so designed as to protect the eyes from being splashed by a specified substance;

“face-shield” means a shield covering the whole of the forehead and face, so designed as to protect the forehead and face from being splashed by a specified substance;

“hood” means a hat or other covering to the head, so designed as to protect the forehead, and back and sides of the neck, and, when required by these regulations to be worn in connection with the use of a specified substance containing dinoseb or DNOC, not so coloured that the presence of the stains thereof is not clearly visible;

“mackintosh” means a waterproof coat covering the whole of the body except the head, the hands, and below the knees (a);

Safety, Health and Welfare of Employees

1. Regulations for securing safety and health of employees.—(1) Provision may be made by regulations under this section (a) for protecting workers employed (b) in agriculture (c) against risks of bodily injury or injury to health arising out of the use of any machinery, plant, equipment or appliance, the carrying on of any operation, the use of any process or the management of animals, for securing to such workers safe places to work in and safe means of access thereto and for protecting them against risks of bodily injury arising out of their falling through apertures in floors or walls, or from their workplaces, or while ascending or descending staircases or ladders.

(2) Regulations under this section may make any such provision for any of the purposes mentioned in the foregoing subsection as appears to the authority by whom the regulations are made to meet the necessity of the case as far as is reasonably practicable, and may impose obligations, restrictions and prohibitions on employers of workers employed in agriculture, on such workers themselves, and on others.

(3) Without prejudice to the generality of the last foregoing subsection, regulations under this section may provide for—

- (a) regulating or prohibiting the use of any machinery, plant, equipment or appliance, the carrying on of any operation or the use of any process;
- (b) imposing requirements with respect to the construction, installation, examination, repair, maintenance, alteration, adjustment and testing of machinery, plant, equipment or appliances and the safeguarding of dangerous parts thereof and prohibiting the sale or letting on hire of any machinery, plant, equipment or appliance which does not comply with requirements of the regulations;
- (c) requiring the observance of precautions in connection with the management of animals and imposing requirements with respect to the construction of enclosures in which animals are kept;
- (d) requiring the giving of instructions with respect to the proper manner of using any machinery, plant, equipment or appliance, carrying on any operation, using any process or managing animals;
- (e) prohibiting the employment in work of any kind prescribed by the regulations of persons who have not attained the age of eighteen (d), either absolutely or except upon the condition of their having received a sufficient training in work of that kind or being subject to such supervision as may be so prescribed;

- (f) imposing requirements with respect to the fencing of apertures in floors or walls, the construction and maintenance of staircases and the provision in connection therewith of handrails and other safeguards and the construction and maintenance of ladders;
- (g) requiring the taking of such steps as may be prescribed by the regulations for the purpose of bringing provisions of the regulations to the notice of workers employed in agriculture; and

(4) Regulations under this section may make different provision to meet different circumstances.

(5) Regulations under this section may provide for empowering the appropriate Minister (e) to grant certificates exempting (f) (for such periods as may be specified therein and subject to such conditions, if any, as may be so specified) particular cases or particular persons from the operation of provisions of the regulations.

(6) A person who contravenes (g) any provision of regulations under this section shall be guilty of an offence.

(7) The Threshing Machines Act 1878 (h), shall be repealed on such day as may be appointed for that purpose by order made by the Minister of Agriculture, Fisheries and Food by statutory instrument, and the Chaff-Cutting Machines (Accidents) Act 1897 (i), shall be repealed—

THE AGRICULTURE (LIFTING OF HEAVY WEIGHTS) REGULATIONS 1959 (S.I. 1959 No. 2120)

Dated 14th December 1959, made by the Minister of Agriculture, Fisheries and Food and the Secretary of State for Scotland under section 2 (2) of the Agriculture (Safety, Health and Welfare Provisions) Act 1956 and all other enabling powers.

NOTE. A contravention of these regulations is, by s. 2 (3) of the Agriculture (Safety, Health and Welfare Provisions) Act 1956, p. 394, ante, an offence for which penalties are provided by s. 14 of that Act. These regulations are, in so far as they impose duties failure to comply with which might give rise to a liability in tort, binding upon the Crown; see s. 22 of that Act, p. 416, post.

Citation, extent and commencement

1. These regulations, which may be cited as the Agriculture (Lifting of Heavy Weights) Regulations 1959, shall apply to Great Britain (a) and shall come into operation on the 1st day of July, 1965.

Interpretation

2.—(1) In these regulations—

“the Act” means the Agriculture (Safety, Health and Welfare Provisions) Act 1956;

“agriculture”, “worker” and “employed” have the meanings respectively assigned to them, as respects England and Wales (a), by subsection (1) of section 24 of the Act, and, as respects Scotland, by that subsection as applied by subsection (10) of section 25 of the Act.

(2) The Interpretation Act 1889 applies to the interpretation of these regulations as it applies to the interpretation of an Act of Parliament.

Maximum Weight of Sacks and Contents

3. Without prejudice to the provisions of subsection (1) of section 2 of the Act (which provides that a young person shall not be employed as a worker in agriculture to lift, carry or move a load so heavy as to be likely to cause injury to him) the maximum weight of any load consisting of a sack or bag, together with its contents, which may be lifted or carried by a worker employed in agriculture, unaided, shall be 180 lb.

(a) Great Britain; England and Wales. For the meaning of these terms, see note (e) to s. 1 of the Agriculture (Poisonous Substances) Act, p. 351, ante.

3. General provisions as to sanitary conveniences and washing facilities.—(1) If it appears (a) to a sanitary authority (b) that an agricultural unit (c) within their district on which workers are employed (d) in agriculture (e) is without suitable and sufficient sanitary conveniences (f) available for the use of workers so employed, the authority shall, by notice (g) to the appropriate person (h), require him, within such time as may be specified in the notice, to execute such works or take such other steps for the purpose of providing the unit with suitable and sufficient sanitary conveniences available for the use of workers employed thereon in agriculture as may be specified in the notice.

(2) If it appears (a) to the appropriate Minister (i) that an agricultural unit on which workers are employed in agriculture is without suitable and sufficient washing facilities available for the use of workers so employed, the appropriate Minister shall, by notice (g) to the appropriate person (h), require him, within such time as may be specified in the notice, to execute such works or take such other steps for the purpose of providing the unit with suitable and sufficient washing facilities available for the use of workers employed thereon in agriculture as may be specified in the notice.

(3) In considering, for the purposes of this section, whether an agricultural unit is or is not without suitable and sufficient sanitary conveniences available for the use of workers employed on the unit in agriculture or, as the case may be, is or is not without suitable and sufficient washing facilities for the use of workers so employed, regard shall be had to the number and sex of the workers so employed, the location and duration of their work and all other relevant circumstances.

(4) A notice under this section requiring the execution of works involving the provision of fixed equipment (j) must specify the place where the works are to be executed.

(5) Neither a sanitary authority nor the appropriate Minister shall serve a notice under this section requiring the execution of works involving the provision of fixed equipment unless they are, or he is, satisfied (k) that special circumstances exist which render requisite the provision of such equipment, and no such notice shall be of any effect unless it states that the authority are, or (as the case may be) that the Minister is, so satisfied and what those circumstances are.

(6) For the purposes of this section the expression “appropriate person” means—

- (a) in the case of a notice requiring the execution, on land comprised in an agricultural holding (l), of works involving the provision of fixed equipment, the landlord of the holding;
- (b) in any other case, the occupier of the unit to which the notice relates.

(7) A person aggrieved by a notice (m) under this section requiring him to execute works involving the provision of fixed equipment may, within twenty-eight days from the service of the notice, appeal (n) to a magistrates’ court on any of the following grounds which are appropriate to the circumstances of the case, namely—

- (a) that the authority or Minister by whom the notice was served have, or has, refused unreasonably to approve the execution of alternative works, or that the works required by the notice to be executed are otherwise unreasonable in character or extent, or are unnecessary;
- (b) that it is unreasonable to require the execution of the works at the place specified in the notice;
- (c) that the time within which the works are to be executed is not reasonable for the purpose; and the court may make such order either confirming or quashing or varying the notice as it thinks fit.

(8) A person aggrieved by a decision (o) of a magistrates’ court under this section may appeal to a court of quarter sessions.

(9) Subject to the rights of appeal conferred by the foregoing provisions of this section and (where an appeal is brought in exercise of any such right) to any order made by the court on the appeal, a person upon whom a notice is served under this section who fails to comply with the requirements of the notice shall be guilty of an offence (p):

Provided that, in any proceedings under this sub-section for an offence consisting in a failure to comply with the requirements of a notice other than one to which subsection (7) of this section applies, it shall be open to the defendant to question the reasonableness of the requirements of the notice.

(10) Section nine of the Agricultural Holdings Act 1948 (q) (which provides for increasing the rent of an agricultural holding upon which the landlord has executed improvements in the circumstances mentioned in subsection (1) of that section) shall have effect as if, in that subsection, the reference to works for the supply of water to the holding included a reference to works executed thereon for the purpose of complying with the requirements of a notice under this section.

General note. This section is modified in its application to Scotland: see s. 25 (3), post.

(a) Appears. Regard must be had to the matters specified in sub-s. (3) and, where fixed equipment is required, to the matters specified in sub-s. (5). Provided that those matters are taken into account, and that the sanitary authority or the Minister (as the case may be) acts bona fide and intra vires, the courts will not enquire into the correctness of this decision to give a notice under the section; see the authorities cited in note (h) to s. 1 of the Agriculture (Poisonous Substances) Act 1952, p. 351, ante.

(b) Sanitary authority. For definition, see s. 24 (1), post.

(c) Agricultural unit. For definition, see s. 24 (1), post.

(d) Workers are employed. For definitions, see s. 24 (1), post.

(e) Agriculture. For definition, see s. 24 (1), post.

(f) Sanitary conveniences. For power to require the provision of conveniences by agricultural contractors, see s. 4; for power to secure the maintenance and cleanliness of conveniences, see s. 5, post.

(g) Notice. The form and mode of service of notices are specified by s. 20; see also sub-ss. (4) and (5) of the present section.

(h) Appropriate person. For definition, see sub-s. (6).

(i) Appropriate Minister. For definition, see s. 24 (1), post.

(j) Fixed equipment. For definition, see s. 24 (1), post.

(k) Satisfied. See note (a), supra.

(m) Persons aggrieved by a notice. This refers to the person required to execute the works. He does not, it is submitted, have to show that he is a "person aggrieved" within the technical sense discussed in note (o), infra, in order to appeal, although the appeal will fail unless he can prove one of the grounds specified in sub-s. (7).

(n) Appeal. The appeal is by way of complaint for an order; see rule 30 of the Magistrates' Court Rules 1952 (S.I. 1952 No. 2190). The magistrates may therefore award costs as provided in s. 55 of the Magistrates' Courts Act 1952.

(o) Person aggrieved by a decision. Many statutes confer a right of appeal upon a "persons aggrieved", but it is often far from clear what the legislature means when it uses this phrase (see the judgment of SALMON, J., in Buxton v. Minister of Housing and Local Government, [1961] 1 Q.B. 278; [1960] 3 All E.R. 408 at p. 282; p. 411). The determination of the question involves a consideration of what is meant by the word "person" and by the word "aggrieved". By s. 19 of the Interpretation Act 1889, "the expression 'person' shall, unless the contrary intention appears, include any body of persons corporate or unincorporate". The Minister, in s. 3 (8) of the present Act, is clearly a "person", since a contrary intention appears from the Act, read as a whole, to use the phrase "sanitary authority" and no other to indicate that particular body (see R. v. London Quarter Sessions, Ex parte Westminster Corporation, [1951] 2 K.B. 508; [1951] 1 All E.R. 1032 (a case upon the meaning of the phrase "person aggrieved" in s. 65 of the London County Council (General Powers) Act 1947) and R. v. Dorset Quarter Sessions Appeal Committee, Ex parte Weymouth Corporation, [1960] 2 Q.B. 230; [1960] 2 All E.R. 410 (a case upon the meaning of that phrase in s. 23 (5) of the Town and Country Planning Act, 1947)). If this be so, the sanitary authority can in no circumstances appeal.

The meaning of the word "aggrieved" in similar enactments has many times been considered by the courts, and is discussed in Halsbury's Laws of England, 3rd Edn., Vol. 25, p. 293. In A.-G. of Gambia v. N'Jie, [1961] A.C. 617; [1961] 2 All E.R. 504, the Privy Council said (at p. 634; p. 511):

"The words 'person aggrieved' are of wide import and should not be subject to a restrictive interpretation. They do not include, of course, a mere busybody who is interfering in things which do not concern him, but they do include a person who has a genuine grievance because an order has been made which prejudicially affects his interests".

In this case, the court referred to a passage in the judgment of JAMES, L.J., in Re Sidebotham, Ex parte Sidebotham, (1880) 14 Ch. D. 458 at p. 465, which had until then been generally accepted as authoritatively defining the phrase (see, for example, per SALMON, J., in Buxton v. Minister of Housing, supra, at p. 285; pp. 412, 413). JAMES, L.J., had said:

"... the words 'person aggrieved' do not really mean a man who is disappointed of a benefit which he might have received if some other order had been made. A 'person aggrieved' must be a man who has suffered a legal grievance, a man against whom a decision has been pronounced which has wrongfully deprived him of something, or wrongfully refused him something, or wrongfully affected his title to something".

The Privy Council, however, in A.-G. of Gambia v. N'Jie, supra, at p. 634; pp. 510, 511, held that the definition of JAMES, L.J., was not to be regarded as exhaustive as, indeed, had been pointed out by Lord ESHER, M.R., in Re Reed, Bowen & Co., Ex parte Official Receiver, [1887] 19 Q.B.D. 174 at p. 178. What persons, then, can be said to have a genuine grievance because an order has been made which prejudicially affects their interests? Certainly, a person against whom an order for costs has been made is a "person aggrieved" (Jennings v. Kelly, [1939] 4 All E.R. 464, H.L.; R. v. Surrey Quarter Sessions, Ex parte Lilley, [1951] 2 K.B. 749; [1951] 2 All E.R. 659). However, a public body which has been frustrated in the performance of a public duty is not thereby a "person aggrieved" (Ealing Borough Council v. Jones, [1959] 1 Q.B. 384; [1959] 1 All E.R. 286); there must, it seems, be more than the mere variation or quashing of the notice, such as the throwing of a burden upon the authority or the Minister (R. v. Surrey Quarter Sessions, Ex parte Lilley, supra; R. v. Nottingham Quarter Sessions, Ex parte Harlow, [1952] 2 Q.B. 601; [1952] 2 All E.R. 78; R. v. Dorset Quarter Sessions Appeal Committee, Ex parte Weymouth Corporation, supra). In these circumstances, it is submitted that neither the authority nor the Minister is "aggrieved" if a notice under s. 3 of the present Act is quashed or varied without an adverse award of costs.

4. Power to require provision of sanitary conveniences by agricultural contractors.—(1) Regulations (a) may be made for requiring, in such circumstances as may be prescribed by the regulations, the provision, by the employer of workers employed in agriculture (b) on land which is not occupied by him, of such sanitary conveniences for the use of those workers as may be so prescribed.

(2) Regulations under this section may make different provision to meet different circumstances.

(3) A person who contravenes (c) any provision of regulations under this section shall be guilty of an offence (d).

(a) Regulations. No regulations have yet been made under this section.

(b) Workers employed in agriculture. For definitions, see s. 24 (1), post.

(d) Offence. See ss. 14 to 16, post.

5. Power of sanitary authority to secure maintenance and cleanliness of sanitary conveniences.—(1) If it appears to a sanitary authority (a) that a sanitary convenience (b) provided for the use of workers employed in agriculture (c) on an agricultural unit (d) within their district (being a convenience provided on the unit or provided in pursuance of regulations under the last foregoing section elsewhere) is not being properly maintained or is not being kept clean, they shall, by notice (e) to the occupier of the unit (or, where the convenience is provided in pursuance of such regulations as aforesaid, to the person who provided it) require him, as the case may be, to take, within such time as may be specified in the notice, such steps for the purpose of securing the proper maintenance of the convenience as may be so specified or to cleanse the convenience forthwith.

(2) A person who fails to comply with the requirements of a notice under this section shall be guilty of an offence (f):

Provided that, in any proceedings under this subsection for an offence consisting in a failure to comply with the requirements of a notice requiring the taking of steps for the purpose of securing the proper maintenance of a convenience, it shall be open to the defendant to question the reasonableness of the requirements of the notice.

(a) Sanitary authority. For definition, see s. 24 (1), post.

(b) Sanitary convenience. Sanitary authorities have power under s. 3 (1) to require the provision of suitable and sufficient sanitary conveniences, on agricultural units, for workers in agriculture, and under s. 4, ante, the appropriate Minister has power to make regulations requiring other persons employing workers in agriculture, e.g., agricultural contractors, to provide sanitary conveniences for their workers.

(c) Workers employed in agriculture. For definitions, see s. 24 (1), post.

(d) Agricultural unit. For definition, see s. 24 (1), post.

(e) Notice. The form and mode of service of notices are specified in s. 20, post.

(f) Offence. See ss. 14 to 16, post.

6. First aid.—(1) A worker employed in agriculture (a) shall not be employed to work on an agricultural unit (b) unless there is provided thereon a first aid box or cupboard which—

(a) contains first aid requisites and appliances of such descriptions and in such quantities as may be prescribed by regulations applicable to the part of Great Britain in which the unit is situate;

(b) contains no articles other than first aid requisites or appliances;

(c) is conspicuously marked on the outside with the words "First Aid"; and

(d) is accessible to him.

(2) Regulations (c) may be made for requiring the provision, at such places on an agricultural unit on which workers are employed in agriculture as may be prescribed by the regulations, and either at all times or at such times as may be so prescribed, of containers containing first-aid requisites and appliances of such descriptions and in such quantities as may be so prescribed, being containers complying with such requirements (if any) as may be so prescribed with respect to the form thereof and the marking thereof for the purpose of indicating the nature of the contents thereof, but nothing in any such regulation shall be construed as derogating from subsection (1) of this section.

(3) Regulations under this section may make different provision to meet different circumstances.

(4) In the event of a contravention (d) of the provisions of subsection (1) of this section in the case of a worker, his employer shall be guilty of an offence, and a person who contravenes any provision of regulations under subsection (2) of this section shall be guilty of an offence (e).

(a) Worker employed in agriculture. For definitions, see s. 24 (1), post.

(b) Agricultural unit. For definition, see s. 24 (1), post.

(c) Regulations. See the Agriculture (First Aid) Regulations 1957 (S.I. 1957 No. 940), which are set out at pp. 425 et seq., post.

(d) Contravention. A contravention of any provision includes a failure to comply with that provision (s. 24 (2), post).

(e) Offence. See ss. 14 to 16, post.

Measures for Avoiding Accidents to Children

7. Power to prohibit children from riding on or driving vehicles, machinery or implements used in agriculture.

—(1) Regulations (a) may be made for prohibiting children who have not attained the age (b) at which their employment ceases to be prohibited under paragraph (a) of subsection (1) of section eighteen of the Children and Young Persons Act 1933 (c), from riding on or driving vehicles or machines of prescribed classes while the vehicles or machines are being used in the course of agricultural (d) operations or are going to or from the site of such operations or from riding on agricultural implements of prescribed classes while the implements are being towed or propelled (whether by vehicles, machines or animals).

(2) A prohibition imposed by regulations under this section may be absolute or may be limited by reference to particular circumstances, and in this section the expression "prescribed" means prescribed by regulations thereunder.

(3) A person who causes or permits a child, in contravention (e) of the provisions of regulations under this section, to ride on or drive a vehicle or machine or, as the case may be, to ride on an agricultural implement, shall be guilty of an offence (f).

General note. For the law relating to the employment of children, see Halsbury's Laws of England, 3rd Edn., Vol. 21, pp. 299 et seq.

(a) Regulations. See the Agriculture (Avoidance of Accidents to Children) Regulations 1958 (S.I. 1958 No. 366), which are set out at pp. 436 et seq., post.

(b) Age. The age in question is thirteen years. A person attains a given age on the day preceding the appropriate anniversary of his birth; see Re Shurey, Savory v. Shurey, [1918] 1 Ch. 263.

(c) Children and Young Persons Act 1933, s. 18 (1) (a). In the case of Scotland, the reference is to s. 28 of the Children and Young Persons (Scotland) Act, 1937; see s. 25 (7), post.

(d) Agricultural. For definition, see s. 24 (1), post.

(e) Contravention. A contravention of any provision includes a failure to comply with that provision (s. 24 (2), post).

(f) Offence. See ss. 14 to 16, post.

Notification and Investigation of Accidents and Diseases

8. Notification of, and keeping of records as to, accidents and diseases.—(1) Regulations (a) may be made for requiring—

- (a) the notification, to such person and in such form and manner as may be prescribed by the regulations, of the occurrence, in the course of agricultural (b) operations, of accidents of such classes as may be so prescribed and of the contraction by persons engaged in agriculture (b) (whether as workers or not) of such diseases as may be so prescribed;
- (b) the keeping, by an employer of workers employed in agriculture (c), of records (d) of the occurrence, in the course of agricultural operations, of accidents of such classes as may be prescribed by the regulations, being accidents whereby bodily injury is caused to workers so employed by that employer, and of the contraction by workers so employed by that employer of such diseases as may be so prescribed (whether or not notice of the occurrence of accidents of those classes or, as the case may be, the contraction by persons of those diseases is required to be given by virtue of the foregoing paragraph);

and any such regulations may include provision for requiring a notice or record to be given or made in pursuance of the regulations to be accompanied by or, as the case may be, to include such particulars with respect to the matter notified or recorded as may be prescribed by the regulations.

(2) A person who contravenes (e) any provision of regulations under this section shall be guilty of an offence (f);

Provided that, in any proceedings taken for a contravention of a provision of such regulations consisting in a failure to give notice or make a record of the occurrence of an accident or the contraction by a person of a disease, it shall be a defence for the person charged to prove (g) that he was not aware that the accident had occurred or, as the case may be, that the first-mentioned person had contracted the disease.

General note. For the provisions of the Factories Act 1961 relating to the keeping of an accident register, see ibid., s. 140 and Redgrave's Factories Acts, 20th Edn., pp. 357 et seq. For the provisions relating to the notification of accidents under that Act, see ibid., s. 80 and op. cit., pp. 201 et seq. By ibid., s. 81 there is power to extend to dangerous occurrences provisions as to notice of accidents, and by ibid., s. 82 (3) notice of certain cases of poisoning or anthrax occurring in a factory must be given. For the non-application of the Factories Act 1961, to farming, see note (a) to s. 19, post.

(a) Regulations. No regulations have yet been made under this section.

(c) Workers employed in agriculture. For definitions, see s. 24 (1), post.

(d) Records. An inspector has the power to require the production of, and to inspect, examine and copy records, etc., kept in pursuance of regulations made under this Act; see s. 10 (3) (a), post. Wilfully to make a false entry in a register, etc., or wilfully to make use of such an entry, is an offence; see s. 12, post.

(e) Contravenes. A contravention of any provision includes a failure to comply with that provision (s. 24 (2), post).

(f) Offence. See ss. 14 to 16, post.

(g) Prove. This proviso expresses what otherwise would be implied: see Nichols v. Hall (1873), L.R. 8 C.P. 322; Harding v. Price, [1948] 1 K.B. 695; [1948] 1 All E.R. 283. The defendant must affirmatively prove lack of knowledge, but the burden resting upon him is lighter than that which rests upon the prosecution, since he discharges it if he proves the relevant matters on an even balance of probabilities (R. v. Carr-Briant, [1943] 2 All E.R. 156; [1943] K.B. 607).

9. Inquest in case of death by accident.—(1) Where a coroner (a) holds an inquest (b) on the body of a person whose death may have been caused by an accident occurring in the course of agricultural (c) operations, the coroner shall adjourn the inquest unless an inspector (d) or some other person on behalf of the appropriate Minister (e) is present to watch the proceedings, and shall, at least four days before holding the adjourned inquest, give to an inspector notice (f) of the time and place of holding the adjourned inquest:

Provided that—

- (a) the coroner, before the adjournment, may take evidence to identify the body and may order the interment (g) thereof; and
- (b) if the inquest relates to the death of not more than one person, the coroner shall not be bound to adjourn the inquest in pursuance of this section if, not less than twenty-four hours before it is held, he informed an inspector of the time and place of the holding thereof.

(2) Where evidence is given at any such inquest at which an inspector is not present of any neglect as having caused or contributed to the accident, or of any defect in any building, structure, machinery, plant, equipment or appliance appearing to the coroner or jury (h) to require a remedy, the coroner shall give to an inspector notice (f) of the neglect or defect.

(a) Coroner. For the appointment and powers of coroners, see the Coroners Acts 1887 to 1954, and Halsbury's Laws of England (3rd Edn.) Vol. 8, pp. 459 et seq.

(b) Inquest. The holding of and procedure at coroners' inquests is governed by the Coroners Rules, 1953 (S.I. 1953 No. 205), as amended.

It may be noted that this section does not contain provisions such as those in the Factories Act 1961, s. 83 (2) (b) (see Redgrave's Factories Acts, 20th Edn., pp. 208 et seq.), which entitle an inspector, any relation of the deceased, the occupier of a factory, or a person appointed in writing by the majority of the workers at the factory, by a trade union or a friendly society to which the deceased belonged, or by an employers' association to question any witness, either personally or by counsel or solicitor, subject to the coroner's powers to disallow any improper question.

(c) Agriculture. For definition, see s. 24 (1), post.

(d) Inspector. For definition, see s. 241 (1), post.

(f) Notice. For the form, and mode of service of notices, see s. 20, post.

(g) Interment. A body must not be disposed of before a certificate of the registrar of births, deaths and marriages or an order of the coroner has been delivered to the person affecting the disposal; see the Births and Deaths Registration Act 1926, s. 1 (1) and the Births and Deaths Registration Act, 1953, s. 43 (1) and First Schedule, para. 2.

(h) Jury. If a death was caused by an accident, poisoning or disease, notice of which must be given to a government department or to any inspector or other officer of a government department, a coroner cannot sit without a jury; see the Coroners (Amendment) Act, 1926, s. 13 (2) (c).

This section does not contain provisions such as those of the Factories Act 1961, s. 83 (2) (a), which prohibit any person having a personal interest in or employed in or about or in the management of any factory in which the accident took place from serving on the jury. By rule 26 of the Coroners' Rules 1953 (S.I. 1953 No. 205), as amended, the proceedings and evidence at an inquest must be directed solely to ascertaining "(a) who the deceased was; (b) how, when and where the deceased came by his death; (c) the persons, if any, to be charged with murder, manslaughter, or infanticide, or of being accessory before the fact should the jury find that the deceased came by his death by murder, manslaughter or infanticide; and (d) the particulars for the time being required by the Registration Acts to be registered concerning the death" (see now the Births and Deaths Registration Act 1953, s. 15). By rule 27, "Neither the Coroner nor the jury shall express any opinion on any matters other than those referred to in the last foregoing Rule: Provided that nothing in this Rule shall preclude the coroner or the jury from making a recommendation designed to prevent the recurrence of fatalities similar to that in respect of which the inquest is being held". By rule 33, "No verdict shall be framed in such a way as to appear to determine any question of civil liability". By rule 34, "The coroner shall not record any rider unless the rider is, in the opinion of the coroner, designed to prevent the recurrence of fatalities similar to that in respect of which the inquest is being held".

Supplementary Provisions

10. Appointment of inspectors and their powers.—

(2) An inspector may, for the purpose of the execution of this Act or regulations thereunder and on producing, if so required, some duly authenticated document showing his appointment, enter at all reasonable hours any land which is being used for agriculture (c) or which he has reasonable cause to believe (d) to be such land as aforesaid:

Provided that admission shall not be demanded under this subsection to a dwelling-house unless twenty-four hours' notice (e) of the intended entry has been given to the occupier of the house.

(3) An inspector shall have power to do all or any of the following things for the purpose of the execution of this Act or regulations thereunder, that is to say:—

- (a) to require the production of, and to inspect, examine and copy, registers, records or other documents kept in pursuance of regulations under this Act;
- (b) to make such examinations and inquiries as may be necessary to ascertain whether the provisions of this Act and of regulations thereunder are complied with and, in particular, for that purpose to require any person whom he finds on such land as is mentioned in subsection (2) of this section or whom he has reasonable cause to believe to be, or to have been within the preceding two months, employed to work (f) thereon to answer such questions as the inspector thinks fit to ask, so, however, that no one shall be required under this provision to answer any question tending to criminate himself (g);
- (c) to require any person whom he finds on such land as is mentioned in subsection (2) of this section to give such information as it is in his power to give as to who is the occupier thereof or the employer of workers employed to work thereon.

(4) Where an inspector believes that an offence under this Act has been committed and proposes, in exercise of the powers conferred by paragraph (b) of the last foregoing subsection, to ask questions of a person for the purpose of verifying the inspector's belief or of ascertaining particulars of the offence, it shall be his duty, before asking the questions, to inform that person of his right to refuse to answer a question tending to criminate him (g).

(5) A person who—

(a) fails to comply with any requirement imposed by an inspector under this section; or

(b) in purported compliance with a requirement so imposed to answer any question or give any information makes a statement which he knows to be false in a material particular or recklessly makes a statement which is false in a material particular; or

(c) prevents, or attempts to prevent, any other person from appearing before an inspector or from answering any question to which an inspector may, by virtue of this section, require an answer; or

(d) obstructs an inspector in the exercise or performance of his powers or duties; shall be guilty of an offence (h).

(a) Appropriate Minister. For definition, see s. 24 (1), post.

(b) Inspectors. The term "inspector" is defined by s. 24 (1), post, to mean an inspector appointed under the Act. The inspectorate is drawn from the staffs of the agricultural committees, who carry out inspections under the Agricultural Wages Act 1948 and the Agriculture (Poisonous Substances) Act 1952, ante; see the General Note to s. 3 of that Act at p. 357, ante.

(h) Offence. See ss. 14 to 16, post.

11. Inspections by sanitary authority.—(1) A person duly authorised in writing by a sanitary authority (a) may, on producing, if so required, evidence of his authority, enter at all reasonable hours any land for the purpose of determining

(a) whether, and if so, in what manner, the power conferred by subsection (1) of section three (b) of this Act is to be exercised as respects that land or whether there has been a failure to comply, as respects that land, with the requirements of a notice under that subsection; or

- (b) whether, and if so, in what manner, the power conferred by section five (c) of this Act is to be exercised as respects a sanitary convenience on that land, or whether there has been a failure to comply, as respects a sanitary convenience on that land, with the requirements of a notice under that section:

Provided that admission shall not be demanded under this subsection to a dwelling-house unless twenty-four hours' notice (d) of the intended entry has been given to the occupier of the house.

(2) A person who obstructs a person acting in the exercise of his powers under this section shall be guilty of an offence (e).

(a) Sanitary authority. For definition, see s. 24 (1), post.

(b) Section 3 (1). This confers power to require the provision of sanitary conveniences for workers.

(c) Section 5. This confers power to secure the maintenance and cleanliness of sanitary conveniences.

(d) Notice. For the form, and mode of service of notices, see s. 20, post.

(e) Offence. See ss. 14 to 16, post.

12. Falsification of records, &c.—A person who wilfully makes a false entry in a register, record, return (a) or other document kept or furnished in pursuance of regulations under this Act, or wilfully makes use of such a false entry, shall be guilty of an offence (b).

(a) Register . . . return. Provision is made by s. 8, ante, for the making of regulations in connection with the notification of, and keeping of records as to, accidents and diseases.

(b) Offence. See ss. 14 to 16, post.

13. Duties of employees.—(1) A worker employed in agriculture (a) who wilfully interferes with, or misuses, any equipment, appliance, facilities or other thing provided in pursuance of this Act or regulations thereunder shall be guilty of an offence (b).

(2) Nothing in this section shall be taken as limiting the power conferred by section one of this Act to make by regulations any such provision as is therein mentioned, including further provision as to matters which are the subject of this section.

General note. See the General Note to s. 2 of the Agriculture (Poisonous Substances) Act 1952, at p. 352, ante.

(a) Worker . . . agriculture. For definitions, see s. 24 (1), post.

(b) Offence. See ss. 14 to 16, post.

14. Punishment of offences.—(1) A person (a) guilty of an offence (b) under this Act shall be liable, on summary conviction (c), to a fine not exceeding fifty pounds.

(2) Where a contravention (d) of a provision of regulations under this Act consists in a failure to do anything at or within a time specified in the regulations, and the regulations provide that this subsection shall apply to a failure so to do it, the contravention shall be deemed to continue until that thing is done.

(3) Where an offence (b) under this Act which has been committed by a body corporate is proved to have been committed with the consent or connivance (e) of, or to be attributable to any neglect on the part of, any director, manager, secretary or other similar officer of the body corporate, or any person purporting to act in any such capacity, he as well as the body corporate shall be deemed to be guilty of that offence and shall be liable to be proceeded against and punished accordingly.

In this subsection, the expression “director”, in relation to any body corporate which is established by or under any enactment for the purpose of carrying on under national ownership any industry or part of an industry or undertaking and whose affairs are managed by the members thereof, means a member of that body.

(a) Person. By s. 19 of the Interpretation Act 1889, “the expression ‘person’ shall, unless the contrary intention appears, include any body of persons corporate or unincorporate.”

(b) Offence. See, further, ss. 15 and 16, post.

(c) Summary conviction. See, generally, as to summary conviction and procedure the Magistrates’ Courts Act 1952, the Magistrates’ Courts Act 1957, the Magistrates’ Courts Rules 1952 (S.I. 1952 No. 2190) and Halsbury’s Laws of England (3rd Edn.), Vol. 25, pp. 99 et seq.

(d) Contravention. A contravention of any provision includes a failure to comply with that provision (s. 24 (2), post).

(e) Connivance. There is no direct authority on the construction of this term as used in the present context and in other similar statutory provisions. It is submitted, however, that the expression "connivance" so used connotes a specific mental state not amounting to actual consent to the act or default in question, concomitant with a failure to prevent that act or default. The mental state referred to is that which is sometimes termed "wilful blindness", that is to say, an intentional shutting of the eyes to events of which in his own interests the percipient would prefer to remain unaware. This construction of the expression "connivance" accords both with its philology (the derivation is from the Latin "connivere", literally "to wink" and figuratively "to wink at") and with the use made of it by the courts in expounding the common law aspects of the concept of mens rea (see Roper v. Taylor's Central Garages (Exeter), [1951] 2 T.L.R. 284, D.C.). It accords also with the construction of the same word in s. 4 (2) (b) of the Matrimonial Causes Act 1950 (see Gipps v. Gipps (1864), 11 H.L. Cas. 1, per Lord WESTBURY at p. 14; Manning v. Manning, [1950] 1 All E.R. 602, C.A.).

15. Penalty on persons actually committing offences for which others are liable.—Where a contravention (a) of a provision of this Act or of regulations thereunder for which a person is, by virtue of the last foregoing section, liable on conviction to a penalty was due to an act or default (b) of another person, then, whether proceedings are or are not taken against the first-mentioned person, that other person may be charged with, and convicted of, the contravention, and shall, on conviction, be liable to the same punishment (c) as that to which the first-mentioned person is, on conviction, liable.

General note. This section provides that a person whose act or default caused a contravention of the Act or regulations for which another is liable may himself be charged with and convicted of the contravention. This is a "short-circuit" procedure, as compared with the "third-party" procedure used in (e.g.) s. 5 (1), (2) of the Agriculture (Poisonous Substances) Act 1952, p. 360, ante, and in s. 161 of the Factories Act 1961. In this respect it resembles s. 5 (3) of the Agriculture (Poisonous Substances) Act 1952, p. 360, ante, and s. 66 of the Offices, Shops and Railway Premises Act 1963, p. 163, ante.

(a) Contravention. A contravention of any provision includes a failure to comply with that provision (s. 24 (2), post).

(b) Act or default. See the note to s. 5 of the Agriculture (Poisonous Substances) Act 1952, ante. In view of s. 16, post, the only consequence of interpreting the words "act or default" as excluding negligence is to place the burden of proving diligence upon the person charged. It is further submitted that if an offence requires mens rea (e.g., wilfulness) then the act or default relied on must be wrongful in the sense that it is accompanied by the mens rea appropriate to the offence concerned. If this were not so, then (e.g.) an innocent agent who made a false entry under s. 12 at the dictation of another who knew of the falsity (and who, therefore, "wilfully made a false entry") would be chargeable equally with his principal, and the necessity for mens rea in s. 12 would be circumvented.

(c) Same punishment. That is to say, a fine not exceeding fifty pounds; see s. 14 (1), ante.

16. Defence available to persons charged with offences.

—It shall be a defence (a) for a person (b) charged with a contravention (c) of a provision of this Act or of regulations thereunder to prove (d) that he used all due diligence (e) to secure compliance with that provision.

General note. There is no similar provision in the Agriculture (Poisonous Substances) Act 1952, p. 348, ante, or in the Factories Act 1961, but an identical provision is to be found in s. 67 of the Offices, Shops and Railway Premises Act 1963, p. 164, ante.

(a) Defence. The section is only concerned with criminal liability and does not provide a defence to a civil action: Yelland v. Powell Duffryn Associated Collieries, Ltd., [1941] 1 K.B. 154; [1941] 1 All E.R. 278, C.A.; Potts (or Riddell) v. Reid, [1943] A.C. 1; [1942] 2 All E.R. 161, H.L. and Gallagher v. Dorman, Long & Co., Ltd., [1947] 2 All E.R. 38, C.A.

(b) Person. See note (a) to s. 14, p. 410, ante.

(c) Contravention. A contravention of any provision includes a failure to comply with that provision (s. 24 (2), post).

(d) Prove. The burden of proof laid on the defendant is less onerous than that resting on the prosecutor as regards proving the offence, and may be discharged by satisfying the court of the probability of what the defendant is called on to prove; see R. v. Carr-Briant, [1943] K.B. 607; [1943] 2 All E.R. 156, C.C.A., and R. v. Dunbar, [1958] 1 Q.B. 1; [1957] 3 All E.R. 737, C.C.A.

(e) Due diligence. Whether the defendant has or has not used all due diligence is a question of fact, but on a case stated the High Court will interfere if there was no evidence to support a finding on this point; see R. C. Hammett, Ltd. v. Crabb (1931), 145 L.T. 638.

17. Provisions as to exercise of regulation-making powers.—(1) Regulations under any provision of this Act may be either regulations applying to Great Britain (a) and made by the Minister of Agriculture, Fisheries and Food and the Secretary of State (b) jointly, or regulations applying to England and Wales (c) only and made by the said Minister, or regulations applying to Scotland only and made by the Secretary of State.

(2) When the Minister of Agriculture, Fisheries and Food and the Secretary of State, or either of them, propose or proposes to make regulations under this Act, they or he shall, before making the regulations, consult (d) with such organisations as appear to them or him to represent the interests concerned.

(3) The powers conferred by this Act to make regulations shall be exercisable by statutory instrument (e).

(4) No regulations shall be made under section one of this Act unless a draft thereof has been laid before Parliament and approved by resolution of each House of Parliament (f).

(5) A statutory instrument containing regulations made under any provision of this Act (other than section one) shall be subject to annulment in pursuance of a resolution of either House of Parliament.

(a) Great Britain. For the meaning of this term, see note (e) to s. 1 of the Agriculture (Poisonous Substances) Act 1952, p. 351, ante.

(b) Secretary of State. That is to say, one of Her Majesty's Principal Secretaries of State for the time being; see the Interpretation Act 1889, s. 12 (3).

(c) England and Wales. The town of Berwick upon Tweed is included; see the Wales and Berwick Act 1746, s. 3.

(d) Consult. On what constitutes consultation, see especially Rollo v. Minister of Town and Country Planning, [1948] 1 All E.R. 13, C.A., and Re Union of Whippingham and East Cowes Benefices, Derham v. Church Comrs. of England, [1954] A.C. 245; [1954] 2 All E.R. 22, P.C.

(e) Statutory instrument. For provisions as to statutory instruments generally, see the Statutory Instruments Act 1946 (36 Statutes Supp. 95). For provisions as to annulment, see ss. 5 (1) and 7 (1) of that Act; and see also the Laying of Documents before Parliament (Interpretation) Act 1948.

(f) Approved . . . Parliament. Compare s. 1 (7) of the Agriculture (Poisonous Substances) Act 1952, ante. Whereas that subsection provides that all regulations made under that Act are effective unless annulled in pursuance of a resolution of either House of Parliament, this subsection provides that, in so far as regulations made under s. 1 of this Act, ante, are concerned they shall not be effective until a draft has been laid before Parliament and they have been approved by a resolution of both Houses. In so far as regulations made under any section of this Act other than s. 1, ante, are concerned, they are, by virtue of sub-s. (5), supra, effective unless annulled by a resolution of either House of Parliament.

18. Power to extend Act to certain persons employed otherwise than in agriculture.—(1) This Act may by order be extended (subject to such exceptions, adaptations and modifications, if any, as may be specified in the order) to such class of persons employed otherwise than in agriculture as may be so specified, being a class of persons whose work is done in conditions appearing to the authority by whom the order is made to be similar to those in which the work of persons employed in agriculture is done.

(2) An order under this section may be either one extending this Act in its application to Great Britain (a) and made by the Minister of Agriculture, Fisheries and Food and the Secretary of State (b) jointly, or one extending this Act in its application to England and Wales (c) only and made by the said Minister, or one extending this Act in its application to Scotland only and made by the Secretary of State.

(3) An order under this section may be varied or revoked by a subsequent order thereunder made by the authority who made the original order.

(4) The powers conferred by this section shall be exercisable by statutory instrument (d) and no order shall be made under this section unless a draft thereof has been laid before Parliament and has been approved by resolution of each House of Parliament (e).

(a) Great Britain. For the meaning of this term, see note (e) to s. 1 of the Agriculture (Poisonous Substances) Act 1952, p. 351, ante.

(b) Secretary of State. See note (b) to s. 17, ante.

(c) England and Wales. See note (c) to s. 17, ante.

(d) Statutory instrument. See note (e) to s. 17, ante.

(e) Approved . . . Parliament. See note (f) to s. 17, ante.

19. Power to exclude operation of provisions of the Factories Acts 1937 and 1948.—(1) Provision may be made by order for directing that such of the provisions of the Factories Acts 1937 and 1948 (a) as may be specified in the order shall not apply, or shall not apply to such extent as may be so specified, to—

- (a) any premises occupied for agricultural (b) purposes;
- (b) any premises whereon there is carried on work in which are employed persons of a class to which this Act extends by virtue of an order under the last foregoing section.

(2) An order under this section may be either one relating to premises in any part of Great Britain (c) and made by the Minister of Agriculture, Fisheries and Food, the Secretary of State (d) and the Minister of Labour and National Service jointly, or one relating to premises in England and Wales (e) only and made by the Minister of Agriculture, Fisheries and Food and the Minister of Labour and National Service jointly or one relating to premises in Scotland only and made by the Secretary of State and the Minister of Labour and National Service jointly.

(3) An order under this section may be varied or revoked by a subsequent order thereunder made by the authority who made the original order.

(4) The powers conferred by this section shall be exercisable by statutory instrument (f) and no order shall be made under this section unless a draft thereof has been laid before Parliament and has been approved by resolution of each House of Parliament (g).

(a) Factories Acts 1937 and 1948. These Acts were repealed and replaced by the Factories Act 1961, which is expounded in Redgrave's Factories Acts (20th Edn.). The Factories Act 1961, does not cover farming (per SOMERVELL, L.J., in Hendon Corporation v. Stanger, [1948] 1 All E.R. 377, at p. 380, so interpreting Nash v. Hollinshead, [1901] 1 K.B. 700). The power to make an order under sub-s. (1) (a) would therefore appear necessary only if Nash v. Hollinshead (which was decided by the Court of Appeal) were overruled by the House of Lords.

(b) Agricultural. For definition, see s. 24 (1), post.

(c) Great Britain. For the meaning of this term, see note (e) to s. 1 of the Agriculture (Poisonous Substances) Act 1952, ante.

(d) Secretary of State. See note (b) to s. 17, ante.

(e) England and Wales. See note (c) to s. 17, ante.

(f) Statutory instrument. See note (e) to s. 17, ante.

(g) Approved . . . Parliament. See note (f) to s. 17, ante.

20. Form, and mode of service, of notices.—A notice under this Act must be in writing (a) and may be served on the person to whom it is to be given either by delivering it to him or by sending it by post (b) addressed to him at his usual or last known place of abode (c).

(a) Writing. This includes printing, lithography, photography and other modes of representing and reproducing words in a visible form; see the Interpretation Act 1889, s. 20.

(b) Sending it by post. Service is deemed to be effected if a letter containing the document is properly addressed, prepaid and posted, and, unless the contrary is proved, it is deemed to have been effected at the time when the letter would have been delivered in the ordinary course of post; see the Interpretation Act 1889, s. 26 (24 Halsbury's Statutes (2nd Edn.) 224). In Sandland v. Neale, [1956] 1 Q.B. 241; [1955] 3 All E.R. 571, it was held that a notice sent by registered post to the defendant's residence, where his wife was residing, was properly addressed even though it was known that he was in hospital as the result of an accident; but in R. v. Appeal Committee of County of London Quarter Sessions, Ex parte Rossi, [1956] 1 Q.B. 682; [1956] 1 All E.R. 670, C.A.; which was followed in Beer v. Davies, [1958] 2 Q.B. 187; [1958] 2 All E.R. 255, it was held that a notice sent in a registered letter, which was returned to the sender undelivered, had not been properly served. There must be a delivery accepted by the person to be served or by someone authorised to accept the delivery of letters on his behalf: Layton v. Shires, [1958] 2 Q.B. 294; [1959] 3 All E.R. 587; Hosier v. Goodall, [1962] 2 Q.B. 401; [1962] 1 All E.R. 30.

(c) Place of abode. A place of business is a "place of abode"; see Mason v. Bibby (1864), 2 H. & C. 881, per POLLOCK, C.B., at p. 888; but a man may have two "places of abode", one where he abides by night and another where he abides by day; see per MARTIN, B., in the same case, at p. 888.

21. Annual reports.—(1) The Minister of Agriculture, Fisheries and Food shall make an annual report to Parliament of his proceedings under this Act.

(2) The Secretary of State (a) shall include in the annual report made in pursuance of subsection (2) of section four of the Small Landholders (Scotland) Act 1911, a report of his proceedings under this Act.

(a) Secretary of State. See note (b) to s. 17, ante.

22. Application to the Crown.—Sections one, two and six of this Act and regulations under any of those sections shall, in so far as they impose duties failure to comply with which might give rise to a liability in tort, be binding upon the Crown.

General note. The Crown is not amenable to criminal proceedings, but this section, together with the Crown Proceedings Act 1947, s. 2 (2), makes the Crown civilly liable for breach of a duty imposed by ss. 1, 2 and 6, ante, and by regulations under those sections, to the same extent as a private individual of full age and capacity. For proceedings against the Crown generally, see Halsbury's Laws of England, 3rd Edn., Vol. 11, pp. 8 et seq.

23. Expenses.—Any expenses incurred by the Minister of Agriculture, Fisheries and Food or the Secretary of State in carrying out this Act shall be defrayed out of moneys provided by Parliament.

24. Interpretation.—(1) In this Act, unless the context otherwise requires, the following expressions have the meanings hereby assigned to them respectively, that is to say:—

“agriculture” includes dairy-farming, the production of any consumable produce which is grown for sale or for consumption or other use for the purposes of a trade or business or of any other undertaking (whether carried on for profit or not), and the use of land as grazing, meadow or pasture land or orchard or osier land or woodland or for market gardens or nursery grounds, and “agricultural” shall be construed accordingly (a);

“agricultural holding” (b), “fixed equipment” (c) and “landlord” (d) have the same meanings as in the Agricultural Holdings Act 1948;

“agricultural unit” means land which is occupied as a unit for agricultural purposes (a);

“the appropriate Minister” means, for the purposes of the application of this Act or regulations thereunder to England and Wales, the Minister of Agriculture, Fisheries and Food, and, for the purposes of the application of this Act or regulations thereunder to Scotland, the Secretary of State (e);

“consumable produce” means produce grown for consumption or for other use after severance from the land on which it is grown;

“inspector” (f) means an inspector appointed under this Act;

“sanitary authority” means, save as respects the administrative county of London (g), the council of a borough or urban or rural district and, as respects the administrative county of London, a sanitary authority for the purposes of the Public Health (London) Act 1936 (h);

“worker” means a person employed under a contract of service (i) or apprenticeship and “employer” and “employed” have corresponding meanings;

“young person” means a person who is over compulsory school age for the purposes of the Education Act 1944, but has not attained the age of eighteen (j).

(2) Any reference in this Act to a contravention of any provision shall include a reference to a failure to comply with that provision.

(3) For the purposes of this Act an agricultural unit which is situate within the districts of two or more sanitary authorities shall be deemed to be wholly situate within the district of that one of them within whose district the greater or, as the case may be, the greatest part of the unit is situate.

(4) Any reference in this Act to any other enactment shall be construed as a reference to that enactment as amended by any subsequent enactment.

(a) Agriculture; agricultural unit. The definitions in this section are not identical with those in s. 109 (2), (3) of the Agriculture Act 1947, nor with those in s. 94 (1) of the Agricultural Holdings Act 1948.

(b) Agricultural holding. This expression is defined in ss. 94 (1) and 1 (1) of the Agricultural Holdings Act 1948. By s. 1 (1) of that Act “the expression ‘agricultural holding’ means the aggregate of the agricultural land comprised in a contract of tenancy, not being a contract under which the said land is let to the tenant during his continuance in any office, appointment or employment held under the landlord”.

(c) Fixed equipment. See s. 94 (1) of the Agricultural Holdings Act, 1948, which provides: “‘fixed equipment’ includes any building or structure affixed to land and any works on, in, over or under land, and also includes anything grown on land for a purpose other than use after severance from the land, consumption of the thing grown or of produce thereof, or amenity, and any reference to fixed equipment on land shall be construed accordingly”.

(d) Landlord. See s. 94 (1) of the Agricultural Holdings Act 1948, which provides: “‘landlord’ means any person for the time being entitled to receive the rents and profits of any land”.

(e) Secretary of State. See note (b) to s. 17, ante.

(f) Inspector. For the appointment of inspectors and for their powers, see s. 10, ante.

(g) Administrative County of London. This was abolished by s. 3 (1) (b) of the London Government Act 1963, and by ibid., s. 4 (4), references in existing enactments to the Administrative County of London have effect as references to Greater London other than the outer London boroughs.

(h) Public Health (London) Act 1936. By s. 1 (2) of the Public Health (London) Act 1936: "without prejudice to the provisions of this Act relating to the port health authority, the sanitary authorities for the purposes of this Act shall be—(a) as respects the city, the common council, (b) as respects the Inner Temple and the Middle Temple, the respective overseers thereof, and (c) as respects a borough, the council of the borough . . .".

(i) Worker . . . contract of service. This definition of the term "worker" requires examination in two respects. In the first place, a "worker" must be in contractual relations with his employer. In view of the statement in the Gowers Committee Report (Cmd. 7664), para. 123, that "two-thirds of the country's agricultural undertakings consist of small units where a substantial part of the necessary labour is supplied by the farmer himself and his family" it is clearly of importance to decide in any given case whether a person working on a farm is working under an arrangement which is enforceable in law as a contract, or whether he is not. For there to be a contract there must be consideration moving from the employer (which need not be a money consideration) and possibly also an intention on each side to create legal relations, although this latter requirement is the subject of controversy (see Halsbury's Laws of England, 3rd Edn., Vol. 8, p. 54). In the second place, the contract must be one of service, and not one for services. This is the distinction drawn, principally in the law of tort, between a servant and an independent contractor. The nature of the difference is generally said to reside in this, that a master has a right to control his servant in respect of the manner in which the work is to be done, whereas an employer contracts with his independent contractor for the doing of the work but must leave the mode of performance to the latter. There are indications that this traditional test is proving inadequate to modern conditions (see Salmond on Torts (13th Edn.), p. 115), but in the context of agricultural relations it would appear still to be a valid and useful test.

(j) Young person . . . eighteen. By s. 35 of the Education Act 1944 "a person shall be deemed to be over compulsory school age as soon as he has attained the age of fifteen years". The proviso to that section enables the Minister by Order in Council to raise to sixteen the upper limit of the compulsory school age. This has not yet been done.

25. Application to Scotland.—(1) The provisions of this section shall have effect for the application of this Act to Scotland.

(2) Any regulations under section one of this Act providing for imposing requirements with respect to the execution of works of the nature of fixed equipment shall provide for imposing such requirements in relation to any land being an agricultural holding on the landlord of the holding.

(3) For section three of this Act there shall be substituted the following section—

“3.—(1) If it appears (a) to a local authority that an agricultural unit in their district on which workers are employed in agriculture is without suitable and sufficient sanitary conveniences or washing facilities available for the use of workers so employed, the authority shall, by notice (b) served on the appropriate person (c), require him, within such time as may be specified in the notice, to execute such works or take such other steps for the purpose of providing the unit with suitable and sufficient sanitary conveniences or washing facilities, as the case may be, available for the use of workers employed thereon in agriculture as may be specified in the notice.

(2) In considering, for the purposes of this section, whether an agricultural unit is without suitable and sufficient sanitary conveniences or washing facilities available for the use of workers employed on the unit in agriculture, regard shall be had to the number and sex of the workers so employed, the location and duration of their work and to all other relevant circumstances.

(3) A local authority shall not serve a notice under this section requiring the execution of works of the nature of fixed equipment unless they are satisfied that special circumstances exist which render requisite the execution of such works, and no such notice shall be of any effect unless it states that the authority are so satisfied and what those circumstances are.

(4) For the purposes of this section the expression “appropriate person” means—

(a) in the case of a notice requiring the execution, on land being an agricultural holding, of works of the nature of fixed equipment, the landlord of the holding;

(b) in the case of a notice requiring the execution, on land in the occupation of the owner thereof, of works of the nature aforesaid, the owner of the land;

- (c) in the case of a notice requiring the execution of works other than works of the nature of fixed equipment, or the taking of other steps, the occupier of the unit to which the notice relates.

(5) Any person aggrieved by a notice under this section may appeal to the sheriff by giving notice of appeal within twenty-one days after the date of the service of the notice; and the sheriff may either confirm the notice or, if he is satisfied that the works required to be executed or the steps required to be taken are unnecessary or are unreasonable in character or extent, or are not reasonably practicable, or that the local authority have refused unreasonably to approve the execution of alternative works or the taking of alternative steps, or that for any other reason the notice should be disallowed or varied, may disallow the notice or may confirm the notice subject to the expenses of the appeal as he may think equitable.

The decision of the sheriff shall be final and shall be binding both on the authority and on the person on whom the notice is served.

(6) Subject to the right of appeal conferred by the last foregoing subsection and to any order made by the sheriff on such appeal, a person on whom a notice is served under this section who fails to comply with the requirements of the notice shall be guilty of an offence (d)."

(4) Where by virtue of any regulations made under section one of this Act or of a notice served under section three thereof any works of the nature of fixed equipment are required to be executed on any land being an agricultural holding, the provisions of subsections (2), (3) and (5) of section five of the Agricultural Holdings (Scotland) Act 1949 (which defines the respective liabilities of landlord and tenant for the provision and maintenance of fixed equipment) and section eighteen of that Act (which empowers the landlord of a holding to enter thereon for the purpose of providing fixed equipment) shall apply in relation to such works as aforesaid as they apply in relation to fixed equipment within the meaning of that Act.

(5) Where the landlord of an agricultural holding has executed thereon works of the nature of fixed equipment which are required to be executed as mentioned in the last foregoing subsection or has executed similar works at the request of, or in agreement with, the tenant, section eight of the Agricultural Holdings (Scotland) Act 1949 (which provides for increases of rent in respect of improvements carried out by the landlord) shall have effect as if the works so executed were such an improvement as is mentioned in subsection (1) of that section.

(6) For section five there shall be substituted the following section—

“(1) Any sanitary convenience and any washing facilities available for the use of workers employed on an agricultural unit in agriculture and any sanitary convenience provided in pursuance of regulations under section four of this Act shall be kept properly cleansed.

(2) In the event of a contravention of the provisions of this section in relation to a sanitary convenience provided in pursuance of regulations under the said section four, the employer by whom it was provided, and in any other case the occupier of the agricultural unit, shall be guilty of an offence” (d).

(7) In section seven for the reference to section eighteen of the Children and Young Persons Act 1933 there shall be substituted a reference to section twenty-eight of the Children and Young Persons (Scotland) Act 1937 (e).

(8) In section eleven for paragraph (b) of subsection (1) there shall be substituted the following paragraph—

“(b) whether there has been a failure to comply, as respects a sanitary convenience or any washing facilities on that land, with the requirements of section five of this Act”.

(9) For any reference to a sanitary authority there shall be substituted a reference to a local authority.

(10) In this Act the following expressions have the meanings hereby assigned to them respectively, that is to say—

“agricultural holding” (f), “fixed equipment” (g) and “landlord” (h) have the like meanings as in the Agricultural Holdings (Scotland) Act 1949;

“owner” (i) has the like meaning as in the Public Health (Scotland) Act 1897, and in the case of an agricultural unit occupied by a landholder within the meaning of the Small Landholders (Scotland) Acts 1886 to 1931, or a crofter within the meaning of the Crofters (Scotland) Act 1955, means that landholder or crofter;

“local authority” means a county or town council;

“tort” means delict or quasi-delict;

“worker” means a person employed under a contract of service or apprenticeship or a person employed in accordance with the provisions of Part III of the Children and Young Persons (Scotland) Act 1937 (j), and the Education (Exemptions) (Scotland) Act 1947 (k), and “employer” and “employed” have corresponding meanings;

“young person” means a person who is over school age (l) for the purposes of the Education (Scotland) Act 1946, but who has not attained the age of eighteen; and subsection (1) of section twenty-four shall have effect as if the definitions of “agricultural holding”, “fixed equipment”, “landlord”, “sanitary authority”, “worker” and “young person” were omitted.

(a) Appears. The local authority must have regard “to the number and sex of the workers so employed, the location and duration of their work and to all other relevant circumstances” (s. 3 (2), as modified).

(b) Notice. The form and mode of service are specified in s. 20, ante.

(c) Appropriate person. See s. 3 (4) as modified.

(d) Offence. For penalty, see s. 14 (1), ante.

(e) Children and Young Persons (Scotland) Act 1937. See note (j), p. 424, post.

(f) Agricultural holding. See s. 1 (1) of the Agricultural Holdings (Scotland) Act 1949, which provides: “the expression ‘agricultural holding’ means the aggregate of the agricultural land comprised in a lease, not being a lease under which the said land is let to the tenant during his continuance in any office, appointment or employment held under the landlord”.

(g) Fixed equipment. See s. 93 (1) of the Agricultural Holdings (Scotland) Act 1949, which provides: “‘fixed equipment’ includes any building or structure affixed to land and any works on, in, over or under land, and also includes anything grown on land for a purpose other than use after severance from the land, consumption of the thing grown or produce thereof, or amenity, and, without prejudice to the foregoing generality, includes the following things, that is to say—

- (a) all permanent buildings, including farm houses and farm cottages, necessary for the proper conduct of the agricultural holding;

(h) Landlord. See s. 93 (1) of the Agricultural Holdings (Scotland) Act 1949, which provides: “‘landlord’ means any person for the time being entitled to receive the rents and profits or to take possession of any agricultural holding, and includes the executor, administrator, assignee, heir-at-law, legatee, donee, next-of-kin, guardian, curator bonis or trustee in bankruptcy, of a landlord”.

(i) Owner. See s. 3 of the Public Health (Scotland) Act 1897, which provides: “The word ‘owner’ means the person for the time entitled to receive, or who would, if the same were let, be entitled to receive, the rents of the premises, and includes a trustee, factor, tutor, or curator, and in the case of a public or municipal property applies to the persons to whom the management thereof is entrusted”.

The meaning of the word “landholder” for the purposes of the Small Landholders (Scotland) Acts 1886 to 1931 is stated in s. 2 (2) of the Small Landholders (Scotland) Act 1911 to be: “every existing crofter, every existing yearly tenant, every qualified leaseholder, and every new holder, and the successors of every such person in the holding being his heirs or legatees”.

The meaning of the word “crofter” for the purposes of the Crofters (Scotland) Act 1955, is (by s. 3 (2)) “the tenant of a croft”. The word “croft” is defined in s. 3 (1) to mean:

(j) Children and Young Persons (Scotland) Act 1937, Part III. This Part places restrictions upon the employment of children (see ss. 28 to 37, as amended). The effect of s. 28 (1) (a) of the Act, as amended by the Education (Scotland) Act 1949 and the Children and Young Persons Act 1963, is to prohibit the employment of children under the age of fourteen.

(k) Education (Exemptions) (Scotland) Act 1947. This Act made temporary provision for the exemption of children from attendance at school to enable their employment in gathering the potato crop. It is no longer in force.

(l) Over school age. By s. 32 (1) of the Education (Scotland) Act 1946 a person is deemed to be over school age if he has attained the age of fifteen years, though this age may, by regulations under s. 32 (3) of that Act, be raised to sixteen, a power which has not yet been exercised.

26. Short title and extent.—(1) This Act may be cited as the Agriculture (Safety, Health and Welfare Provisions) Act 1956.

General note. These regulations give effect to the general provisions of s. 1 of the Agriculture (Safety, Health and Welfare Provisions) Act 1956, p. 391, ante, and to particular provisions of sub-s. (3) (f) thereof. A contravention of the regulations is, by s. 1 (6) of that Act, an offence, for which penalties are provided by s. 14 thereof. These regulations, which came into operation on 1st November 1957, are, in so far as they impose duties failure to comply with which might give rise to a liability in tort, binding upon the Crown; see s. 22 of the Act of 1956, ante.

1. Citation, extent and commencement.—These regulations, which may be cited as the Agriculture (Ladders) Regulations 1957 shall apply to Great Britain and shall come into operation three months after the making thereof.

Great Britain. For the meaning of this term, see note (e) to s. 1 of the Agriculture (Poisonous Substances) Act 1952, p. 351, ante.

2. Interpretation.—(1) In these regulations—

“agriculture”, “agricultural unit”, “worker”, “employer” and “employed” have the meanings respectively assigned to them, as respects England and Wales, by subsection (1) of section 24 of the Agriculture (Safety, Health and Welfare Provisions) Act 1956 and, as respects Scotland, by that subsection as applied by subsection (10) of section 25 of that Act;

“ladder” does not include a permanently fixed ladder, or a ladder made of rope or other non-rigid material, but save as aforesaid includes every kind of ladder (including steps and a trestle-ladder), whether made of wood, metal or other material;

“rung” means the rail or tread, serving as a step, set into the stiles of a ladder;

“steps” means a ladder (other than a trestle-ladder) provided with a means of self-support;

“stile” means the side-rail of a ladder into which the rungs are fitted;

“tie-rod” means a metal rod, extending through both stiles, which is so secured as to prevent the stiles moving apart;

“trestle-ladder” means a ladder made of two frames hinged together at the top, both being fitted with rungs.

(2) The Interpretation Act 1889 applies to the interpretation of these regulations as it applies to the interpretation of an Act of Parliament.

England and Wales. For the meaning of this term, see note (e) to s. 1 of the Agriculture (Poisonous Substances) Act 1952, p. 351, ante.

3. Obligations on employer only.—(1) The employer of a worker employed in agriculture shall not cause or permit to be used by any worker so employed, in the course of his employment, any ladder unless it is of good construction and sound material, and is properly maintained (a).

(2) Without prejudice to the generality of the foregoing paragraph a ladder shall not be regarded as complying therewith if—

- (a) where a ladder has wooden stiles or rungs, the grain thereof does not run lengthwise, or either stile or any rung contains any defect likely to weaken it which reasonable examination would disclose;
- (b) where a ladder has wooden stiles, any rung of the ladder is supported solely by nails or screws;
- (c) where a ladder has wooden rungs, the rungs are not fixed into the stiles by rabbet, notch or mortise, and (unless tie-rods are fitted not more than two feet from each end of the ladder and not more than eight feet apart throughout its length) are not through-tenoned and wedged in the stiles;
- (d) in the case of steps or a trestle-ladder, it is not fitted with a device that is effective, in the circumstances in which it is used, in preventing the back support from spreading;
- (e) (except in the case of a trestle-ladder) the distance between adjacent rungs exceeds twelve inches from centre to centre.

(a) Good construction . . . maintained. Compare the cognate provisions of s. 28 (5) of the Factories Act 1961 (as to which see Redgrave's Factories Acts, 20th Edn., pp. 86 et seq.), and of reg. 29 of the Building (Safety, Health and Welfare) Regulations 1948 (as to which see op. cit., pp. 502 et seq.). For "properly maintained", see note (d) to para. 5 of the Schedule to the Agriculture (Safeguarding of Workplaces) Regulations 1959, p. 452, post.

4. Obligations on both employer and worker.—(1) Subject to the provisions of this regulation the employer of a worker employed in agriculture shall not cause or permit to be used by any worker so employed, in the course of his employment, and a worker employed in agriculture shall not, in the course of his employment, use, any ladder if—

- (a) it is not strong enough for the purposes and manner of its use;

- (b) any rung is missing;
 - (c) it is not equally supported on each stile, and is not securely placed or held in position;
 - (d) the top of the ladder does not extend above any point at which it is necessary for the worker to get on or off the ladder.
- (2) Sub-paragraph (d) of paragraph (1) of this regulation shall not apply—
- (a) to steps and trestle-ladders; or
 - (b) if there is available to the worker, apart from the ladder itself, some means of secure hand-hold.

5. Reporting by workers of defects.—(1) If any ladder, with which a worker employed in agriculture is employed to work, develops a defect to which this regulation applies, any such worker employed to work with that ladder, on discovering that defect, shall forthwith report it to his employer.

- (2) The defects to which this regulation applies are—
- (a) the absence of any rung;
 - (b) the cracking or breaking of any wooden stile or rung; and
 - (c) in the case of steps or a trestle-ladder, the absence or breaking of any stop or cord with which such a ladder was designed to be operated.
- (3) Nothing in this regulation shall absolve an employer from compliance with regulation 3, or an employer or worker from compliance with regulation 4, of these regulations.

THE AGRICULTURE (POWER TAKE-OFF) REGULATIONS 1957

(S.I. 1957 No. 1386)

Dated 1st August 1957, made by the Minister of Agriculture, Fisheries and Food, and the Secretary of State for Scotland, acting jointly, under section 1 (1)–(5) of the Agriculture (Safety, Health and Welfare Provisions) Act 1956.

(a) Great Britain. For the meaning of this term, see note (e) to s. 1 of the Agriculture (Poisonous Substances) Act 1952, p. 351, ante.

2. Interpretation.—(1) In these regulations—

“Agriculture”, “agricultural unit”, “worker”, “employer” and “employed” have the meanings respectively assigned to them, as respects England and Wales (a) by subsection (1) of section 24 of the Agriculture (Safety, Health and Welfare Provisions) Act 1956, and, as respects

Scotland by that subsection as applied by subsection (10) of section 25 of that Act;

“power take-off shaft” means, as respects any machine, its shaft (including any couplings and clutches up to the first fixed bearing of the machine) intended for attachment to the power take-off of any tractor.

(2) Any vehicle having a splined shaft intended for transmitting power to any machine by means of the power take-off shaft of that machine shall be deemed to be a tractor for the purposes of these regulations.

(3) A tractor or machine is new for the purposes of these regulations if it has never been used since manufacture, or has only been used for test or demonstration.

(a) the entire length of the shaft, whilst in motion, is wholly enclosed in a guard so designed, and so attached to the machine, that it protects a worker from coming in contact, either directly or by means of his clothes, with any part of the power take-off shaft of that machine, or

(b) in the case of a machine which is not new on the coming into operation of this regulation, and in respect of which the distance between any part of its power take-off shaft and the ground does not exceed two feet, the entire length of the shaft, whilst in motion, is either wholly enclosed as aforesaid, or is partly enclosed in the manner described in paragraph (2) of this regulation.

(2) A power take-off shaft is partly enclosed for the purpose of sub-paragraph (b) of paragraph (1) of this regulation if the shaft is provided with a guard over its entire length on top and on both sides to a depth of at least two inches (measured at right angles to the shaft) below the lowest point of its circumference.

(3) Paragraph (1) of this regulation shall not apply to a machine that is so constructed and maintained as to afford no less protection against coming in contact with the power take-off shaft of the machine than would require to be afforded under the said paragraph (1):

Provided that where a machine is so constructed and maintained as to afford such measure of protection as aforesaid in respect of only a part of the power take-off shaft of the machine, the said paragraph (1) shall apply to that machine in respect of any part of the shaft as to which such protection is not so afforded.

(4) Every guard required by this regulation shall be substantially constructed, and shall be maintained (a) in good condition.

General note. This regulation came into force on 1st February 1959, save as provided by reg. 1 (b).

(3) (a) thereof in particular. They may be compared with the Woodworking Machinery Regulations 1922, which apply to factories and to certain other premises; see Redgrave's Factories Acts (20th Edn.) pp. 984 et seq.

Regulations 1, 2 and 6 came into force on the date that the regulations were made; regulations 3 and 4 in certain respects, and regulation 5, six months thereafter; and regulations 3 and 4 came fully into operation twelve months thereafter. A contravention of the regulations is, by s. 1 (6) of the Act of 1956, an offence, for which penalties are provided by s. 14 thereof, ante, and in so far as the regulations impose duties failure to comply with which might give rise to a liability in tort, they are binding on the Crown; see s. 22 of the Act, ante. If a circular saw, as defined by these Regulations, is also a stationary machine as defined by the Agriculture (Stationary Machinery) Regulations 1959 (see at pp. 356, et seq., post) the latter Regulations also apply (ibid., reg. 2 (3)).

1. Citation, extent and commencement.—These regulations, which may be cited as the Agriculture (Circular Saws) Regulations 1959 shall apply to Great Britain (a) and shall come into operation as follows:—

- (a) this regulation and regulations 2 and 6 shall come into operation on the date of the making of these regulations;
- (b) regulation 3 (in its application to paragraph 3 of the First Schedule to these regulations), regulation 4 (in its application to paragraph 9 of that Schedule) and regulation 5 shall come into operation six months after the making of these regulations; and
- (c) regulation 3 (except in its application to the said paragraph 3) and regulation 4 (in its application to paragraph 8 of the said First Schedule) shall come into operation twelve months after the making of these regulations.

(a) Great Britain. For the meaning of this term, see note (e) to s. 1 of the Agriculture (Poisonous Substances) Act 1952, p. 351, ante.

2. Interpretation.—(1) In these regulations—

“the Act” means the Agriculture (Safety, Health and Welfare Provisions) Act 1956;

“agriculture”, “worker”, “employer” and “employed” have the meanings respectively assigned to them, as respects England and Wales, by subsection (1) of section 24 of the Act, and, as respects Scotland, by that subsection as applied by subsection (10) of section 25 of the Act;

“circular saw” means a machine intended for sawing wood by means of a circular blade, exceeding twelve inches in diameter, in a fixed or portable bench or frame, but does not include a swing or other saw which is operated by movement towards the wood.

(2) The Interpretation Act 1889, applies to the interpretation of these regulations as it applies to the interpretation of an Act of Parliament.

General note. This regulation came into operation on 12th March 1959 (reg. 1 (a)).

3. Obligations affecting employers only.—Subject to the provisions of these regulations the employer of a worker employed in agriculture shall not cause or permit a worker so employed, in the course of his employment, to operate or assist at a circular saw unless the requirements contained in Part I of the First Schedule to these regulations are complied with.

General note. This regulation came into operation on the dates specified in reg. 1 (b), (c).

4. Obligations affecting workers only.—Subject to the provisions of these regulations a worker employed in agriculture who, in the course of his employment, operates a circular saw shall comply with the requirements contained in Part II of the First Schedule to these regulations.

General note. This regulation came into operation on the dates specified in reg. 1 (b), (c).

5. Obligations affecting both employers and workers.
—(1) Subject to the provisions of these regulations—

(a) the employer of a worker employed in agriculture shall not cause or permit a worker so employed, in the course of his employment, to operate, and

(b) a worker so employed shall not, in the course of his employment, operate, a circular saw unless the requirements contained in Part III of the First Schedule to these regulations are complied with, or in contravention of paragraph 1 of the Second Schedule to these regulations.

(2) Subject to the provisions of these regulations—

(a) the employer of a worker employed in agriculture shall not cause or permit a worker so employed, in the course of his employment, to operate or assist at, and

(b) a worker so employed shall not, in the course of his employment, operate or assist at, a circular saw in contravention of paragraphs 2 and 3 of the Second Schedule to these regulations.

General note. This regulation came into operation on the 12th September 1959 (reg. 1 (b)).

6. Certificates of Exemption.—(1) Notwithstanding anything in these regulations, the Minister may grant certificates exempting (for such periods as may be specified therein and subject to such conditions, if any, as may be so specified) particular cases or particular persons from the operation of the provisions of these regulations, and where any such conditions are imposed, an employer of a worker employed in agriculture, and a worker so employed, to whom any such certificate applies shall comply with those conditions.

(2) In this regulation “the Minister” means, as respects England and Wales, the Minister of Agriculture, Fisheries and Food, and, as respects Scotland, the Secretary of State.

General note. This regulation came into operation on the 12th March 1959 (reg. 1 (a)).

FIRST SCHEDULE

Regulation 3

PART I

REQUIREMENTS AFFECTING EMPLOYERS ONLY

1. Construction and maintenance.—Every circular saw shall be substantially constructed and properly maintained (a).

(a) Properly maintained. See note (d) to paragraph 5 of the Schedule to the Agriculture (Safeguarding of Workplaces) Regulations 1959, p. 452, post.

2. Lighting.—At every circular saw there shall be adequate natural or artificial light.

3. Defective saw blades.—No saw blade shall knowingly be used if—

- (a) it is cracked;
- (b) it has been repaired by brazing or welding;
- (c) it has two or more teeth missing;
- (d) while in motion its teeth come in contact with the bench table, whether by reason of warping, misalignment or otherwise.

4. Riving knives.—In a direct line behind the saw blade, and in the same vertical plane there shall be a metal riving knife having a smooth surface. The knife shall be strong and rigid, its front edge extending upward and forward, and shall also conform with the following conditions, that is to say:—

- (a) the distance between the front edge of the knife and the teeth of the saw blade shall not exceed half an inch at the level of the top surface of the bench table;
- (b) the knife shall extend upward from the bench table for a distance of not less than half and not more than the full height of the saw blade above the bench table.

5. Top guards.—(1) The cutting edge of the saw blade above the bench table shall be guarded by a guard which shall—

- (a) be rigid, not less than one inch wide measured horizontally, and as close to the edge of the saw blade as is practicable in the circumstances of use; and
- (b) extend forward from above the riving knife at least as far as to a point that is directly over the point at which the cutting edge of the saw blade passes below the level of the upper surface of the bench table.

(2) So much of the guard as extends beyond the top of the saw blade shall, so far as it is not parallel to the bench table, slope or curve in a downward direction only.

6. Bottom guards.—(1) The part of the saw blade below the bench table shall be guarded by two plates of metal or other suitable material, one on each side of the blade.

(2) Such plates shall not be more than six inches apart and shall extend from the axis of the saw blade outward to a distance of not less than two inches beyond the edge of the saw blade:

Provided that this paragraph shall not apply if the circular saw is so constructed and maintained as to afford no less protection against coming in contact with the saw blade from below the bench table than would require to be afforded under this paragraph.

7. Special provision for circular saws with swinging tables.—(1) The provisions of this paragraph apply to a circular saw constructed with a swinging table, being a saw designed solely for cross-cutting.

(2) The cutting edge of the saw blade above the level of its axis shall be guarded by a guard which shall—

- (a) be rigid, not less than one inch wide measured horizontally, and as close to the edge of the saw blade as is practicable in the circumstances of use; and
- (b) extend upward and forward from the level of its axis to the top of the saw blade and thence at least as far as to a point that is directly over the point at which the cutting edge of the saw blade passes below the level of its axis.

(3) So much of any such guard as extends beyond the top of the saw blade shall, so far as it is not horizontal, slope or curve in a downward direction only.

(4) The part of the saw blade below the level of its axis shall be guarded by two plates of metal or other suitable material, one on each side of the blade.

(5) Such plates shall not be more than six inches apart and shall extend from the axis of the saw blade outward to a distance of not less than two inches beyond the edge of the saw blade:

Provided that the last foregoing subparagraph and this subparagraph shall not apply if the circular saw is so constructed and maintained as to afford no less protection against coming in contact with the saw blade below the level of its axis than would require to be afforded under this subparagraph.

(6) Paragraphs 4, 5 and 6 of this Schedule shall not apply to a circular saw of the kind mentioned in subparagraph (1) of this paragraph.

PART II

Regulation 4

REQUIREMENTS AFFECTING WORKERS ONLY

8. Use of safety appliances.—Without prejudice to subsection (1) of section 13 of the Act (which makes it an offence for a worker wilfully to interfere with, or misuse, any equipment, appliance, facilities or other thing provided in pursuance of the Act or regulations thereunder) a worker shall keep in position and shall make full use of every riving knife, guard, facility and other thing provided, which satisfies the requirements of this Schedule:

Provided that nothing in this paragraph shall prevent a worker from carrying out adjustments to a circular saw (including any riving knife or guard), while the saw blade is not in motion.

9. Defective saws.—(1) If any circular saw which a worker is employed to operate is or becomes defective within the meaning of this paragraph, any worker employed to operate that saw, shall on discovering that it is defective, forthwith report the fact to his employer.

(2) A circular saw is defective within the meaning of this paragraph if—

- (a) the saw blade is cracked, or two or more teeth thereof are missing;
- (b) the teeth of the saw blade while in motion come in contact with the bench table;
- (c) any riving knife or guard (of the respective kinds required under Part I of this Schedule) which has been fitted to a circular saw is damaged or missing.

(3) Nothing in this paragraph shall absolve an employer from complying with the requirements contained in Part I of this Schedule.

General note. The requirements contained in this Part must be explained to a worker before he operates or assists at a circular saw; see para. 3 of the Second Schedule, post.

PART III

Regulation 5

REQUIREMENTS AFFECTING BOTH EMPLOYERS AND WORKERS

10. Floors.—The floor or ground area used by a worker operating a circular saw shall be unobstructed and shall afford him a firm foothold.

11. Push-sticks, etc.—At every circular saw which is fed by hand a suitable push-stick or push-block of wood shall be used, whenever risk of injury can be thereby reduced.

12. Prohibition of adjustments while saw blade is in motion.—No adjustment shall, while the saw blade is in motion, be made to any part of a circular saw (including any riving knife or guard) other than to any device fitted to the saw for determining the rate of feed or the width, depth or angle at which the wood is to be cut.

General note. The requirements contained in this Part must be explained to a worker before he operates or assists at a circular saw; see para. 3 of the Second Schedule, post.

SECOND SCHEDULE

Regulation 5

OTHER PROVISIONS AFFECTING BOTH EMPLOYERS AND WORKERS

1. Instruction and supervision.—(1) A worker who has never operated a circular saw shall not operate a circular saw unless its working or the working of one of similar type has been demonstrated to him by a person over the age of eighteen years having a thorough knowledge of the working of the saw to be operated or of the working of one of similar type.

(2) Without prejudice to the generality of the foregoing subparagraph, a worker who has attained the age of sixteen years but has not attained the age of eighteen years shall not operate a circular saw except under the supervision of a person who—

(a) has attained the age of eighteen years; and

(b) has a thorough knowledge of the working of the circular saw to be operated.

2. Minimum age.—A worker shall not operate or assist at a circular saw unless he has attained the age (a) of sixteen years.

3. Explanation of regulations.—A worker shall not operate or assist at a circular saw unless the requirements contained in Parts II and III of the First Schedule and the provisions of paragraph 1 of this Schedule have first been explained to him.

(a) Attained the age. See note (a) to reg. 2 of the Agriculture (Avoidance of Accidents to Children) Regulations 1958, p. 437 ante.

THE AGRICULTURE (SAFEGUARDING OF WORKPLACES) REGULATIONS 1959

Dated 12th March 1959, made by the Minister of Agriculture, Fisheries and Food, and the Secretary of State for Scotland under section 1 (1)–(5) of the Agriculture (Safety, Health and Welfare Provisions) Act 1956.

General note. These regulations were approved by the House of Lords on 3rd March 1959 (214 H. of L. Official Report 659) and by the House of Commons on 9th February 1959 (599 H. of C. Official Report 940). They give effect to the general provisions of s. 1 of the Agriculture (Safety, Health and Welfare Provisions) Act 1956, p. 391, ante, and in particular to sub-s. (3) (f) thereof. The regulations came into force on 1st April 1961; contravention of them, is by s. 1 (6) of the Act, an offence for which penalties are provided by s. 14 thereof. In so far as they impose duties failure to comply with which might give rise to a liability in tort, the regulations are binding on the Crown; see s. 22 of the Act, ante.

1. Citation, extent and commencement.—These regulations, which may be cited as the Agriculture (Safeguarding of Workplaces) Regulations 1959, shall apply to Great Britain (a) and shall come into operation on the 1st day of April, 1961.

(a) Great Britain. For the meaning of this term, see note (e) to s. 1 of the Agriculture (Poisonous Substances) Act 1952, ante.

2. Interpretation.—(1) In these regulations—

“the Act” means the Agriculture (Safety, Health and Welfare Provisions) Act 1956; and “agriculture”, “agricultural unit”, “worker”, “employer” and “employed” have the meanings respectively assigned to them, as respects England and Wales, by subsection (1) of section 24 of the Act, and, as respects Scotland, by that subsection as applied by subsection (10) of section 25 of the Act.

(2) Expressions used in Part II and III of the Schedule to these regulations of which there are definitions in Part I thereof have the meanings thereby respectively assigned to them.

(3) The Interpretation Act 1889 applies to the interpretation of these regulations as it applies to the interpretation of an Act of Parliament.

3. Obligations applicable to employers and occupiers.

—(1) Subject to the provisions of these regulations—

(a) the employer of a worker employed in agriculture to work on an agricultural unit of which the employer is the occupier, and

(b) the occupier of an agricultural unit on which a worker employed in agriculture is employed to work by an employer other than the occupier of that unit, shall not cause or permit a worker so employed, in the course of his employment, to work at or to use any place on that unit unless the requirements applicable to such a place contained in Part II of the Schedule to these regulations are complied with.

(2) This regulation shall not apply in respect of a worker while working on the construction, (a) alteration or maintenance (a) of a building (a).

(a) Construction . . . building. These terms have been judicially interpreted as they occur in reg. 2 (1) of the Building (Safety, Health and Welfare) Regulations 1948; for this interpretation, see Redgrave's Factories Acts, 20th Edn., pp. 480 et seq., and see, further, Baxter v. Central Electricity Generating Board, [1964] 2 All E.R. 815.

4. Obligations applicable to workers.—(1) Subject to the provisions of these regulations a worker employed in agriculture to work on an agricultural unit shall comply with the requirements contained in Part III of the Schedule to these regulations.

(2) This regulation shall not apply in respect of a worker while working on the construction (a), alteration or maintenance (a) of a building (a).

(a) Construction . . . building. See note (a) to reg. 3, supra.

5. Certificate of exemption.—(1) Notwithstanding anything in these regulations, the Minister may grant certificates exempting (for such periods as may be specified therein and subject to such conditions, if any, as may be so specified) particular cases or particular persons from the operation of the provisions of these regulations, and where any such conditions are imposed, the employer of a worker employed in agriculture, and a worker so employed, to whom any such certificate applies shall comply with those conditions.

(2) In this regulation “the Minister” means, as respects England and Wales (a), the Minister of Agriculture, Fisheries and Food, and, as respects Scotland, the Secretary of State.

(a) England and Wales. For the meaning of this term, see note (e) to s. 1 of the Agriculture (Poisonous Substances) Act 1952, p. 351, ante.

SCHEDULE

Regulation 2 (2)

Interpretation

In this Schedule—

“cover” includes a grid which affords a worker no less protection against falling than would be afforded by a cover other than a grid;

“floor” means any structural surface within a building, or forming part of a building, on which a worker has to work, or over or across which he has to pass in connection with his work, but does not include any part of a stairway;

“stairway” means a permanent staircase or a permanently fixed ladder being a staircase or ladder which is either within a building or gives access to a building or to a part of a building; and “step” means, in relation to any stairway, any tread or rung thereof.

PART II

Regulation 3

REQUIREMENTS APPLICABLE TO EMPLOYERS (OR, IN CERTAIN CASES, TO OCCUPIERS)

1. General.—Every stairway and every floor shall be as safe as is reasonably practicable (a) for the purposes for which it is used.

(a) Reasonably practicable. In the Factories Act 1961 and other protective legislation, an obligation is frequently qualified by the phrase, “so far as reasonably practicable”, or by the phrase, “so far as practicable”. Each of these phrases affects in a different manner the obligation which it qualifies. “Reasonably practicable” is a narrower term than “physically possible”, and implies that a computation must be made in which the quantum of risk is placed in one scale and the sacrifice involved in the measures necessary for averting the risk (whether in money, time or trouble) is placed in the other, and that, if it be shown that there is a gross disproportion between them—the risk being insignificant in relation to the sacrifice—the defendants discharge the onus on them. Moreover, this computation falls to be made by the employer at a point of time anterior to the accident (see per ASQUITH, L.J., in Edwards v. National Coal Board, [1949] 1 K.B. 704; [1949] 1 All E.R. 743, C.A., at p. 747, a case upon the interpretation of s. 102 (8) of the Coal Mines Act 1911). This construction of “reasonably practicable” was followed in McCarthy v. Coldair, Ltd., [1951] 2 T.L.R. 1226, C.A., and was approved in Marshall v. Gotham Co., Ltd., [1954] A.C. 360; [1954] 1 All E.R. 937, H.L., per Lord REID at p. 373; p. 942 and, semble, per Lord OAKSEY at p. 370; p. 939.

Where the statutory obligation is qualified solely by the word “practicable” a stricter standard is imposed. Measures may be “practicable” which are not “reasonably practicable” (per Lord REID in Marshall v. Gotham Co., Ltd., supra, at p. 373; p. 942), but, nonetheless, “practicable” means something more than physically possible. The measures must be possible in the light of current knowledge and invention (see per PARKER, J., in Adsett v. K. & L. Steelfounders and Engineers, Ltd., [1953] 1 All E.R. 97, n., approved by the Court of Appeal at [1953] 2 All E.R. 320). See also per PARKER, L.C.J., in Moorcroft v. Thomas Powles & Sons., Ltd., [1962] 3 All E.R. 741, D.C., at p. 746. In Jayne v. National Coal Board, [1963] 2 All E.R. 220 (decided upon s. 157 of the Mines & Quarries Act 1954) VEALE, J., held that “impracticability” was a conception different from that of impossibility: "the latter is absolute, the former introduces at all events some degree of reason and involves at all events some regard for practice".

It is not clear upon whom lies the onus of proving that compliance with the statutory obligation was not "reasonably practicable", or was not "practicable", as the case may be. In Marshall v. Gotham Co., Ltd., supra, (a case upon the interpretation of the Metalliferous Mines General Regulations 1938), Lord TUCKER (at p. 374; p. 943) and Lord KEITH (at p. 377; p. 945) thought that the onus lay upon the defendants; but it is to be noted that in that case the words "reasonably practicable" qualified the Metalliferous Mines General Regulations 1938, generally, by reason of their presence in the enabling statute. It may not, therefore, be legitimate to deduce from Marshall v. Gotham Co., Ltd., supra, that in a case where the qualifying words are embodied in the statutory provision itself the onus is similarly placed. In Callaghan v. Kidd & Son (Engineers), Ltd., [1944] K.B. 560; [1944] 1 All E.R. 525 (a Factories Act case), the Court of Appeal found it unnecessary to decide the point, but were disposed to the view (at p. 565; p. 527) that since the difficulty or ease of doing what is necessary to maintain safety is so much more within the knowledge of the management than of their workpeople it was for the defence to establish that the qualification applied. This dictum was followed by DENNING and HODSON, L.JJ., in McCarthy v. Coldair, Ltd., [1951] 2 T.L.R. 1226, but its reasoning was not approved by Lord TUCKER in Marshall v. Gotham Co., Ltd., supra, at p. 374; p. 943. In Walter Wilson & Son, Ltd. v. Summerfield, [1956] 3 All E.R. 550, D.C. (a criminal case decided upon reg. 9 of the Docks Regulations 1934), it was held that the onus lay upon the persons charged with the duty to prove that it was not reasonably practicable for them to provide a gangway, but HALLETT, J., while concurring in the decision, considered (at p. 554) that the dicta of the Court of Appeal in Callaghan's case, supra, were not to be applied generally, and preferred merely to construe the regulations before him. In Jayne v. National Coal Board, [1963] 2 All E.R. 220 (a case upon s. 157 of the Mines and Quarries Act 1954, which provides that it is a defence to prove that it is impracticable to avoid or prevent a contravention of safety provisions) VEALE, J., apparently treated it as established that it was for the defendants to negative reasonable practicability under s. 102 (8) of the Coal Mines Act 1911 and to negative practicability under its successor, s. 157 of the Mines and Quarries Act 1954. In Fairfield Shipbuilding and Engineering Co., Ltd. v. Hall, 1964, S.L.T. 97, Lord REID expressly reserved the question upon whom lay the burden of proving that it was or was not reasonably practicable to keep a floor free from any obstruction as provided by s. 28 (1) of the Factories Act 1961.

In these circumstances all that can safely be said is that while no general rule can be laid down, so that the statutory provision in question must receive its own interpretation, there is a tendency to interpret such provisions so as to throw upon the defendant the burden of bringing himself within the excepting words.

2. Construction and maintenance of stairways.—(1) No step of a stairway shall depend for its support on being secured solely by nails, screws or other similar fixing:

Provided that nothing in this sub-paragraph shall prevent the steps of a stairway from being supported by brackets or bearers which are secured in such a manner.

(2) No stairway shall have any step missing or any defect likely to weaken the stairway which reasonable examination would disclose.

3. Handrails for certain stairways.—(1) Subject to the provisions of this paragraph every stairway shall be fitted with a handrail (a) or handrails.

(2) If a stairway has an open side the handrail shall be on that side; if the stairway has two open sides there shall be a handrail on each side; if there is no open side the handrail may be on either side.

(3) Every handrail fitted in accordance with the foregoing provisions of this paragraph—

(a) shall be of wood, metal or other suitable material, and shall be smooth and rigid;

(b) shall be of adequate strength and shall be securely fixed in position; and

(c) shall extend the whole length of the stairway:

Provided that if it is impossible for a handrail to extend the whole length of the stairway without obstructing access thereto the handrail need not extend so as to obstruct access to the stairway.

(4) This paragraph shall not apply to a stairway—

(a) which extends less than 3 feet measured vertically from the ground, or floor level, on which the bottom of the stairway rests; or

(b) to which paragraph 4 of this Schedule applies.

(a) Handrail. A handrail is quite different from a guardrail. A guardrail is one of such a character as will provide a physical barrier against a person falling over the side which is guarded. A handrail is a rail which can be gripped by the hand; it need not necessarily act as a physical barrier; it need only be such a rail as to enable any person, by gripping it, to steady himself against falling (Corn v. Weir's Glass (Hanley), Ltd., [1960] 2 All E.R. 300, C.A., so interpreting the cognate provisions of reg. 27 of the Building (Safety, Health and Welfare) Regulations, 1948). For those Regulations, see Redgrave's Factories Act, 20th Edn., at pp. 479 et seq.

4. Special provision for steep stairways.—(1) This paragraph applies to a stairway which is at an angle of 30 degrees or less from the vertical.

(2) Every stairway to which this paragraph applies shall be provided with a secure handhold (a) for use by a worker at the highest point at which he has to get on or off the stairway; whether by extension of at least one stile for not less than 3 feet above such point or by some other means.

(a) Handhold. The mere fact that a person falls from a stairway does not demonstrate the absence of a secure handhold (Wigley v. British Vinegars, Ltd., [1962] 3 All E.R. 161, H.L., a case upon what is now s. 29 (2) of the Factories Act 1961). For this provision, see Redgrave's Factories Acts, 20th Edn., pp. 88 et seq.

5. Apertures in floors and walls, and edges of floors.—

(1) Subject to the provisions of this paragraph, every aperture in a floor (a), being an aperture through which a worker is liable to fall more than 5 feet, shall be guarded by—

- (a) a cover; or
- (b) a fence not less than 3 feet high; or
- (c) a guard rail (b) not less than 3 feet nor more than 3 feet 6 inches above the level of the floor.

(2) Subject to the provisions of this paragraph, every edge of a floor, being an edge of a floor from which a worker is liable to fall more than 5 feet, shall be guarded by—

- (a) a fence not less than 3 feet high; or
- (b) a guard rail (b) not less than 3 feet nor more than 3 feet 6 inches above the level of the floor:

Provided that this sub-paragraph shall not apply where a floor terminates at an aperture in a wall.

(3) Subject to the provisions of this paragraph, every aperture in a wall in a building, being an aperture through which a worker is liable to fall more than 5 feet, shall be guarded by—

- (a) a door or fence not less than 3 feet high; or
- (b) a guard rail (b) not less than 3 feet nor more than 3 feet 6 inches above the level of the floor:

Provided that this sub-paragraph shall not apply if—

- (i) the height of the aperture from top to bottom does not exceed 4 feet; or
- (ii) the bottom of the aperture is more than 2 feet above the floor.

(4) Every cover, door, fence or guard rail (b) fitted in accordance with the foregoing provisions of this paragraph shall be of adequate strength (c); shall (except as provided by sub-paragraph (6) of this paragraph) be securely fixed in position, or, in the case of any door, shall be kept shut; and shall be properly maintained (d).

(5) Every guard rail (b) shall be so fitted that it is not outside a line plumb with the edge of the aperture or of the floor to be guarded:

Provided that a guard rail may be fitted not more than 10 inches outside such a line if there is also fitted within such distance of 10 inches an intermediate rail which is not less than 1 foot 6 inches nor more than 1 foot 9 inches above the level of the floor.

(6) No cover or door fitted in accordance with the foregoing provisions of this paragraph shall be opened or removed, and no fence or guard rail (b) so fitted shall be removed—

- (a) except for the time and to the extent necessary for the access of persons or the movement of materials; and
- (b) unless there is a secure handhold (e) available for use when the cover, fence or guard rail is not in position, or, as the case may be, the door is open (so, however, that a handhold shall not be necessary where the cover consists of a self-closing trap door).

(7) This paragraph shall not apply to an aperture, or to an edge of a floor, used as access to a stairway.

(a) Opening in a floor. See the interpretation of this phrase, as it occurs in s. 28 of the Factories Act 1961, discussed in Redgrave's Factories Acts, 20th Edn., p. 86 note (a), p. 87 note (c).

(b) Guard rail. See note (a) to paragraph 3, supra.

(c) Adequate strength. See the interpretation of this phrase, as it occurs in s. 26 of the Factories Act 1961, discussed in Redgrave's Factories Acts, 20th Edn., p. 79 note (b).

(d) Properly maintained. As used in the Factories Act 1961 s. 22, this phrase imports an absolute obligation (Galashiels Gas Co., Ltd. v. O'Donnell (or Millar), [1949] A.C. 275; [1949] 1 All E.R. 319.) For that section, see Redgrave's Factories Acts, 20th Edn., pp. 68 et seq.

(e) Handhold. See note (a) to paragraph 4, supra.

6. Grain pits, stokeholds and furnace pits.—(1) Every grain pit, stokehold or furnace pit into which a worker is liable to fall more than 5 feet shall be guarded by—

- (a) a cover; or
- (b) a fence not less than 3 feet high; or

(2) Without prejudice to the generality of the foregoing subparagraph a component, and any part of a component, shall be deemed to be so situated as aforesaid if it is more than 6 feet 6 inches from every floor, platform, staircase, fixed ladder or other place to which a worker has access in the course of his employment.

(3) The components of a stationary machine to which this paragraph applies are any shafting, pulley, flywheel, gearing, sprocket, chain, belt, or, as respects any fan, (in addition to any of the foregoing components) any wing or blade thereof:

Provided that this paragraph shall not apply to a shaft to which the Agriculture (Power Take-off) Regulations 1957 (a), apply, and shall only apply to a primary driving belt if the prime mover and the stationary machine which it drives by means of such belt are both permanently fixed installations.

(4) Nothing in this paragraph shall require the guarding, elsewhere than at the run-on points, of any chain or belt moving at less than 30 feet per minute, or of any conveyor chain or belt for the movement of materials.

Primary driving belts

3.—(1) Whenever power is transmitted by means of a primary driving belt from a prime mover to a stationary machine (other than a prime mover) every run-on point both on the prime mover and on the stationary machine shall be so situated or so guarded as to protect a worker from coming in contact therewith.

(2) Without prejudice to the generality of the foregoing subparagraph a run-on point shall be deemed to be so situated as aforesaid if it is more than 6 feet 6 inches from every floor, platform, staircase, fixed ladder or other place to which a worker has access in the course of his employment.

Means to be provided for quickly stopping machinery

General provisions

5.—(1) Every prime mover from which power is transmitted to a stationary machine (other than a prime mover) shall be provided with a readily accessible device (whether or not a switch) by means of which the prime mover may quickly be stopped.

(2) Such device shall be situated on or near the prime mover unless the prime mover—

- (a) is more than 6 feet 6 inches from every floor, platform, staircase, fixed ladder or other place to which a worker has access in the course of his employment, or
- (b) is otherwise so situated as to protect a worker from coming in contact therewith.

17.—(1) If any guard required under Part II of this Schedule is or becomes damaged, any worker employed to work at any thresher or baler to which such a guard has been fitted shall, on discovering that the guard is damaged, forthwith report the fact to his employer, or, in cases where for the purposes of these regulations some other person is deemed to be his employer, to that person.

(2) Nothing in this paragraph shall absolve an employer, or a person deemed for the purposes of these regulations to be an employer, from complying with the requirements contained in Part II of this Schedule.

THE AGRICULTURE (FIELD MACHINERY) REGULATIONS 1962

Dated 13th July 1962, made by the Minister of Agriculture, Fisheries and Food and the Secretary of State, acting jointly, in exercise of the powers conferred on them by section 1 (1) to (5) of the Agriculture (Safety, Health and Welfare Provisions) Act 1956, and of all other enabling powers.

General note. A contravention of these regulations is, by s. 1 (6) of the Agriculture (Safety, Health and Welfare Provision) Act 1956, p. 393, ante, an offence for which penalties are provided by s. 14 of that Act. These regulations are, in so far as they impose duties failure to comply with which might give rise to a liability in tort, binding on the Crown; see s. 22, of that Act, p. 416, ante.

These regulations apply to any machine designed or adapted for use in agriculture other than a machine so adapted for stationary use only (ibid., reg. 2 (1) and Sch. 1, para. 1 (1)). As to stationary machines, see the Agriculture (Circular Saws) Regulations 1959, the Agriculture (Stationary Machinery) Regulations, 1959, and the Agriculture (Threshers and Balers) Regulations 1960, pp. 438, 454, 461, ante.

Citation, extent and commencement

1. These regulations, which may be cited as the Agriculture (Field Machinery) Regulations 1962, shall apply to Great Britain (a) and shall come into operation as follows—

- (a) this regulation, and regulations 2 and 5, shall come into operation on the date of the making of these regulations (b);
- (b) regulation 3 (in its application to paragraphs 14 and 15 of Part II of schedule 1 to these regulations, and to Parts III, IV and V thereof) shall come into operation three months after the making of these regulations;
- (c) regulation 3 (in its application to the remainder of the said Part II) as respects field machines which are new, and paragraph (1) of regulation 4 of these regulations shall come into operation on the 1st July 1964;
- (d) regulation 3 (in its application to the remainder of the said Part II as aforesaid) as respects field machines which are not new, and paragraph (2) of regulation 4 of these regulations, shall, in relation to machines of the several classes mentioned in the first column of schedule 2 to these regulations, come into operation on the dates respectively applicable to each such class shown in the second column of that schedule.

(b) Date . . . regulations. That is, 13th July 1962.

Interpretation

2.—(1) In these regulations—

“the Act” means the Agriculture (Safety, Health and Welfare Provisions) Act 1956;

“agriculture”, “agricultural unit” and (subject to paragraphs (2) to (5) of regulation 3 of these regulations) “worker”, “employer” and “employed” have the meanings respectively assigned to them, as respects England and Wales (a), by subsection (1) of section 24 of the Act, and, as respects Scotland, by that subsection as applied by subsection (10) of section 25 of the Act;

“field machine” has the meaning assigned to it in Part I of schedule 1 to these regulations.

(2) For the purposes of these regulations—

(a) a worker works at a field machine if—

(i) he drives, operates or assists in the operation of the field machine; or

(ii) he is present at the site where the field machine, or any other machine operated in conjunction with such field machine, is being used and performs any task which is necessarily incidental to such use, and

(b) a field machine is new if the first sale of it, since its manufacture, to a purchaser for use by him in agriculture occurs on or after the 1st July 1964.

(3) Expressions used in Parts II, III, IV, and V of schedule 1 to these regulations of which there are definitions in Part I thereof have the meanings thereby respectively assigned to them.

(4) The Interpretation Act 1889 applies to the interpretation of these regulations as it applies to the interpretation of an Act of Parliament.

General note. This regulation came into operation on the 13th July 1962 (reg. 1 (a)).

(a) England and Wales. For the meaning of this expression, see note (e) to s. 1 of the Agriculture (Poisonous Substances) Act 1952.

Obligations affecting employers, workers and others

3.—(1) Subject to the provisions of these regulations—

(a) the employer of a worker employed in agriculture shall not cause or permit him, in the course of his employment, to work at a field machine (a) unless the requirements contained in Part II of schedule 1 to these regulations, applicable to such worker in respect of such machine, are complied with;

(b) every worker employed in agriculture shall comply with the requirements contained in Part III of the said schedule 1, and his employer shall not cause or permit him to contravene any such requirement;

(c) a worker employed in agriculture who, in the course of his employment, works at a field machine (a) shall comply with the requirements contained in Part IV of the said schedule 1 applicable to such worker in respect of such machine; and

(d) no person shall contravene any requirement contained in Part V of the said schedule 1:

Provided that subparagraph (d) of this paragraph shall apply to persons other than workers only in so far as failure to comply with the requirements of the said Part V would expose a worker to risk of injury.

(2) Where a worker employed in agriculture works at a field machine (a) elsewhere than on an agricultural unit of which his employer is the occupier, the worker shall, while so working, be deemed for the purposes of these regulations to be in the employment of the occupier of the agricultural unit on which the field machine is being used, or (in cases where paragraph (3) of this regulation applies) of the agricultural contractor to whom the field machine belongs.

(3) Where a worker employed in agriculture works at a field machine (a) belonging to an agricultural contractor, the worker shall, while so working, be deemed for the purposes of these regulations to be in the employment of the agricultural contractor.

(4) For the purposes of these regulations a field machine belongs to an agricultural contractor if he is the owner thereof, or if he has hired or borrowed it from the owner.

(5) Where by virtue of paragraphs (2) or (3) of this regulation any person is deemed to be the employer of a worker employed in agriculture, paragraph (1) of this regulation, in its application to employers, shall not apply to any person other than the person so deemed as aforesaid.

General note. This regulation came into operation as specified in reg. 1 (b), (c), (d).

(a) Work at a field machine. See, as to working at a field machine, the provisions of reg. 2 (2) (a), supra.

Prohibition of sale and letting on hire of non-complying field machines

4.--(1) No person shall sell to a purchaser, for use in agriculture in Great Britain (a), any field machine that does not comply with the requirements contained in Part II of schedule 1 to these regulations (other than paragraph 15 (1) thereof):

Provided that this paragraph shall not apply in respect of a field machine that has previously been sold to a purchaser for use by him in agriculture.

(2) No person shall let on hire for use in agriculture in Great Britain (a) any field machine that does not comply with any of the requirements contained in the said Part II.

(3) For the purposes of this regulation a field machine which is the subject of a hire purchase contract shall be deemed to be sold and not to be let on hire.

General note. This regulation came into operation as specified in reg. 1 (c), (d).

(a) Great Britain. For the meaning of this term, see note (e) to s. 1 of the Agriculture (Poisonous Substances) Act 1952, ante.

Certificates of exemption

5.—(1) Notwithstanding anything in these regulations, the Minister may grant certificates exempting (for such periods as may be specified therein and subject to such conditions, if any, as may be so specified) particular cases or particular persons from the operation of the provisions of these regulations, and where any such conditions are imposed, the employer of a worker employed in agriculture (including any person deemed by these regulations to be an employer), and a worker so employed, to whom any such certificate applies, shall comply with those conditions.

(2) In this regulation “the Minister” means, as respects England and Wales, the Minister of Agriculture, Fisheries and Food, and, as respects Scotland, the Secretary of State.

General note. This regulation came into operation on the 13th July 1962 (reg. 1 (a)).

SCHEDULE ONE

Regulation 2 (3)

PART I

INTERPRETATION

1.—(1) In this schedule the following expressions have the meanings hereby respectively assigned to them, that is to say—

“field machine” means any machine designed or adapted for use in agriculture other than a machine so designed or adapted for stationary use only, and includes a power driven handtool and (subject to paragraphs 11 and 13 of this schedule) a trailer, but does not include a self-propelled road vehicle which is designed primarily for the carriage of persons or of loads, or an aircraft;

“ground wheel” means, in relation to a field machine, any wheel thereof which revolves in contact with the ground;

“manual” means by hand, foot or other bodily means, and “manually” has a corresponding meaning;

“pedestrian controlled”, in relation to a field machine, means a field machine which can be operated only by a person on foot;

“power driven” means driven by any form of power other than that derived from a ground wheel;

“prime mover” means every engine, motor, or other appliance which provides mechanical energy to a field machine;

“pulley” includes a roller on which a belt is carried;

“safety device” means any thing required under this schedule to be provided for a worker’s safety;

“trailer” means a vehicle (whether or not fitted with machinery) designed or adapted to be towed, being a vehicle primarily intended for the carriage of loads.

(2) References in this schedule to a worker operating a field machine include (except where the context otherwise requires) references to a worker assisting in the operation thereof, and references to a worker (or to any part of a worker) coming in contact with any part of a field machine shall be construed as references to his coming in contact therewith, either directly or by means of his clothes.

PART II

Regulation 3 (1) (a)

REQUIREMENTS APPLICABLE TO EMPLOYERS

Components of field machines

2.—(1) Subject to the provisions of this paragraph every component of a field machine, being a component to which this paragraph applies, shall—

- (a) if the component is driven by any ground wheel of the machine, be so situated or so guarded that any worker who operates the machine, while in the normal operating position applicable to such worker, is protected from coming in contact with such component;
- (b) if the component is power driven, be so situated or so guarded that any worker, working at the machine, is protected from coming in contact with such component.

(2) The components to which this paragraph applies are—

- (a) in the case of every field machine, any shafting, pulley, flywheel, gearing, sprocket, belt, chain, or as respects any fan (in addition to any of the foregoing components) any wing or blade thereof; and

- (b) in the case of a field machine designed to perform a function by means of reciprocal action, (in addition to the components mentioned in subparagraph (a) hereof) the reciprocating parts of such a machine if they are so situated in relation to any other part of the machine as to expose the worker to risk of injury:

Provided that this paragraph shall not apply to—

- (i) so much of any such component as functions in contact with the soil;
- (ii) any axle of a ground wheel, or any component forming part of the track gear of a track laying tractor;
- (iii) any smooth pulley or smooth flywheel;
- (iv) any reciprocating knife; or
- (v) any shaft to which the Agriculture (Power Take-off) Regulations 1957 (a) apply, and, as respects belts and chains, shall have effect subject to the two next following subparagraphs.

(3) As respects a belt or chain (other than a conveyor belt or chain for the movement of materials) it shall be sufficient compliance with this paragraph, so far as the requirements thereof are met by guarding, if the belt or chain is guarded at its run-on points and, in the case of a field machine designed for operation by a worker while on the machine, at every place where such a worker would (but for this provision) be exposed to risk of injury by such belt or chain; but this modification of requirements shall not apply where a belt or chain has fastenings which expose a worker to risk of injury.

(4) As respects a conveyor belt or chain for the movement of materials it shall be sufficient compliance with this paragraph, so far as the requirements thereof are met by guarding, if the belt or chain is guarded at its run-on points; but, if a worker is required to handle anything on such a belt or chain, or to work so close to it as to be exposed to risk of injury, the requirements of this paragraph shall be met only if the side of the belt or chain is so guarded, at every place where a worker is required to handle anything on the belt or chain, that the worker is protected from coming in contact with such side.

(5) In this paragraph "belt" includes any flexible material used to transmit power from one pulley to another; "chain" means any chain composed of links of metal or other non-flexible material used to transmit power from one sprocket to another; "run-on point" means the on-running point of contact of a belt with a pulley, or of a chain with a sprocket; and "smooth pulley" and "smooth flywheel" mean respectively a pulley or flywheel which has a continuous, unbroken and smooth surface between the centre and the rim, and has no protuberance which exposes a worker to risk of injury.

(6) The mention of particular guarding requirements in the two next following paragraphs shall be without prejudice to the application of this paragraph to any field machine to which either of those paragraphs applies.

Guarding of operative parts of certain field machines

3.—(1) This paragraph applies to any power driven field machine which has rotating knives, tines, flails, or other parts similar thereto (in this paragraph referred to as “the operative parts”) operating in or near the ground:

Provided that this paragraph shall not apply to—

(i) a cylinder mower, haymaking machine, hedge cutter, potato spinner, root gapper or thinner, or to

(ii) any pedestrian controlled field machine whose operative parts rotate in a vertical or near vertical plane.

(2) Every field machine to which this paragraph applies shall be fitted with a guard which—

(a) covers the operative parts of the machine being as near to such parts as practicable; and

(b) fulfils the other conditions respectively applicable to such a machine set forth in the two next following subparagraphs.

(3) Where the operative parts of the field machine rotate in a vertical or near vertical plane the said guard shall cover each end of the rotating assembly as well as the top thereof, and shall extend downwards so as to be as near the ground as practicable.

(4) Where the operative parts of the field machine rotate in a horizontal or near horizontal plane the said guard shall, unless it extends downwards below the plane of the rotating assembly so as to be as near the ground as practicable, extend at least 1 foot beyond the periphery of such parts.

Guarding of specific field machines

4.—(1) As respects every power driven potato spinner the digging reel thereof shall be guarded with a horizontal guard rail surrounding such reel, such guard rail being not less than 1 foot, measured horizontally from the reel, and not less than 2 feet nor more than 3 feet from the ground; and, where such a potato spinner has a receiving reel, that reel also shall be guarded in like manner.

For the purpose of any of the said measurements a potato spinner shall be assumed to be in the operating position.

(2) Every chain saw designed or adapted for operation by one person, shall, unless it has a guard between the handle and the saw which protects the operator's hand from slipping off the handle on to the saw, be fitted with a rigid safety bar which extends above and along the back of the saw from the end nearer to the operator for at least 9 inches.

(3) As respects every chain saw designed or adapted for operation by more than one person, being a saw which requires for its operation that one person shall be stationed at each end, the whole of the back of the saw shall be guarded by a rigid safety bar.

(4) Every rotary hedge cutter shall be so guarded as to protect every worker working at it while in the normal operating position from injury by material ejected by or from its cutting parts.

(5) As respects every pick-up baler the pick-up shall be fitted with a rigid guard rail (b) which affords an adequate handhold (c) and which—

(a) extends for the whole width of the pick-up;

(b) is placed in such a position that when the pick-up is in the operating position the guard rail is not less than 18 inches nor more than 3 feet 6 inches from the ground; and

(c) is not less than 12 inches in front of the foremost revolving part of the pick-up.

Cutter bars

5.—(1) Where a field machine is fitted with a cutter bar (not being a cutter bar having a reel over the fingers which extends to at least 1 foot in front thereof), the points of the fingers shall except when the cutter bar is in use be at all times completely and securely covered by a rigid guard.

(2) Without prejudice to the generality of the foregoing exception a cutter bar shall be deemed to be in use if it is undergoing repair or adjustment, or is being transported from one part of an agricultural unit to another in the course of a single agricultural operation.

Stopping devices

6.—(1) Every prime mover shall be fitted with a device by means of which the prime mover may quickly be stopped.

(2) The purpose and method of operation of every such device shall be clearly indicated.

(3) Every such device shall be so constructed and maintained that—

(a) it does not depend on sustained manual pressure for its operation; and

- (b) when it is set at the "off" or "stop" position the prime mover is incapable of being re-started unless the device is manually re-set.
- (4) Every such device shall be readily accessible—
 - (a) in the case of a self-propelled field machine, to the driver thereof at the normal driving position;
 - (b) in the case of a field machine which is pedestrian controlled, to the worker operating it at the normal control position;
 - (c) in the case of a field machine having its own prime mover, being a machine which is both towed and manned, as respects that prime mover, to at least one worker operating the machine at the normal operating position applicable to such worker, provided that this requirement shall not apply where there is readily accessible to at least one such worker at the said position a device by means of which the power from that prime mover may quickly be disconnected.
- (5) In the case of a field machine having its own prime mover, being a machine which is towed but is not manned, the stopping device required by this paragraph shall be as near as practicable to that prime mover.
- (6) Without prejudice to subparagraph (1) of this paragraph, every self-propelled field machine (other than a machine which is pedestrian controlled) shall be fitted with a device, readily accessible to the driver of the machine at the normal driving position, by means of which the power from the prime mover may quickly be disconnected.
- (7) Where a field machine is fitted with a clutch (other than a clutch which on release automatically returns to the engaged position) effective means shall be provided to secure the clutch in the disengaged position so that it is incapable of being re-engaged unless it is manually operated.

Differential locks

7. Every manually operated device fitted to a self-propelled field machine, the function of which is to lock the differential gear of the mutually opposite driving wheels of such a machine, shall be so designed, fitted and maintained that the position of the controlling mechanism clearly indicates to the driver of the machine whether or not such gear is locked.

Valves and cocks

8. At every manually operated cock or valve provided for operating or isolating any part of the hydraulic or pneumatic system embodied in a field machine there shall be an indicator clearly showing the effect of movement of the valve or cock in any direction.

Drawbar jacks

9.—(1) Every field machine having a drawbar, being a machine to which this paragraph applies, shall be fitted with a jack capable of raising and lowering the drawbar.

(2) Every such jack shall be so constructed, and so secured to the field machine, as to prevent the drawbar from falling when the jack is in use.

(3) No such jack shall be removed from a field machine to which it is fitted except where removal is necessary for the operation of the machine, for repair or for replacement.

(4) This paragraph applies to any field machine having a drawbar, being a machine which is mounted on two wheels—

- (a) in the case of a trailer, if its unladen weight is more than 10 hundredweight;
- (b) in the case of any other field machine, if, when the machine is unladen, the downward force exerted by the drawbar at the point of hitch is more than 56 pounds:

Provided that this paragraph shall not apply to a field machine if the drawbar is of a type that is designed exclusively for attachment otherwise than by manual means.

(5) For the purposes of this paragraph the downward force exerted by a drawbar shall be calculated on the basis that the field machine is at rest on level ground and that the drawbar is at a height of 16 inches therefrom.

Prohibition of use of pointed hooks and spikes

10. No pointed hook or spike shall be used, or form part of any device, for the attachment of a bag or other container to a field machine.

Standing platforms

11.—(1) Every field machine (other than a trailer) on which a worker may be required to stand while the machine is being operated shall be fitted with a platform which complies with subparagraph (2) of this paragraph.

(2) The said platform shall afford the worker adequate and flat standing space and a firm foothold, and shall be fitted at each side with—

- (a) toeboards, which shall be at the edge of the platform or not more than 2 inches outside it, and shall extend not less than 3 inches above the platform; and
- (b) guard rails (b) which shall be not less than 3 feet nor more than 3 feet 6 inches above the platform:

Provided that—

- (i) no toeboard or guard rail need be fitted to the platform—
 - (a) if the field machine itself affords no less protection to a worker against falling from the platform than would be afforded if a toeboard or guard rail (as the case may be) were fitted to the platform;
 - (b) at places on the platform where it is necessary to permit the access of persons or the movement of materials;
 - (c) in the case of a platform not being more than 2 feet from the ground, at any side thereof from which a worker would, if he fell, fall clear of the machine or anything attached thereto, and
- (ii) in the case of a drill having a rear platform, it shall be sufficient compliance with this subparagraph if there is—
 - (a) in front of the worker operating the drill a handrail which is within his reach from any part of the platform, or behind such worker a guard rail (b); and
 - (b) a toeboard at the leading edge of the platform.
- (3) In the case of every field machine (including a trailer) having a ground wheel which protrudes through or is adjacent to a platform, being a platform on which a worker may be required to stand while the machine is being operated, each such ground wheel shall be so guarded as to protect the worker's legs and feet from coming in contact with such wheel whenever the worker is on the platform.
- (4) Every trailer on which a worker may be required to stand while it is being operated shall, whenever it is attached to a pick-up baler be fitted with—
 - (a) a toeboard, which shall be not less than 4 inches high at the leading edge of the trailer, and shall extend the whole width thereof; or
 - (b) a triangular drawbar, of which the side nearest to the trailer shall be not less than the width thereof, and which shall be so constructed and maintained (d) that the area contained by its three sides affords firm support for the worker's feet.
- (5) In this paragraph references to toe boards include references to other fitments serving the like purpose no less effectively, and references to trailers include references to bale or other sledges.

Seats and footrests

12.—(1) Every field machine on which a worker may be required to be seated while the machine is being operated shall be fitted with—

- (a) a seat of adequate strength (e), being either fitted with a back-rest, or otherwise so shaped, as to protect the worker against slipping from the seat; and
- (b) adequate and convenient footrests being so constructed and placed in position as to protect a worker's feet from slipping and from thereby coming in contact with any moving part of the machine, including its ground wheels and track gear.

(2) Whenever a ground wheel or track gear of a field machine is adjacent to a seat or footrest (whether or not the seat or footrest is part of that or of another field machine), a guard shall be fitted which shall protect the legs and feet of a worker seated on the field machine from coming in contact with such ground wheel or track gear.

Mounting devices

13.—(1) Every field machine to which this paragraph applies shall be fitted with a mounting device which shall afford to a worker working at the machine a safe and convenient means of mounting, and dismounting from, it.

(2) This paragraph applies to any field machine in relation to which the mounting distance from the ground in order to reach the position where the worker is required to work exceeds 21 inches; but does not apply to a trailer.

(3) In this paragraph "mounting device" means the combination of a mounting step, not more than 21 inches from the ground, with a suitable handhold (c), being together designed as a means of mounting, and dismounting from, the machine, whether or not such step and handhold are designed exclusively for such purpose.

Towing devices

14.—(1) Whenever a field machine is used for towing, or is itself towed, the towing device shall be so constructed, fitted and maintained as to be secure for the purpose; and without prejudice to the generality of such requirement where such device includes a coupling pin it shall be firmly secured in position.

(2) In this paragraph "towing device" means everything which directly or indirectly serves as the means of connection of the field machine to that which is towed or (as the case may be) is used for towing, "towing" includes propelling and winching, and "towed" has a corresponding meaning.

(3) Nothing in this paragraph shall render unlawful the use of a safety breakaway hitch in connection with a machine any of whose parts operate directly in the soil, while any such part is so operating.

Maintenance

15.—(1) Every field machine, including every part thereof, shall be so maintained (d) as to be safe, in relation to the time when the machine is in use, for a worker to use it.

(2) Every safety device with which a field machine is provided shall be of adequate strength (e) and shall be properly secured in position and maintained (d).

(a) Agriculture (Power Take-off) Regulations 1957. See pp. 432 et seq., ante.

(b) Guard rail. See note (a) to paragraph 3 of the Schedules to the Agriculture (Safeguarding of Workplaces) Regulations 1959, ante.

(c) Handhold. See note (a) to paragraph 4 of the Schedule to the Agriculture (Safeguarding of Workplaces) Regulations 1959, ante.

(d) Maintained. See note (d) to paragraph 5 of the Schedule to the Agriculture (Safeguarding of Workplaces) Regulations 1959, ante.

(e) Adequate strength. See note (c) to paragraph 5 of the Schedule to the Agriculture (Safeguarding of Workplaces) Regulations 1959, ante.

PART III

Regulation 3 (1) (a) and (b)

Requirements as respects which both employers and workers are responsible 16.—(1) A worker shall not ride on the drawbar or other linkage of a field machine, or of any machine towed or propelled by a field machine, while the field machine is engaged in towing or propelling.

(2) A worker shall not mount, or, except in an emergency, dismount from, a self-propelled field machine while it is engaged in towing or propelling.

PART IV

Regulation 3 (1) (c)

Requirements applicable to workers

Use of safety appliances

17.—(1) Subject to the provisions of this paragraph, and without prejudice to subsection (1) of section 13 of the Act (which makes it an offence for a worker wilfully to interfere with, or misuse, any equipment, appliance, facilities or other thing provided in pursuance of the Act or regulations thereunder), a worker shall keep in position and shall make full use of every safety device which satisfies the requirements of this schedule:

Provided that if any part of a field machine required to be guarded is not in motion, the guard may be removed therefrom by a worker who has attained the age of 16 years for so long only as is necessary—

- (a) for the cleaning, repair or adjustment of such part while it is not in motion;
- (b) for carrying out any essential adjustment to such part while it is in motion, being an adjustment which cannot otherwise be carried out.

(2) Nothing in the last foregoing subparagraph shall prevent a guard from being temporarily removed from a prime mover by a worker who has attained the age of 16 years if its removal is necessary in order to start the prime mover by hand.

Damaged safety devices

18.—(1) If any safety device is or becomes damaged or defective, any worker employed to operate any field machine to which such a device has been fitted shall, on discovering that the device is damaged or defective, forthwith report the fact to his employer, or, in cases where for the purposes of these regulations some other person is deemed to be his employer, to that person.

(2) Nothing in this paragraph shall absolve an employer, or a person deemed for the purposes of these regulations to be an employer, from complying with the requirements contained in Part II of this schedule.

PART V

Regulation 3 (1) (d)

Requirements applicable to employers, workers and others

19.—(1) No person shall set a self-propelled field machine in motion over the ground except from the driving position thereof.

(2) No person shall, except in an emergency, leave the driving position of a self-propelled field machine while it is in motion over the ground.

(3) This paragraph, in its application to field machines which are remotely controlled, shall have effect as if for the references to the driving position there were substituted references to the place at which the remote controls are operated.

INTRODUCTION

The appointment of a Royal Commission under the chairmanship of Lord James of Hereford was announced on the 2nd June 1899 to "inquire into the causes of accidents, fatal and non-fatal, to servants of railway companies and of truck owners, and to report on the possibility of adopting means to reduce the number of such accidents, having regard to the working of railways, the rules and regulations made, and the safety appliances used by railway companies."

That there was need for such an inquiry was shown by the accident statistics given in evidence by an official of the Board of Trade when the Royal Commission began to hear evidence ten days later, which showed that in the three years 1896, 1897 and 1898 there had been 1,433 fatal and 11,861 non-fatal accidents to railway servants, although it later became apparent that the true figures were considerably higher.

In its unanimous report, published in January 1900, the Royal Commission concluded that the number of deaths and injuries arising from railway service was "unnecessarily great", the figures for 1898, excluding clerks and workshop mechanics, having been 542 killed and 12,979 injured—respectively 1.24 and 21 per thousand men employed.

The evidence had shown that the shunting of goods wagons was by far the most dangerous railway operation and that the dangers could be greatly reduced if not eliminated by the adoption of three measures, namely, the labelling of wagons on both sides, the fitting of brake levers on both sides and the provision of automatic couplings. Automatic couplings had, by 1900, been adopted on the majority of the world's railway systems, including the Imperial Railways of China, and were compulsory on the many privately owned systems of the United States of America; but the Royal Commission, while it considered them "most desirable", refrained from making a specific recommendation for their adoption because the technological aspects of the matter required expert consideration before the adoption of any one of the many available types of such couplings could be made compulsory.

The Royal Commission was able to make specific recommendation with regard to the twelve matters subsequently incorporated in the Schedule to this Act, although it appears to have taken some 38 years for one of the most important of them, the fitting of brake levers on both sides of wagons, to be fully implemented, and no further action was, apparently, taken with regard to automatic couplings. It is also of interest to note that the recommendation with regard to lookouts, "That mechanised means or lookout men should be employed to protect gangs of men when engaged in relaying the permanent way. That such means should also be employed when necessary to protect men engaged in repairing the permanent way", was incorporated in the Schedule as "Protection to permanent way men when relaying or repairing permanent way" and that the qualification, "where any danger is likely to arise", which appears in Rule 9 of the Prevention of Accidents Rules 1902 and which has caused some difficulty in the Courts (see note (e) to Rule 9, p. 505), was, in its application to relaying, first introduced during the rule-making process.

Although the Act imposes penalties under the criminal law, it is clear that a breach of its provisions which causes death or injury to a railway servant and, perhaps, to other persons employed (see note (d) to s. 1, p. 492) gives rise to a civil action for breach of statutory duty—see Ferguson v. North British Railway, 1915, S.C. 566, Vincent v. Southern Rail Co., [1927] A.C. 340 and the cases cited in the notes to the Rules, pp. 504 et seq., post. For the principles governing such a right of action, see the General Introduction to this book, ante.

The power to make rules under s. 1 of this Act has not been exercised since 1911, but, by the Transport Act 1947, s. 95, the British Transport Commission (now the British Railways Board and the London Transport Board) is under a duty, where necessary, to consult the appropriate organisation in order to establish negotiating machinery for the promotion of safety measures for employees.

An Act for the better Prevention of Accidents on Railways [30th July 1900]

1. Power to make rules as to dangerous railway operations.—(1) The Board of Trade (a) may, subject to the provisions of this Act, make such rules (b) as they think fit with respect to any of the subjects mentioned in the schedule to this Act, with the object of reducing or removing the dangers and risks incidental to railway (c) service.

(2) Where the Board of Trade (a) consider that avoidable danger to persons employed (d) on any railway (c) arises from any operation of railway (c) service (not being a matter in respect to which rules may be made under the foregoing provisions of the section), whether that danger arises from anything done or omitted to be done by the railway company (e) or any of its officers or servants, or from any want of proper appliances or plant, they may, subject to the provisions of this Act, after communicating with the railway company (e), and giving them a reasonable opportunity of reducing or removing the danger or risk, make rules (f) for that purpose.

(3) The Board of Trade (a) may, by any rules (b) made under this section, require amongst other matters the use of any plant or appliance which has been shown to the satisfaction of the Board of Trade (a) to be calculated to reduce danger to persons employed (d) on a railway (c), or the disuse of any plant or appliance which has been similarly shown to involve such danger.

(4) The Board of Trade (a) shall, by any rule (b) made by them under this section, give a reasonable time for carrying out the requirements of the rule.

(a) Board of Trade. The powers of the Board of Trade under this Act were transferred to the Minister of Transport by the Ministry of Transport Act 1919, s. 2.

(b) Rules. As to the making of rules, see ss. 2-7; as to the power to make an order or give a direction in place of a rule, see s. 8; as to the variation or rescission of rules, see s. 10.

The Rules made under this subsection are the Prevention of Accidents Rules 1902, and the Prevention of Accidents Rules 1911, set out at pp. 502 and 506 respectively.

It is submitted that on the proper construction of this subsection rules cannot lawfully be made under it in favour of persons other than those engaged in "railway service"—see Canadian Pacific Steamships, Ltd. v. Bryers, [1958] A.C. 485; [1957] 3 All E.R. 572 where Viscount KILMUIR, L.C., discussed and explained the principles governing the exercise of a power to make regulations. As to rules made under sub-ss. (2) and (3) see note (d), infra.

(c) Railway. For definition, see s. 16.

(d) Persons employed. Although the matter was never tested under this Act, it has been held that special regulations for the benefit of "persons employed" made under s. 60 of the Factories Act 1937 as amended by s. 12 (1) of the Factories Act 1948 (now s. 76 (1) of the Factories Act 1961) are for the benefit of all persons employed in the factory, whether employed by the occupier of the factory or not, so long as they are employed in work in the factory; Massey-Harris-Ferguson (Manufacturing), Ltd. v. Piper, [1956] 2 Q.B. 396; [1956] 2 All E.R. 722, C.A.—unless there is some good reason to be found in the construction of the regulations for inserting a further limitation; Wingrove v. Prestige & Co., Ltd., [1954] 1 All E.R. 576, as explained in Canadian Pacific Steamships, Ltd. v. Bryers, [1958] A.C. 485, [1957] 3 All E.R. 572, H.L., where the principles are discussed. A member of a fire brigade dealing with a fire at a factory and, probably, a police officer on police business at a factory is not "employed in the factory" and is outside any such special regulations; Hartley v. Mayoh & Co., [1954] 1 Q.B. 383; [1954] 1 All E.R. 375, as distinguished and explained in Massey Harris-Ferguson (Manufacturing), Ltd. v. Piper, supra. It seems, therefore, that rules made under subsections (2) and (3) of this section would, subject to the construction of any particular rule, cover persons employed on the railway, whether railway servants or not.

(e) Railway company. For definition, see s. 16, post.

(f) Rules. As to the making of rules, see note (b), supra.

No rules under this subsection have been made.

2. Publication and consideration of draft rules.—(1)

When the Board of Trade (a) propose to make any rules under this Act, the Board shall publish in the London Gazette (b) notice of the proposal to make the rules, and of the place where copies of the draft rules may be obtained, and of the time, not being less than one month, within which any objection or suggestion made with respect to the draft rules by or on behalf of persons affected (c) must be lodged with the Board, and shall take such other steps as they think best adapted for giving information with respect to those matters to persons affected (c).

(2) The Board of Trade (a) shall consider any objection or suggestion made by or on behalf of persons appearing to them to be affected (c) which is lodged within the required time, and give to any person lodging any such objection or suggestion an opportunity of communicating with the Board on the matter.

(3) The Board of Trade (a) may modify the draft rules in such manner as may seem expedient on consideration of the objections or suggestions, and may, if they think fit, withdraw any draft rule without prejudice to the power of making a new rule with respect to the same matter.

(a) Board of Trade. See note (a) to s. 1, ante.

(b) London Gazette. As to railways in Scotland and Northern Ireland, see s. 19, post.

(c) Persons affected. As to what class of persons may be affected by rules made under s. 1 (1), see note (b) to s. 1, ante; as to what class of person may be affected by rules made under s. 1 (2) or (3), see note (d) to s. 1, ante.

3. Reference of objections to Railway Commissioners.—(1)

If, after the consideration of any such objection (including an objection relating to any matter within the discretion of the Board of Trade (a)) the person who has made it is not satisfied with the mode in which the objection is dealt with he may, by notice in writing to the Board of Trade given within the time limited in that behalf by the Board, require the Board to refer the objection to the Railway and Canal Commissioners (b) and the Board shall so refer the objection accordingly.

(2) The Commissioners (b) shall consider whether any objection so referred to them is reasonable or not, and if they determine that the objection is reasonable the rule to which the objection relates shall not be made.

(a) Board of Trade. See note (a) to s. 1, ante.

(b) Railway and Canal Commissioners. The jurisdiction of the Commissioners was transferred to the Transport Tribunal by the Transport Act 1947, s. 75 and Sch. 11, and the Commission was abolished by the Railway and Canal Commission (Abolition) Act 1949.

By the Transport Act 1962, s. 57 (7) any objection or application referable to the Transport Tribunal under this Act is to be referred instead to a referee appointed by the Minister of Transport. In Northern Ireland the jurisdiction of the Railway and Canal Commissioners is now vested in the Transport Tribunal for Northern Ireland.

4. Questions to be kept in view in considering objections.—The Board of Trade (a) in considering any objection to a draft rule, and the Commissioners (b), in considering any objection referred to them, shall, amongst other matters, have regard to the question whether the requirements of the rule would materially interfere with the trade of the country, or with the necessary operations of any railway company (c).

(a) Board of Trade. See note (a) to s. 1, ante.

(b) Commissioners. See note (b) to s. 3, ante.

(c) Railway company. For definition, see s. 16, post.

5. Making of rules.—(1) The Board of Trade (a), after the consideration of objections and suggestions, shall (except when they withdraw the rules) send a copy of the rules as proposed to be made to each objector, and shall fix a limit of time, not being less than one month, within which any notice requiring an objection to be referred to the Commissioners (b) is to be given to the Board.

(2) If no such notice is given to the Board of Trade (a) within the time so limited, the Board may make the rules as proposed to be made; but if any such notice is given within that time the Board shall not make the rules until the Commissioners (b) have given their decision on the objection, and have decided against it.

(a) Board of Trade. See note (a) to s. 1, ante.

(b) Commissioners. See note (b) to s. 3, ante.

6. Power to refer objections to referee.—The Board of Trade shall, on being satisfied that it is the general desire of the objectors, refer to a referee appointed by the Board of Trade any objections which the Board are required to refer to the Railway and Canal Commissioners and thereupon the referee shall take the same proceedings, and have regard to the same matters, and his decision shall have the same effect, as if the objections had been referred to the Commissioners.

This section was repealed, except in relation to Northern Ireland, by the Transport Act 1962, ss. 93 (1), 95 (1), Sch. 12.

7. Application of rules.—Rules made under this Act may apply either generally, or to any particular railway (a) or class of railways (a), and may provide for the exemption from their operation of any specified railways (a) or class of railways (a)

(a) Railway. For definition, see s. 16, post.

8. Power to make an order or give a direction in place of a rule.—Where, in the opinion of the Board of Trade (a), the requirements of the case would be better met by a specific order or direction than by a general rule, the Board of Trade (a) may make such an order or direction in the same manner as they may make a rule under this Act, and subject to the same provisions, and the provisions of this and any other Act shall apply as if the order or direction were a rule under this Act.

(a) Board of Trade. See note (a) to s. 1, ante.

9. Power to extend time.—The Board of Trade (a) may extend the time fixed by them under this Act for the making of objections or suggestions (b) with respect to draft rules, or the giving of a notice requiring an objection to be referred (c) to the Commissioners (d), in the case of any objection, suggestion, or notice, if it is shown to their satisfaction that the extension of time is justified by the special circumstances of the case.

- (a) Board of Trade. See note (a) to s. 1, ante.
 - (b) Making of objections or suggestions. See s. 2, post.
 - (c) Notice requiring an objection to be referred. See s. 3, ante.
 - (d) Commissioners. See note (b) to s. 3, ante.

10. Application to rescind or vary rules.—(1) Any person affected (a) by any rule made under this Act, which has been in operation for a period exceeding three months, may apply to the Board of Trade (b) to make a rule rescinding or varying the same. Such application shall be made in writing and shall be accompanied by a statement of the grounds upon which it is made.

(2) If any such application is made within eighteen months after the date on which the rule in respect of which the application is made has come into operation, and the Board of Trade (b) decline to entertain the application, the Board of Trade (b) shall, if requested by the person making the application, refer it to the Railway and Canal Commissioners (c), and the Commissioners (c) shall consider and decide whether the application is reasonable or not, as if it were an objection to a rule under this Act, and if they decide that the application is reasonable, the Board of Trade (b) shall propose a rule to meet it.

- (a) Person affected. See note (c) to s. 2, ante.
 - (b) Board of Trade. See note (a) to s. 1, ante.
 - (c) Railway and Canal Commissioners. See note (b) to s. 3, ante.

11. Penalties.—(1) If any railway company (a) or other company or person acts in contravention of, or fails to comply with, any rule under this Act, then—

- (a) the company or person shall be liable for each offence on conviction under the Summary Jurisdiction Acts (b) to a fine not exceeding fifty pounds, or in the case of a continuing offence (c) to a fine not exceeding ten pounds for every day during which the offence continues after conviction; or
- (b) on the application of the Board of Trade, compliance with the rule may be enforced by the Railway and Canal Commissioners as if the rule were an order made by those Commissioners in the exercise of their statutory jurisdiction.

(2) A summary conviction for an offence under this section shall be subject to an appeal to a court of quarter sessions in manner provided by the Summary Jurisdiction Acts.

The words in italics were repealed, except in relation to Northern Ireland, by the Transport Act 1962, s. 93 (1), 95 (1), Sch. 12.

(a) Railway company. For definition, see s. 16.

(b) Summary Jurisdiction Acts. These Acts have been largely repealed and replaced by the Magistrates' Courts Act 1952.

(c) Continuing offence. The six months' period of limitation prescribed by s. 104 of the Magistrates' Courts Act 1952 does not apply to continuing offences (see Halsbury's Laws (3rd Edn.) Vol. 25, p. 166, note (a)).

(d) Board of Trade. See note (a) to s. 1, ante.

12. (Repealed by the Transport Act 1947, s. 128 and Sched. 15, Part I.)

13. Inspection and notices of accidents.—(1) The powers of the Board of Trade (a) for the inspection of railways (b) shall include power to inspect any railway (b) for the purpose of ascertaining whether there is any ground for proceeding under this Act, or whether there has been any contravention of or default in compliance with any rule made under this Act.

(2) The duty of a railway company (c) to give notice of accidents (d) shall apply to accidents attended with loss of life or personal injury to any person in the employment of the company on any line, or siding having a junction with the railway (b) of the railway company (c), but not belonging to or in the occupation of any railway company (c) in like manner as it applies to such accidents when occurring on the railway (b) of the company, and the provisions relating to the notice of such accidents shall have effect accordingly.

(3) (Repealed by the Notice of Accidents Act 1906, s. 7 and Schedule.)

(a) Board of Trade. See note (a) to s. 1, ante.

(b) Railway. For definition, see s. 16, post.

(c) Railway company. For definition, see s. 16, post.

(d) Duty to give notice of accidents. This subsection extends the duty to give notice of accidents imposed by the Regulation of Railways Act 1871, s. 6. That section, as extended by this subsection, was modified by the Road and Rail Traffic Act 1933, s. 43 (1) and the giving of notice of accidents is now governed by the Railways (Notices of Accidents) Order 1945 (S.R. & O. 1945 No. 1543).

14. Issuing debenture stock to meet expenses incurred under this Act.—Where the requirements of any rules under this Act involve any expenditure by a railway company (a) which would properly be chargeable to capital account, the company may furnish to the Board of Trade (b) an estimate of the expenditure, and thereupon the Board of Trade (b) shall, on the application of the company, fix and determine the sum which is properly chargeable to capital account, and the company may issue debentures or debenture stock ranking pari passu with any existing debentures or debenture stock of the company, bearing interest at a rate not exceeding five per cent. per annum, to an amount not exceeding the sum so fixed and determined, and any money raised under the provisions of this section shall be applied in carrying out the requirements of the rules, and to no other purpose whatsoever, and no other authority, save the certificate of the Board of Trade (b), shall be requisite to authorise and validate the issue of the debentures or debenture stock.

(a) Railway company. For definition, see s. 16, post.

(b) Board of Trade. See note (a) to s. 1, ante.

15. Staff, inquiries, and experiments.—(1) The Board of Trade (a) may (with the concurrence of the Treasury as to number and salary) appoint or employ such persons as appear to them to be required for carrying this Act into effect, and may hold such inquiries, and make such experiments as they think expedient for that purpose.

(2) Subject to the provisions of this Act the remuneration of any such persons, and the expenses incurred by the Board in relation to any inspection, inquiry, or experiment under this Act shall (to an amount approved by the Treasury) be defrayed out of moneys provided by Parliament.

(3) It shall be the duty of every railway company (b) to give all reasonable facilities (subject to the due working of their traffic) for conducting any experiments made by the Board of Trade (a) for the purpose of this Act, but such experiments shall be made without risk or expense to the railway company (b) except as may be otherwise agreed, and except in case of default on the part of the railway company (b) in conducting the experiments.

(4) Where under this Act any objections are referred to a referee instead of to the Railway and Canal Commissioners, section three of the Board of Trade Arbitrations, etc. Act 1874 shall apply as if the referee were appointed on an application made in pursuance of a special Act, and the objectors were parties to the application within the meaning of that section.

(5) Where the Board of Trade (a) hold a special inquiry with reference to an objection to a proposed rule on the application of the objector, the person appointed to hold the inquiry may, if on the inquiry it appears to him that the circumstances were not such as to render a special inquiry necessary, order the objector to pay the whole or any part of the costs certified by the Board to have been incurred by them in holding the special inquiry, and any amount so ordered to be paid may be recovered as a debt due to the Crown (c).

The words in italics were repealed, except as to Northern Ireland, by the Transport Act 1962, ss. 93 (1), 95 (1), Sch. 12.

(a) Board of Trade. See note (a) to s. 1, ante.

(b) Railway company. For definition, see s. 16, post.

(c) Debt due to the Crown. The special forms of procedure formerly available for the recovery of a debt due to the Crown were abolished by the Crown Proceedings Act 1947, s. 13, Sch. 1. All civil proceedings by or against the Crown are now governed by the provisions of the Crown Proceedings Act 1947.

16. Definition of "railway" and "railway company".— In this Act—

The expression "railway" means any railway used for the purposes of public traffic whether passenger, goods, or other traffic, and includes any works of the railway company connected with the railway; and

The expression "railway company" includes a company or person working a railway under lease or otherwise.

General note. By the Transport Act 1947, s. 12 and Sch. 3, the undertakings of the companies listed in the schedule vested in the British Transport Commission on 1st January 1948. See s. 14 (4) of that Act as to the transfer to the commission of the statutory obligation of the railway companies. By the Transport Act 1962, the railway functions of the British Transport Commission was transferred to the British Railways Board and the London Transport Board.

17. Obligation of railway company under terms of lease or agreement.—If any rule made under this Act imposes an obligation on a railway company (a) inconsistent with the terms of any lease or agreement under which the railway (b) of that company is worked, the railway company (a) shall not be under any liability for any breach of or default in complying with the terms of any such lease or agreement, so far as that breach or default is a necessary consequence of compliance with the rule.

(a) Railway company. For definition, see s. 16, supra.

(b) Railway. For definition, see s. 16, supra.

18. Provision against double notices, double inspections, etc.—Nothing in this Act shall require notice of accidents to be given in cases where such a notice is required to be given under any Act relating to factories (a) or mines (b), or authorise any inspection, inquiry, or investigation to be made where an inspection, inquiry, or investigation may be made with respect to the same matter for the same purpose under any other Act by, or by any officer of, a Government Department.

(a) Factories. See the Factories Act 1961, s. 80.

(b) Mines. See the Mines and Quarries Act 1954, s. 116.

19. Application to Scotland and Ireland.—(1) In the application of this Act to railways (a) in Scotland and Ireland respectively, references to the Edinburgh or Dublin Gazette (b) shall, as the case may require, be substituted for references to the London Gazette.

(2) In the application of this Act to railways in Scotland, the following modifications shall be made:—

The expression “Summary Jurisdiction Acts” means the Summary Jurisdiction (Scotland) Acts;

The summary jurisdiction conferred by this Act shall be exercised solely by the sheriff, and shall be held to be civil within the meaning of the twenty-eighth section of the Summary Procedure Act 1864 (c). The sheriff shall upon request of any party to the cause take notes of the evidence, and any party, if dissatisfied with the sheriff’s judgement as erroneous either in point of law or of fact, may appeal thereagainst to either division of the Court of Session, which appeal shall be heard summarily by the said division, whose judgment shall be final. The Court of Session may, if it thinks fit, by act of sederunt regulate the form and time of presentation of such appeals.

(a) Railway. For definition, see s. 16, ante.

(b) Dublin Gazette. By the General Adaptation of Enactments (Northern Ireland) Order 1921 (S.R. & O. 1921 No. 1804) references to the Dublin Gazette are to be construed as references to the Belfast Gazette.

(c) Summary Procedure Act 1864, s. 28. Now repealed by the Summary Jurisdiction (Scotland) Act 1908, s. 3.

20. Short title.—This Act may be cited as the Railway Employment (Prevention of Accidents) Act 1900.

THE PREVENTION OF ACCIDENTS RULES 1902

(S. R. & O. 1902 No. 616)

Made on the 8th August 1902 by the Board of Trade under section 1 (1) of the Railway Employment (Prevention of Accidents) Act 1900.

1. When it is necessary in the ordinary course of business that any label or direction as to destination or consignee shall be placed upon any waggon, the Company on whose line of railway such waggon is about to be used shall see that such label or direction is placed on both sides of such waggon. No railway company shall receive from any person for conveyance on its railway any waggon not labelled in accordance with this rule.

This rule shall not apply to mineral traffic in train loads for journeys not involving marshalling during or on the completion of the journey.

2. After the expiration of twelve months from the coming into operation of these rules, the movement of vehicles by means of a prop or pole, being the operation commonly known as "propping," shall not take place, except in cases where no other reasonably practicable means can be provided for dealing with the traffic.

After the expiration of the same period, tow-roping, that is to say, the effecting the movement of vehicles on a railway by means of towing with a rope or chain, attached to a locomotive, or a vehicle moving on an adjacent line, shall not be allowed, except in cases where no other reasonably practicable means can be provided for dealing with the traffic.

The North Wales Narrow Gauge Railway Company is exempted from the operation of this rule so far as relates to tow-roping.

3. All engines and tenders must, within two years from the coming into operation of these rules, be fitted with sufficient power brakes, in addition to hand brakes.

Engines used exclusively for shunting purposes shall be exempted from the operation of this rule, provided that they are fitted with sufficiently powerful hand brakes.

4. All stations or sidings where shunting operations are frequently carried on after dark must be sufficiently lighted.

5. Where point rods and signal wires are in such position as to be a source of danger to persons employed on a railway whilst in the execution of their duty, such point rods and signal wires must, within two years from the coming into operation of these rules, be sufficiently covered or otherwise guarded.

Within the same period ground levers working points must be so placed that men when working them are clear of adjacent lines, and shall be placed in a position parallel to the adjacent lines, or in such other position and be of such form (a), as to cause as little obstruction as possible to persons employed on the railway whilst in the execution of their duty.

(a) In such other position and of such form. The obligation under this part of rule 5 is that ground levers shall be either parallel to the adjacent lines or that they shall be in such other position etc., as to cause as little obstruction as possible, and in a case where the ground lever is parallel to the adjoining lines (which means with its operating arm parallel to the line) the obligation has been complied with, notwithstanding that if placed in some other position it would have caused less obstruction to persons employed whilst in the execution of their duty. See Hicks v. British Transport Commission, [1958] 2 All E.R. 39, C.A.

6. All boiler gauge glasses on locomotive engines or on stationary steam boilers used in the working of railways must, within three years from the coming into operation of these rules, be protected by a covering or guard sufficient to guard against accident to persons employed on the railway through the gauge glasses breaking.

7. All tool boxes used for the purpose of storing tools and other things, necessary in the working of locomotives when running, must, within two years from the coming into operation of these rules, be so arranged that the contents may be obtained by the men while the engine is in motion without undue risk of injury.

Water gauges or similar devices must, within three years from the coming into operation of these rules, be provided on locomotive engines or tenders to indicate the amount of water in the tanks, and such gauges and similar devices shall be placed in such a position as to be visible and accessible to the men without incurring undue risk of injury.

8. After the coming into operation of these rules, all trains working upon running lines beyond the limits of stations shall be provided with brake vans or other suitable vehicles for the use of the men in charge of such trains, which shall be so attached as to be conveniently used by them, and also with due regard to safety in working the trains.

The Festiniog Railway Company is exempted from the operation of this rule (a).

(a) Exemptions. Certain trains on the Taff Vale Railway are also exempted from this rule (S.R. & O. 1907 No. 696).

9. With the object of protecting men working singly or in gangs on or near lines of railway in use for traffic for the purpose of relaying or repairing (a) the permanent way (b) of such lines, the railway companies shall, after the coming into operation of these rules, in all cases where any danger is likely to arise (c), provide persons (d) or apparatus for the purpose of maintaining a good look-out or for giving warning against any train or engine approaching such men so working, and the persons employed for such purpose shall be expressly instructed (e) to act for such purpose, and shall be provided with all appliances necessary to give effect to such look-out.

(a) Relaying or repairing. In London and North Eastern Rail. Co. v. Berriman, [1946] A.C. 278; [1946] 1 All E.R. 255, the House of Lords held, by a majority, that, although the connections between the signal box and the points or signals formed part of the permanent way, a fitter engaged in the routine oiling of these connections was not "repairing" the permanent way, a term which was to be given its ordinary meaning of putting right what has gone wrong. The rule only applies while the work of relaying or repairing is in progress, since clause 12 of the Schedule to the Act empowers a rule to be made only for "protection to permanent way men when relaying or repairing". Thus no effect can be given to any wider meaning of the words in rule 9, "working . . . for the purpose of relaying or repairing". Accordingly, the rule does not apply where preliminary work is being undertaken, such as the inspection of the line in order to determine which lengths of rail require to be renewed, see Judson v. British Transport Commission, [1954] 1 All E.R. 624, C.A.

As to what work may constitute relaying or repairing, see also Vincent v. Southern Rail. Co., [1927] A.C. 430 (repairing signal apparatus); Hutchinson v. London North Eastern Rail. Co., [1942] 1 K.B. 481; [1942] 1 All E.R. 330, C.A. (adjusting level of track by packing ballast); Reilly v. British Transport Commission, Woods v. same, [1956] 3 All E.R. 857 (tightening point nose bolts); Cade v. British Transport Commission, [1959] A.C. 256, [1958] 2 All E.R. 615, H.L. (tightening loose bolt in fishplate); Ferguson v. North British Rail. Co., 1915, S.C. 566 (replacing wedges in rail chairs); Redpath v. London and North Eastern Rail Co., 1944 S.C. 154 (tamping down ballast).

(b) Permanent way. This is not a term of art and must be given its ordinary meaning, see London and North Eastern Rail. Co. v. Berriman, cited in note (a), supra.

(c) Danger . . . likely to arise. The words "in all cases where any danger is likely to arise" are to be given their ordinary and natural meaning and there are no grounds for saying that the rule is to be construed as meaning an abnormal or unusual or exceptional danger; Hutchinson v. London and North Eastern Rail. Co., [1942] 1 K.B. 481; [1942] 1 All E.R. 330, C.A., approved and applied in Cade v. British Transport Commission, [1959] A.C. 256; [1958] 2 All E.R. 615, H.L. Whether, in the circumstances of a particular case, any danger is likely to arise is a question of degree and of fact; Cade v. British Transport Commission, supra. See also, Reilly v. British Transport Commission, Woods v. same, [1956] 3 All E.R. 857.

(d) Provide persons, etc. The duty to provide lookouts is an absolute one and the company does not comply with the rule by making regulations under which the foreman or ganger is entrusted with the duty of providing a lookout; Vincent v. Southern Rail. Co., [1927] A.C. 430. The rule contemplates more than one lookout where necessary; Dyer v. Southern Rail. Co., [1948] 1 K.B. 608; [1948] 1 All E.R. 516; Redpath v. London and North Eastern Rail. Co., 1944 S.C. 154.

(e) Expressly instructed. The persons appointed to act as lookouts may be members of the gang (Vincent v. Southern Rail. Co., [1927] A.C. 430) but they must have no other duties to perform and must understand that their duty is to give an effective warning to each member of the working party; Redpath v. London and North Eastern Rail. Co., 1944 S.C. 154.

10. In any case where it is shown to the Board of Trade that for any sufficient cause the time within which any of the above rules or regulations have to be carried into effect should be extended, the Board of Trade may from time to time grant such extension upon such terms and conditions as they may think fit.

THE PREVENTION OF ACCIDENTS RULES 1911

(S. R. & O. 1911 No. 1058)

Dated 7th November 1911, made by the Board of Trade under section 1 (1) of the Railway Employment (Prevention of Accidents) Act 1900.

1. All waggons constructed after the expiration of six months from the coming into operation of this Rule, for use on any railway, shall be fitted by the owners thereof on both sides with brake levers complying with the conditions set out in the Schedule Number 1 to this Rule.

2. Within the periods prescribed in Clause (3) all waggons now existing or constructed before the expiration of the six months above mentioned for use on any railway and not so fitted, shall be fitted by the owners thereof on both sides with brake levers complying with the said conditions.

3. The periods prescribed for the purposes of Clause (2) shall be from the date of this Rule:

10 years for waggons of Companies or persons owning under 3,000 waggons.

15 years for waggons of Companies or persons owning 3,000 and under 20,000 waggons.

20 years for waggons of Companies or persons owning 20,000 waggons and over.

In any case where it is shown to the Board of Trade that for any sufficient cause the time within which any of the above provisions have to be carried into effect should be extended, the Board of Trade may from time to time grant such extension upon such terms and conditions as they may think fit. (a)

(a) Periods of time. The periods of time under this clause were finally extended to 31st December 1938 by S.R. & O. 1926 No. 355 and S.R. & O. 1931 No. 945.

4. The waggons specified in the Schedule Number II hereto are exempted from the operation of this Rule.

5. The Rule shall come into operation as from the date hereof, and may be cited as the Prevention of Accidents Rules 1911.

SCHEDULE ONE

1. The levers to be of like pattern, and to be so placed that each shall be to the right of a man facing the side of the waggon.
2. Each lever to be so fitted that the brake can be conveniently applied with one hand.
3. The levers to be so fitted that the brakes can be released only from the side on which they have been applied.
4. The levers to be "press down and lift up," and to be provided in the "off" position with a stop.
5. Articles 3 and 4 of this Schedule shall not apply to brakes of which the design has been approved by the Board of Trade.

SCHEDULE TWO

EXEMPTIONS FROM THE RULE.

- (a) Waggon used upon railways of a gauge less than 4 feet 8½ inches.
- (b) Chaldron waggons of a carrying capacity of 5 tons or less.
- (c) Waggon of a carrying capacity of over 20 tons.
- (d) Boiler waggons.

- (f) Any waggons with regard to which compliance with this Rule is, in the opinion of the Board of Trade, unnecessary or impracticable.

Provided that all waggons exempted under (c), (d) and (f) are fitted on both sides with such other appliances as will enable sufficient brake power to be conveniently applied from either side, if, in the opinion of the Board, such other appliances are necessary.

THE INFORMATION FOR EMPLOYEES REGULATIONS 1965

(S.I. 1965 No. 307)

Dated 25th February 1965, made by the Minister of Labour under section 50 of the Offices, Shops and Railway Premises Act 1963 and of all other enabling powers.

1.—(1) These Regulations may be cited as the Information for Employees Regulations 1965 and shall come into operation on 1st June 1965.

(2) The Interpretation Act 1889 shall apply to the interpretation of these Regulations as it applies to the interpretation of an Act of Parliament.

2. These Regulations shall apply to all office premises, shop premises and railway premises to which the Act applies except premises which are in a covered market place, being a covered market place to which section 51 (power to adapt Act in relation to covered markets) of the Act relates and in the following Regulations the expression “premises” shall be construed as meaning premises to which these Regulations apply.

3. The employer of persons employed to work in premises shall either—

- (a) at all times at which persons are employed by him to work in the premises, keep posted therein in accordance with these Regulations a copy or copies of the abstract of the Act and the regulations thereunder (hereafter in these Regulations referred to as “the abstract”), being the abstract set out in the Schedule to these Regulations; or
- (b) give, in accordance with these Regulations, a copy of the book (hereafter in these Regulations referred to as “the explanatory book”) entitled “Explanatory Book for Employees” (OSR.9A), dated August 1964, prepared under the auspices of the Minister of Labour, to persons employed by him for more than four weeks on any occasion to work in the premises:

Provided that where, by reason of the circumstances of his work or of the position or positions in which the copy or copies of the abstract provided by his employer in accordance with these Regulations are kept posted in premises, any person employed for more than four weeks on any occasion to work in the premises cannot easily see and read a copy of the abstract, his employer shall give to him, in accordance with these Regulations, a copy of the explanatory book.

(a) to give (unless, in accordance with these Regulations, he has done so within the immediately preceding period of twelve months) to every such person a copy of that book not later than four weeks after any occasion on which, after the date on which these Regulations come into operation, he begins to be employed by that employer to work in premises;

(b) to give a copy of that book to every such person who at the date on which these Regulations come into operation is employed by that employer to work in premises and whose employment therein has then lasted, or thereafter lasts, for more than four weeks.

SCHEDULE

Regulation 3

ABSTRACT OF THE OFFICES, SHOPS AND RAILWAY PREMISES ACT 1963 AND OF REGULATIONS THEREUNDER prescribed by the Minister of Labour under section 50 of that Act for all premises to which the Act applies other than premises in covered market places.

SCOPE OF THE ACT

1. General. Provided that people are employed to work in the premises the Act applies generally to all offices and shops (including wholesale establishments and fuel storage premises) and to most railway buildings near the permanent way. Unless another date is shown, the provisions of the Act came into effect on 1st August 1964 or earlier. (Sections 1(1) and 91.)

2. Offices and Shops. The Act does not apply only to rooms in which people work. It covers other parts of the premises occupied together with an office or shop for the purpose of the activities carried on there. Thus, stairs, passages, landings, storerooms, entrances, exits and yards may be covered. Generally the Act also applies to the parts of the buildings which are used by employees, such as halls, lifts and stairways, even if these "common" parts, are not included within the lease(s) of the occupier(s) of premises to which the Act applies. (Sections 1(2) and (3), 42 and 43.)

3. Railway Premises. The Act defines these as a building situated in the immediate vicinity of the permanent way and occupied by railway undertakers for the purposes of the undertaking. The Act does not apply to living accommodation for railway workers, or to hotels (apart from their offices, and restaurants and bars catering mainly for the public) and premises covered by the Factories Act 1961 are excluded. (Section 1(4).)

4. Canteens. The Act also applies to canteens which cater wholly or mainly for persons employed in particular office, shop, or railway premises. (Section 1(5).)

5. While the Act has an extensive coverage, certain kinds of premises which might otherwise be within its scope are excluded. These premises are:—

(1) premises where only self-employed persons work. To be within scope there must be at least one person employed to work in the premises under a contract of service or apprenticeship. Such a contract may be oral or written, express or implied; (Sections 1(1) and 90(1)).

(2) businesses where the only people employed are any of the following immediate relatives of the employer:—husband, wife, parent, grand-parent, son, daughter, grandchild, brother, or sister. If any other person is employed to work in the premises, the business is covered by the Act. (This exclusion does not apply if the employer is a limited company); (Section 2(1)).

(3) outworkers' dwellings; (Section 2(2)).

(4) premises where the sum of hours worked by all the employees is normally not more than 21 each week; (Section 3).

(5) premises occupied solely by members of the armed forces or of the armed forces of certain other countries. But those parts of the premises in which civilians are employed in offices or shops will be within scope; (Sections 83(6) and 84).

(6) premises used for selling fish wholesale in docks; (Section 85(2)).

(7) parts of mines below ground; (Section 85(3)).

(8) mobile offices and mobile shops, since these are not regarded as premises (but see the next paragraph for certain premises occupied for transitory purposes for short periods); (Section 1).

6. In effect, the Act also excludes from its requirements premises used for a temporary purpose which is accomplished within a short period from the date of occupation. For "movable structures" such as most offices on building sites, portable exhibition stands, marquees, etc., the period permitted by this exclusion is six months. For premises other than "movable structures", the permitted period is six weeks. It will be a defence in any legal proceedings based on the Act to prove that the occupation of the premises did not last longer than these periods. If the occupation over-runs the permitted period, the occupier is liable not only for subsequent offences under the Act but also for any failure to comply with it during that period. (Section 86.)

7. Persons protected. All persons employed to work in the premises, whatever their occupation, are given the same protection under the Act. The protection is not restricted to clerical workers and shop assistants. Certain railway workers who do their work outside buildings are deemed for this purpose to be employed in the buildings from which their work is controlled. (Sections 1 and 90.)

RESPONSIBILITY FOR COMPLYING WITH THE ACT

8. Generally speaking, the occupier of premises is responsible for complying with the provisions of the Act, but some responsibilities are transferred to the owner in cases where the occupier's premises covered by the Act are held on lease and do not take up a whole building (Section 42); or where the premises are contained in a building of which different parts are owned by different persons. (Section 43.)

GENERAL REQUIREMENTS OF THE ACT

9. Cleanliness. All premises, furniture, fittings and furnishings must be kept in a clean state. No dirt or refuse must be allowed to accumulate, and floors and steps must be cleaned not less than once a week by washing, or, if it is effective and suitable, by sweeping or some other method. This provision does not apply to fuel storage premises in the open air. (Section 4.)

10. Overcrowding.

(1) A room in which people work must not be so overcrowded as to cause risk of injury to health. For this purpose, regard must be paid not only to the number of people in the room, but to the amount of space occupied by furniture, fittings, machinery and other things.

(2) In addition, after the dates mentioned in sub-paragraph (4) below, a room where people work must be of such a size that there is 40 square feet of floor space in respect of each person habitually employed to work at one time in the room, or where the ceiling is lower than 10 feet, 400 cubic feet in respect of each such person. For this purpose, furniture, fittings, machinery and other things should be ignored when measuring the size of the room.

(3) These numerical space standards do not apply to a room to which members of the public are invited to resort—for example, most parts of a shop—although such rooms will still be subject to the general prohibition of unhealthy overcrowding.

(4) Premises which were used for purposes covered by the Act on 31st July, 1963 will not be subject to the numerical space standards until 1st August, 1967. Premises which were not so used on 31st July, 1963 (including those which first came into use after that date) must conform to these standards as from 1st August, 1964, or from the date when they are first used if later. (Section 5.)

11. Temperature.

(1) Provision must be made for ensuring that a reasonable temperature can be maintained in every room in which people are employed to work otherwise than for short periods. For rooms where a substantial proportion of the work does not involve severe physical effort, a "reasonable temperature" shall be not less than 16° Centigrade (60·8° Fahrenheit) after the first hour. Methods of heating likely to cause injurious or offensive fumes are prohibited.

(2) This minimum standard of temperature is not required in office rooms used by the public where its maintenance is not reasonably practicable; or in rooms in shop or railway premises where its maintenance is not reasonably practicable or would cause deterioration of goods. In these cases, employees must have access to means of warming themselves and the employer must give them reasonable opportunities to do so.

(3) A thermometer must be provided in a conspicuous place on each floor, if there is on that floor a room or rooms in which a "reasonable temperature" has to be maintained. Employees must be permitted to use the thermometer to check the temperature of the room in which they work. (Section 6.)

12. Ventilation. In all workrooms, there must be effective and suitable means of ventilation by the circulation of adequate supplies of either fresh or artificially purified air. (Section 7.)

13. Lighting. There must be provision for suitable and sufficient lighting, either natural or artificial, in every part of the premises in which persons work or pass. Windows and skylights used for lighting must be kept clean and free from obstruction so far as reasonably practicable but they can be white-washed or shaded to mitigate heat or glare. Artificial lighting apparatus must be properly maintained. (Section 8.)

14. Sanitary conveniences.

(1) Sufficient and suitable conveniences must be provided. They must be kept clean and properly maintained, with effective lighting and ventilation. If conveniences are not provided on or near the premises for the sole use of the workers covered by the Act, arrangements may be made for them to use conveniences provided for others, (for example, for the staff of another concern in neighbouring premises) provided that all the requirements of the Act and regulations are met. Conveniences must in all cases be conveniently accessible to the workers. All these provisions apply from 1st August, 1964. (Section 9.)

(2) The Sanitary Conveniences Regulations 1964 (S.I. 1964 No. 966) lay down additional, more detailed requirements which come into effect on 1st January, 1966. The Regulations* require that a water closet or

* The Regulations do not apply to office or shop premises in certain types of market (whether covered or not).

closets must be provided wherever it is reasonably practicable to provide a connection with a drainage system and water for flushing. Where this is not reasonably practicable, a chemical closet or closets must be provided. One closet is sufficient where either:—

- (a) the number of people employed to work in the premises does not regularly exceed five at any one time (whether or not both men and women are employed); or
- (b) each of the regular employees normally works in the premises for only two hours daily or less.

(3) The Regulations require that in all other cases, separate sanitary accommodation must be provided for persons of each sex, if both are employed, and marked to show for which sex it is provided. The following numbers of conveniences are required by the Schedule to the Regulations:—

(i) For females, and for males except where urinals are provided as in scale (ii):		(ii) For males, where urinals equipped with means of flushing are provided in addition to water closets:
Nos. regularly employed at any one time†	No. of water closets or chemical closets to be provided	No. of males regularly employed at any one time†	No. of water closets to be provided	No. of urinal stalls‡ to be provided
1 to 15	1	1-15	1	—
16 to 30	2	16-20	1	1
31 to 50	3	21-30	2	1
51 to 75	4	31-45	2	2
76 to 100	5	46-60	3	2
Over 100	5, plus one additional closet for every 25 persons in excess of 100. (A fraction of 25 counts as 25.)	61-75	3	3
		76-90	4	3
		91-100	4	4
		Over 100	4	4, plus one additional closet for every 25 persons (or fraction of 25) in excess of 100. Every fourth additional closet may be replaced by a urinal.

† Excluding persons who normally work in the premises for only two hours daily or less each.

‡ Where stalls are not provided, two feet of space in a urinal counts as a stall for purposes of the scale.

(4) The Regulations also provide that if employees share sanitary conveniences with other persons, all the people who have the regular use of the accommodation must be added together in applying the scales. In premises where more than ten people are regularly employed at the same time, and the conveniences which they use are also made available for general use by customers, an extra closet must be provided—one for each sex if both are employed—in addition to the closet or closets required by the Schedule. Where more than ten female persons have the regular use of the same sanitary accommodation, there must be suitable and effective means for the disposal of sanitary dressings. All such means must be kept in a proper condition. Where bins are provided, they must be emptied at suitable intervals. The Regulations also contain other provisions concerning privacy, etc. and prohibiting the use of public sanitary conveniences provided by local authorities.

15. Washing Facilities.

(1) Suitable and sufficient washing facilities must be provided, including a supply of clean, running hot and cold water or clean, running warm water, and soap and clean towels or other suitable means of cleaning or drying. The place where such facilities are provided must have effective lighting and be kept clean and properly maintained. As with sanitary conveniences, arrangements may be made for employees to use washing facilities provided primarily for the use of others, provided that all the requirements of the Act and regulations are met. In all cases they must be conveniently accessible to the workers. All these provisions apply from 1st August, 1964. (Section 10.)

(2) The Washing Facilities Regulations (S.I. 1964 No. 965) lay down additional, more detailed requirements which come into effect on 1st January, 1966. The Regulations* require that a fixed wash-basin or basins, or a trough or washing fountain must be provided, except in premises exempted from the Act's requirement that water supplied for washing must be running: there a fixed or portable wash-bowl or bowls must be provided. One wash-basin (or in exempted premises, one wash-bowl) is sufficient where either :—

- (a) the number of people employed to work on the premises does not normally exceed five at one time (whether or not both men and women are employed); or
- (b) each of the regular employees normally works in the premises for only two hours daily or less.

(3) The Regulations require that in all other cases, separate washing accommodation must be provided for each sex (if both are employed), where this is reasonably practicable in the circumstances affecting the premises. Accommodation must be marked to show for which sex it is provided. Washbasins must be provided in accordance with the following scale:—

* The Regulations do not apply to office or shop premises in certain types of market (whether covered or not).

Numbers regularly employed at any one time (or where separate accommodation is required for each sex, the number of males or females)†	Number of washbasins to be provided
1 to 15	1
16 to 30	2
31 to 50	3
51 to 75	4
76 to 100	5
Over 100	5 + one basin for every 25 persons (or fraction of 25) in excess of 100.

Troughs or washing fountains may be provided instead of basins. Two feet of length of a trough (if rectangular), or two feet of the circumference of a washing fountain or circular or oval trough, counts as one washbasin, for purposes of the scale. The scale does not apply to premises exempted from supplying running water: there wash-bowls must be provided on a scale of one to every five persons.

(4) The Regulations also provide that where any washing facilities used by employees are shared with other persons, all the people who have the regular use of the facilities must be added together when applying the scales. In premises where more than ten people are regularly employed at the same time, and the washing facilities which they use are also made available for general use by customers, an extra basin (or bowl) must be provided (one for each sex where both are employed and have separate washing accommodation) in addition to the provisions otherwise required. The Regulations contain certain other requirements, e.g., about ventilation.

16. Drinking water. An adequate supply of wholesome drinking water must be provided. If not piped, the water must be kept in suitable containers, renewed at least daily and preserved from contamination. The supply must be provided at suitable places conveniently accessible to employees. Drinking vessels must be supplied and, unless these are of a kind designed to be discarded after use, there must also be facilities for rinsing them in clean water. Drinking vessels are not, however, required where water is provided through a jet from which persons can conveniently drink. As with sanitary conveniences and washing facilities, the occupier may make arrangements for his employees to use facilities provided for others so long as all the requirements of the Act are met. (Section 11.)

17. Accommodation for clothing. Arrangements must be made for clothing not worn during working hours, and also for working clothes not taken home, to be hung up or otherwise accommodated. In each case, such arrangements as are reasonably practicable must be made for drying clothing. (Section 12.)

18. Seating arrangements. Where employees have, while working, reasonable opportunities for sitting without detriment to their work, a sufficient number of conveniently accessible seats must be provided at suitable places for their use. In parts of shop premises to which customers resort, the number of seats must not be less than one for every three employees. The employer must allow his workers to use the seats provided for them whenever this does not interfere with their work. (Section 13.)

19. Seats for sedentary workers. Seats provided for workers who normally perform their work sitting must be suitable in design, construction and dimensions for the worker and for the kind of work done. A foot rest must be provided unless it is possible to support the feet comfortably without one. Both the seat and foot-rest must be properly supported while in use. (Section 14.)

20. Eating Facilities. Where persons employed in shops eat meals on the premises, suitable and sufficient facilities must be provided for them to do so. (Section 15.)

21. Floors, passages, and stairs.

(1) All floors, stairs, steps, passages and gangways must be soundly constructed and properly maintained, and so far as is reasonably practicable, kept free from obstruction and slippery substances.

(2) A substantial hand-rail or hand-hold must be provided on every staircase, on the open side if there is one. On staircases which have two open sides or are specially hazardous, hand-rails or hand-holds must be provided on both sides. There must also be a guard sufficient to prevent people from accidentally falling through the open side of any staircase.

(3) All openings in floors must be securely fenced except in so far as the nature of the work makes this impracticable.

(4) The above provisions do not apply to any parts of fuel storage premises which are in the open. In these, the surface of the ground must be kept in good repair, steps and platforms must be soundly constructed and properly maintained, and all openings in platforms must be securely fenced except in so far as the nature of the work makes this impracticable. (Section 16.)

22. Fencing of exposed parts of machinery. All dangerous parts of machinery must be securely fenced unless they are so placed or constructed as to be as safe as if they were so fenced. Fencing may be either by a fixed guard or, where such a guard is not possible, by an automatic safety device which prevents the operator from coming into contact with the dangerous part. All fencing so provided must be substantially constructed, properly maintained and kept in position while the dangerous part is in motion or in use. (Section 17.)

23. Cleaning of machinery. No person under 18 years of age may clean any machinery if this exposes him to risk of injury from a moving part of that or any adjacent machinery. (Section 18.)

24. Training and supervision of persons working at dangerous machines. No person may work at any machine specified by the Minister as dangerous unless he has been fully instructed as to the dangers and the precautions to be observed, and either has received sufficient training in work at the machine or is under adequate supervision by an experienced person. Certain machines have been specified by the Minister as dangerous. (Section 19.)

25. Prohibition of heavy work. No person may be required, in the course of his work, to lift, carry or move a load so heavy as to be likely to cause him injury. (Section 23.)

26. First Aid.

(1) As from 1st December, 1964, a first-aid box or cupboard, containing only first-aid requisites, must be provided for the use of employees in all premises and must be readily accessible. Where more than 150 persons are employed at one time, an additional box or cupboard must be provided for every additional 150 persons or fraction of that number. Each box or cupboard must be placed in the charge of a responsible person. No person may be in charge of more than one box or cupboard. It must contain only first aid requisites and must include those prescribed by the Offices, Shops and Railway Premises First Aid Order 1964 (S.I. 1964 No. 970).

(2) Where there are more than 150 persons employed in premises at one time, one of the persons in charge of a first-aid box or cupboard must be trained in first aid to a required standard, and must always be available during working hours.

(3) If there is a first-aid room where people who are injured or ill can be treated immediately, the enforcing authority may grant exemption from the requirements of the Act about first-aid boxes.

(4) None of these first-aid provisions apply to premises forming part of a mine or quarry, or of a hospital or registered nursing home. (Section 24.)

(5) Regulations have been made providing that offices or shops situated within the boundaries of factories and electrical stations shall be treated as covered by the first-aid provisions of the Factories Act instead of those of the Offices, Shops and Railway Premises Act (Sections 25 and 74(2)-(3), the Offices and Shops in Factories (First Aid) Regulations 1964 (S.I. 1964 No. 1321), and the Offices in Electrical Stations (First Aid) Regulations 1964 (S.I. 1964 No. 1323)).

(6) Regulations have also been made excluding offices on or adjacent to construction sites from all the first-aid provisions of the Offices, Shops and Railway Premises Act and providing that they may be covered by the first-aid provisions of regulations made under the Factories Act covering such sites (Section 26 and the Offices at Building Operations &c. (First Aid) Regulations 1964 (S.I. 1964 No. 1322)).

FIRE PRECAUTIONS

THE FIRE PROVISIONS DO NOT APPLY TO PARTS OF FUEL STORAGE PREMISES WHICH ARE IN THE OPEN

27. General precautions. The following precautions must be observed in all premises:

(1) There must be such means of escape in case of fire as may reasonably be necessary in the particular premises. In considering the adequacy of such means of escape, regard must be paid not only to the number of employees at work at any time but also to the number of other people who may reasonably be expected to be on the premises (for example, customers in a shop). (Section 28.)

(2) While employees are working or taking a meal on the premises, the doors through which they may have to pass to get out of the premises must not be so locked or fastened that they cannot be immediately opened from the inside. (Section 33(1).)

(3) The contents of workrooms must be so arranged as to afford free passageway to a means of escape in case of fire. (Section 33(2).)

(4) There must be appropriate fire-fighting equipment, properly maintained and readily available for use. (Section 38(1).)

28. Precautions in premises requiring fire certificates. In the following classes of premises, the means of escape are required to be inspected and certified, and it is unlawful to employ anyone in them unless a certificate has been granted by the appropriate authority, or has been applied for:—(1) premises where more than 20 persons are employed at any one time; or (2) premises where more than 10 persons are employed at any one time other than on the ground floor; or (3) premises in the same building as (a) other premises subject to the Act or (b) a factory as defined in section 175 of the Factories Act where the total of the employees in all the premises (covered by either Act) added together exceeds 20, or exceeds 10 working elsewhere than on the ground floor (The Offices, Shops and Railway Premises Act 1963 (Modification of Section 29) Regulations 1964 (S.I. 1964 No. 761)); or (4) if the Minister makes regulations, premises in or underneath which such explosive or flammable materials as may be prescribed in the regulations are used or stored. (Section 29 (1).) In all these premises the following additional precautions must be taken:—

(1) All means of escape specified in the fire certificate must be properly maintained and kept free from obstruction. (Section 30(1).)

(2) Fire exits specified in the fire certificate (other than exits in ordinary use) must be marked by a clear and conspicuous notice. (Section 33(3).)

(3) The premises must be provided with an effective fire alarm capable of being operated without exposing anyone to undue risk; the alarm must be tested or examined at least once every three months and whenever required by the appropriate authority. Alarms may be audible or visible, but whatever type of alarm is used, it must reach to every part of the premises, and in a multi-occupied building it must reach all other premises affected by the Act, and any other part of the building used by employees. (Sections 34, 42(14) and 43(12).)

(4) Effective steps must be taken to ensure that all employees are familiar with the means of escape and the routine to be followed in case of fire. (Section 36(1).)

EXEMPTIONS

29. Exemption by the Minister.

(1) The Minister has power to exempt by order a class of premises from certain requirements where, in his opinion it would be unreasonable to require compliance because of special circumstances. The requirements in question are those relating to room space for employees (section 5(2)), temperature (section 6), sanitary conveniences (section 9) and washing facilities (section 10). As regards space and temperature, an exemption order may relate to a class of rooms.

(2) An exemption under this section may be granted unconditionally or subject to conditions and with or without a limit of time. The Minister may not make such an exemption order, however, except after consultation with organisations which appear to him to be representative of the employers, workers and other persons concerned. (Section 45.)

30. Exemption by enforcing authority.

(1) If the enforcing authority are satisfied that compliance is not reasonably practicable they may exempt individual premises from any of the following requirements: room space for employees (section 5(2)), temperature (section 6), sanitary conveniences (section 9), and the requirement to supply running water for washing (section 10(1).) As regards space and temperature, the exemption may relate to individual rooms.

(2) When an application for exemption is made, a notice giving full particulars of the application must be kept posted in the premises for 14 days beginning with the day next following that on which the notice is posted. It must state that those who work there may make written representations to the enforcing authority within this period of 14 days.

(3) If an application is granted the exemption certificate must be posted in the premises to which it relates so that those employed there can see it easily.

(4) Exemption from the requirement to supply running water may be granted either without time limit or for a specified period. Exemption from the other three requirements may be granted for a period of up to two years, and may be renewed if the enforcing authority are satisfied that in the meantime the applicant has not failed to do anything that would make compliance reasonably practicable. (Section 46.)

DUTIES OF EMPLOYERS AND OCCUPIERS

31. Payment of cost of compliance. The cost of implementing the provisions of the Act may not be recovered from the workpeople employed in the premises by levying charges on them. (Section 47.)

32. Notification of accidents. The enforcing authority must be notified immediately of any accident which causes the death of a person employed to work in the premises or which disables any such person for more than 3 days from doing his usual work. Deaths subsequently resulting from such accidents must also be notified. (Section 48.)

33. Registration of Premises. As from 1st May, 1964, anyone intending to employ persons in office, shop or railway premises, is required to send a notification in the prescribed form to the authority responsible for enforcing the Act in the premises. Premises already in use on that date should have been registered in this way between 1st May and 31st July, 1964. (Section 49.)

DUTIES OF EMPLOYEES

34. Penalisation of dangerous acts and interference with equipment. It is an offence for anyone, on premises to which the Act applies, to do wilfully and without reasonable cause anything likely to endanger the health or safety of persons employed in them; or wilfully to misuse or interfere with or without reasonable excuse remove any equipment, appliance, facilities or other things which have been provided to meet the requirements of the Act or regulations. (Section 27.)

35. Penalty for removal or defacement of documents. A person who, without reasonable excuse, removes, injures or defaces a notice or other document which the Act or regulations require to be on display shall be guilty of an offence and liable to a fine not exceeding ten pounds. (Section 69.)

ENFORCEMENT

36. Enforcing authorities.

(1) There are three main classes of enforcing authorities for the general provisions of the Act (sections 4–27 and 46–50)—local authorities, H.M. Factory Inspectors, and H.M. Inspectors of Mines and Quarries—depending on the class of premises concerned. The name and address of the relevant enforcing authority are shown at the beginning of the document.

(2) Fire authorities are responsible for enforcing all the provisions relating to fire precautions (sections 28–38) in most premises to which the Act applies. H.M. Factory Inspectors are, however, responsible in premises owned or occupied by the Crown; premises occupied by county councils, local, fire or police authorities or probation committees; premises associated with law courts or in maintained schools; and U.K. Atomic Energy Authority premises. In the following classes of premises the means of escape provisions (sections 28, 29, 30, 32 and 35) are enforced by fire authorities and the remainder (sections 33, 34, 36–38) by H.M. Factory Inspectors or H.M. Inspectors of Mines and Quarries: offices and shops in factories and other places covered by the Factories Act 1961; railway premises, most railway offices and fuel storage premises on railway land; offices, shops and fuel storage premises at mines and quarries. (Section 52.)

37. Powers of inspectors. Inspectors have power at any reasonable time to enter premises to which the Act applies, or which they have reasonable cause to believe to be such premises. They may also enter "common parts" of buildings, any other places where facilities, etc., for employees are provided under the Act, and other premises situated underneath premises to which the Act applies if they have reasonable cause to believe that explosive or flammable materials are used or stored there. They may make such examination and ask such questions of persons in any of these places as may be necessary to find out if the Act and regulations are being complied with and may ask for the certificates and notices connected with the Act to be produced. It is an offence to obstruct an inspector in the course of his duty. (Sections 53 and 54.)

38. Penalties for non-compliance. In some provisions of the Act, specific penalties are laid down for a contravention of the provision. Penalties in respect of offences for which no specific penalty is provided are a fine of up to £60 (or up to £300 in the case of a contravention likely to cause death or serious injury) and further fines of up to £15 a day for continuing offences. (Section 64.)

39. If a contravention of the Act occurs for which a person (e.g. an occupier of premises) is liable to a penalty and the contravention is due to an act or default of another person, that other person may be charged with the offence whether or not proceedings are taken against the first person. (Section 66.)

Buildings owned or occupied by the Crown

40. Certain provisions of the Act are made binding upon the Crown by section 83 in relation to premises owned or occupied by the Crown in so far as those provisions impose duties failure to comply with which might give rise to a liability in tort. Non-Crown owners and occupiers are not relieved from any of their obligations under the Act merely because there may be a Crown interest in the building or premises. (Section 83.)
